MISCELLANEOUS RECORDS | BIG CRANBERRY HARVEST FROM SOUTH JERSEY

WHOLE NUMBER 1676.

MANY THOUSAND BUSHELS GROWN IN THIS COUNTY.

Throngs of Pickers Will Reap the Juicy Berry for Winter Use-Heavy Yields this Season from Bogs in Hamilton Township.

Owners of cranberry bogs in New Jersey are preparing to harvest one of the largest crops of this red, juicy berry in many years. The season has been very favorable and the mapicking has already begun on some bogs, particularly in North Jersey, the height of the harvest season will not arrive until the latter part of this month and early October. Thousands of bushels will be reaped from the bogs of Atlantic County, of which the large bog of Makepeace & Co. at this place is the chief centre. This is the largest box in New Jersey if not in the world and this will he thefirst season a fair harvest will have been reaped, as the bog is only a few years old. Picking has already begun on this bog and hundreds of empty barrels have been shipped in during the week to carry the berries to market. Other bogs of Hamilton Township, including that at Gravelly Run, will yield a bountiful harvest.

In spite of the vituperous attacks of the outside press and the calumnious misstatements of so-called reformers, Atlantic City, the Queen Resort not only of America but of the world, has enjoyed the most successful and prosperous season in the history of the municipality. Salubrity of climate, proximity to large cities and diversity of entertainment have secured for the resort a lasting popularity, which cannot be injured by the villification of over-zealous agitators or the misrepresentation of space writers.

This is the season when colds are prevalent. A cold is, ordinarily, a trifling illness, making the possessor uncomfortable, indisposed to mental labor and provokes sudden temper. It is easy to catch the ailment but difficult to get rid of it unless one understands the physiological cause and means of cure. A cold, primarily, is caused by the closing of the pores of the skin, which may ensue by means of draught, exposure to cold air after being overheated or unwise dressing. To cure the illness it is necessary to open the pores, which can be done by means of hot drinks and footbaths. To induce prespiration will break the cold in its early stages. This is nature's rémedy and a sovereign cure.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

"The fathers of the common school system recognized the inherent danger in a condition of popular illiteracy, and their object in the establishment of nee schools, where the children of the poorest might obtain at least a rudimentary education, was to erect a safeguard against this danger. Compulsory education has fortified and firmly Painter & Cilazier, established the work of the founders and our public school system has now become not only the hope but one of the highest glories of our splendid Republic But it garant be donied any parents who send their children to school barely so long as the law compels them to do so and May's Landing, then promptly withdraw them and put them to work. It is unfortunately the fact that in many cases poverty renders this action unavoidable, but in many others it is prompted solely by a mercenary spirit and a lack of appreciation of the benefits of education.

"Even from a pecuniary point of view, the money that a boy can earn between the ages of fourtéen and eighteen years will fall far short of what he will lose in after life from lack of education which he might have acquired during those years. For this reason if for no other parents should keep their children in school during the very longest period of which their circumstances will admit." - Canden Post-Telegram

"Years ago the government issued a book, intended to prove to L. W. CRAMER, will be necessary to summon the State Militia to move farmers everywhere that, with very few exceptions, hawks and owls were valuable birds, doing fare more good than harm, and that they ought to be protected rather than killed. And now comes the reporfrom Montville, in Morris County, that the farmers of that locality are sorry they did not give heed to the government's teaching. It appears that the farmers in the place referred to have waged relentless and exterminating war on all hawks, owls and crows that come within tuality in school work is not so well appreciated by gunshot of their premises. What has resulted: The field mice have parents as it should be, say the teachers and it will become so numerous that they are a menace to the crop. They destroy the grasses above ground, burrow beneath the surface and cut off the not require more than a cursory examination of roots, and destroy great quantities of seeds. ## GLIMMER FROM BEHIND THE CURTAIN

There are many things that are considered superstitious which may be. 4.4, outcroppings of nature's laws. Wescientists can trace animal life back to the very cleatricula of the egg, Which is an embryo living being, but 3.56 We calmot tell why two people will fre-4.47 quently think of the same thing at the same moment. In other words, we have never made a beginning in the science of mental telepathy, el-4.47 ther between living people or between 4.00 the living and the dead. This is prellminary to an experience given me by one of my most gifted pupils shortly after she had taken a husband.

"Professor," she said. "you remem-5.89 ber that I once confided to you that 4.00 there was a mystery in our family, that when I was a child my nurse was dismissed for the mere mention of it 3.55 to me, though she had given me no 3.56 dea of what it was. Well, the evening before my marriage while exploring a garret for some needed article 1 came upon a trunk, which I opened 3.56 and found to contain sundry knickknacks, all evidently very old. One 3.56 was a daguerreotype of a girl, anoth-3.56 er a pasteboard box tied with a faded 3.56 ribbon. I opened the box and found a small piece of wedding cake, dried to 4.00 a crisp. Girls, you know, sleep with 3.56 wedding cake under their pillows to-3.56 influence their dreams. I took the plece I found away with me and that 4.00 night slept with it under my pillow.

