HALF-MILE CHAMPIONSHIP

Wallen Led Fast Field In Waters of Lake Lenape.

National swimming history was made Baturday afternoon last in Lenape Lake, when W. PRIVATE GIFFINS DESCRIBES L. Wallen, of Chicago, won the American half-mile championship, with six of the fastest swimmers of the East contending against him. The day was dark and chilly and the threat of rain prevented the attendance the meet deserved. The Atlantic City Aquatic Cinb secured it at heavy expense against competi-tion with New York and Philadelphia and hopes to make Lake Lenape the aquatic centre

Wallen's time for the half-mile was in miputes, 545 seconds, excellent considering the chilly day and three turns in the course. He has a record of 11 minutes and 29 seconds for his best performance. He has a erlendid stroke, one that sends him forward with sourcely a splash. Lee Giebel, a 17-year-old, defeated the veteran Bud Goodwin for second

Goodwin later won the mile and a quarter race from the club house to Beach's What and return, but neither Wallen nor Giebei entered in this. Goodwin won by just fifteen seconds over Magee, and Meiser was a split second behind Magee for third position. Mages might possibly have defented Goodwin had he not wandered too far off the course, as from here Friday morning next he was particularly strong at the finish and struck out with a great reserve sport in the last 900 yards. -The summaries

ANOTHER RAISE AT MILL All Hands To Get Dollar More A Week --- To Pay Weekly.

Supt. Charles H. Kears announced Wedner day another raise in wages at the cotton mill. which will give every employee a flat raise of $1.00 a week. In addition to this he announced employees will be paid every week instead of every two weeks.

The new building at the mill has been equipped with machinery and the new steam turbine, which will generate electric curren to operate small motors throughout the mill, will soon be in operation. The work of installing this piece of machinery, with its intricate electrical connections and switchboard, is nearly completed. Among other things a water main has been laid under the engine room which supplies cold water from the lake o condense the steam when it leaves the urbine.

Even after the turbine is in operation it t will be several months before the entire work of the mill will devolve on it, for the old system of shafts and belts from the steam engine will have to be replaced gradually by the

BOARD DINES AT ASYLUM AT CONCLUSION OF MEETING

The first step towards abolishing the last toll ond along the South Jersey coast was taken. Wednesday last by the Board of Chosen Free olders at their monthly meeting held at the Asylum, when a resolution was unanimously adopted providing for a preliminary investigation of a project to join with the State and Cape May County in purchasing the toll road across Great Egg Harbor Bay, between Somers' Point and Ocean City. Construction of connecting links along the shore in Cape May County, such as that now being built across Corson's Iulet from the ower and of Ocean City to the South side of the inlet, will afford autoists a splendid run from Atlantic City to Cape May, along the ocean practically the entire distance. Traffic over the toll road has been very heavy during the past season in spite of the toll charged and will greatly increase with the opening of the new abore roads in Cape May County. From reliable information obtained the Board is of the belief that the toll road across the bay can be purchased at a very reasonable figure and negotiations will be entered into with this end in view.

The resolution adopted by the Board Wed-

peeday is as follows:

The resolution adopted by the Board Wednesday is as follows:

Whereas, there has now been constructed by this Board a highway from the lower end of Absecon Island to Somers' Point, giving a direct route for autolats from Atlantic City to the lower coast resorts via the Somers' Point-Ocean City toil bridge, and Whereas, the system of good roads in Cape May County is being completed by the construction of connecting links along the shore, and Whereas, the existence of a toil bridge or road is a distinct detriment to all seashore interests and out of keeping with the general system of good roads maintained in Southern New Jersey, therefore

Be It Besolved, that the Director of this Board appoint a committee of five of which the County Engineer and the Solicitor shall be members to go thoroughly into the question of taking over the Somers' Point-Ocean City toil bridge and road with the Cape May Board, at the joint expense of Atlantic and Cape May Counties and the State, with a view to abolishing the last toil road in this part of the State and throwing this important road link open to the public, said committee to report to this Board as specific and committee to report to this Board as specific and the State, with a view to abolishing the last toil road in this part of the State and throwing this important road link open to the public, said committee to report to this Board as specific and the Boateney.

Director Samuel Winterbottom appointed n the committee, in addition to the Engineer and Bolistor, Freeholders Dominick Corniglia J. Harry Paimer and Tow T. B. Smith. A copy of the resolution was ordered sent to the Board of Freeholders of Cape May County.

