

CONSCRIPTION ARMY SOON TO BE MUSTERED FOR ACTIVE SERVICE

NUMBER DRAWING TO TAKE PLACE AT WASHINGTON IN FEW DAYS

THOSE LIABLE MUST BE POSTED THEIR DUTY TO RESPOND IF THEY ARE NOTIFIED OR NOT

BIG TASK FOR EXEMPTION BOARDS REQUIRED TO PASS ON ALL EXCUSED BY DRAFT REGULATIONS

All young men of conscription age, who registered June 5, should familiarize themselves at once with the number assigned them by the County Board of Exemptions, as indicated in the list published below, so they will know, when word comes from the government as to what numbers have been drawn for service, whether they are among those called.

Those numbers will be drawn at Washington. The numbers are not those appearing on the blue registration cards given to those registered, but those assigned by the Exemption Board.

Everyone drawn must present themselves on the time set for physical examinations and if they believe they should be exempted for any cause, it is up to them to file a claim of exemption.

The law places the whole burden of knowledge of numbers and presenting themselves at the proper place and time upon the individuals. Notice will be mailed to each one drawn, but failure to receive these will be no excuse.

Whether you file a claim of exemption or not, you must present yourself for physical examination on the day named in the notice. From the day notice that you are called is mailed and posted you have seven days in which you may file a claim of exemption.

If you wish to claim exemption, go to the board and get a copy of Form No. 110 and after filling this in, file it with the board. Those entitled to exemption are: State or Federal officer, minister, already in naval or military service, subject of Germany, or resident alien.

If you wish to make a claim for discharge, fill in Form No. 121 and file it. Grounds for discharge that will be given consideration by the board are: county or municipal officers, employed in postal service, workman in arsenal, etc., mariner, married with dependents, single with dependents, etc.

These are the only grounds for exemption or discharge by a local board. Claims for exemption for occupation must be made to the district board, for which blank forms can be secured from the local board. Appeals can be filed from the district board to the district board within ten days after notice given by the local board that one has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

Notice that you have been selected for military service will not necessarily order you into service. The notice to report will come when the government is ready to receive you. If you are allowed a certificate of exemption or discharge, remember that this certificate may be recalled at any time.