"I dreamed this dream: "I was walking in one of those old fashioned gardens still common in old 3.56 New England, and more so in the 3.56 southern states, inclosed by a high wali. Through a vista of trees and 3.56 flowers I could see the rear of a house. Through a door opening on to a porch. came a young man and a girl. The · 3.56 man wore a frock coat with brass but-3.56 tons, a profusion of neckwear and trousers strapped beneath his shoes. He carried a cane. The girl's dress was covered with flowers, and her halr, parted in the center of her head, was plastered down over her temples. The two came toward me over a walk bordered with boxwood, and as they drew near I recognized the girl whose daguerreotype I had seen in the trunk 3.56 In the garrer. The man's face looked familiar, but I could not place it.

"They were talking excitedly, but what they said I did not hear. Indeed, I didn't hear their voices; I only knew they were discussing some subject of vital importance to them. Suddenly a wooden door in the garden wall opened, and another man entered. He, too, was young and dressed in the same fashion as the man walking with the girl. On his entrance she gave a cry, and the two young men stood and glar-3.56 ed at each other. There was some confusion in fream from this point for awhile member on 3.56 Who had come out of the pleces, separating it just 4.00 bandle. The upper part w thin piece of steel. With it upon the man who had ente and stabbed him. The stee 3.56 drawn, I saw the red blood gush The girl fell over on a bed of fic 4.00 ln a faint.

"I awoke in one of those horr conditions produced by bad dream Had mine been the consequence some internal ailment like indigestion 3.56 I might have quieted down and gone to sleep. But my seeing in the girl the 3.56 person whose likeness I had found in the trunk convinced me that I had been carried back to some scene en-7.58 acted in the past. Consequently I puzzled over it till morning and arose on 4.00 my wedding day, having slept only a 3.56 few hours. At breakfast father, poticing my appearance, looked at me anxlously and asked me if I were ill. I 3.56 told him my dream.

"After my return from my honeymoon father told me the family secret. My grandmother, his mother, was a New Orleans creole. A coquette, she had encouraged two sultous. The scene I had dreamed had been enacted 3.56 in the garden behind her father's 3.56 house in that city. My grandmother 3.56 had chosen the young man who had entered the garden with her. His portrait, taken when he was about forty years old, hangs in our drawing 3.56 room. No likeness of my grandmoth-3.56 er remains, except the daguerreotype, which was taken a year before the crime. Indeed, she would never have 3.56 her portrait painted, living a retired life, burdened by the thought that she had been the cause of the tragedy. 5.80 The weapon used was a sword cane, much in vogue in that day."

When the parrator ceased the in-3.56 quiring look she gave me told that she wished to know if I had any the 4.46 ory of the natural causes that had 3.56 transported her back to witness what had occurred more than sixty years 3.56 before. I said this to her:

"As prior to the fifteenth century there was a vast continent-America-4.00 unknown, except through report, to the people of the world, there is and has alway, been a realm of spirit, soul-call it what you will-whose manifestations are so vague, in which truth and error are so inextricably mingled that as yet we scientists have no data or which to begin to work Some day some one will make accidentally perhaps—a discovery which will open up a new continent in the world of psychology. Then these scattered experiences which are now merely the gifm nerings of realms concealed from us will take shape." Not Interested. "Have you heard the latest news?"

3.56 inquired Mrs. Bizzibod. "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "It's 3.56 very shocking, isn't it?" - "You know the people"-

"No. I haven't the slightest idea as 3.56 to the identity of the people. Scandals are like humorous anecdotes about celebrities the same old stories with diffament names introduced."- nosamond Lee walked slowly down the rose bordered path to the tall stone wall that inclosed the deserted house next door. The owners were abroad, and there was no prospect of their immediate return to inhabit the Octagon

House, as it was called. Rosamond had made many excursions about the neglected grounds and dreamed many dreams beneath the noble trees that rose from the unkept turf. She had taken toll of the blooming flowers and shrubs in their seasons, and now she fed the gray squirrels that raced up and down the green

Her family laughed at her fondness for the Octagon House and predicted a speedy abandonment when Mrs. Phillips came home again, for Mrs. Phillips was old and trascible and much feared by Rosamond since she was a little child. But on this glorious September day, when the late monthly roses were bordering the path with delicate sweetness, Resamend, a fair, sweet rose herself, thought little of Mrs. Phillips in distant Berlin. The day was made for ber-for her alone-and the Octagon rose bordered path into her father's surprise to discover that not one of House!

She followed the stone wall to an intersecting fence which served as a stepping stone. In a trice she had jumped lightly to the soft turf of the other side and sped swiftly neross the dappled green toward the house.

The crooked plazza, which followed the outline of the old house, was coverod with Virginia creeper, even now turning to brilliant scarlet and gold. In one corner where the vines hung low and formed a curtain were a long wicker chair and a pile of Rosamond's favorite books.

She had tired of reading and was sitting half drowsy with sleep when a step on the piazza roused her. Never before had any one trespassed on her chosen retrent.

