

WAVE TRIAL BY JURY AND APPEAL TO COURT

YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS GET SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Score of County Jail Inmates Prefer Hearing Before Judge Higbee To Waiting Action of Grand Inquest
—Four Sent To State Prison.

Pleading guilty to embezzling money from the City of New York, Atlantic City, Miss. Mac Nix and Joseph Rogers, employees of the theatre, were released Monday last at a special session of Criminal Court by Judge J. A. Higbee under suspended sentence. The Court extended mercy because both defendants were youthful and the offense was their first, giving them, however, a severe reprimand. The girl was employed to sell tickets and the youth to take them from patrons at the door. By working together Rogers returned the tickets to Miss Nix who would then cash them and the pair pocketed the proceeds.

Christiana, a woman guilty to a charge of assault and battery on her husband, who was a defendant in the case, was committed to the authorities to be mentally deficient, but when she objected to having her name used to play under her name, she was released. The Court said that she was guilty of throwing a cup of scalding hot coffee in his face. Judge Higbee got at the true facts of the case by taking their eight-year-old son into his private room, after which he sentenced them to a term of eighteen months in State Prison.

Joseph Lutz, twenty years old, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of stealing several gold coins from an Atlantic City bank. Lutz was called on the bank's daughter and took advantage of an opportunity to take $100 from the safe, of which he paid back $100. He said he was willing to pay back the rest and Judge Higbee suspended sentence on condition that he make good the amount.

The serious condition of the defendant's wife led the Court to impose a fine of $100 on Thomas "Tippy" Collins instead of sending him to jail as he otherwise would have done, when "Tippy" pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with running a gambling house. The Court was further inclined to mercy owing to the critical condition of the defendant's wife. Judge Higbee told him: "I want to say that I am sorry for you because of your wife and child and not because I feel that you deserve any mercy."

Dolman Plummer, pleading non vult to a gambling charge, was fined $100.

George Collins, pleading guilty to stealing a bicycle, escaped under suspended sentence, owing to the fact that he had already spent three months in jail. Collins took the bicycle to ride from Vineland to Hammonton.

Ridgely, an admitted burglar, a professional bicyclist and confessed to the larceny of two wheels, also to breaking into a home and stealing a gun, was sentenced to a term of six months in the County Jail.

For betraying the confidence and kindness of George Sharpe, a glassblower of Landisville, who had taken him into his home and treated him as a son, by stealing $275 Sharpe had served up to pay off a mortgage on his house, Joseph McLean, was sentenced to a term of not less than one nor more than seven years in State Prison.

Charles Irwin, pleading guilty to embezzling money from his employer, Thomas, a florist, was released. Irwin had made receipt of almost all the money and the Court felt he had been sufficiently punished by his three-month incarceration.

Harold Jeffries, colored, a former chauffeur, pleaded guilty on three counts to a charge of larceny and was sentenced to State Prison for not less than 18 months nor more than 7 years.

Monmouth Jones, colored, who admitted stealing a suit of clothes from his roommate, in order to get funds with which to go to his home in Princeton, was sent to the County Jail for four months.

Harold Johnson, pleading guilty to attempted forgery, was released under suspended sentence.

Walter Conlin, who was recently found guilty of assault and battery on an Italian, was sentenced to the County Jail for 6 months. The jury in the case recommended mercy, and the Court, as sentence was passed, remarked that it was this fact that saved the prisoner from a term in State Prison.

William Green, colored, pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny and was sentenced to a term of 18 months in the County Jail.

Maggie Clark was adjudged guilty of assault but released under suspended sentence.

William McManis, charged with the larceny of a set of paperhanger's tools, was remanded to jail to give him a chance to have some of his friends contribute to his bail.

Charles Cameron, charged with breaking and entering a saloon and stealing $8 from a money drawer, was given his freedom because he had made restitution and no one appeared to press the charge.

Ruth Johnson, colored, charged with forging a number of checks with her employer's name, was given four months in the County Jail. In passing sentence, Judge Higbee censured the cashier of the bank for accepting such a crude forgery, inasmuch as the signature and the endorsement were in way alike.

