THE NEW SOUTH CAP. Just out at BURT, WARE & CO.'S.

A Library of Universal Information.
THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA:
A Popular Dictionary of General Knowledge.
EDITED BY GEORGE RIPLEY AND CHARLES A. DANA.
Aided by a numerous select Corps of Writers, in all branches of Science, Art, and Literature.
In 16 large volumes, 8vo.
With double-column pages in each volume.
The leading claims to public confidence which the New American Cyclopædia possesses may be briefly stated:
1. It surpasses all other works in the fulness and ability of the articles relating to the United States.
2. No other work contains so many reliable biographies of the leading men of this and other nations. In this respect it is far superior even to the more bulky English Cyclopædias.
3. The best minds in this country have been employed in the articles in its pages with the latest data, and the most recent discoveries in every branch of scientific, commercial, mechanical, and general science.
4. It is written in itself, where every topic is treated, and with sufficient condensation so that there will enable a student, if he has classed, to consult other authorities, thus affording him an invaluable key to knowledge.
5. It is beautifully printed, with readable type, on good paper, and contains a most copious index.
6. It is the work which, while not only adapting approaching correct descriptions of cities and towns of America, is the embraced reliable statistics showing the wonderful growth of all sections."
Every one that reads, every one that inquires in his neighborhood, wants to be well informed on which facts on which he sustained desires for the information. Such, in particular, is the information of the farm, in the family, practical questions are constantly arising which the Cyclopædia, if well read or not, can always satisfactorily answer. If facilities for reference are to be of any value, which are not only to carefully gratified, and the stock of knowledge increased, the best sources of information and ideas are suggested that will directly contribute to the happiness and prosperity of every home.
A Cyclopædia is preeminently the work for our country and generation. This is the age of steam. No one has time to read through the ponderous folio works for every little fact required, without the necessity of buying a whole library. The work embracing every conceivable subject, and having its information condensed into a small compass is the best. The matter is carefully revised, and all that is obsolete and unnecessary, and verified by a comparison of the best authorities. Hence, while only one of fortune can collect a library complete in all the departments of knowledge, he can find in this work itself for purposes of reference at least a thousand volumes, and thus the result of all—the farmer, the mechanic. In a country like ours, where the humblest may be called to the highest stations requiring intelligence and general information, the value of such a work cannot be overestimated.

POETRY.

Hold not thy head too high, my friend,
For sorely pride must know
The heaviest heads of wheat will bend
The stalks on which they grow;
And every lake the loveliest flowers
Bloom nearest to the ground—
The sweetest scatterers of the wood
In lowly shades abound.

Hold not thy head too high, my friend,
Though rich in land and gold;
The things that on thy state stand
Speak not the things they hold;
Their true respect is only paid
Where hearts and hands are true—
These deferential bows are made
Unto thy wealth, not thee.

Hold nothing too high, my friend!
Whate'er thy station be,
For brake will trip the proudest head
That walks on earth with thee!
We envy not thy lordly tread,
Nor at thy triumphs bow,
Who could not hold erect a head
That weighs so light as thine?

Failure Often the Stepping-Stone to Success.

Let our readers transport themselves to Canterbury in 1750, and let them enter a barber's shop hard by Canterbury Cathedral. It is a primitive shop, with the red and white pole over the the door, and a modest display of wigs and puff-boxes in the window. A small shop, but, nothwithstanding its smallness, the best shop of its kind in Canterbury; and its lean, stiff, exceedingly civil proprietor is a man of good repute in the cathedral town. His hands have, ere now, powdered the Archbishop's hair, and he is specially valued by the chief Clergy of the city and neighborhood to keep their false hair in order, and to trim the locks of their children.

The bargain was struck; the painter set to work, and in due time some hairs in the barber's board, on which he had painted a large brown bear of a most ferocious aspect. It was the wonder-sport of all the neighbors, and drew plenty of customers to the shop.

One night there arose a violent storm of wind and rain, which let the inhabitants of a hundred chimneys into a secret, and kept them look assiduously after the stage. In the morning there it was, some hundred scraping and bowing, and the barber was a made man. He immediately hurried to the painter, and related what had happened.