She parted the vines and peeped through to discover a man's tall form bent to peer into the half drawn shades of the long windows. He straightened up again, and she saw that his clothe were gray and dusty and that white dust powdered his dark hair. He was mepping his forehead vigorously with a handkerchief, and she noticed that his hands were bronzed by exposure to the sun. That the man was a burglar Rosamond had not a doubt. Her heart almost stopped beating when he glanced carelessly toward ber vine covered retreat before he sat down on the top step to light a pipe.

"He's wondering how to get in."

murmured Rosamond to herself. "If only I were brave enough I would go gut and frighten him away, but I am fearfully afraid of burglars, and yet if he should break in and steal some of Mrs. Phillips' pictures I would feel dreadful, because I have enjoyed her hospitality unasked." She smiled thoughtfully and then sat very quietly. Presently she dropped a book on the floor and rustled out of her retreat with a haughty expression on her his feet and pulled off his gray cap. "I beg your pardon," he stammered. "I didn't know any one was around." Rosamond fixed him with a cold stare while she mentally decided that he was too good looking to be engaged in such a nefarious pastime as burglar-sweet face. The stranger jumped to izing unoccupied country houses. She lifted her pretty brows inquiringly. "You wished to see some one?" "Why-er-no. I didn't expect to see any one here. I thought the place was vacant," he stammered, knocking his pipe against the railing and stuffing it into his pocket.

"It is not vacant. I am here," said Rosamond bravely. "So I-er-see," with an air of chagrin. "The house is well protected."

"I am glad of that," he said heartly. Rosamond in igined his tone was sareastic. "Perhaps you wished to see my husband," she said in a wavering volen.

The man started violently, and his eyes forsook her face and dropped to the ground. "Of course it would be a pleasure," he said "Is he around?" Rosamond eiged closer to the steps and ran lightly down to the path below "I will call him. He is not far away," she cried breathlessly. Then she turned and sped swiftly toward the wall that divided the place from her home. Once there, her father would telephone to the village for assistance, and thus the burglary would be prevented. She thought she heard swift steps behind her, and she renewed her speed toward the wall. Her heart was benting almost to suffocation as she stepped on a loose stone. She uttered a terrified cry as the stone slipped and she fell to the ground.

Now she heard swift steps in reality as the stranger crossed the turf and bent anxiously above her.

"I hope you have not hurt yourself," be said gravely. "I have sprained my ankle," admitted the girl with white lips. "What were you trying to do-not to scale the wall?"

"Yes." Was your husband over "T' by? there?"

A red flush crept to her brows.

"Yes," she said, "Shall I call him," asked the suapected burglar frankly, "or shall I carry you back to the piazza and get you some cold water? Where are the servants? Have you occupied the house long? My aunt wrote me that the place was vacant." He hammered out the questions with remorseless Rosamond stared with growing horror. "Who are you? Who is your aunt?" she gasped in return. "I am Mrs. Phillips' nephew. My name's David Phillips. I have bought the place, and I came down to look it over. I was to have met the real estate man at the station. He came, but he forgot the keys, so I walked on. As he said nothing about the place being occupied, I was surprised to find a Rosamond closed her eyes wearlly, while her brain sought some escape from her appalling position. She was angry at having placed herself in such a situation. She might have known a burglar. She opened her eyes with well with members of her own sex." suddenness and looked straight at him. "I wish you would go away," 'she said petulantly. "Of course, if you wish it. But you are suffering. May I not call some one to help you? I will look for your husband, if you will tell me his name." He stopped awkwardly.

"I haven't any husband," she said recklessly. "You see, I've been in the habit of running over here and sitting was spending the winter, to ask her. on the porch and reading, and today I to be my wife. Since we did not resaw you looking in the window, and I side in the same place when at home thought you were a burglar, and so I I had had no opportunity of knowing et als, and taken in execution at the suit of tried to frighten you away by pretend- how she stood with any one except Coleman F. Leaning, Jr., and to be sold by ing I had a husband. I live next door, softly. "I think it was awfully brave There were a number of girls at the of you, you know, when you believed same hotel with her, and I thought 1 1 me to be a desperado. Now, Miss Lee, might guther evidence from them. But you must let me help you home again, for that ankle needs attention at once. Permit me as a neighbor and perhaps later on a friend." He stooped and from them or had been left out of lifted her in his strong arms and car- their little coterie. I soon became good

Many times after that David Phillips strode up the rose bordered path to see Rosamond Lee, and the following June, when the roses were rioting the garden, he claimed her as his own, and together they passed under the portal of the rejuvenated Octagon House, of which Rosamond became in fact the

He Could Say "No."

"A very dignified young man took a seat in a smoking car," said the host- other untruthful. Indeed, every one ess, who joined in the after dinner attributed to her some fault. Not story telling. Are You Crazy?

"How do you know that you are not crazy?" was asked the accused in a lunacy investigation. A prize might well be offered for a convincing answer to the question from one's personal knowledge. Lombroso and other eminent alienists have held that there is a taint of insanity pipon some subject in every human mind; that no mind is absolutely and correctly balanced. No man sane upon several subjects will admit that he is crazy at all. How, as a matter of fact, does any man know, of his own knowledge, that he is not insane?-Exchange.
