

MUCH WORK AHEAD FOR OCTOBER COURT TERM

THREE HOMICIDE CASES BEFORE GRAND JURY.

Long Docket of Offenders Charged With Larceny, White Slavery, Assault and Other Crimes and Misdemeanors.

The large number of prisoners held for the action of the Grand Jury, together with the long list of civil cases, promise a long term for the Grand Jury. The first case which will probably be tried until the winter term. Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, of Bridgeport, will officially open the October Term Tuesday morning next and charge the Grand Jury, after that body, drawn by Sheriff E. L. Johnson, has been called and sworn by County Clerk Samuel Kirby. Law Judge Enoch A. Higbee will sit with Justice Trenchard and will open his Court immediately after the Grand Jury has been charged. It is not certain whether or not Circuit Court Judge Allen B. Endicott will be present on the opening day of the term, as he will not hear cases in the Civil Court until October 23. Should he not be present Justice Trenchard will make the final call of the civil cases.

Three homicide cases are listed for the investigation of the Grand Jury. One of the defendants is a young woman, colored, Mamie Lockhart, who fatally shot her husband July 15 last, at Atlantic City. The others are Antonio La Verdi and Augustus Lutherman, the first held for the murder of Stephano Ferraro and the second for killing John Kraemer, an aged Veteran, May 24 last, at Atlantic City.

The Jury will be called upon to investigate the assassination of William McKinley at Mt. McKee City, in which three farmers, Charles Quinn, Joseph Vaughn and Thomas Sutton, all held under heavy bail, are charged with atrocious assault and battery on Frank S. Short. Gilbert Sherman, the aged farmer of Sussex who shot at his housekeeper, Kate Daley, will be called to answer to a charge of atrocious assault with intent to kill.

There are a number of "white slave" cases for the Jury to consider, the police authorities of Atlantic City being determined to root out this deplorable practice in the resort. Among those held to answer to the charge are: Samuel Nelson, Edwin Nowlan, William Thomas, James Mulhern and John Reisman.

Some of the principal cases to be considered by the Grand Jury for which the defendants are awaiting trial in the County Jail or have been admitted to bail, are as follows:

- For larceny—Randolph Hill, Annie West, Lewis Brasher, Martin Williams, Jennie Wilson, Edward Brown, Michael Haverly, Robert Massey, Fred Beers, Frank Goss, Bessie Green, Bertia Taylor, Ella Welch, Lewis McKee and Marion Perry.

Carter, Clarence Brown, Ernest Butler, William Burk, Roy Carroll, Chester Butler, Presley Turner, Walter Savoy, Margaret Williams, Giuseppe Joppato, Mary Hicks, Margaret Williams and A. J. Stone.

Gardner's Cause Growing Strong.

The Atlantic City "Evening Union," editorially, has this to say on the Congressional Campaign:

"Congressman Gardner's campaign for reelection is proceeding smoothly and satisfactorily. His cause is growing stronger every day in all four of the counties in the Second District."

"Gardner Hampton, of Bridgeport, who is Mr. Gardner's opponent, has paid one visit to Atlantic City but he came practically unannounced and was forced to apologize for the oversight of someone who placed him at a disadvantage."

"There is a well defined feeling not only in Atlantic County but elsewhere in the district, that Mr. Hampton, while he may be a pleasant gentleman and a very satisfactory mayor for Bridgeport, is unfitted for the exacting duties that fall to the lot of a member of Congress."

"Already the opinion prevails among members of his party that the Bridgeport convention erred when it took up Mr. Hampton, who is virtually unknown, and turned down General Grover, who might at least have made the campaign interesting."

County Newspaper Changes Hands.

The "Press," of Pleasantville, now published by William Brown, will pass into the control of Walter E. GOOD HUNTING SEASON.

Sportsmen Say Quail and Rabbits Are Fairly Plentiful.

Game is reported plentiful in all parts of Atlantic County according to information from the gamefide. The season will open November 15, and gunners are already ascertaining the most desirable localities in which to hunt.