"Well, sir," said he, "what's to be done next?" inquired the painter, coolly.

"A wild bear."

"Will that suit or not?"

"I guess not."

"Then," said the painter, unmoved, "how will you like a wild boar?" The barber's main in such a storm as that of last night without a chain? No bear would have done it.

The barber had nothing to say against the boar, and the painter accordingly agreed to give the painter fifteen dollars. The boar has a wild bear with a chain, that would not be in the least degree surprising.

It is only necessary for us to add that the first bear was painted in water colors, and the second was painted in oil colors.

The Innkeeper's Bear.

A person who kept an inn by the roadside had a mind to paint and inquired for what sum he would paint a bear for a signboard. It was to be a real good one, that would attract customers.

"Fifteen dollars," replied the painter.

"That's too much," said the innkeeper; "then Larkin will do it for ten."

"Is it to be wild or tame?" inquired the painter, not wishing to be under-bid by his rival.

"A wild one, to be sure,"

"With a chain or without one?" again asked the painter.

"Without a chain."

"Well; I will paint you a wild bear, but not a chain, for less dollars."

The bargain was struck; the painter set to work, and in due time some hairs in the barber's board, on which he had painted a large brown bear of a most ferocious aspect. It was the wonder-sport of all the neighbors, and drew plenty of customers to the shop.

SOMETHING FOR THINKERS.—Mr. Editor:—I see a long article headed "What kind of an man is a reformer by profession?" then, immediately answers the question as follows:

"The answer can be given in few words—they have none." Very likely reformers have no children cling to their knees, look upon them for protection, care, and love, plead, coax, cajole, and by all the arts of which only women are gifted and body. They make them the sum of their existence, and they and their children are their world, but knew it not, and were blessed by it, but knew it not; and women bearing infants at their breasts, and women, children, and babes, are the unconscious reformers. Whenever, then, a reformer has "none upon" think of their reforming duty toward, and child, and babe, and woman.

If a man would have a woman to do him homage, he must be manly in every sense; must be gentle, kind, and thoughtful; must be considerate of her every want; must be full of kindness to all those who treat her with disrespect; must be a protector, and guide to the woman who never condescends to say any thing to her, but who brings her joy to her heart, and peace and comfort to her home, and never ceases to please her, but always endeavors to do right; for she has a keen perception of right, and can discern, detailed in speech and in act; who never spends too much time away from home, and who is always glad to get there; who is not a "club man;" who is content to make his mark in the world without the aid of stimulants; who is not a "society man,"

THE DEMOCRAT.

EGG HARBOR CITY, JANUARY 31, 1868.

FOR PRESIDENT.

JOEL PARKER,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Subject to the Decision of the Democratic National Convention.

A Historical Parallel.

In the fall of 1777, during a speech in the British Parliament on American affairs, Mr. Fox likened Lord George Germain, the chief minister of American affairs, to Doctor Sangrado, whose only remedy for all kinds of diseases was bleeding. Said Mr. Fox, "since the noble lord has presided over American affairs, bleeding has been his only prescription. It's people, deprived of their rights, are grown tumultuous—bleed them! If they are attacked with a spirit of insurrection—bleed them! If their forces should run into rebellion—bleed them—drive the State physician: more blood: more blood: still more blood!" The Carolina have three times attempted to throw off your yoke. We tread upon taxed leather, we are clothed in taxed garments, every meal with which we sup abounds in articles of taxed food, we eat from taxed dishes: every night we recline upon a taxed bed, we labor with taxed tools, we obtain our wages by taxed money: in short: in sickness we are attended by a taxed physician, take taxed medicine, and finally are clothed in a taxed shroud and buried in taxed cotton: and have nothing more left, but a taxed, tithe impa of tyranny apply their instruments of oppression to the inanimate marble, and actually extract the last drop of blood, from the tax slab that marks our graves. The remedy for these evils is a return to the Constitution. A free government requires no oppressive taxation: it is despotism the reverse of the Constitution that bleeds the people at every pore. It costs comparatively nothing to be a free and happy people: it costs millions of dollars to be a down-trodden and miserable people.—

NUMISMATIC.