- Those liable to be called from Hamilton Township, with their names as assigned by the Exemption Board, are as follows: 775 George Aumack, 776 George Aumack, 777 Maurice Aaron, 778 Walter Bouall, 779 Walter Bouall, 780 John Bonnell, 781 John Bonnell, 782 John Bonnell, 783 John Bonnell, 784 John Bonnell, 785 John Bonnell, 786 John Bonnell, 787 John Bonnell, 788 John Bonnell, 789 John Bonnell, 790 John Bonnell, 791 John Bonnell, 792 John Bonnell, 793 John Bonnell, 794 John Bonnell, 795 John Bonnell, 796 John Bonnell, 797 John Bonnell, 798 John Bonnell, 799 John Bonnell, 800 John Bonnell, 801 John Bonnell, 802 John Bonnell, 803 John Bonnell, 804 John Bonnell, 805 John Bonnell, 806 John Bonnell, 807 John Bonnell, 808 John Bonnell, 809 John Bonnell, 810 John Bonnell, 811 John Bonnell, 812 John Bonnell, 813 John Bonnell, 814 John Bonnell, 815 John Bonnell, 816 John Bonnell, 817 John Bonnell, 818 John Bonnell, 819 John Bonnell, 820 John Bonnell, 821 John Bonnell, 822 John Bonnell, 823 John Bonnell, 824 John Bonnell, 825 John Bonnell, 826 John Bonnell, 827 John Bonnell, 828 John Bonnell, 829 John Bonnell, 830 John Bonnell, 831 John Bonnell, 832 John Bonnell, 833 John Bonnell, 834 John Bonnell, 835 John Bonnell, 836 John Bonnell, 837 John Bonnell, 838 John Bonnell, 839 John Bonnell, 840 John Bonnell, 841 John Bonnell, 842 John Bonnell, 843 John Bonnell, 844 John Bonnell, 845 John Bonnell, 846 John Bonnell, 847 John Bonnell, 848 John Bonnell, 849 John Bonnell, 850 John Bonnell, 851 John Bonnell, 852 John Bonnell, 853 John Bonnell, 854 John Bonnell, 855 John Bonnell, 856 John Bonnell, 857 John Bonnell, 858 John Bonnell, 859 John Bonnell, 860 John Bonnell, 861 John Bonnell, 862 John Bonnell, 863 John Bonnell, 864 John Bonnell, 865 John Bonnell, 866 John Bonnell, 867 John Bonnell, 868 John Bonnell, 869 John Bonnell, 870 John Bonnell, 871 John Bonnell, 872 John Bonnell, 873 John Bonnell, 874 John Bonnell, 875 John Bonnell, 876 John Bonnell, 877 John Bonnell, 878 John Bonnell, 879 John Bonnell, 880 John Bonnell, 881 John Bonnell, 882 John Bonnell, 883 John Bonnell, 884 John Bonnell, 885 John Bonnell, 886 John Bonnell, 887 John Bonnell, 888 John Bonnell, 889 John Bonnell, 890 John Bonnell, 891 John Bonnell, 892 John Bonnell, 893 John Bonnell, 894 John Bonnell, 895 John Bonnell, 896 John Bonnell, 897 John Bonnell, 898 John Bonnell, 899 John Bonnell, 900 John Bonnell, 901 John Bonnell, 902 John Bonnell, 903 John Bonnell, 904 John Bonnell, 905 John Bonnell, 906 John Bonnell, 907 John Bonnell, 908 John Bonnell, 909 John Bonnell, 910 John Bonnell, 911 John Bonnell, 912 John Bonnell, 913 John Bonnell, 914 John Bonnell, 915 John Bonnell, 916 John Bonnell, 917 John Bonnell, 918 John Bonnell, 919 John Bonnell, 920 John Bonnell, 921 John Bonnell, 922 John Bonnell, 923 John Bonnell, 924 John Bonnell, 925 John Bonnell, 926 John Bonnell, 927 John Bonnell, 928 John Bonnell, 929 John Bonnell, 930 John Bonnell, 931 John Bonnell, 932 John Bonnell, 933 John Bonnell, 934 John Bonnell, 935 John Bonnell, 936 John Bonnell, 937 John Bonnell, 938 John Bonnell, 939 John Bonnell, 940 John Bonnell, 941 John Bonnell, 942 John Bonnell, 943 John Bonnell, 944 John Bonnell, 945 John Bonnell, 946 John Bonnell, 947 John Bonnell, 948 John Bonnell, 949 John Bonnell, 950 John Bonnell, 951 John Bonnell, 952 John Bonnell, 953 John Bonnell, 954 John Bonnell, 955 John Bonnell, 956 John Bonnell, 957 John Bonnell, 958 John Bonnell, 959 John Bonnell, 960 John Bonnell, 961 John Bonnell, 962 John Bonnell, 963 John Bonnell, 964 John Bonnell, 965 John Bonnell, 966 John Bonnell, 967 John Bonnell, 968 John Bonnell, 969 John Bonnell, 970 John Bonnell, 971 John Bonnell, 972 John Bonnell, 973 John Bonnell, 974 John Bonnell, 975 John Bonnell, 976 John Bonnell, 977 John Bonnell, 978 John Bonnell, 979 John Bonnell, 980 John Bonnell, 981 John Bonnell, 982 John Bonnell, 983 John Bonnell, 984 John Bonnell, 985 John Bonnell, 986 John Bonnell, 987 John Bonnell, 988 John Bonnell, 989 John Bonnell, 990 John Bonnell, 991 John Bonnell, 992 John Bonnell, 993 John Bonnell, 994 John Bonnell, 995 John Bonnell, 996 John Bonnell, 997 John Bonnell, 998 John Bonnell, 999 John Bonnell, 1000 John Bonnell.

