

DEFENDERS FRUSTRATE PRISONER'S ATTEMPT TO REGAIN LIBERTY

SENTENCED TO ONE YEAR HE BECOMES DESPERATE

SPECIAL COURT SESSION HELD

Judge Shinn Disposes Of Numerous Evildoers Who Waive Right Of Indictment And Jury Trial—Several Placed In Charge Of Probation Officer.

Sentenced to a term of one year in State Prison for assaulting his wife, Ernest Reed, colored, attempted to escape Wednesday morning last and was with difficulty captured from carrying out his purpose, requiring the combined efforts of court officers to handcuff him and carry him back to the County prison.

Thomas Galliere was adjudged guilty by Judge C. G. Shinn, who held a special session, of stealing $2,000 in cash from beneath the pillow of Mrs. Eva Berford, who with her husband and children were spending a few days at the seashore. The defendant denied the charge, swearing he was intoxicated and did not know the money was there, but was made to introduce Mrs. Berford's alleged wife by questioning him in the morning and making him guardian of her children, but the Court would not hear this evidence. Sentence was reserved.

Other cases disposed of by Judge Shinn were as follows:

John Smith, "film-fam game" on Mrs. Lucy Murray, adjudged guilty, sentenced to not less than one or more than seven years in State Prison.

Henry Taylor, who pleaded guilty to receiving a $20 diamond ring which he knew had been stolen from Laura Reed, was sentenced to six months in the County Jail.

Matilda Tucker pleaded not guilty to the larceny of $7.00 from Mrs. Jennie Doyle by whom she was employed, but was adjudged guilty and was sentenced to three months in the County Jail.

Charles Anderson, who was released on probation Wednesday of last week by Judge Shinn and who violated the same evening when found prowling about the hotel of Christopher Smith, was sentenced to three months in the County Jail for violation of parole.

Charles A. Rooney, who pleaded guilty to committing an assault and battery on his wife, was given three months in the County Jail. Rooney declared that he was intoxicated at the time but the Court refused to accept the excuse.

Anthony Curtiss, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and stealing $3.50 was placed on probation for three years and required to pay $25 cents a week.

A like sentence was meted out to Reuben Rodenhorn, who admitted that he had robbed the clothing of a fellow laborer in one of the bathing establishments. He was also ordered to make restitution.

Harry J. Alston, who pleaded guilty to the larceny of several articles from E. J. Walsh, was placed on probation for three years and required to pay fifty cents a week during this period.

Honore Still, who entered the same plea to a charge of atrocious assault and battery was given a similar sentence. He stabbed a companion during a drunken brawl.

Edward W. Smith, who set his own house on fire by upsetting the stove while intoxicated, was placed on probation for three years and required to pay $25 cents a week.

John J. Smith, who was charged with the larceny of a diamond ring, on her promise to change her mode of living and return to her husband and baby.

George E. Gordon, pleading guilty to obtaining money under false pretense, was sentenced to Rahway Reformatory. Harold Scott was also sentenced to this institution for breaking and entering a barber shop and stealing cash and razors. Linwood Smith, admitting his guilt in receiving stolen goods, was also sent to the Reformatory.

The club also decided to buy, if possible, several of the old Atlantic City life-boats for use on the lake.

Did You See The "Yantij"

It happened last Sunday afternoon and if it has arrived by this time at its destination the driver must have a stiff neck. "It" refers, if you have guessed it, to an antiquated auto with a "Jantij" sign attached, which passed through town running backwards and at last reports was still backing down the Pleasantville road. Something must have happened to the gears for once or twice the driver massaged the links out of his neck and tried to get the machine to run forwards, to no avail. It kept backing like a stubborn mule. Several dozen residents got cracks in their own necks watching the two passengers in the vehicle calmly smoking their pipes, apparently unconcerned of the fact that the machine was running contrary to custom. In a half-hour it progressed through town and people are still wondering.

FARM EXCHANGES PAY SAYS DEMONSTRATOR

Great Saving In Cost of Seed and Fertilizer—Strawberry Weevil Can Be Controlled at Ten Dollars Per Acre.

Co-operation is the underlying thought of all successful farm operations. In the past the farmers have bought and sold regardless of their neighbors, but the time is coming when farmers, as well as merchants, must work together to secure the best results, says Elwood Douglas, the Atlantic County Farm Demonstrator.