With the permission of Mr. Gerdts, we will here give a description on the collection of Coins which we have before us this day No. 7, 68, which we find dimes, half dimes, and three-cent pieces are all bare from 1851, to date, inclusive the first, or three piece of 1851, is believed to be almost unique: to the best of our knowledge none have ever been sold or offered for sale at the largest auction sales of coins. The following description will answer to illustrate the above: Obverse: LIBERTY cap with the word LIBERTY up it and the date 1859 underneath: reverse: 111 in wreath, and Legend: UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

On page 2, column 2, to say No. 8 we have what appears to be at first sight a lot of foreign coppers, but are soon undiscovered on reading the label, viz: "Copper coins of the American Colonies previous to the establishment of the U. S. Mint." Here are coins used by the Heroes of the Revolution, and for aught we know, by the enemys likewise: and which the original Settlers of America executed. As almost anything that helps to illustrate and commemorate the glorious days of the Revolution and the men who participated in it, and must of necessity be interesting, in our time,—we consider it our duty to be a little more explicit in describing these pieces. For we have the Virginia halfpenny, reverse: bust of George the III, reverse: Coat of Arms under crown, legend: VIRGINIA, and dated 1773. The Georgia cent, also dated 1773, obverse: Head of GENERAL TRIUMPHO, reverse: Goddess of Liberty seated in what appears to be a "wheel coop," top off, in hand, and Legend: GEORGIA. Two varieties of the NOVA CONSTELLATIO, 1783 and 1785, obverse: U. S. in wreath, legend: LIBERTAS ET JUSTITIA, reverse: Thirteen links with a ring in the center, legend: NOVA CONSTELLATIO. The Franklyn, or "mind your business" cent of 1787. Two varieties United States and States United, obverse: Sun rising behind a side of chain WE ARE ONE. VERMONTA RES PUBLICA and VERMONTEN SIUM RES PUBLICA, 1785 and 1786, obverse: sun rising behind wooded hills, plow and dots underneath, reverse: 13 stars between rays, eye in center, legend: QUARTA DECIMA STELLA. Also, several other varieties of Vermonts dated 1785, '87 and '88. Obverse: UNIAM IN UNO (by the authority of Vermont), some bundles facing right, others left, reverse: Goddess of Liberty seated, legend: INDEPENDENT AND FREE. Massachusetts cent, obverse: Indian standing, with bow and arrow, legend: COMMONWEALTH, reverse: 13 circles enclosing the word CENT on shield, and date 1788, underneath, legend: MASSACHUSETTS. Next in order are a large variety of Connecticut cents, all different, and about all them very rare—obverse: ACCIDIS CONSEQ, heads (and queer looking heads some of them are) facing right on arrow and olive branch, reverse: Goddess of Liberty seated, with staff and sprig in hand, legend INDE ET LIB ON stone, and ET LIB INDEP by the other. Connecticut coppers are dated 1785, '86, '87 and '88. New York cents, obverse: Imitated head, legend: NOVA EBORAC, reverse: Liberty facing right on one and left on other, legend: VIRTUS ET LIBERTAS. The North American Token, 1781. The U. S. A. or bar cent, obverse: U.S.A. in monogram, reverse: 13 horizontal bars. Immigration penny and half penny, splendid impressions and very rare, obverse: head of George I, legend: GEORGIUS D. G. MAG. BRI. FRA. ET HIB. REX, reverse: Hope, encircled and uncrowned on half penny, legend: ROSA AMERICANA 1723 UTILIS BELLO. Word bail penny 1723. Louisiana cent, obverse: R. F. (Republican Free) crosse in wreath, legend: ET NOMEN OMNI. BUENDUTUM. Hut, reverse: Colonia Francoise. On coming nearer our own friends we find some gilded pieces, which the Nova Eboracians participated in to a great extent. As to a casual observer, they appear all alike, we will give a general description of one of them. Obverse: head, legend: NOVA EBORACENSIS, reverse: large shield in center, legend: E PLURIBUS UNUM. Some have a ring on edge, others have not. Some have the rights: some look wild and ferocious, others mild and tame; some have the manes standing out horizontal, others have it rising perpendicular, some have it curled, we find no two plows alike,—of all shapes and patterns, and not the latest style either, —some plow beams are straight, some arched and some crooked. All some have, but few have round knobs, others plain; some are light and modern, others short and clumsy. The same difference we find in the mould boards: some larger than others, some with stars and dots, others with sprigs underneath.