EMPLOYERS OR FRIENDS MAY ASK FOR EXEMPTION Many Young Men Called Will Be Needed At Home.

The following statement relative to exemptions under the selective draft has been issued by Gen. E. H. Crowder, Provost Marshal: "The attention of this office has been directed to the possibility that many cases of registered persons whose circumstances are such that the positions should be exempted will never be brought to the attention of local board districts because the registrant or friend shrinks from taking any initiative in the matter. "The fact of each case must, in no manner be brought to the attention of the board. "The regulations provide that this may be done, first, by the registrant himself, second, by any third person who has knowledge of the facts and with or without the knowledge of the registrant. In either case the boards are directed to conduct the investigation. "The board can also make exemptions or discharge in proper cases under the claim made by the registrant or by some other persons in respect of the registrant. "Third persons and especially employers ought to keep in mind, however, that the law makes no exemptions in the interest of individuals except as the interest of individuals coincide with the interests of the nation."

PAST SIX MONTHS BEST IN HISTORY OF LOCAL BANK

First National's Business Continues To Steadily Increase.

Stockholders and officers of the First National Bank of this place are more than pleased with its steadily increasing business, which during the last six months was the greatest for any like period in its history. The bank was opened April 1, 1907, only a little more than ten years ago, and to date its net earnings amount to $44,810.68. The latest reports of the bank, made June 20, showed total resources of $738,745.46. Time deposits were shown to be $181,723.31 and deposits subject to check $129,721.06.

In the ten years of its existence, this young institution, with a capital stock of $25,000, has declared dividends amounting to $12,500; paid out its banking house and fixtures $10,818.82; turned back to its surplus fund $15,000 and has $5,000 undivided profits on hand.

Thomas, of Woodbury, will be present next Monday evening and install the following newly-elected officers of May's Landing Council No. 113, Order United American Mechanics: Councilor—Thomas Hubert. Vice-Councilor—Joseph Wigglesworth. Financial Secretary—D. W. McClure. Treasurer—L. W. Shamer. Secretary—H. W. Cramer. Industrial—Job Smallwood. Examiners—Benjamin Cain. Outside Protector—Richard Aumack. Trustee—Joseph Wigglesworth.

Sup. Charles L. Kern received word this week that the new steam turbine and generator for the mill, to take the place of the old engine, has been shipped. This will generate electric current to operate motors throughout the industry and to drive with shaft and belts.

CONDITIONS FAVORABLE FOR BUMPER CROPS PRESERVE WHAT CANNOT BE USED OR SOLD—OTHER FARM NOTES

Providence seems to be with the Jersey gardeners this season. Crops are coming along nicely and insect pests are not nearly so troublesome as usual. There has undoubtedly been a great deal of waste in seed, fertilizer and time on the part of amateur gardeners, but on the whole there is a big increase in acreage planted and the yield promises to be generous. Very little waste will be permitted as winter crops will be canned or dried for next Spring's use.

It is too late now to set cabbage that requires a long growing season. Short season cabbage, savoy cabbage and cauliflower may be set from now until August 1. Do not set cabbage where cabbage, cauliflower or turnips were grown last season.

When the tops of onions have fallen down it is time to harvest the crop. They should be dried in the sun a few hours and then stored in a dry place where they will be away from direct light and spread out so a free circulation of air is possible. These onions will not keep well for Winter use so it is advisable to use them this Summer.

After the pea vines have produced their crop the vines should be plowed under because they furnish plant food and humus for the Fall crops which may be planted upon the soil where the peas grew. Some home gardeners like to plant a late crop of peas to develop during the cool weather of the Fall. For this purpose the quick maturing small vined varieties are best adapted, such as instance as Little Marvel, American Wonder and Nott's Excelsior. The best time to do the planting is during the very first part of August.

