MAY'S LANDING, N. J., SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1909.

What a blessing an up-to-date, progressive business firm can be to a community! Who has not noticed the general condition of a town from the appearance of the first store entered? If the proprietor is industrious and progressive, his store clean and bright as a new dollar and his wares attractively displayed, the impression made is very favorable indeed; but if the store is dingy and ill-kept, it denotes poor business, sometimes the fault of the community but more often of the proprietor himself. The merchant who has a clean, attractive store, with facilities for properly handling goods and satisfying his customers, will draw trade every time from his careless competitor, whose sole interest lies in converting everything he lays his hands on into gold. The merchant is to a great extent a public servant and he owes something to the community in which he thrives besides the honest pound. May's Landing is fortunate in having some live, progressive business men who are a real credit to the community and who are doing their part to advance local business standards. These men are bound to succeed, for they earn the gratitude of their customers and deserve patronage. They are in the best sense an indication of the spirit and progressiveness of the municipality.

Atlantic City will shortly be in a position to secure the National Convention of the Grand Army of the Republic next year. The Legislature has passed a bill legalizing an appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars to assist the resort in booking the convention, which will be one of the largest ever held in this State if it can be secured, as seems altogether probable. Senator Edward A. Wilson and Assemblyman Martin E. Keffer placed the matter before the Legislature in a manner that showed they were alive to the situation. The entire State will share in the distinction of entertaining the convention, which will soon be a matter of history. Every year the number of veterans grows less and their ranks weaker, but they rally with all their old-time enthusiasm to the annual convention, where comrades who fought side by side forty-six years ago gather to recount adventures and transact the business of their organization. Atlantic City should have the honor of entertaining the remnants of the magnificent army of '63, the army to which New Jersey, although one of the smallest States, contributed most generously.

It is not uncommon to hear the question: "Why should we spend money on our public roads for the use of automobiles?" It is a question easily answered—because it pays. May's Landing furnishes an example of the results attendant upon well kept roads. It is true that the automobilists seldom stop to spend money, but who will say that the increased trade resulting from improved roads has not been of great benefit to the municipality and the Township at large? The new Downtown boulevard was the direct result of automobile travel, and for the same reason a new road will be constructed in the near future to Tuckahoe. These, together with the other magnificent highways connecting the County Seat with Philadelphia, Atlantic City and other municipalities and portions of the State combine to materially enhance the value of the property through which they run. The money spent in New Jersey on public roads for the convenience of automobilists has redounded to the good of the entire commonwealth and has contributed largely to the general welfare of its people.

It is unfortunate that there should be so much agitation over the local option question at this time, as there are several other matters pending in the Legislature of much more importance to the State at large. The defeat of the Plummer local option bill should have ended the matter this year, as it clearly indicated the will of the present Legislature. There is sufficient law on the statute books relative to excise matters to regulate the liquor traffic at present and if any changes are necessary the advocates of the movement will have their opportunity to express themselves when the proper time for consideration of the question arrives. That there will be nothing done at this session of the Legislature seems certain from the decisive defeat of the proposition, and any further agitation at this time is out of place.

An amendment of the school law has been effected whereby it is lawful for a member of the Board of Education to serve in the capacity of District Clerk, thereby saving the Townships throughout the State from appointing an outside person to act as clerk, which would have entailed an additional expense and would not have been as convenient in the smaller school districts. The amendment was justified and well advised.

Candidates for the gubernatorial campaign next Fall are already being suggested. The amendment to the State Constitution extending the term of the State Executive will materially aid in relieving the people of the commonwealth from the political turmoil attendant upon these campaigns every two years.

Spelling-bees may be old-fashioned but they are instructive. The public spelling-bee for the school children of Hamilton Township last Spring was very successful and the inspiration of the contest caused a noted improvement in orthography among the children of the several schools which participated. The bee will be repeated this year in very much the same manner and will no doubt be attended by as great a success as the one held last year. Spelling forms a prominent part of the curriculum of the Township schools and its study should be promoted by every possible means. One of the best and worthiest motives to encourage the student is the ambition to win one of the prizes offered by the Board of Education to the winners of the contest.

The municipal advance of May's Landing, as of every other municipality, rests with each and every citizen. If any material progress is to be made everybody must have a shoulder to the wheel and do his share of the pushing. The impulse towards better things must come from within, not without, and unless there is harmony of action little good will be accomplished. Harmony is the watchword, and if everyone will get together and work harmoniously for public progress there is no reason why May's Landing cannot become the foremost inland municipality of South Jersey. All it requires is concerted action—a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, and advance will be made by leaps and bounds.