Silas Cobb was sentenced to not less than three and one-half nor more than seven years in State Prison on a charge of breaking and entering. Sentence on two other charges of larceny were suspended, with a warning that when released from jail he should avoid Atlantic City or he would be picked up and sent to the penitentiary.

William Barrett, an accomplice, turned State's evidence and was rewarded by having sentence suspended.

John Wible and George Carey, two youthful prisoners who pleaded guilty to the larceny of a banjo from the home of Thomas Hall, were sentenced to four months in County Jail.

Henry Monroe, colored, was sentenced to serve not less than 18 months nor more than 7 years in State Prison for receiving stolen goods. Judge Higbee remarked in a joking fashion, "Hello, Henry. You and I are old friends. You seem to be paying me visit about every two years. You were here in 1908, and again in 1910, and now at the birth of 1913 I have the pleasure of your company once more."

ILL-LUCK IN OLD TREE'S FALL.

While engaged in felling a large oak tree from the residence of Magistrate Daniel E. Isard Tuesday last, Henry Howell had the misfortune to sever two toes with an axe. To add to his bad luck, the tree crashed down in the wrong direction, pulling down in its mad plunge telephone and telegraph wires and smashing a large portion of the "Butler's" paved walk. The old tree was so decayed that it broke into hundreds of pieces when it fell.

COUNTY CLERK LITTLE IMPROVED.

The condition of County Clerk Samuel Kirby is reported little improved and he is still seriously ill. An operation may be necessary, it is said. His many friends here and elsewhere in the County extend this popular official their deepest sympathy and hope that he will soon be able to be about again.

SECOND ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

Sandby Will Be Soloist At Apollo
Thursday Evening Next.

Everything is in readiness for the second concert of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra in the Apollo Theatre Thursday evening next, March 13, when the orchestra will make its last visit to Atlantic City for the season, with Herman Sandby, the famous cellist as the soloist. An advance sale for the last concert has been going on under the auspices of the Woman's Committee. The regular sale began at the Apollo Theatre on Thursday morning, a week in advance of the concert.

The Woman's Committee of Atlantic City for the Philadelphia Orchestra has stirred up a great deal of interest in these concerts, and every one is working to make the last concert a particularly notable one. Mr. Stokowski has given a great deal of thought to the program and it is made up of numbers all of which are beautiful in themselves and which have been received with especial attention at the White House. The program in its entirety will be as follows:

1. Weber, Overture "Furianthe."
2. Schubert, Symphony No. 8, in B minor (Unfinished).
3. Smetana, Symphonie Poem "On the Bunk of the Moldau."
4. Tchaikovsky, Variations on a Rococo Theme, Op. 33,—Hermann Sandby.
5. Tchaikovsky, Marche Slave.
6. Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," one of the most beautiful compositions for orchestra ever written and its strikingly beautiful themes are given a sympathetic interpretation under the baton of Stokowski.

Quite a number of music lovers from this place are planning to attend the concert.

BEGIN WORK FOR POST-OFFICE.

New Building Will Be Completed About
First of June.

Ground was broken Monday last by Harry P. Birch for the erection of a two-story brick building on the site of the old post-office, fronting the old Temperance House. The latter will not be disturbed at present as the new building will be erected on the extreme corner of the plot.

The new building will be built in two compartments, one for the post-office and the other for a barber shop and post room. Overhead will be office rooms and living apartments. The building will be equipped with every convenience and will be ready for occupancy about June 1st.

New Road in Better Shape.

Since the weather conditions have permitted the gravel to dry out to some extent, the new road from May's Landing to Tuckahoe is in much better shape and motorists have little trouble making the trip where before they went hunched in the soft ruts of the new road surface. When completed the road will be one of the best in the county. Much of the gravel that under winter conditions was thought to be of inferior quality is proving good and the road will be in readiness for next summer's travel. The contractors for the new bridge over North River are in place and ready for the superstructure, which will be placed in position as soon as the steel girders already ordered have arrived.

LIVELY SESSION PROMISED

Bay Bridge, Mosquito Appropriation, Prisoners' Board, Telephone Franchise and Other Important Questions Stated for Freeholders.