Tomatoes are an important crop for Winter use because they may be stored very easily. These are sowed in drills about 14 inches apart and one pound of good seed is enough for an acre; therefore a packet of seed should be enough for any home gardener, provided it is planted in any one half inch deep. After the seedlings are growing they should be thinned out to stand two inches apart in the row. The crop will develop well unless the little green aphids cover the under side of the leaves and destroy the plants. However, tobacco dust sprinkled directly upon these insects will check their development. The yellow varieties of tomatoes should be planted by August first while the white varieties need not be planted until August 10th.

The N. J. Agricultural College has perfected a method for controlling root maggots, an ailment of which will be furnished to anyone interested upon application. Shade your young chicks during the hot Summer days and keep the water supply fresh and plentiful if you want good results.

Plowing under cowpeas and soybeans is a good substitute for manure. Seed may be obtained for $4.00 a bushel. These can be sowed after other potatoes are dug, or other early crops harvested. Sowing after August 10th seldom pays in this section of the State so quick action should be taken.

SEVERAL FIND THE WAY OF TRANSGRESSORS' IS HARD

One Sent To State Prison By Judge Shinn At Special Session.

A sentence of not less than one or more than seven years at hard labor in State Prison was imposed Wednesday by Judge C. S. Shinn, at the monthly special criminal court session, on George Thurston, colored, who attacked his employer, M. Wallins, with a razor. Wallins' wife found fault with Thurston and her husband ordered him to leave. An altercation followed in which bricks were thrown and Thurston finally resorted to his razor, inflicting serious wounds.

Robert Clements, charged with the larceny of clothing, was found not guilty, but sentenced to three months in the county jail for violation of parole on a previous charge. Joseph Mullin had a similar surprise when he was acquitted of larceny but sent to Italyway for violation of his parole.

Misrepresenting himself as an old soldier, P. A. Tachee secured lodging and money from Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder, of Newfield, where the old man was taken and his money arrested. Admitted by Judge Shinn, he was released on probation on his promise to leave the State.

Clara Ford, colored, convicted several weeks ago of stealing "dope," were released on their promise to leave the drug store. Two conductors, W. W. Gilbert and Guy Bradford, pleaded guilty to defrauding the Ross Fast Line by keeping false collected. Gilbert is in very poor health and the Court withheld judgment, permitting him to go with his parents to regard his health. It will be under surveillance and will be brought up for sentence later. Sentence was reserved on Bradford.

George Wyatt, colored, was acquitted on the charge of atrocious assault on his sweetheart, Gease Taylor. It appeared that the dusky Gease had tried to "carve" him and had been out with her own knife in the attempt. Robert Taylor, an elderly man, pleaded guilty to unlawful conversion of $327.14 from A. Salus & Sons. Sentence will be passed July 25.

Hugh H. Marsh, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the garage of Peter Hensler at Hammoncton, will be sentenced July 25. John Fowler, a colored boy, was sent to Italyway for breaking into Upham's Bakery. Melvin Colder, colored, was acquitted on the charge of receiving a watch, knowing it to have been stolen. He convinced the Court that he did not know the watch was handed to him by a thief to pawn.

Mr. Turbine Shipped. Sup. Charles L. Kern received word this week that the new steam turbine and generator for the mill, to take the place of the old engine, has been shipped. This will generate electric current to operate motors throughout the industry and to drive with shaft and belts.

HOUSEWIVES URGED TO JOIN FOOD CONSERVATION ARMY Wheat And Meat Must Be Used More Sparingly By All.

Two weeks of vigorous work for the local branches of the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense have been planned. This is the taking of a census of the housewives of the State, which is to be done at the request of Mr. Herbert Hoover, National Food Administrator. The object of the enrollment is to enlist housewives in solving the food problems which our country is facing not only for itself but for that of the countries of the world. Wheat and meat must be used more sparingly and appetitively offered on the family table. A tag will be sent to each housewife who enrolls, which can be hung in the window of her home to show that her family is doing its bit to conserve food.

In order to facilitate the work of organizing every one of the three hundred and ninety-four municipalities of New Jersey, the twenty county counties were divided among six Vice-Chairmen of the Division with instructions to meet in each at once with the Mayor or Township Committee Chairman, of each city, town, borough, or township in her district and assist him in every way possible to complete at once the organizing of the women of his municipality into a local Unit of the State Division.