As our space will not permit us to enroach on any more of it at present, we have got within sight of home, we will discontinue for the present and drop in and rest for a week.

APPOINTMENT OF DELEGATES.—A well attended public meeting was held on Monday afternoon in the new building lately as Germania Hall to elect Delegates to the Anti-Monopoly Convention, which assembled in Trenton on Wednesday of this week, to oppose the extension of the Charter of the Camden and Amboy R. R. Mr. Charles Kraus acted as Presd. and A Stephany as Sec. The object of the meeting was explained by the Secretary., and a set of Resolutions, in opposition to monopoly in any shape, and more particularly that of the Camden & Amboy R. R. were then adopted, and the following gentlemen elected as delegates to proceed to Trenton, at their own expence: H. D. Ordell, Wm. Steel and A. Stephany. A committee of five were also appointed to devise ways and means for the immediate construction of the Rail Road along Atlantic Ave to the River. On said committee are Messrs. W. Bolte, Ably, Herzog, Rohrberg and Hartke were appointed.

☞ No medicine ever appeared with stronger vouchers for its general and substantial excellence than the Peruvian Syrup. Invalids, especially those suffering from dyspepsia or debility, should send to J. P. Dinsmore, 36 Dey street, New York, for a pamphlet (cost free), concerning this remarkable remedy.

Special Correspondence to THE DEMOCRAT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27th 1868

EDITOR ATLANTIC DEMOCRAT:

Theatres as a body are doing a thriving business. The west side of the town had a genuine sensation on Thursday night on the opening of Niblo's new Garden House. It is generally and deuht the finest theatrical establishment in the country. The Black Crook, at Niblo's, after a run of nearly 500 nights, has given up the ghost.

Dickens has given his last reading at "Steinway Hall." It is estimated that he cleared the small sum of thirty thousand dollars over and above all expenses—pretty well for Marvin Chuzzlewit. He is now about stumping the State, commencing across the river in Plymouth Church.

The Hall was crowded to the doors on each occasion of the Dickens readings. Many of the fashionable ones of the city were present, and the audiences were composed of the elite of society. Dickens is a fine reader, and his pathos and humor are both excellent. He is a small man, with a large head, and has a very pleasant face. He is said to be a perfect gentleman in his manners, and is very much liked by all who have met him.

Wall street, on Monday, on the announcement of another grand distribution of the sinking fund of $350,000 by the Teller of the City Bank. Cause—the old story—dabbling in fancy stocks.

I have read Gov. Ward's Message, and cannot omit making a few remarks on it. First, there is his eulogy on Congress, which is positively ratticat in tone. He takes occasion to laud the loyalty of Congress in terms that must provoke the contempt of those who have read or heard the late proceedings of that body, which in fact abolish its Supreme Court and render the highest judiciary authority in the land, as well as the Chief Executive, subservient to the legislative branch of the Government, which is directly in contravention of the letter and spirit of the Constitution. This is the loyalty which Gov. Ward has the audacity to vaunt in his Message to a Democratic Legislature. Heaven and that we are not called upon to witness much of such loyalty as this, or there will arise throughout the country, such a cry of rightous indignation, as will cause the radical fanatics in Congress and the partizans who urge them on to their iniquitous course, to repent that they did not heed the warning conveyed to them by the handwriting that appeared upon the wall in November last.

Nor can I overlook his essay on the National Debt. He therein deprecates the action of the Commissioners in assigning a part of the ground at Anticam for the burial of Gen. Worth's remains! This looks to me, to say the least of it, very un-christian-like.

He must be a narrow-minded patriot, to say the least, who thought perpetual civil war the true means of saving the Union. He seems to forget that they, too, were Americans; our countrymen does he wish to remain in bondage to the south? and unkindness? even in the grave. Mistaken they were, we all must admit, but certainly they were no traitors. The British and Americans fought at Plattsburgh sleep side by side, and a common monument commemorates the spot. Nothing, perhaps, could sooner re-unite the people of the North and South, than to see the remains of the fallen sons of the northern States were gathering the remains of its fallen sons for interment in our National Cemetrys.

