MAY'S LANDING, DECEMBER 9, 1916.

Congress' motto—"Jam 'em through!"

Do it early and do it at home—your Xmas buying.

With cool night follows a too, balmy weather it is boun to the Democrats.

President Wilson's message of thanks to the voters of New Jersey is still to be written.

May's Landing merchants have laid in a good line of Xmas supplies and should be patronized as far as possible.

Now that Wilson has his second term, the Democrats are reviving the "single term" idea so popular with them a few years back.

Samuel Winterbottom has made an able, fearless, energetic Director and the board of Freeholders will do the right thing in returning him to the chair for another term.

Farm Demonstration is paying big dividends in Atlantic County and it is doubtful whether any of the County funds are expended to any good purpose. The farmers win the department continued and their desires will prevail.

Poor people cannot afford to be sick, sickness is expensive, it costs time and money and often costs a job. It causes poverty, and poverty is say the least is inconvenient. Only the rich can afford to be sick. Health is less expensive and may be secured by all.

—Public Health News.

The office of the Solicitor to the Board of Freeholders is no sinecure and it is a "mighty big job" all the way through. That Enoch A. Higbee has filled the place acceptably, with honor to himself and the Board and profit to the county, there is no doubt whatever. His opinions, based on a long and active legal experience, are invariably sound and as notable for common sense as their judicial accuracy. He is obliged to give offhand, on the floor of the Board, scores of quick opinions on questions that most lawyers would want to deliberate over a day or two. Solicitor Higbee is the right man for the place and the Freeholders will be conserving the best interests of the county in reappointing one who has served so ably. No opposition to his appointment is likely, and there should be none.

Without intending the least irreverence we would like to spend just one day in quietly listening to some people we know whose forever finding fault with anything and everything and constitutionally unable to see good in aught under the sun. Just now the plaint of these unhappy mortals is heard anent the big industrial developments going forward along the river and in the does of swelling payroll that has already averaged $200 weekly for—mark well!—more than Twenty thousand acres of land and the promise of greater things to come, some of these poor fish sit around growling that "it hain't agoin' to amount to much, nohow," and so forth. These are the same wiseacres who thought street lighting extravagant, the public water system "an outrage" and would like to whittle down sticks by the light of tallow dips, go back to stage coaches and carry up water from the "crick" for the weekly wash! If these cantankerous individuals ever met anything face to face that really satisfied them the shock would kill 'em.

To-day is the day of the "boy farmers" of Atlantic County. The jury box and the litigants' quarters in the Court House will be filled with the product of his labor and on the judge's bench will sit men who will pass judgment, not on quarrels and evidence, but upon the corn, the sweet potatoes and other vegetables he has raised in competition with his fellow youths from all over the county.

It is refreshing to think that, for a few brief hours at least, the walls of the old court room will resound with joy of youthful laughter and be the scene of such worthy strife. From all sections of the county these young farmers will gather, eager not only to win the prizes offered, but to enjoy the pleasure of seeing the product of their labors displayed.

The girls, too, will have their share of the day's honors with scores of cans of fruits and vegetables over which they toiled many long, hot hours last Summer. What an array this will be! Strawberries, peas, beans, beets, pears, peaches, plums, cherries, asparagus—fresh and tempting and surely enough to make the mouth water of the worst dyspeptic in the county.

Do they realize the worth of their accomplishments, these girls and boys? Perhaps not fully, but they have scarcely have worked all these months past for a good purpose without being imbued with some sense of the import of their accomplishments. In years to come the efforts that have been put forth in youthful form in these things will bear fruit and show will be many a profile farm, many a well stocked pantry shelf, throughout the county and beyond, of the county, as each of the young men and youngsters have exhibited.

"WE DROVE [illegible] LAST TOWN"

"I didn't notice a Standard Motor Gasoline Service Station, and I wouldn't take a chance of spoiling my carburetor by feeding it hit-or-miss gasoline. Besides, I knew this last half-inch would bring me through as nearly as a tankful."

For there's as much power in the last drop of Standard Motor Gasoline as in the first. Every drop feeds into the carburetor the same. It is absolutely pure and dependable. It keeps your power steady.

"Just gas" as often as not is a mixture or blend—the source of half the cylinder carbon that comes to the repair man. Gasoline mixtures don't stay mixed—the light fraction goes off first, leaving a heavy, inert carbon-carrying residue which chokes up the carburetor and fouls cylinders.

Wherever you see the Standard Motor Gasoline sign, it means motor fuel absolutely pure, powerful and uniform.

Use Polarine, the Standard Oil for all motors, obtainable wherever you see the Standard Motor Gasoline Service Sign.