Cards to be used in taking this census have already been sent from Trenton to the executive head of each municipality, and these will be turned over to the branches of the Woman's Council as quickly as they are formed in each town.

Not everyone could buy a Liberty Bond; every woman can enroll her household under the Housewife Tag.

PICTURESQUE WEYMOUTH POPULAR WITH AUTOISTS

Nothing Like It Can Be Found Elsewhere in South Jersey. Picturesque old Weymouth is the end of the run for many autists these Summer days, especially Sundays, when numerous machines make their way up the shaded, winding road. The crumbling stone walls of the old paper mills, emerging from underbrush and overgrown with vines; the rushing, whirling waters of the foam-flecked stream below, and over all the spreading branches of the stately old oak trees, form a beautiful scene worth traveling far to see. Such scenes are not at all common in South Jersey, little of which was settled when Weymouth was a flourishing village, the wheels of its chief industry turning out tons upon tons of paper.

Iron foundries, too, formed an important industry and the wealth of ore in the vicinity was scarcely touched. There are still acres and acres of iron ore in the neighborhood, cropping out at unexpected places. Some day these natural resources may again be utilized and the settlement hum with the sound of machinery.

Weymouth is one of the few spots in this vicinity the rustic beauty of which the hand of progress has not yet touched. Homesites from the railroad is in a large measure responsible for this, for in these days when transportation is such a vital factor in almost any business, several miles distance from a station is a certain disadvantage. The growing popularity of the drive with autists, however, promises to end the comparative isolation of the village and as good roads follow the automobile, no doubt in the near future straight, wide, speedways will be built as elsewhere in the county and the pleasant, winding, shaded and other old roads will be left to the tourists.

Weymouth is a pretty and quaint little town, one cannot but feel regret at the prospect of any change. But doubtless its people are eager to see it resume its industrial activity, to feel that they are taking a more active part in the outer world's hurried strife. Doubtless their wishes will one day be fully gratified, but then Weymouth will no longer be the Weymouth of today and the county will have lost one of its most beautiful and attractive spots, one whose very isolation from the busy arteries of highways and boulevards and telephones is a night distinction.

NIGHTMARES AT SUGAR HILL

Rude Awakening For Owners of Vegetable Gardens. Things happened in the night last Thursday at Sugar Hill and as they took place residents of that quiet suburb, looked from sweet slumbers by mysterious steeds cowering in their backyards and rampaging in the gloom beneath bedroom windows, at first wondering and then grew mad and then madder as the midnight visitors tramped through gardens and played havoc with their vegetables.

All night long they called them anything but snookytinks and some rolled protesting out of bed to shy at them as animals, sleepily wondering if it was early evening storm had rained horses in with cats and dogs. In the morning they found the animals had strayed from a gypsy camp near the old glove factory building, where the mosquitoes pestered them so badly they broke loose.

There were five wagonloads of the dusky wanderers, ranging from very dirty little cherubs to bewhiskered granddads, and among them were a number of gaudily attired females claiming the gift of insight into the future, for a consideration. They looked into the future of quite a number of credulous and credulous people, but their own future was rudely jarred by officers, who gave them until noon to move on. They likewise gave them the choice of having such things as arrests mixed up in their own futures unless they dug down into their greasy garments and produced real cash for damage done to gardens. They left quickly, after settling for damages, on their way to Delaware.

CIGARS TWENTY YEARS OLD Recall Days When Capt. Shep Hudson Sailed To Cuba.

Years ago, when Capt. Shep Hudson sailed the Jennie Sweeney, being between Cuba and Atlantic ports, his friends here were frequently obliged to eat the chef of fragrant Cuban cigars, which the Captain purchased from the natives and brought back from time to time. They were big and black and strong and—well, if you have ever blown through your nostrils the smoke of a genuine Cuban cigar, you will realize just how much the skipper's friends enjoyed them.

