Never So Important As Now.

Never in all history was the tariff question been as important as it is today with the prospect of great trade competition with foreign countries loomed large and menacingly, as it unquestionably does.

These great questions must be studied and discussed by statement, not by mere politicians seeking partisan advantages. We want the greatest ability at command at the head of our government and we want the best business policy that can be worked out to prevail—that the only way that a fair degree of prosperity can come to all our people.—New Haven Times-Leader.

SENATOR EDGE GIVEN ROUSING OVATION BY HOME CITY VOTERS

THOUSANDS ATTEND MASS MEETING AFTER BIG STREET PARADE

EXPLAINS HIS BUSINESS PROGRAM

SAYS STATE SHOULD HAVE MORE ECONOMICAL GOVERNMENT

GOVERNOR TO BE REAL MANAGER

SPEAKERS PREDICT HE WILL SECURE NOMINATION BY 30,000

Senator Walter E. Edge, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, received a tremendous ovation Wednesday evening last in Atlantic City, when, after a parade by the Edge Marching Club, he appeared at a mass meeting in the Morris Guard Armory. The big event was attended by a round of sincere, enthusiastic applause by Senator Thomas F. McCran, of Passaic County, who praised Edge's record and declared he was destined to become the next Governor of New Jersey.

Hon. J. J. White was Chairman of the big gathering, directing his hearer's attention to the need of a man in the Executive office who understood the needs of Atlantic City and all the other seashore resorts, paying a high tribute to Senator Edge and bespeaking a united vote in Atlantic County in his support. Congressman Isaac Bacharach made a brief address, dwelling on Senator Edge's exceptional ability for the Governorship and predicting that he will win the nomination by 30,000 majority.

Senator Edge, when he arose to speak, received one of the heartiest greetings any candidate ever enjoyed in Atlantic City. He spoke in part as follows:

"I wish to carry as far as possible to a conclusion the plans for a business government in which I have been interested as a member of the Legislature. The next Governor will have a real opportunity to conduct a business government, because with the passage of the Budget Bill, the State Purchasing Bill, and the various Economy and Efficiency consolidations, a new atmosphere has sprung up about the State House, and a business government is expected.

"What do I mean by conducting a business government? I mean, briefly, that a Governor should not be the business of the State of New Jersey his job; shall attend to the business of the State, practically every working day in the year. That he shall have a close working contact with the heads of all his departments, so that the business of the State will run along in smooth co-operation instead of disconnectedly; that reports of every department's activities shall come to the attention of the governor in properly prepared detail, rather than in voluminous reports to the public once a year. That the governor shall be familiar himself with every function of the State government, so that he could personally head a department if he felt it incumbent for him to do so. The Budget Bill makes this necessary, if a governor is to be an efficient executive and that was one of the objects I had in preparing this act and securing its passage. In other words, a governor can't recommend to the Legislature the appropriations for the year, without being personally familiar with the functions, responsibilities and activities of each department of the State government.

"I have not before, but I am criticizing the system. Perhaps ten years ago it would not have been possible to have awakened the public mind to the possibilities of a business government, but today it is absolutely demanded and I have spent many months, and even years endeavoring to secure the passage of some acts which would encourage a governor to take absolute hold of this idea and develop and push it to completion.

"I want the people of New Jersey to realize that they are alone the stockholders in this great big thirty million dollar annual business; that the Legislature is their Board of Directors and the governor their business manager, and that they realize that it is their business, and that whether it is conducted economically or otherwise is a matter of moment to them.

"I believe in three years I can emphatically demonstrate what a business government really means and that the people of the State as a result thereof will be brought nearer to the government and the people of New Jersey to them, and that they will realize that their business is paying dividends annually to them in the form of good service and beneficial legislation, and I am further convinced that the political party which faces the problems from this angle, and uses political organization as a means to the end to give service, will remain in power for many years to come."

SENATOR WALTER E. EDGE.

What kind of an executive will the people of New Jersey have as successor to Governor Fielder? The answer depends very much on the choice exercised by Republican voters at the party primary. He Otto Wittmann, boss of the Democratic machine in Hudson county, will be the Democratic nominee. Who is the strongest man of the three contestants for the nomination...

Walter Evans Edge is nearing 43 years of age—the time of life when experience has impressed its lessons upon youth and the strong, mature man can put forth his best in public affairs. This he has done in Hudson county, then following Benjamin Franklin's example went to work as a printer's devil. At sixteen he assumed the position of assistant advertising agent with the famous seashore resort's most successful business men. Many a "self-made" man has done as well—but the point of interest is that his record shows just such qualities as the state needs in its executive. Senator Edge has carried his own way to success. It was not smoothed for him, nor, to use Theodore Roosevelt's expression, was he permitted to walk in the soft places.