"The Hon. William C. Voorhees, of Trenton, who is one of the original organizers of the Monmouth County Farmer's Exchange, gave a very interesting talk on co-operation at the Bargaintown Grange Tuesday evening last. He first told them of the Exchange growing out of the Grange after there was a feeling that the Exchange could broaden out and handle the selling as well as the buying end.

The first thing the Grange members did was to cooperate and buy their clover seed of the growers for just half the price they were paying for it from the seed men. After that they found they could buy feed and fertilizer and save from five to ten dollars on every ton. For instance, for the fertilizer they bought, already mixed, they paid from $30 to $38 per ton. After they began their co-operative buying, purchasing the raw materials and mixing at home, they mixed a better grade of fertilizer for $25 and $28 than the former price $30 to $38. While buying through the Grange the farmers saved $100,000.

Speaking of the Exchange, he said they have over 1,000 members, sold over 2,000 tons of fertilizer and did a business amounting to over one million dollars last year.

The work carried on last Spring to find some spray or dust to control the strawberry weevil was not completed until last Friday, the 23d, at which time Dr. T. J. Headlee, State Entomologist and Mr. Pough, of the Union Sulphur Company, assisted the County Demonstrator in dusting one-eighth of an acre to find the actual cost of applying material and cost of dust per acre. There was a new dust machine tried which proved very satisfactory and which covered an acre in less than an hour, counting the cost of material and one man's time. It will cost less than $10 to spray one acre of strawberries and it was proven the past season that by spraying the plants with a dust of least half of the crop and at least one-third of the crop. More complete details will be given to the farmers the coming Winter in the form of a circular or bulletin issued by Dr. Headlee and the County Demonstrator.

Peaches may do well on a wide range of soil types including even some of the modern heavy clay loams and clays. But whatever the type, a soil must be thoroughly well drained to be suitable for peaches. They will not succeed on poorly drained soils. It follows that the heavy clay types which are so hard and impervious that water does not percolate through them readily are to be avoided as a rule. Moreover, a soil should be moderately fertile. One very rich in nitrogen is not to be desired as a general rule, since it is likely to induce an excessive growth of foliage. On the other hand, the impression which is somewhat common that a light, infertile soil is "good enough for peaches" is erroneous.

Sweet garden peppers, either green or after they have turned color, are deservedly popular vegetables, whose use has become common throughout the United States rather recently. Another name for them is pimento. Sometimes it is called pimento, though this is not correct—pimento really meaning allspice. Sweet peppers can be grown easily in the garden and are a common market crop. They should have a place in the home vegetable plot, along with the sharp red peppers used for seasoning, pickles, etc., which they resemble in all respects except flavor, being mild, where the red peppers are biting.

Many recipes are given in a circular recently issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which is intended primarily for the canning clubs, but of no interest to housewives who wish to eat their peaches in the first part of the circular deals with the cultivation and growth of peppers. This circular may be had free upon application to the department.

The old definition by which a weed was called a plant out of place, while a very catchy phrase, does not apply to the present usage. The hundreds of wild plants which inhabit fields which is not planted to crops are in common usage called weeds; yet the vast majority of these plants are decidedly in place and are serving a useful purpose through adding organic matter to an impoverished soil. While ordinarily all these benefits may be realized through proper rotations, in the absence of the practice of such rotations these wild plants serve a useful purpose, and are "in place" yet usage which invariably determines a definition declares that they are weeds. They are weeds through the fact that they are wild and in the habit of interfering where not wanted, even though they may at some time serve a useful purpose.

Every city should have a farmers' public market place. It is only at such a place, declares Mr. A. L. Clark, of the New Jersey Experiment Station, "that farmers can compare their goods with that of their neighbors." It is at such a place that the housewife can learn of all the various kinds of fruits and vegetables. It is a common meeting place and as such is a great factor in bringing about better understanding between producer, distributor and consumer. It promotes economy, a socially neglected feature in American living.

Public markets are increasing and their popularity is growing. Cities and towns would do well to consider the question of market frequently and thoroughly. A closer cooperation on the part of city officials in the establishment of markets for the economical distribution of farm products should bring about a better condition of affairs.