It has been at least twenty years since any of these redolent smokes found their way to the Landing and doubtless few who enjoyed them have recaptured the pleasure for some time. Doubtless, too, they will be greatly surprised to learn that some of these cigars are still extant, in a remarkable good state of preservation, better if anything by reason of their age.

Searching recently through some household stores that had long lain undisturbed, Mrs. William M. Mattox brought a chest of these cigars to light. They were in perfect condition. Mr. Mattox tried one and was surprised to find his nose expanded to its normal size, invited several friends to try a new brand and surprised them with the history of the cigars. They are at least twenty years old according to Mr. Mattox's reckoning.

LIFE AT MAY'S LANDING THIRTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO

Reprinted Items From "The Record" Of July 12, 1879. The schooner Weymouth, Capt. Coleman, arrived at this port Thursday night. Dr. Ben Abbott and Miss Nellie Powell, of Tuckahoe, were visitors on the Fourth. Charles Hoover, son of F. H. Hoover, spent the Fourth in the Landing and assisted the band by tooting the E flat. A large swing has been put up in the grove at Sugar Hill, which is a popular playground with the children. A fishing party consisting of Will Ingram, Billy Rogers, William Mattox and Dan Rape went to the bay Wednesday but had poor luck. Two prisoners escaped from the county jail by tearing up the floor and leaving themselves down into the kitchen. Miss Rita Whitaker, a former teacher in the public school, is visiting friends here. The schooner Sarah C. Wilson, Capt. Scull, arrived at this port Wednesday. July Fourth was the occasion of a great celebration here. A national salute was fired at daybreak, with a cannon furnished by Capt. Shep. Hudson from his vessel, the Jennie Sweeney. A burlesque cavalry parade, with Wesley Adams as marshal, preceded by the Cornet Band in their elegant band wagon drawn by four black horses driven by William Norcross, was a feature of the morning. The citizens' picnic was a great success. There were forty-eight young ladies, dressed in white, representing the states and territories. The thirteen original states were represented by that number of young ladies carrying a large flag. Mr. H. D. Hoffman was chief marshal and his assistants were M. R. Morse and W. H. Ingram, while Miss Ella Rape and Miss Mayhew had charge of the little girls in line. After the parade there was a meeting in the grove, where Mr. Meli R. Morse read the Declaration of Independence and delivered by Rev. George Wright. In the evening fireworks were set off from a scow anchored in the river at Sugar Hill. Joe Thompson and Wes Adams did the "setting off." Dinners and suppers were served in the grove.

War Taxes in 1864. The following paragraph is reprinted from the issue of August 20, 1864, of the "South Jersey Republican" and shows that war taxes were quite a personal affair in those days: "An appeal in person for Hamilton Township was held on the 10th inst. to devise means to raise the number of volunteers required under the last call. It was resolved to pay a bounty of $300 for three year men and in the same proportion for shorter terms of enlistment. It was also resolved to assess a tax of $15 on every male of 20 years and upwards, to be collected in 50 days."

The Owner's Unexpected Return

Did He See a Ghost?

By PAULINE D. EDWARDS

"The Society For Psychical Research is doing some good work lately," said Gilbert to his friend Slade as they sat beside the open fire.

"I never believed in ghosts—until last year," he said quietly. "What happened last year?" Slade's face was skeptical.

"Where had you been dining?" laughed Slade. "I hadn't dined at all. I came down to the Elms quite unexpectedly. I wanted to look up some papers that I knew to be in the library.

"My plan was to dine at the village inn, go up to the Elms, spend the evening searching for the papers, sleep in my old room and take the first train to town after breakfast.

"It was nearly 1 o'clock when I entered the avenue, and I was surprised to find the iron gates of the drive wide open.

"It was a dark night. The stars shone bright, and a young moon threw a thin silver veil of light in the open spaces.

"You may not believe me, John, but my house was a blaze of light from basement to cupola, and from behind the lighted windows came the strains of an orchestra, while forms floated to and fro in swaying rhythm to the waltz melody.