A large supply of English pheasants, which were released in the woods in several localities last fall, have prospered well and will in time afford abundant sport for gunners. Some of the hunters suggest that there should be no slaughter of the pheasants this year, in order to give them another year in which to increase and fully stock the County.

Rabbit and quail are also reported plentiful in almost every hunting district. Large coveys of quail have been seen along the County roads and on the farms.

FREEHOLDERS SELL BONDS

Authorise $60,000 Issue For Improvement of Meadow Boulevard Bridges—Members Guests of Engineer Rightmire.

At a meeting of the County Board of Chosen Freeholders held Wednesday morning last at Memorial Hall, Atlantic City, the balance of the bonds for improvements to the County buildings, amounting in all to $60,000, were disposed of at a premium. Four bonds, at $5,000 each, were purchased by the Egg Harbor Commercial Bank at the September meeting. Four more were sold Wednesday to the same bank, the balance going to the Atlantic Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of Atlantic City. The bonds were taken at a small premium, at five per cent. Five bids were received in all, but it was the opinion of the Finance Committee and County Solicitor that the offers of the two purchasing banks were the best.

Bids for repairs to bridges on the County Boulevard were received at the meeting, the contract for all four improvements going to the Nelson Meredith Company, which underbid all others. The bids on the bridge work were in full as follows:

Nelson Meredith Company—Frederick's Little Hay Creek, $10,150; South End Beach Thoroughfare, $12,400; Fish Creek, $18,900; Jonathan's Thoroughfare, $19,200.

Lockwood & Cherry—Little Hay, $10,540; Beach Thoroughfare, $12,577; Jonathan's Thoroughfare, $15,455; Fish Creek, $18,989.

A. W. Reilly—Little Hay Creek, $11,200.

D. C. Murland—Little Hay, $13,400; Beach Thoroughfare, $12,500; Fish Creek, $19,200; Jonathan's Thoroughfare, $17,800.

A communication was read by Fred Schuchardt from the Bazaar Lumber Company asking to be released from a bid to supply the County with lumber for $60,000. A motion to release the company was carried.

A bond issue of $60,000 for the improvements to be made to the County bridges was carried by a vote of 22 to 1. Freeholder Anderson Bourgeois dissenting. Twelve bonds will be issued, each for $5,000. Following a report on the bids for the work the contract was awarded to the Nelson Meredith Company as above, by a vote of 21 to 2. Freeholders Black and Bourgeois voting in the negative.

Following the report of Chairman Robinson of the Road Committee, the Board gave the Committee power to negotiate for the purchase of lands on the Chestnut Neck Road in order to eliminate several dangerous curves. Freeholder Bourgeois raised the question whether the Board could delegate such power to the Committee and Solicitor E. A. Higbee answered in the affirmative, explaining that the Committee could not very well go against the wishes of the Board in the matter.

Freeholder John S. Risley, of Hamilton Township, made a motion that the Board communicate with Commissioner Fred Gilksy relative to voiding the contract of Hilpott for the building the May's Landing-Tuckahoe road, on the contractor's request. The motion was unanimously carried.

County Clerk Levi C. Albertson was granted a leave of absence for three weeks. Mr. Albertson will spend a vacation in the mountains of Pennsylvania.

County Republican Ticket.

For Assembly, WALTER E. EDGE.

For Coroner, ELMER D. BUMP.

Hamilton Township Ticket.

For Assessor (3 years), HARRY JENKINS.

For Collector (3 years), CLARK W. ABBOTT.

For Township Committee (3 years), CHARLES D. MAKEPEACE.

For Surveyors of Highways, ELVEY KENDALL, ANSEL B. CROWELL.

For Poundkeeper, CHRISTIAN SCHRUMPF, LORENZ LEILING.

For Overseer of the Poor, DAVID SHEARER.

A clean sweep of Atlantic City and County was made Tuesday at the Primary Election by the regular Republican Organization. The candidates nominated for the Republican Ticket are all men of integrity and ability, men in whom the public has confidence, as demonstrated by the overwhelming majority by which they were nominated. The election was the most orderly in the history of Atlantic City, notwithstanding the predictions that the resort would be a "seething cauldron of riot and disorder," and the hatched-up sensations of outside journals.