Colonel Edge's rise in politics was due to the same sterling qualities that gained for him success in business. Before he was able to vote he was working for a Republican success. His two daily newspapers gave valuable aid to the party. His first official connection with the state affairs was as journal clerk in the senate in 1887. Serving for three sessions in that position, he was then secretary of the senate in 1891 and held the office for four terms. In 1893 he was elected ever given a candidate in Atlantic county. His energy, his ability to plan and do, were immediately recognized. He was made the leader of the majority, an unprecedented honor for a first-year man. At the next election he was sent to the senate to finish his second term. Senator Edge has been majority leader in the upper house of the legislature for five weeks during Governor Fielder's absence from the state, last year.

The son of a civil war veteran, young Edge volunteered for the Spanish American war. He served as second lieutenant of Company F, 4th New Jersey Infantry, and remained in the national guard after the war and now has the rank of lieutenant colonel. He has served upon the personal staff of three governors. He was a presidential elector in 1904 and an alternate delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention of 1908.

Senator Edge's aim has been service to the people. Through his efforts the workmen's compensation bill was enacted. His sympathy with the working people has been shown in the introduction of many bills for their benefit. In the report made to the State Federation of Labor Senators Edge was invariably commended for his attitude toward labor.

He was the author of the economy and efficiency program enacted in the past three years, whereby departmental work has been simplified and strengthened. He introduced the state budget and state purchasing methods, providing for better business methods. The unnecessary state census, which cost $100,000 last year, was cut off at his suggestion. He insisted upon a revaluation of railroad property, to increase the state's revenue. He has fathered road and waterway improvement bills, championed measures of benefit to the farmers and steadfastly favored a liberal policy in education affairs.

Senator Edge's friends say that he considers all this varied experience and valuable service as merely an apprenticeship, qualifying him for a better and broader service if he shall be entrusted with the executive office.

Mr. Lansing is credited with the belief that the case against Great Britain on account of the blockade is so weak that it ought not to be pressed. What, then, did Mr. Polk mean when he called the attention of the British government, "in the gravest terms" to "the many serious consequences" to be apprehended if it were not withdrawn?

HUGHES FOR ARBITRATION.

He Would Be First to Accord to Labor All Rights Found Just After Consideration.

In his Maine speeches Mr. Hughes made it plain that he was not attacking labor or the equity of the proposed increase of wages for the railroad men. He was simply contending for the all important principle of arbitration as the right means of settlement of such questions. Speaking at different places in Maine Mr. Hughes dwelt upon this question, saying:

"I deeply deplore, in the name of labor, in the name of justice, in the name of American ideals, the surrender of the Executive and of Congress to force, instead of permitting reason to reign. "The measure to which I have alluded was not, properly speaking, an eight-hour measure. It was a wage measure. It was a plain proposition for a change in the wage scale. I do not speak of the equity of that. That is a matter to be fairly considered. I want what is just and right with respect to wages. I am for the arbitration and the peaceful settlement of these industrial controversies. We can settle everything in this country if we approach those matters with a fair and open mind and an examination of the facts.

"This partial measure shows on its face that it was legislation in advance of the investigation, instead of investigation in advance of legislation. It is said that there was in its favor the judgment of society. The judgment of society in this country has never been passed in favor of legislation without knowledge of the equity and regardless of the facts of the case. There was no judgment of society in favor of the roads which were excepted from its provisions. If there was a judgment of society, why not apply the rule to electric or other kinds of roads or roads less than 100 miles in length? I say, away with such pretense! It was a surrender to force instead of a clear, candid, faithful framed examination of the facts, and then action in accordance with American principles.

"Autocracy represents force; tyranny represents force. Democracy represents the rule of the common judgment after discussion, after an opportunity to know the facts."

It All Depends.

"If Hughes wins an Oregon town will get a new single mill employing fifty men," says the Olympia Recorder, "according to an announcement of the individual who took an option on timbered land. If Wilson wins the option will be allowed to lapse. That's the way with a thousand and one enterprises, all waiting to see which way the wind blows. The moment it is assured that Charles E. Hughes is elected, just watch the wheels of industry spin and listen to the hum of business."

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY TO VOTE FOR HUGHES.

He Says Wilson Has Failed to Enforce Pure Food Law.