"As I stood rooted to the spot the church clock in the village struck once, and as if by magic the music ceased, and all motion stopped behind the thin curtains.

"An instant later every light in the house died out as if extinguished by some mighty breath. I ran up the steps and tried my key in the great lock. It yielded, and the heavy door swung outward to my touch.

"I threw a ray of light about the great entrance hall and reached for the button to switch on the electric lights. The button clicked without response.

"A search of the drawing room and library revealed the same condition. The current was out and probably had been since the departure of the caretaker.

"I lit the large oil lamp on the library table. It was an easy matter to dig out the documents I wanted and stare from them my leather bag.

"This was my last look at the place. As I stepped out the door I saw a flash of light and a white streak, fresh and faint, on the wall behind me.

"This was my last look at the place. As I stepped out the door I saw a flash of light and a white streak, fresh and faint, on the wall behind me.

"When I turned back to the table the handkerchief was gone.

"With hardly a thought as to whether I was seeking shadow or substance I thrust the door in my pocket, and snatching up my pocket electric, I hastened into the hall.

"Down the grand staircase she vanished, this time with little clinking heels on the polished floor. I held her steadily in my ray of light and was after her like a flash.

It is needless to say that I took the first train to town.

"You didn't search the house, make any effort to discover whether the intruder was spook or human—didn't you do anything?"

"Nary thing. I went abroad the following week and at times forgot the incident. A few days ago it came back to me, and so I invited you down to spend this night with me at the Elms."

"Why this particular night?" demanded Slade suspiciously.

"Because it's the anniversary of my adventure with Viola," replied Gilbert coolly.

"I suspect you have lost your heart to this Viola, as you call her. Was she so lovely?"

"She was perfect," said Gilbert sincerely. "Her hair was that dusky black that frames the face mightily, you know; her eyes were almost golden and her brows fine and black like her hair; but her coloring, her features, her form—oh, I say, Slade, I can't see her face out of my mind."

"Slade lighted a fresh cigar. 'I must tell you an incident of the same sort that happened to a friend of mine,' he said solemnly, 'and it may serve to throw light on your own affair.'

"Out with it," said Gilbert briefly. "It's only 10 o'clock now. You have till midnight, John."

"This man owned a grand old place in the country, but he was a bachelor and never looked at it.

"There was a young cousin of the man's, a girl who was a beauty and a poet. Her name I don't remember, but she was married and had a child for another. This girl was up to all sorts of mischief and pranks and carried a lot of scattered-around good-will with her in many a hard-earned apple.

"She got the idea of giving a ball in the old mansion of her cousin. Now, I have not the slightest doubt that the man would have gladly consented to turn the house over for such a metropolitan ball if they asked him.

"And so one night when the moon was young and the aged caretaker off on several great auto-mobiles rolled up to the big avenue, and the man's cousin and her friends and their retinue of clippers trooped through a side entrance and made their way to the great ballroom on the second floor.

"The room had been cleaned in some mysterious manner, and when the electric chandeliers were alight and the polished floor stretched forth an inviting surface the small orchestra they had brought tuned up, and the fun began.

"Several servants unpacked refreshments in an anteroom while the young people danced and between dances wandered over the grand old house lit from top to bottom by Laura's."

"Laura!" shouted Gilbert, but Slade interrupted.

"Hold on there, Dan! I didn't mean to make a slip. The house was lit up and the dancing was going on and everything was going along fine when suddenly a noise was heard among them. The staff came from the depot, who had in their hands a letter, came to see that the owner had arrived at the station, and was on his way to the house. He had jumped on his wheel and sped to the message.

"The woman, I said, and with a judgment on the bright side, she took the light and plunged the house in total darkness. Before a search could be made for candles and lamps the front door was opened and the intruder, a young man, came in. After awhile the library door opened, and all was quiet.

"The man, I said, and the staff came from the depot, who had in their hands a letter, came to see that the owner had arrived at the station, and was on his way to the house. He had jumped on his wheel and sped to the message.