That the political aspirations of the anti are doomed to certain destruction is assured. The public is becoming tired of their harping and if they refuse to take their fair defeat at the Primaries seriously they will receive a more substantial rebuff at the polls in November. For the people of Atlantic County have faith in the Republican Organization; they know that the prosperity of the resort has been fostered by its principles, that continued success will result from the perpetuation of those policies which have for so many years obtained in Atlantic County.

We have made wonderful strides as a people and nation since Robert Fulton launched the "Clermont" on the Hudson River and made the first trip on water in a vessel propelled by steam. In no like period of years in the history of the world has such great and lasting progress been realized. Others had experimented with steam engines in boats before Fulton, but it remained for him, in spite of discouragement that would have daunted an ordinary man, to build a steam-boat that would run. Now mammoth steamers cross the ocean, circumnavigate the globe and open commerce in every part of the civilized world. While steam is used as a motive power for vessels the name of Fulton will occupy a prominent place among the great inventors of the world. The influence his invention has had on national intercourse is beyond comprehension. Perhaps some other would have perfected the marine steam engine had he failed or become discouraged; but Robert Fulton did succeed and to him belongs the glory of the achievement.

Frequent fatalities on the electrified third-rail of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad seem to justify the contention that the rail should be guarded along those portions now exposed to travelers on and near the railroad. The company claims in defense that its right of way is private property and that the victims should have avoided trespassing thereon. That is true; but is there not a moral obligation on the officials of the railroad to safeguard the public in a more thorough manner? The man who has a dangerous dog that tears strangers when they go near him, may be beyond the reach of the law if the dog is chained, but is not freed from moral responsibility. Certainly, death is too severe a punishment for mere trespassing.

There are two great defects in the new Fall schedule of the electric railroad which took effect Tuesday last. There is no mid-afternoon train to Atlantic City stopping at the Court House Station nor no evening train to Philadelphia between 7.22 and 11.22 o'clock. While we should feel grateful for the excellent service we have enjoyed heretofore and which is indeed praiseworthy in the new schedule, we cannot help feeling that, as the County Seat, the railroad should make the service still better at this point. An effort to have at least two additional trains stopped at the Court House Station during the Fall and Winter is in order.

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," seems to be the motto of the Board of Education, which has caused notices to be posted throughout Hamilton Township of a third special school election on the "eleventh of October. The two propositions submitted at the last election, calling for the issuance of $50,000 bonds for the erection of a new High School building or $12,000 for additions and alterations to the old, will be again submitted. There is luck in odd numbers, say the sages, so let us indulge in a wish that the third election may be final.

Chief among our inherited riches of the past are the sage counsels of great men, whose reflections on the life of their times apply equally well to our own day. Among the men of the past whose writings have most helped mankind was Francis Bacon, the greatest philosopher of his age, who died nearly two hundred years ago. His writings abound with practical suggestions for right living and have been treasured by rich and poor. Read his suggestions on the regimen of health: "There is a wisdom," he says, "beyond the rules of physic in this; a man's own observation, what he finds good of, and what he finds hurt of, is the best physic to preserve health, but it is a safer conclusion to say this agreeeth well with me, therefore I will continue it; I find no offense of this, therefore I may use it; for strength of nature in youth passeth over many excesses, which are owing a man until his age; discern of the coming on of years, and think not to do the same things still. Beware of any sudden change of diet. To be free minded and cheerfully disposed at hours of meat, and of sleep and exercise, is the best precept of long lasting. If you fly physic in health altogether, it will be too strong for your body when you shall need it; if you make it too familiar it will work no extraordinary effect when sickness cometh. In sickness principally respect health, and in health action; for those that put their bodies to endure in health, may in most sicknesses which are very sharp be cured only with diet and good tending." All the wisdom that science has revealed to modern medicine knows no more potent factors for good health than these simple rules that Bacon wrote two hundred years ago.