Arch Contract Causes Stir. The statement of Freebolder John B.Tomlin, of Atlantic City, that the people of the resort, who pay the bulk of taxes in the county, want an ornamental arch built at Absecon to mark the entrance to the new meadow boulevard, caused a close fight to be swung in favor of the project and Contractor George Hanselman was awarded the contract to build a combined bridge and arch foundation for $20,461.09, pro-

Mullica Bridge Nearly Done. Reports indicated that the new bridge over the Mullica River at Chestnut Neck, being of court were Peter L Voorhees, S. H. Grey, erected at the joint expense of Attanuc and T. B. Harned, Richard Jenkins, Wilson H. Burlington counties, will be completed within a few weeks, only one span remaining to be swing into position and some extra steel work to be done. When the new bridge is completed the old one, over which travel is now going, bridge at Folsom. The time of the Atlantic & Suburban R. R. Co. for repairing the paving along its tracks on the Shore Road was extended one year. The company, Solicitor Higbee said, is in financial straits and the county will be fortubate if it does not have to complete the work itself. A guarantee in the shape of $25,000 cash deposited in bank to the credit of the county by the company insures, however, a greater part of the work being completed. Road Supervisor Japhet Price reported that water and gas companies have been tearing up the pavements to make connections and not replacing it properly. He was directed to make the necessary repairs and charge the companies, for the expense. He also reported. that the trolley company is tearing up "the pavement without permit and not repairing it properly. Dine And Inspect Grounds. Following the business meeting the Freeholders and their wives, together with a number of invited guests, enjoyed a bounteous dinner tendered by Capt, and Mrs. Henry Munro, after which they inspected the buildings and grounds. Many were especially pleased to note the excellent farming done this year, a large quantity of vegetables having been produced for use in the institutions, Supt. Munro was warmly praised for the excellent manner in which he is conducting both Alms House and Asylum.

Bolicitor E. A. Higbee delivered a spirited address at the dinner on the "Rights of Women," an ardent pro-suffrage speech, which was warmly applauded. Judge Highee declared that he knew his argument was not fully appreciated at the present time, even by the women themselves, but that they would awaken to their rights and opportunities in the near future. He praised highly the action of Dudley Maione, collector of the port of New York, in tendering his resignation to President Wilson because campaign promises made by the administration to support suffrage have seen ignored. Malone, said the Judge, cleated Wilson by reason of his promises, given with the consent of the President, to the women of California that women would be given the ballot throughout the country. Brief addresses were given by Director Samuel Winterhottom, Erickson and Montgomerie, Catawba, via the Supt. of Schools Henry M. Cressman, Franboider Cyrus F. Osgood, and Robert D. Maithy.

The Nation's Fighting Men Are Mobilizing!

Great military cities are springing up all over the land and linking these training camps, aviation fields, coast defenses, naval stations and even most remote points where our forces are gathering, is the Universal Bell Telephone System—linking each with the other and all with the Departments at Washington.

Upon the declaration of war, the Bell System was placed unreservedly at the disposal of the Government, whose already enormous demands for telephone service are continually increasing. Likewise unprecedented are the service requirements of private business, which necessarily must be subordinated in times of emergency. And,-altogether, the patriotic American public can cooperate most effectively with the Government if they will contribute toward the continued maintenance of an effective telephone service by discouraging all extravagant and wasteful uses of it. TYE DELAWARE & ATLANTIO

A Soldier's Wedding

He Was Called to the Colors and to Matrimony With Equal Suddenness.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Being ordered to join the colors for the great world's war I donned my uniform and took a train for the rendezyous. On alighting at the terminal station I was passing between two lines of persons who had come to meet expected wayfarers, when suddenly I saw a pretty girl among them looking radiant with happiness, which it was plain, arose from seeing me. Since she was a stranger to me, thinking it was a case of mistaken identity, I advanced toward her to bring about an explanation. As soon as I reached her she put up her mouth to be kissed.

Soldiers are not noted for throwing kisses over their shoulders. I kissed the ruby lips, and they acted like wind to steal away my discretion. I permitted the young lady to continue in her

"I have the car outside," she said. And as we walked along she commented on the change in my appearance since she had seen me last, noting especially that my mustache made a great difference in my appearance and was an improvement. When we reached the car I hesitated. Dare I meet the young ladies' relatives, who might easily detect the difference between me and the mail for whom I had been mistaken? The girl got in and took the wheel,

"Well?" she said, looking at me in surprise that I did not follow her. "I suppose I should report at the rendezvous at once," I said,

"I thought you had arranged to be excused till after the"-

She hesitated and failed to go on. "Oh, yes; I forgot!" I said.

