FARM PRODUCTS INCREASING. Three Million More Last Season Than

In Year 1909. At the 38th annual meeting of the State Young Republicans Enjoy Feast Board of Agriculture held at Trenton during the week, State Secretary of Agriculture Franklin Dye reported that the value of farm products during the past year was estimated at $61,000,000, an increase of $3,000,000 over last year. He also said that this rate of increase had prevailed for the past ten years. In refer Idmilton Township's Share Is ring to the high cost of living, Mr. Dye said that the increased cost of production is respon $7,625,21—Checks Will Be Sent slible for it in so far as it relates to the retail Custodians of Moneys by market values of farm products. He showed that farm labor commands from $18 to $26 with board and from $32 to $35 without board per month. In discussing the price of beef, he said that present prices are due to a certain extent to the fact that home-raised beef is almost; thing of the past in this section and suggested that the farmers turn their attention to raising

SOMERS POINT COUNCIL ACTIVE

Extensive Municipal Improvements Will Be Made During Coming Year.

If Somers Point City fails to loom up larger on the bay during the coming year it will not dinner at the Jackson House, all the former be the fault of the new City Council and Mayor Herman Steck, resolutions having been passed at the initial meeting of the new Council for important municipal improvements. Two new members of Council, Frank Westphal and George Goll, have taken their places in Conneil and judging from their activity are not inclined to let the opportunity to assist in civic progress slip by unbeeded,

Among the resolutions, passed by Council were the opening of Bay Avenue for nearly a good road to Scullville, opening New Jersey Avenue at the foot from Bay Avenue to the a public pler, opening of the same avenue from of the former year. The last report showed the railroad to Third Street and general improvement of the highways.

Thomas Bozarth was appointed Street Supervisor and instead of the old method of hiring men and teams in the Spring, at a loss to the city, Supervisor Bozarth will devote his whole time to the street work the year round. Council is contemplating the laying of coment walks along the avenues below Jersey Avenue and also the substitution of an electric lighting system instead of gas, Residents and other city officials are showing an active interest in the projects and there is every indication that the attractive little seasbore resort will experience a decided boom. during the coming

WILSON SUCCEEDS FORT

First Democratic Governor in New Jersey in Fifteen Years Takes Oath of Office Before Large Assemblage in State Capitol.

Woodrow Wilson, ex-president of Princetor inliversity, succeeded J. Franklin Fort on Tuesday last us Governor of New Jersey, the first Democrat to hold that office since George T. Werts was succeeded by John W. Origgs in 4896. The inaugural exercises took place of the stage of the old Taylor Opera House, which was filled to the doors by members of the Legislature, officials and political leaders from all parts of the State. Surrounded by members of the Senate and Assembly, who had convened in joint session on the theatre platform, Dr. Wilson took the oath of office, vowing to perform the duties of the office ac cording to the Constitution to the best of bi ability. Chief Justice William S. Gammere of the New Jersey Supreme Court, administered the oath. The retiring Executive then delivered into the hands of the nev official the great scal of the State, amid the applicuse of the spectators and a military salute of seventeen guns fired by Company I of Princeton.

Among the leading reforms advocated by the new Covernor-in-his imagaral marcs were the following:

"Corporations and organisations which hav proven very useful but which have for th line, being slipped out of the control of the very law that gave them leave to be and that can make or unmake them at pleasure. We have now to set ourselves to control them, soberly but effectively and to bring them thoroughly within the regulation of the law. "Our laws with regards to the relations of employer and employee were framed for an other age, which nobody now living remem protection, for their compensation when in

"I would urge the imperative obligation of upon our Blate. "Scrutiny and regulation ought also to t extended to corporations already operating under the licenses and authority of the State. "Our whole system of taxation, which is no system at all, needs overhauling from top (bottom.

"Our primary laws should be extended to every elective office and to the selection of every party committee or official. "It is estimated that most of the food supply of the people of Northern New Jersey and half

NIXON'S APOLLO THEATRE.

JOHN DREW IN "SMITH."