What promises to be one of the liveliest and most interesting meetings this year of the Atlantic County Board of Chosen Freeholders will be held Wednesday night in Memorial Hall, Atlantic City, for the monthly meeting of the board, who have a number of important matters to discuss and on which action is expected to be taken. Among these will be the question of the appropriation, exceeding $20,000, to the Mosquito Commission appointed by Justice Kalish, which the present statute makes mandatory, but which has been held up by many members deem it so much waste of money. The demand, however, is becoming more general for action on the money will likely be appropriated as an experiment, though there is a decided sentiment, not only among the members of the board, but among county property owners as well, against the project.

Another question coming up that promises a lively discussion is that of the $5,700 bill rendered by the William J. Burns Detective Agency for services in Atlantic City, which the board refused to approve last meeting and which has been held up for that reason. The collector cannot pay the bill unless he is ordered so to do by the Freeholders, though the bill is O. K'd by Justice Kalish and Charles Moore, assistant to the Attorney General. The members are inclined to deem the bill rather excessive, as Burns charges $100 a day and expenses for his own services, which were not authorized by the board or County Prosecutor Goldenberg. If the law is construed as to make payment mandatory the Freeholders will have to order the bill paid, but there is a strong sentiment against this construction of the law and the matter may end in a suit to test the validity of the claim.

Report will be made by the Bridge Committee, which has held several conferences with the Bridge Committee of the City of New York, relative to the proposed bridge across the Great Egg Harbor Bay from Somers Point City to Bensley's Point. In spite of some opposition raised in Ocean City to this report, by reason of the Ocean City contingent wanting the bridge to cross their way, the sentiment in both counties is overwhelmingly in favor of the Bensley's Point span.

Action will also be taken, in all probability, on the report of the Finance Committee on the resolution of Freeholder Black asking former Sheriff J. L. Johnson to refund money he received during the latter part of his last term for boarding prisoners at the County Jail. The Freeholders voted Mr. Johnson $100 a week for board of prisoners and nothing further was done until Mr. Johnson was named as collector, when Mr. Black introduced the resolution.

The question of a franchise for telegraph any system to the Bell Telephone Company will come up for consideration. This matter was to have been decided last meeting but several changes were made in the resolution as originally introduced so this was withdrawn and a new resolution introduced. Copies of this were to have been mailed to each Freeholder but so far they have not been sent out and this fact may cause another postponement.

The Bridge Committee has conferred with the Board of Burlington County as to repairs at the Mullica River bridge, which is in a dangerous condition, and will render a report of its work to the board. Numerous other matters are slated for consideration.

PRESENTED WITH REGALIA.

Her Patriotism

By ELIZABETH WEED

Louise Archer was a very high strung girl. Excitement was to her a necessity, and often she mistook her excitable nature for noble impulses. When the Spanish-American war broke out she was nineteen years old and had been every day reading of the tyranny of General Weyler and the sufferings of the Cubans.

Louise had a lover, Gus Saunders, a plodding, methodical chap, entirely different from her. Since she could not go and fight the war herself she determined that Saunders should go. Impelled by the rattle of drums and the "gathering of the clans," she went over to where he was serving wood and said to him:

"Why, Gus, I'm surprised at you! Everybody but you is rallying round the flag, while you are stooping over a log with a back-saw. Aren't you going to enlist?"

"Enlist? What for?"

"Why, to right the Cubans' wrongs."

"I don't see why I should right their wrongs."

"Haven't you any patriotism?"

"I don't see any occasion for patriotism."

"I do. Our young men are flocking to the standard by thousands, while you are content to bend your back sawing wood. Oh, that I should have saved you!"

The young man was deeply in love. The expression on his face changed to one of such path that Louise was deterred from speaking the word that was on her tongue. Throwing down his saw, he said:

"Louise, I love you so well that I will try my best to live up to your standard. After all, it is no more the duty of others than mine to respond to the call for volunteers. I shall enlist at once."

"Spoken like a man!" she was enthusiastic response, and she impulsively threw her arms about his neck. "I am sure you will return a hero."

"A hero?" asked Gus.

