Atlantic foosity, rachingally, honored. Tue-tion of the position of the con-kined of the positive major of the Legislature, when Remajor Walter E. Edge was chosen. President of the Bennte and Assemblyman Cariton, Godfrey Breaker of the House.

In the House, Mr. Godfrey was nominated for the speakership by Assemblyman Bertram E. Whitman, of Pleasantville, who delivered a masterful nominating speech, referring to the legislative experience and business ability of Mr. Godfrey. Both President Edge and Speaker Godfrey were greeted with rounds of applause which they stepped forward to take the oath of office. Both also were applauded for several minutes at the conclusion of their opening addrames to the members.

In accepting his office Senator Edge spoke as

"In these days platform pledges mean some thing. They are sacred promises and there is just one way and the only way, to merit and retain the confidence of the public, who are our partners in this program. That way is by adhering strictly to these pledges without fear or fayor. On the other hand, if, after due trial any legislation has been proven illadvised, no less healtancy should be shown, in repealing or properly amending an unworkable statute even if it has been an attempted carrying out of a previous party pledge. In other words, absolute frankness and courage are the main obsrederistide necessary to bring about constructive and really beneficial legislation.

I trust that our business will be transacted expeditiously. At the same time the promises that have been made must be fulfilled and we must remain in session until the proper bus ness of the State has been carefully and fully transacted. Expedition in conducting the State's business, as in conducting private business, is always most commendable, and much of the criticism of drawnout sessions of the past has in my judgment been unwarranted. Speaker Godfrey exhorted the Amembly to series for the same results in the following " I necept the position as your Speaker, fully realizing the importance of the position. The most effective manner, however, in which I can show the earnestness of my appreciation of this high office is in an unswerving loyalty to the principles of that party which has for its watchword "The Prosperity of All the People." The platform of our Party shall be our guiding star. Because of the promises therein contained and the principals thereis advocated, and the confidence of the people that these principles shall be our guide and Renublican Party in this State is their plans rests upon the members of this House to conduct the business before it upon these lines wholly is the interests of the people and in a dignified and business-like manner. "It is our duty to pass bills that will result in an economical and efficient State administration. Extravagances and unnessary expenditures should cease. All public business whether for the State or for local municipalities should be conducted more economically even than private business, for the reason that the state can phrohase at wholesale rates and the seller assumes no risk of possible loss."

Nearly one hundred bills were introdued during the first day of the session, covering the main platform pledges of each party. Governor James F. Fielder delivered his annual message, which was mainly a plea to the two parties to work in harmony for conserving the State finances and to avoid further at tempts at " reform" legislation.

Speaker Godfrey, through Majority Leader Runyon, introduced his bills releting to pro tection of the bathing beach in-coast resor against storms and high tides. Assemblyman Whitman introduced by request a bill to repeat the obnoxious fishing-license law and leading to the abolishment of pound nots which fishermen claim are ruining the fishing sport in the class and members of the church.

Board Insists On Indomnifying Bond Before Closing Deal.

Negotiations are still pending between the Mauri, Hirsch and Kan, of Philadelphia, and the Board of Trade of this place regarding the location here of their proposed new shoe factory, but unless they can give the Board the requisite security for the erection of a new facequipment will entail an expenditure of about five thousand dollars, the factory will not be located here. This the officers of the Hoard will require before they will enter into final ne-that these promises will be carried out in good day morning in Philadelphia and went over for May's Landing; his determined efforts, record of all criminal business disposed of in returned to power. The responsibility now rangements because the firm was unable at the time to furnish adequate security, as they said they have all their available capital in ment to acquiesce in his plans. The new office yested in machinery. They took the matter under advisement, however, and will advise the Board later of their decision. The project for establishing the new factory in the second story of the glass factory was abandoned as impractical, after a thorough third class. The increased routine work has canvass of the town had been made and al though a large number of public-spirited citizens pledged support the amount promised was not sufficient to warrant the Board t enter into this deal. So the proposition adopted is for the Board of Trade to erect a new factory on mortgage provided the firm can secure them by an indemity bond, keep up the payments thereon for three years at the end of which the firm is to take over the property at cost. The matter now rests on the proposition of the indemnity bond and the Board will not take further action tell they hear from the manufacturers.

But that is another story, for our present air is to remind readers of the stream itself, and point out as best we can a few of its advantages, in order that we may turn a few moments thought of those who cast their eyes over these lines to a blessing too comm perhaps, to be always valued at its true

This river has always been closely associated with the growth of May's Landing and, until the competition of railroads drove small vessel from the seas, it was the scene of extensive ship-building, a comprehensive survey of which was recently published in the "Atlantic Review," from the pen of Mr. Howard W. Shaner and which was a considerable surprise tomany who were not aware of this once thriving industry. Ships built here sailed the seas to almost every point of the globe. Most of them were lest, but some are still plying in the constwine trade Ship-building and sailing were once the principal followings of the hardy men who nade their homes along this river and few there are among the older residents who did not suffer the loss of relatives or friends in this recarious cailing. But when the vailroads ended this industry, the river began to take a coser place in the life of the community: esser, but by no means unimportant, for it is to-day one of the chief assets of the municipality. Its waters turn the wheels of our largest industry.

The deplorable lack of interest residen have manifested in this stream during recent years is evident in the shandoned condition of its shores, along which wharves have been permitted to decay and the river front gener ally taken on a decrepit appearance. Cerminly there is no good and sufficient reason r this state of affairs. If residents generally could be made to realise what a remarkable change would come about in the appearance not only of the river but of the town itself by a concerted clean-up from the old Hamilton Bridge, near the dam, to Taylor's Meadows, its ould shortly assume an appearance strongly in contrast to their present sorry plight. For a river of itself is a thing of beauty and a joy forever; but after the hand of me altered its shores, erected wharves and other wise changed it appearance, it soon falls into a chnotic state if neglected. Walls give way and wind and storm cast wreckage hither and thither; old craft are thrown up to distategrate; rubbish thrown into the stream ac cumulates and the result is what can be seen on the river front to-day, anything but a credit to the municipality it has made and aided materially in so many ways.

The Great Egg Harbor River is one of most beautiful streams in Bouth Jersey; it fords untold bours of enjoyment to those hving in its vicinage in the way of fishing, Drawing in the Public Schools, will render a tathing and boating; its presence of itself is an solo in the M. E. Church to-morrow, both at sid to property values, and could be made more up by a concerted effort of elti Improvement of its shores would not only be an incentive for more widespread usage on the an incentive for more what proper whereing part of townspeople, but proper whereing facilities would bring here yeckinson flow Atlantic City, Ocean City and other essentive resorts. To this said distring the river had of stumps and staking the channel distinct would be a meterial life, Let us hope by period of public secret, in