John Drew, of well maintained and wholly merited popularity, comes to the Apollo.Theatre next Friday and Saturday, January 27 and 28. in "Smith," his offering for the present cason, which is the newest comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, and, by all accounts, the best he has yet given the stage. Among Mr. Maugham's other works are "Lady Frederick," "Jack Straw," and "Mrs. Dot," pieces which have met with success both here and in England, "Smith," first done in London, was accounted there its author's finest effort, a verdict ratified later in New York. The play has serious element to balance its lighter side, wherein Mr. Maugham gives free play to his nimble wit and in this instance, biting satire, Mr. Drew has a capital role which enables him to display his usual polished comedy work, and to carry some situations of deeper meaning as well, "Smith" has some love $1,200. scenes with a new angle which are especially charming. The piece has been at the Empire Theatre in New York for three months. The complete original cast will be seen in this city.

WORKMEN ENTITLED TO DAMAGES FOR INJURIES

WOULD PREVENT RECOURSE .

TO CIVIL SUITS. Employers' Liability Commission

of Which Senator W. E. Edge

Is Member Recommends Liberal Statute. Expressing the belief that compensation to njured workmen is a legitimate charge gainst the cost of manufacture, and that the ciclin of an industrial accident, or his dependants, should receive compensation, not as an act of grace on the part of his employer, but as matter of Justice, the State Commission to in estigate the question of employers liability, of which Senator Walter E. Edge, of this county, is a member, filed its report early in the week. After its exhaustive investigation of the uestion the commission says that under the present law the burden of Industrial accients falls in most instances on the victim timself and his dependants, the benevolent employer, the sympathetic fellow workmen, or he public authorities. Continuing the com "We regret that we are forced to the concluion that the weight of legal opinions is against. he constitutionality of an act, which would compel an employer to compensate an injured employee without regard to the fault or neglisence of the employer. We are advised that is the law shinds at present, the employer is held liable only when the accident is due to his fault or neglect. He is not liable when the negligence of the employe contributes to the eccident; when the accident is due to a natural isk of the employment or when the accident

Theories of contributory negligence, assump ion of risk and fellow servant were discussed by the commission. Taking up contributory negligence, the commission said that it believed the theory of this defense is founded on principles of justice, but that a change has been suggested to the doctrine of comparative aegligence which involves on the part of the court or jury a balancing of the relative smount of fault or negligence, as between em ployer and employee. "In order to prevent the non-suiting of the injured employe on a mere technicality, where his negligence is relatively trivial, we recommend the modification of the present law as stated in our proposed bill requiring the proof of 'wilful negligence,' In this connection the members of the commission desire to emphasize the fact that they are unanimous in their sellef that as a practical question' compensation to an injured employe should be placed on the fact of the accident or injury, and on the question of fault or negligence. In t elective section of our proposed bill, we then fore, eliminate entirely the question of co tributory negligence. As to the second and third of these defenses, 'assumption of risk' and 'fellow servant,' we believe that, however ust these may have been at the time of their doption, they are unjust as applied to modern conditions of employment." The report outlines the extensive work done investigation, Liablic hearings were Newark, Jersey City, Paterson and a new confiners and motor mater was prevented their News, The president and secretary of the commission also participated in a conference of Commissioners on Compensation for Industrial Accidenta 🖿 teln-et, ux, to Heward M. from ten states held in Chicago last Novem-Bennett, 35x75 X of No 20 on the West or ber. Letters were sent to prominent lawyers and leading judges of the State, asking their opinion on various questions relating to the employers' liability. The commission was appointed by Governo Fort, pursuant to a Senate resolution passed Dickson, of Montelair; J. William Clark, of Newark: John T. Cosgrove, of Elizabeth: Samuel Botterill, of East Orange; Col. Walter E. Edge, of Atlantic City and E. K. Mills, of Morristown. Under the new law recommended by the commission, promptness of settlement for damages to employees will be provided for and all of the money will go the injured person or his family instead of paying costs of legal action. As the damages will be fixed by law.