"A hero. Some of Napoleon's marshals rose from the ranks, and maybe you will."

"Just so that is, if I have time."

"Time? What do you mean by that?"

"Why, how long do you think it would take a big cut to fill a very little mouse?"

"Oh, you're always looking on the wrong side of things. It's going to be a great war, goodness! When you return with a general's shoulder straps just think how proud I'll be of you."

"You'll be true to me?"

"True to my soldier lover! Why, yes."

A valley of kisses and he was gone. A few months later a troopship unfolded a cargo of men and boys on Montauk Point. Most of them were transferred to hospitals, the balance put in camps. One who had suffered from every disease known in Cuba was retained in hospital as long as there was a hospital in the land, then transferred to a home for the incurable. He lived between life and death all spring when his doctors concluded that he would have a better chance for recovery if he could get a change. He was eager to get, assuring them that a sweetheart was waiting for him and his separation from her was keeping him back. Being discharged, he sought the location of his old-time and, uttering along the road, met one who had known him as a healthy man, but who failed to recognize him.

"Is Louise Archer alive and well?" asked the ex-soldier.

"Oh, yes, she's alive and well, only her name isn't Archer any more. It's Goughlin."

"When?" asked the stranger.

"Goughlin?" asked the first man.

"Goughlin?" asked the first man.

"Goughlin?" asked the first man.

STEADFAST WELL DOING

The great breadth of human welfare lies along the old highway of steadfast well doing, and they who are the most persistent and work in the truest spirit will invariably be the most successful. Success treads on the heels of every right effort.—Samuel Smiles.

Legs of a Galloping Horse.

Thousands of pictures exist in our galleries showing horses at full gallop with the front legs extended forward and the hind legs extended backward, and no one ever suspected anything wrong with the representations of galloping horses until instantaneous photography made visible movements quite beyond the power of the human eye.

A series of cinematographic photographs of a galloping horse, if shown slowly on the screen, would astonish most people. Each time all the legs were seen of the ground they would be actually folded up under the animal's body, and the artistic full stretch gallop would never once materialize.—Fall Mail Gazette.

A Dowry on Approval.

A curious custom prevails among Roumanian peasants. When a Roumanian girl is of a marriageable age all her trousseau, which has been carefully woven, spun and embroidered by her mother and herself, is placed in a painted wooden box. When a young man thinks of asking to be allowed to pay his attentions to the girl he is at liberty at first to open the box, which is always placed conveniently at hand, and examine the trousseau. If the suit or is satisfied with the quantity and quality of the dowry he makes a formal application for the girl's hand, but if, on the contrary, the trousseau does not please him, he is quite at liberty to retire.

An Ugly Clan.

The late Dr. Andrew Wilson had lectured in Greenock, and a man who had heard him met a friend on his way home.

"Where were you tonight, Sandy?" asked the friend.

"Well, I was hearing that man Wilson free Edinburgh," replied Sandy, "and he said that all the mischief done to mankind was by those Macgobbs' misdeeds. 'I can well believe that,' said the friend, 'they were always a dirty clan.'—Dundee Advertiser.

A New Name For It.

A lady living in Dorchester recently left her new maid in charge of the house while she went shopping. Among her purchases was an umbrella. In a stand for the vestibule. After her shopping tour she paid a visit to a friend and did not arrive home until late.

"Well, Mary," she said, "did any packages come?"

"Yes, ma'am," was the reply. "The wagon can hold the cushions for the umbrellas."—Boston Transcript.

What About Mother?

Little Marion took a great fancy to her father's baldheaded friend and, jumping upon his knees, began smoothing his shiny pate with the greatest satisfaction. Suddenly she paused and leaned over to peer into his face. While she inquired sympathetically.

"And hasn't got any little curls at home to put on?" Woman's Home Companion.

Horrible Thought!

Mrs. Johnson, if you must send a trained nurse for my bachelor uncle, send a homely one. Doctor Jones sent a homely one. I would do it if I could, but all the homely ones have started to death.—Woman's Home Companion.

Evidences of It.

"That man is a broker."

"I thought he had a shabby build."

Radium.

Only about one-third of a grain of radium is produced from a ton of ore.
