THE CONSTITUTION AND THE LAWS.

VOLUME 7—NO. 17.

WHOLE NUMBER 335.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SONG OF IRON.

I am mighty to the sabor,
Fiercely wild by the haw;
Daring, bold, and hardy,
Laughing at the storm and wave.

Beastly in the palce pillars,
As bold as the lightning's light,
Quarrel and bantam to the rod.

But there is a song of iron,
A song of my grandest power,
Giving to the race my soul.
Song of iron, song of iron.

Set before me thy disease,
Show the shrank limbs down;
Send me the pale, the weary,
Take the palest check and bane.

Fly, dyspepsia! thy consumption,
I will not let thee continue;
For I have a song of iron,
Only ever needed—brave!

Shall I tell in what great force
I will meet thee?—Puff, puff,
Puff, trembling, dying, fierce,
I will meet thee, song of iron.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SAUCE.

From Mrs. JAMES CURRIE, of ABERDEEN, Scotland.

I was gifted with a sponge cake on one of my visits to America, and it was delicious.

My friends induced me to try it again. In the course of time, however, I found it did not taste so good, and I could not make out why.

So I asked the cook what was the secret.

She said it was a secret.

So I asked her again.

She said it was a secret.

So I asked her again.

She said it was a secret.

So I asked her again.

She said it was a secret.