Atlantic County orchard owners are urgently requested to attend demonstrations to be given Monday morning next on the Roberts and Barton orchards in Burlington County, by Prof. M. B. Waite and assistant, of the U. S. Department, who comes to New Jersey on the request of the Horticultural Society.

The Federal Treasury statement for Saturday, July 17, showed a balance of $71,051,268.96 in the Treasury and compared with $71,051,268.96 on the same date two years previous, under Republican laws. The deficit for the first 10 working days of the new fiscal year was $15,122,867.94, showing that the administration is running behind at the rate of $76,000 per day.

ONLY ONE DRIVER FINED FOR SPEEDING HIS AUTO

Good Order Prevailed During Heaviest Traffic This Season.

In spite of the heaviest auto traffic of the year, only one driver was fined over last Sunday, and good order prevailed among drivers of both motorcycles and autos. Chief Inspector Shinn was here part of the day and assisted the officers in regulating the traffic.

Ernest Rose, of Philadelphia, speeded his auto and was arrested by Constable Samuel Taylor. Magistrate J. A. Lambert imposed a fine of $5.00 and costs. Rose did not deny the charge but intimated that he felt enough at home in May's Landing to let out his machine a few notches because he was acquainted with a resident.

Mr. W. B. Morrison, of Danville, Va., was apprehended by Constable Taylor for speeding, but dismissed by Magistrate Lambert because of mitigating circumstances, likewise C. Stanley Harburt, of Philadelphia and Fred Hensel, of Esterville, the offense in each case not being flagrant.

Magistrate Lambert's policy of being as lenient as possible with drivers and giving them the benefit of the doubt has won him earnest praise from many motorists. In no case has a stiff fine been imposed, the object being to emphasize the fact that fines must be obeyed by drivers passing through May's Landing and not to secure any revenue. Fines imposed go to the State and are used for road maintenance.

"SHORT" BERRY BOXES DESTROYED BY SEALER

Four Thousand Found Illegal in Hammoncton Fields.

Four thousand berry boxes were destroyed at Hammoncton Tuesday last by E. W. Strickland, Sealer of Weights and Measures. The boxes had been shipped from a Philadelphia jobbing house and were distributed among twelve farms in and about Hammoncton.

Farmers in this position the boxes, which were filled with blackberries, and found, declared that they bought them in good faith and without the knowledge that they were illegal. Each of the boxes were found to be a half short of a quart, which they were supposed to contain. After having been emptied of their contents, the boxes were burned in the presence of the dealer.

This is the first violation of the weights and measures laws of this character that has come before the State officials within the past year or more. The department has brought about a general compliance with the new State laws requiring the use of none but receptacles of standard sizes and only in rare instances are attempts made to evade the laws.

Fertilizer For Cranberry Rootworm

The use of fertilizers will enable the cranberry plant to resist injury from the cranberry rootworm, according to a recent investigation conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This insect has only recently been found to feed upon the cranberry. The rootworm eats the bark away from the large and secondary roots of the cranberry plant and completely destroys the fibrous roots. Vines may land under the insect, although in a few instances the larvae have been found in peat bogs. The adult beetle feeds to some extent on the foliage and berries of the plants. This affords the grower the means of controlling the pest by spraying. Experiments have shown that the addition of 5 pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water in Bordeaux mixture will destroy the beetle. These larvae to a great extent infestations by the rootworm. Upon the rootworm itself, however, water, which is so useful in controlling other pests, does not appear to have any effect. The most promising method for the present is to invigorate the vines by fertilization, to such an extent that they can outgrow injury done by the pest. Fuller details are contained in a new bulletin, No. 283, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

May's Landing Ladies Can Aid

The National Surgical Dreadings Committee has shipped to the war hospitals in Europe upwards of 2,500,000 prepared surgical dressings, but the calls from abroad are such that the National Committee is perfecting organization of State Sections, in the hope that still larger quantities of these supplies which are so greatly needed can be secured and forwarded.

Mr. Lewis Buckley Stillwell, of Lakewood, has been appointed Chairman of the New Jersey State Section. A number of local sections in New Jersey have been doing excellent work, but it is hoped that many other groups of women in the cities and towns of our State may be willing to form local sections and assist in the work. A kit of samples and complete directions for making the dressings can be obtained by application to the State Chairman.