"I favor the election of Mr. Hughes to the Presidency for entirely different reasons than those held by most of his supporters. It is not because of the Mexican policy nor the foreign policy of the administration nor by reason of its domestic policies. It is because of the apparent indifference of the administration of President Wilson to the cause of pure foods and drugs. Practically all of the abuses which were injected into the pure food law by the preceding administrations are still in force. Benzene of soda is still rampant. The fumes of burning sulphur are marching along undisturbed. There is evidently a lull in the activities of the administration of the law. A well-known beverage, declared by the supreme court misbranded and amenable to the food law has not been indolested. No attempt has been made to enforce the law in regard to the bleaching of flour. The repeal of the mixed flour law, that splendid safeguard to the purity of our bread, has been tacitly approved by the treasury department.

"Mr. Hughes in his activities on the supreme court has stood like a stone wall for the proper administration of the food law. I believe his election would see a radical change in the attitude of the government towards pure food and pure drugs, so vital to the welfare of our people. For this reason I sincerely hope that Mr. Hughes may be chosen as our next president. "I should expect Mr. Hughes as president to have the same attitude toward the pure food and drug law that he had as a judge on the bench and to appoint a secretary of agriculture with subordinate officers who would be enthusiastic and earnest in the enforcement of the pure food law for the benefit of the physical, mental and moral welfare of our people."

WE SHOULD CONSIDER WHAT IS RIGHT, THEN DO IT.

"Our government is based on the idea that we have Legislatures to investigate, to consider what is right and to do what is right. It is based on the idea that public opinion is formed from a discussion of questions, and that we can come possibly to right solutions. It is not based on the idea that the Government must act without knowing the justice and merits of the cause in which it acts."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

There are no strings or mental reservations to the public pledges of administrative reform given by Charles E. Hughes. His record as governor of New York guarantees the fulfillment of every promise.

Democrats are now convinced that Charles Evans Hughes is a warm proposition.

Hughes Sympathetic With Demands of Labor Which Are Proved to Be Just.

"I am sympathetic with every demand to improve the conditions of labor, to secure reasonable compensation for labor. I am in sympathy with every effort to better human conditions, and particularly the condition of those who toil in industrial pursuits, in railroad pursuits, in all these great activities that are essential to our prosperity. But when you have a proposition to change the scale of wages you have a vital proposition which requires examination. You must at least know whether the demand is a just one. "Labor, of course, should not desire anything but what is just. I do not believe labor intends to ask for anything but what is just. What is just can be examined and will survive investigation. Nothing is lost by having the process of reason applied if only that which is just is required."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

DEMAND WAS NOT FOR AN EIGHT HOUR DAY.

"It is said that the judgment of society has made the demand for the eight-hour day. This was not an eight-hour day, and the judgment of society had nothing to do with the proposition laid before congress and passed by congress. The proof of this is found in the bill itself, which proposes an investigation to find out whether Congress had any business to do the thing which it was asked to do, and which it did do."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

PUBLIC OFFICER SHOULD STAND LIKE A ROCK.

"Government under pressure is not American government. Whenever pressure is applied to any public officer he ought to stand like a rock and say: 'Here I stand until we substitute reason for force. It is not an American doctrine to legislate first and investigate afterward.'—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

THERE SHOULD BE NO ACTION UNDER PRESSURE, UNDER DICTATION.

"We have one priceless treasure in this country, and that is the reign of good judgment after public discussion. In the long history of the people, victory after victory has been won over tyranny and force. We have a free press, we have a free form of public discussion, to the end that there may be a general understanding of our activities and a general appreciation of what is necessary to the improvement of our conditions. We may disagree about this measure or that, but we have confidence in the public judgment in the long run. Hence there is one thing which we must always maintain, and that is that there shall be no action on the part of our elected representatives, taken under pressure, under dictation. We must know what the facts are and what justice requires."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

NO ONE WAS AFRAID OF HAITI.

Haiti did not behave as badly to us as Mexico behaved, but Mr. Wilson intervened, fought the Haitians, shedding their blood and the blood of our troops, took possession and now has our armed forces in control of Haiti and directing its government. His course of action in Haiti can be defended only if his course of action in Mexico is unqualifiedly condemned; for such action was far more needed in Mexico than in Haiti. But there was a difference in the two cases; and to Mr. Wilson it was a vital difference. Haiti was weaker than Mexico. No one was afraid of Haiti. From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt Delivered at Lewiston, Maine, in Behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

The President says that he is above all things else "an American citizen." Fortunately for him, nothing has taken him to Europe or Mexico during the past few years. Papers that need to call McKinley a crook and Roosevelt a tyrant are scandalized now that anybody should breathe a whisper against our high and holy Woodrow.

It is gratifying, indeed, to find that Mr. Wilson still stands on the suffrage question where he stood at the beginning of his administration. He has changed on about everything else.—Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

Mr. Hughes says there should be drn dealing in Mexican affairs. Maybe so, but we have had enough of the drn of Wilson, Carranza & Co.
