The expenditure of a larger amount for a new fire-proof education of the coming generation in the best post resembles Kipling's when he says: sible manner, and surely no one can say that repairs to the antiquated old building, which has outlived its usefulness, are the best we can afford.

This is no occasion for the display of parsimomious principles. Rather is it one for the exercise of honest, intelligent judgment and progressive patriotism. It is true that the present building can be repaired, but that is not the best that can be done. The only rational, logical, economical thing to do is to build a modern new fire-proof school house which will be a credit to ourselves and a blessing to posterity. There is no alternative if we are to be fair to the workingman, honest with ourselves and loyal public improvements.

Atlantic

Phýsicians all over the country send patients to Atlantic City. The wind blows all the time there either from the land or sea, of course. If it is from the water side it is full of ozone and invigorating. If it comes from the land it sweeps through many miles of pine woods before it reaches the grand oceanwalk and also is beneficial. A week at Atlantic City does any one good if he takes it easy. Go to bed at the proper hour, spend all the day and night on the promenade, don't rush-just stroll; eat all you can, and at the end of a week you'll be cured of any ills that may have afflicted you.

And she is as quick as a bird and the prettiest dancer."

"Can she cook?" "Well, I don't know, but she can do everything else. You see, there are so many in her family that it's hard to tell just who does do the work. I know she can sew, for she showed me a dress last night that she made."

After the supper work was done and John had gone off whistling Mary sat down by the fire "O God, give me strength to bear it?" she prayed hereely, holding tight to the arms of the chair, then relaxing in a sudden burst of resentful tears. "How can hehow can be bring that girl here-that Kitty?" run her rebellious thoughts, and she forgot about her prayer. "Why, her very name sounds good for nothing. Mary would have given all she possessed to recall those words. A sort of hopelessness came over her. If she could control herself no better than that now, what would she do later?

If she only could be sure that the girl would be sensible! From John's [Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary description it didn't seem as if she could possibly be. "He has lost his head over some little flirt," she told herself, "and I can't stop him. I wonafraid not.

No Plenic. A Junction City man told of a remark made by a woman at whose home a number of people took supper one night during a political campaign "Wot's up?" eatled back mine surly in Sumner county. This particular woman, though young in years, was the mother of seven children. Naturally the children were reasonably close to one size. When the "campaigners" went into the woman's house one of them noticed the bunch of children and said to the woman in a friendly way, "These all yours, or is this a picuic?" "They are all mine." she replied wearlly, "and it's no pie- Diamonds. nic."-Kansas City Journal.