His present position in the custom house made it necessary that he should visit a well. known silk importer, whose place of business fay in the heart of San Francisco's reconstructed Chinatown.

chiminate, all mentory of his last year in China. There had been one horrible incident from which he had fled, but whose shadow had haked in the background of his daily life since his return to America. In broad daylight he had laughed at the fears that pursued his first sleepless, fear haunted nights. After awhile the fear gave place to a sense of security fostered by the practical workaday happenings of his busy life.

Today, however, as he bassed along the old eastern world after all.

He pressed forward, eager to stretch forth his hand and prove that the was an optical Illusion. But always it danced before him like a will-o'-thewisp, now showing a glint of gold and green and then melting into a dozen iliusive tints

Where It went there he too must follow until he could prove by actual contact with its surface that it was a creation of his fancy and not the drended emblem of the White Brotherhood.

It drew him on down into the very bowels of the earth.

The paper umbrella collapsed and was east aside, while the bearer turned to confront Nelson. Then the latter awoke from his trance-like state ngeon-like room, empty of furniture and recking with foul odors lamp. Nelson's gaze came back to the face of the Chinese, and he shivered slightly, for the face was that of a member of the dreaded order-the sign Francisco. was written on the man's brow.

Instantly Nelson whipped off his cont, holding it before him as a shield in the Cantonese dialect; "I am not alone." "Who else?" demanded sharply in the same tongue.

"The brotherhood-at each stair head they await your coming if you contemplate flight," returned the Chinese impekturbabiy

"What do you want with me?" "Command of the big brother that you be brought before him for trial." "He came on from Hongkong to seek me?"

The Chinese cackled shrilly. Then he spat-contemptuously. "The broth erhood is everywhere, Captain Leeson -wherever there are offenders there ing, clawing fingers and flendish eyes. also will be found a tribunal of the brotherhood."

Leeson's, name?" questioned Nelson warily.

"Because you are he." "Suppose I am not?"

"You are!" asserted the man gough-"The brotherhood does not make mistakes."

Before his eyes there flashed a plcture of his last year in China. Then he had been in the diplomatic service of his country. Leeson, his friend, an Englishman in the British employ at Hongkong-inspector of health or something of that sort-had interested Nelson in his establishment of a leper colony down in Anam.

It was Lecson's ambition to clean A whole year passed after Nelson's out the lepers hidden in the city, to colony where preparations had been made for their segregation, where their cases should be studied and modern methods be employed.

It happened that the afflicted ones looked on the idea of banishment with distaste. They cared little to be herded together in a foreign province far Jay Nelson had been glad enough to from friends and familiar scenes. They cared nothing whatever for the benefits that might accrue to posterity. through their segregation.

Leeson's efforts met with little success, and he brought the law to his aid. Thus he gained permission to one child, a daughter. She was twencapture the afflicted ones, and so his ty years old and for half her life had colony prospered for awhite. When I made his acquaintance he had settled down had picked up among the Eskimos of a hill and looked more like a Chi- I that I opened the subject myself, nese pagoda than any other structure.

Spitzburger was a widower, with he told me his wife had been an Amerdean creole.

The inside of the house in which these two fived was as curious as the outside. The furniture and ornamental articles had apparently been gathered from all points of the globe, rang. ing from the south sen islands to Greenland. There was a mill for grinding from the Holy Land similar to those used in Bible times, a wheel from India to spin flax on, and the bathtub had been the sareophagus of an Egyptian mummy.

The reason for my making the Spitzburgers' acquaintance was this: I was taking a postgraduate course at the time, studying the customs of different races of men, the causes, and effects which shape them and their relationship. Desiring som tion as to the people of forbidden to foreigners little known, I 3 penetrat-Spitzburger t country. I ir visit led to as I called his daughter, Irene. Not that there was any outward intimation on my part that I was coming under a spell, and, as for the girl, I had no idea that I was any more to her than another man. Indeed, I sometimes fancied that she might have left her heart to New Zealand, Kamehatka or some other barbarous land. Wheth-Nelson determined to force some im- er Spitzburger suspected the drift of mediate action from the men who had my inclinations I don't know, but one day he took occasion to mention with approbation the marriage customs in Lapland where the who

The only thing to indicate that Irene and I were drifting together as lovers was that we took long walks together. 'Fire ahead," he said recklessly; I made an excuse for this that in her company I could both exercise and study. This was true. I could get from her certain information of the domestic habits of the people she had visited that I could not get from her father. One day while we were on one of these walks I'said to here "Your father tells me that in Lap land to marry a girl without her par ents' consent is punished as a crime Please tell me how a man in that country does his courting."