I took the seat beside her, and we started on. Where we were going I did not know. On the way it came out that the young lady had not seen meor the man I was mistaken for-for three years, but that a love affair between them had lain dormant during the period and had been warmed into life by the war. The most important point did not come out. If it had I should have made an immediate and inglorious retreat.

During the ride I had excellent practice in defensive skirmishing. I was constantly on the ragged edge of exposure, for it would have been an exposure of my taking advantage of the young lady's mistake. If when the day of fighting came I should act on the defensive with as much keen perception of dangers and as much ingenuity in meeting them I would come out of the fray with a medal of honor. I had an advantage in the years she and her lover had been separated, and I made the most of it. My memory proved very defective.

I formed a plan. Sooner or later the fact that there had been a mistake must come out. Then I would pretend that I had made it as well as the girl. That would let me out,

We drove several miles into the suburbs and entered grounds in the center of which stood a handsome go leaving behind him a wife who house, from the roof of which floated would care for him if he returned the Stars and Stripes, Supposing I should soon meet persons who would detect the difference between me and the man 1 had been mistaken for, 1 prepared to act my part. When we brought up under a porte cochere a number of persons, young and old, came out to meet us. Not one of them looked at me with any surprise, though a middle aged lady-she turned out to be the girl's mother-when she kissed me remarked that had she met me casually she would not have known

Evidently the time had not come for a denouement. I regretted this, for I felt that I was getting deeper in the terest. If you will permit her to rethe house, and I was shown to a room clothes. I was long about it, for I was trying to think up a new plan for ex- happy. tricating myself, the one I had laid "All this is very fine, but where do having failed. I could think of no I come in?" other and resolved to be guided by The remark was discouraging, but I circumstances. To suddenly come out kept on holding before him the trouble and neknowledge that I had permitted he might cause by claiming his rights the young lady to continue in a mistake which I knew from the first was a mistake would put me in a position I dld not like deserting. I was on the verge of panic, wonderful to say, she was in bridal cos- from her. I must have presented a startling appearance, for they all regarded me in-

After spending half an hour in my room I went downstairs. Every eye in the room was directed toward me.

Then for the first time it occurred to me that this was one of those quick soldier weddings, the man being suddealy called to the colors. The groom had not put in an appearance and I had been mistaken for him.

There are two kinds of persons in the world. The one on meeting an enemy. is seized with an irrepressible impulse to take to his heels; the other is seized with an equally irrepressible impulse to dash forward. This does not pertain alone to physical encounters; it is cequally true in necessarily quick, imnortant decisions. Judging from my 6.21 p. m. action in this dilemma, I funcy I belong

I felt like a soldler on the battle field, who must either run from the enemy or dash forward for safety. I did not seize a standard and cry, "Forward!" But I did/what amounted to the same thing. I advanced toward the bride and led her to the parson. who was standing at one end of the room with a book in his hand.

There was but one halt in the wed-New Jersey - Fair to-day and Bunday, ding ceremony. When asked for the ring I had no ring. I muttered something about hurrying to join the colors and stupid forgetfulness. The bride's mother took a ring from her finger and handed it to me. I put it on the bride's finger and in a few minutes was a married man. As soon as I could escape congratulations I announced that if I did not join my regiment at once I would be pronounced a poltroon and a coward, and, leaving my regretful bride, I dashed out, got into the car in which I had come and leaving an astonished throng, turned on the power and sped out of the grounds into the

I had not gone a block before I saw a man in uniform and carrying a suit case hurrying in the opposite direction. Turning to the curb, I shouted "Hey,

He looked at me and, not recognizing me, was about to hurry on. He appeared to be about my age, my build and looked not unlike me.

"Going to be married?" I asked. "Yes; I'm late. Excuse me. I must "Get in here," I said, opening the car door. Thinking that I was intending to aid him in making haste, he did as I bade him. Instead of turning and driving back, I sped on.

"What are you doing?" he cried. Let me out. I was to have been married at noon, and it is now a quarter past.'

I increased the pace. "Who are you? And where are you taking me?" be cried.

He looked at me as though he believed that I had told the truth, then asked:

"Whom has Lillian married?" "Me," I groaned.

"For heaven's sake, cease to tantalize me and tell me what all this

I struck a broad country road at this moment and, slackening my pace, told him the story of what had happened to me during the past two hours. When I had finished the recital I said to him solemnly:

"For Lillian's sake, for heaven's sake, do not reveal this blunder. Let Lilllan"-it was fortunate I had learned her name-"remain in ignorance that she has married the wrong man."