I have before me the monthly Statement of the Treasury Department. It discloses the fact that our current expenses for the present month will exceed the sum of $30,000,000. At this rate it costs us under the present Republican management $367,000,000 per year, or considerably more than $1,000,000 per day, or about $700 per minute.

ASSCOON INLET—MASS MEETING.

The citizens of Atlantic City met in Mass Meeting on Tuesday evening last, to consider the best means of inducing the Government to take prompt measures to protect that point of the Inlet upon which the Light House and the Government building stand, which is being washed away at a rapid rate by the sea. Mayor Leeds presided over the meeting, and Dr. Thomas Reed acted as Secretary.

The Mayor opened the meeting with appropriate remarks, setting forth the necessity of some immediate harbor against the ravages of the sea at that point, and submitted to the petition which had been prepared for presentation to Congress and dated 15th inst. The petition was then read by the Secretary. It was followed by Mr. Joseph J. Moore, Chalkley Leeds and others, all of whom urged the importance of earnest petitions to Congress, and that they be taken in Congress, it having the subject referred to the Committee on Commerce.

A vote of thanks was also tendered to Mayor Leeds and the Councille, for their energetic and prompt response to the wishes of the people in the matter.

A additional quantity of petitions were ordered to be printed, and the services of every Jerseyman solicited to circulate and obtain signatures to them.

The meeting was perhaps the largest ever held by the residents of that City on any question, and evinced the deep anxiety felt by all in regard to the dangers which threaten the property and interests of that as an important movement, and one that ought to enlist the earnest efforts of the people of this County and elsewhere. The harbor of refuge at that point is one of the best on the coast, and should be preserved at any hazard.

DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS.—The Councils of Atlantic City have instructed the Collector to advertise and sell all property upon which the taxes remain unpaid for the years 1866 and 1867. Non-residents of that City should give their immediate attention to this, if they would avoid expense and trouble. At the present high rate of taxation, however, with a wide spread dearth of employment, there must be a host of delinquents in every community. The local authorities should be as forbearing as possible in view of the general business depression which burdens the people.

LADIES TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.
The Real Velpeau Female Pills.
[Warranted French.]
These PILLS are celebrated many years ago in Paris, for the relief of female irregularities, and after many years trial, they have received and pledged to the practice of obstetrics, and now offered for sale for the first time in America. They have been kept on hand by druggists generally, in the fact that the originator, Dr. Velpeau, is a physician of the first class, and all his recommendations, principles, and last withheld them from general sale, except to druggists, for fear of their quackery. In overcoming female obstructions they seem to be truly wonderful, having given the druggists no more whatever cause may have stopped them, but they are not to be used by any delicate female who does not wish to subject to untimely birth. Explicit directions in each package. Price—Single box, $1; Double box, $1.50. Sent by mail to any address on receipt of price. Address
L. F. Tar sole by L. F. Brewster, Druggist, Bridgeton, N. J.
Ladies can procure a box sealed from the eyes of the curious, by enclosing $1 or $1.50 and 3 cent postage stamps to M. W. MACOMBER, General Agent for United States and Canada, at Albany, N. Y., or to any authorized Agent.

F. OUTZ'S
CELEBRATED
Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known to the public, will cure roughly rebelorgone brutes when given according to directions. It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to cattle, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, LOSS OF APPETITE, WORMS, &c. It is a sure cure for FOUNDER, and all diseases of the KIDNEYS. It keeps horses in fine condition, gives a smooth and glossy skin—makes them feel well, increases the appetite, and will actually save a considerable amount in the keeping of a horse.

To farmers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It increases the quantity and improves the quality of the milk. It has been known in many instances to increase the quantity of milk given twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and causes them to thrive fast.

Much Sickness

is the result of Dyspepsia, such as Cramps, Pain in the Lungs, Liver, Stomach, &c., which acts as a speedy cure. Only one half a paper to a horse. Be aware of all the worthless imitations that will be circulated. Ask for Outz's Powders, and see that you get the genuine article. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.
Price 25 Cents per Paper, or 5 Papers for $1.