"He doesn't do any courting." "Then how does be proceed?"

"He goes to her parents and asks for her. If he is refused there is no hope for him. If they approve of his suit they tell the girl of it. She may or may not have seen the lover, but the process is the same in either case. Her parents give a feast at which they, the girl, her suitor and mutual friends are present. The two princtpals are placed opposite each other at table, where they can observe and talk with each other all they like."

"Well, then what? I suppose the girl has something to say in the matter, else this looking over her suitor would be useless."

"Yes, she has a good deal to say about it, but she doesn't yet make it known She indicates her decision later. After the feast all go to an open space suitable for running a race. A course is marked off-a quarter of a mile usually-and the girl is given a handleap of a third of the distance. The bandieup is intended to enable her to win the race endly if she wishes, and it she wins that indicates her re fusal of the offer But If, on the contrary, she purposely lags and her sultor catches her, that indicates she accepts, nim for her buskand."

On the morning of the third, determined to have the matter out with Irene, I asked her to go for a walk with me, the last we would take together before my departure. She assented and went up to her room for her wraps. She was some time getting them, and when she came down what was my surprise to see that she had put on a skirt reaching but little below the knees, and He had visited every country on the instead of a hat she had wrapped a

She pulled off a fur jacket and threw it-on-the-ground-l-and-l-and-at-once that she had divested herself of her corsets-indeed, there was nothing to interfere with any movement. Her short skirt, a tight fitting jersey and the vell about her head made an excellent racing costume.

But these preparations appalled me. What could they mean but that sho desired every advantage that she might surely beat me in the race?

Burning to know my fate, I wished to start at once. But she declined to go until she got her breath. While we walted I endeavored to see something encouraging in her eyes-something to indicate that these races were the answer I was expecting. But there was nothing in her expression to indicate that we were running for any purpose Is the Salt of Trade. When except pastime. She studiously ignored every other consideration.

Finally, when my patience was near y exhausted, she signified a willing ness to start. I gave the signal, and for the first half the distance she seemed determined to win. Surely she could not have put forth greater effort. I saw her glance aside to see where I was, and she dashed on, seemingly bound to reach the goal before me. But when within ten yards of it my distance being twenty, she tripped and fell. I ran on to the tree, touched it and then back to her. Raising ber, L said impatiently: \

"I suppose we must try this one over."

"No," she said; "I couldn't run ngain." I still beld her in my arms, and, taking this for the answer I craved, I wound them about her, covering her face with kisses. Supposing that my love had been injured by her fall, I proposed to carry her home, but she stepped out quite "How about that tripping?" I asked.

She looked at the ground, but made no reply, and I knew she had tripped on purpose.

When we returned to the house Spitzburger looked at us both curiously. I knew at once that he was aware that his daughter had given me my answer and that she had given it in accordance with the Lapland custom. He first segmed her face, but receiving no satisfaction there bent his gaze upen

When Water Was Avoided.

Until comparatively recent \times there was a medical prejudice against drinking water. Sir William Vaughan in his "Natural and Artificial Directions For Health" declared that water "ought seldom to be drunk." Another doctory admitted that it might be healthful for children, but not for men

-"except some odd, absterdous one among a thousand perchance, degenerate and of a doggish nature, for dogs of nature do abbor wine." Indeed, the recommendation of water as a beverage was supposed to be the sign of the quack. Even Wosley in his "Primitive Physic" wrote of it with caution; "Drink only water if it agrees with your stomach; if not, good, clear small