I suppose it was my intensity that convinced him of the truth of my story. At any rate he expressed no doubt that the girl he was to have mure wife. Possession is nine points in the law. In addition to the shock he would bring to Lillian by making known her mistake and my rascally taking advantage of it, there must be a divorce. He confessed that he had not seen her for three years; that, being ordered to the colors, he had revived an old attachment and had written her that since he must go to the war he preferred to maimed and mourn for him if killed. "A somewhat selfish view to take of the matter," I suggested. "Yes, and I wonder she accepted the proposal. I suppose it was patriotism. All the women are losing their heads about the war"

"It\seems to me," I said after a pause, "that it is tweedledum and tweediedee between us. You were to have been married with a selfish motive. # A BOLD ATTEMPT

By ETHEL HOLMES

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon Mark Trovor locked his desk and went home. Having let himself in with his latchkey, he went upstairs stealthily, for it had occurred to him to enter his wife's room quietly, and if her back were toward him he would put his arms about her and surprise her with a kiss

From this it will be supposed-and correctly-that Mr. and Mrs. Trevor had not been long married.

Cautiously pushing the door open he saw standing before a dresser, hunting in one of the drawers, a wom an. In another moment she caught sight of his reflection in the mirror. Turning, she faced him.

"Madam," he said, "what are you do ing here?" 'I came for your wife's jewels. But since I have not found them and have been interrupted in my search I will put in operation a scheme which I de vised and for which I prepared before coming here in case I should fail in obtaining the jewels. Your wife is not in the house. I left her some ten min-utes ago at the door of a friend of hers with whom she was exchanging a few last words before parting. Knowing the disposition of my sex to prolong those few parting words, I believed I would have plenty of time to come here and at least make a beginning." Opening a reticule, she took out a bit of paper and handed it to Trevor. It was a note for $1,000.

"Sign it." said the woman. "I will do no such thing "-

"Yes, you will when you have heard my reasons why it would be best for you to do so. Your wife will be here in a few minutes." She had got between Trevor and the door, locked it and put the key in her reticule. "She will find you locked in here with me. I will plead guilty and ask her forgive ness. Your domestic happiness will be

Unfortunately for this part of the woman's plan, at this moment the front door was heard to close. Mrs. Trevor had finished the "few parting City. words" with her friend and reached her home. Ascending the stairs, she attempted to open the door of her room and found it locked.

"Open the door," said Trever sternly The woman produced the key and did as she was directed. Trevor threw open the door. The woman cowered in a corner, affecting shame and contrition. Mrs. Trevor stood looking from one to the other, first with amazement, then with pain.

"Oh, Mark," she walled "how could vou?"

"This woman"- Trevor began, but the criminal stopped him. "Forgive me, Mrs. Trevor," she said. "I have injured you in stepping in between you and your husband. Mark loved me before he ever saw you. He really belongs to me rather than to you. He will deny what I say. He will give his own explanation of my being here. He will lie to you, as he has lied to me. Believe him if you will, but I assure you he is not to be

Mrs. Trevor cast an appealing glance at her husband. It pleaded with him to set himself right, though convicted by overwhelming evidence.

"Eileen"- 🌭 began again, and again the woman drowned his words.

"Don't listen to him," she said. will tell you the true story in a few words. Several years ago he found me an unsuspecting country girl. His words were very sweet. He told me that in me he had met his fate, of all the girls he had ever met I was the only one to whom his heart"-

At this point the woman began edging around toward the door. Mrs. Trevor shrank away before her, leaving the way clear. Trevor stood overwhelmed, paralyzed with the self confessed thief's unblushing assurance, Then the wife found voice to say to the woman:

"I obey you, I leave you with the man who has blighted my life. Would that you had been left in ignorance of his true character! Never again will

She was about to back out of the door when Trevor sprang forward, closed it, turned the key and put it in

"You will never again play such a bold game with me, for I shall put it out of your power to do so. Give me that reflenie! The woman turned pale. She grasped the reticule the tighter. "Eileen," said Trevor, "take the bag from her. I don't wish to use force with a woman." "What do you wish with it?" asked the wife-"It contains the proof that this woman is levying blackmail."

Elleen advanced toward the woman, who, opening the bag, took out an ivory handled pistol and leveled it at her adversary. Elleen drew back, but her husband, ignoring the weapon, advanced to the thief and took the reticule out of her hand; then opening it he took out the unsigned note. After explaining the woman's scheme to Elleen and convincing her of his innocence he unlocked the door and told her to go and telephone for the police. Trevor stood guard over the woman till the arrival of a patrol wagon from a police office, and she was removed to the city jail to await trial on a charge of levying blackmall. Peace returned to the Trevor famlly, and the blackmaller was sent to serve a term in state prison. Another View.