The success of the operatic season in Philadelphia augurs well for the establishment of the City of Brotherly Love as one of the important musical centres of the world. It is no longer necessary for students to go to Europe to complete their musical education. American musicians are becoming more and more prominent among the masters. The tide is turning and the time is not far distant when America will be the Mecca for music students from the Old World.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

"President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, in a recent address declared that 'We cannot restrain the corporations of the nation until we punish the individuals responsible for violations of the law.' This is undoubtedly true. A corporation, though formed and conducted by men, can of itself do no wrong. The wrong, when committed, is committed by the officials of the corporation, sometimes individually and sometimes collectively. The policies of a corporation are the policies of its officers and directors. If it is corrupt, it is because it is corruptly managed. It seems that a man acting as an officer of a corporation may receive illegal rebates on behalf of the corporation and still be safe from personal punishment, but if the same act is committed by an individual, who operates his business in his own name and who is lacking corporate organization protection, the individual is liable for the consequences. The corporation, it appears, is thus invited to police crime to a number of dollars and cents. I think that by a system of rebating it can earn more money than it can possibly be fined under the maximum penalty of the law, why, putting moral consideration aside, should it not go in for rebating or any other illegal or dishonest method of making money at the expense of the people? And such being the case, why prosecute corporations at all so long as we cannot reach the men behind them? Mr. Wilson is right. The regulation of corporations will never be a complete success until the individuals behind them are held responsible for violations of the law."—West Jersey Press.

"The assaults made upon Governor Fort by some of the democratic newspapers in New Jersey, because of his attitude towards the law of 1906, under which a great share of the railroad tax goes to the public schools, are contemptible. At no time has Governor Fort shown any other than a selfless regard for the public schools. He has faced a serious situation courageously, and, we believe, wisely."

"When democratic newspapers say that he has planned to 'raid' or 'grab' the school fund, they deliberately misrepresent him and his policy. The public schools have no better friend in the State or out of it than is Governor Fort. As the son of a farmer, the foundation of his education was laid in the public school. As a patriot he stands for the public school, and he rightly believes that this institution should not be dragged into politics."

"He knows the financial condition of the State. He knows what the needs of the treasury are. He knows what the needs of the State institutions are, and, in our opinion, he has met the emergency with a wise suggestion."

"But the democratic editor who is trying to manufacture political ammunition for his party, goes about his task with no regard for personal character."—Tribune State Herald.

"New Jersey has witnessed its last legal hanging. The sole remaining member to execute his crime upon the gallows went to his death at New Brunswick last week. Hereafter and until the death penalty is abolished capital punishment will be inflicted at the State Prison and electricity will be the agent of death. The substitution of the chair for the noose has been pronounced highly successful from a humanitarian viewpoint and the designation of a central place at which all executions within the State must take place, has proved to be a wise move. There has been some of the hurrying scenes or the scene of the execution in the rural communities such as frequently used to be reported when condemned murderers were put to death in the county jails, now that the death penalty is usually paid far away from the scene of the crime as well as of the subsequent trial and that a reasonable amount of secrecy surrounds the execution."

"Notwithstanding all this there is a very considerable and intelligent element which disapproves of capital punishment and would do what it could to hasten the day when the law's demand of life for a life taken with premeditation shall be fulfilled. Some of us may live to see the abolishment of the electric chair, just as we witnessed the passing of the gallows in New Jersey last week, but public sentiment does not favor any change at this time."—Mt. Holly Mirror.

"The determination of a number of Republican members of the House to have amendments made if possible to the schedules relating to iron, coal, iron ore, hides and lumber threatens the adoption of a closure rule in order to get an early vote on the Payne tariff bill. The proposition of these members is to have a rule adopted by which no amendments will be permitted to the bill except those favorably reported by the Ways and Means Committee. If the Ways and Means agree and the Ways and Means are likewise agreeable, the amendments of the schedules referred to will be reported to the House and very probably adopted. In that event, there should be prompt passage of the bill by the House, and the Senate begin its consideration early next week. The amendments already reported to the House would not facilitate the discussion in the Senate, for it is over these schedules the latter is expected to have a prolonged fight. The bill has been materially amended since first reported, all by the Committee on Ways and Means, and it continues to meet the latest demands of Congressmen on behalf of their constituency. The closure will be adopted and a vote on the bill be had this week. There is really little opposition to its passage, even that of the Democrats being of a perfunctory sort."—Camden Daily Courier.

"The New Jersey Legislature is carrying out in good faith the tri-State agreement for the passage of uniform laws for the taking of fish from the waters of Delaware river and bay and we are informed that the Pennsylvania Legislature is taking similar action, but that Delaware has failed so far to carry out its part of the compact. With the Legislatures of the three States now in session there is no good excuse for not closing up the matter this year. If the Delaware Legislature do not intend to complete the work of the tri-State commission their reasons for not passing the bills should be communicated to the other two States that are upholding their part of the measures. It would be too bad if after all the preliminary work and preparation of a compact for the benefit of the Delaware fishing industry the scheme should fail by reason of non-action on the part of the State that has the smallest interest in the matter."—Camden Post-Telegram.

"It is queer how quickly the foreign immigrants keep tab on the condition of prosperity and good times in the United States. As soon as there are signs of hard times in the United States, these people, who are understood not to read the papers and keep posted on events, rush back to their own country by the thousands, says an exchange. But not sooner is there indication of improvement than they are the first to hear of it, and back they come."

"There is no better harbinger of the condition of affairs in the United States than Ellis Island. Now the tide of immigration has turned this way again, and that is a sure sign that the times are about to permanently improve. Immigrants are arriving by the thousands by every steamer, and a very large proportion of them are people who have been here before."—Bridgton Evening News.