Viewing the general climatic conditions of the past season from this distance it is evident that we were particularly free from inclement weather, wind storms and electrical disturbances. There were few storms more than a day in duration. Thunder showers were few and not severe. Added to this the comparative scarcity of that abominable pest, the mosquito, permitted residents of Atlantic County to live in peace and comfort. Altogether the season was one favorable to health and happiness, for which we should return thanks to Providence. No community is entirely free from objectionable features; but the shortcomings of Atlantic County as a place of residence are far outnumbered by its attractions, and we should endeavor, at all seasons and all times, to make the best of our blessings and to deserve them by striving for better homes, better municipalities and better living in general. We should so live in this generation than those following may derive inspiration to greater improvements by our example. To live for the present is selfish, narrow, unholly. We should measure our development in this century by those which have gone before and view it with the prophetic eye of futurity, so that our highest praise when this generation has passed away will be, they did the best they could. Given such favorable opportunities for advance along all lines of life as we now enjoy it is our bounden duty to foster civic improvements, promote the cause of education, raise the standard of home life and emancipate ourselves from prejudice, narrowness of mind and all that hinders improvement, private or public. Progress is the rule of the day.

The government has shown its interest in the Hudson-Fulton celebration by issuing souvenir stamps. The new design is artistic in conception and is one of the best engraved stamps ever printed in America.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

"There is a world of practical sense in some incisive remarks recently made upon some methods of forwarding the good roads movement. The highway is distinctly a local institution. It exists primarily for the people who live or do business in its particular neighborhood. It has a distinct relation to the convenience and prosperity of that community. Its improvement is first of all a matter of dollars and cents. A good road saves money in various ways. It reduces repairs upon vehicles. It enables a given vehicle to move larger load with less power and at less expense. It makes communication easier. If its advantages can be shown to justify its cost the question of its construction will soon be settled in its locality.

"There is of late an increasing tendency to look to the State or Nation for good roads. The National Highway has been a dream of visionaries since we have been a nation. Some States have seriously discussed State roads. Pennsylvania has gone so far as to provide for one by legislation. All that is of questionable soundness under our system. State aid to local authorities in roadbuilding, as in New Jersey, is justifiable. State supervision is necessary. But no community shall expect the State to build roads which are primarily and almost solely for the benefit of that community. The city does not look to the State to pave its streets. Neither should the borough or the township to the county. The problem before the good roads advocates is, therefore, to convince the local communities that it will pay them to build their own roads."—Newark Evening News.

"The honor of leading off in the movement for securing a sane observance of Independence Day in this State belongs to Trenton, whose Council has adopted an ordinance prohibiting the sale or use of toy cannons, toy pistols, firecrackers and fireworks of all kinds, except by persons to whom special permits may be given by the Mayor for public celebrations and exhibitions. By the adoption of this ordinance, Trenton has set an example which should be followed by every other municipality in the State before another Fourth of July rolls around. According to the report of the American Medical Association, the last Fourth witnessed more casualties than any of its predecessors since the keeping of a record was begun. There were 215 deaths and 5,000 non-fatal injuries, which figures include, only the cases where the attention was a physician was required. There were, of course, no record of the minor injuries for which home remedies were administered. In New Jersey the deaths from the Fourth of July accidents numbered 17, with several hundred victims to more or less serious injuries. These figures are appalling and it is time to dispense with the barbaric practice which makes them possible. If Baltimore, Cleveland, Springfield, Toledo and Washington can successfully eliminate powder and dynamite from their Independence Day celebrations, other cities can certainly do the same thing."—West Jersey Press.

"Oysters have died rapidly in some of the beds in Manville River Cove, although it is not the trouble is widespread. A Cedarville captain had one ground which was in fine condition the last week in August and there was easily six thousand dollars worth of marketable oysters on it. They began to die rapidly about September first and only a few hundred dollars worth of live oysters were secured. A few other planters have had a like experience and the cause for this rapid depletion of the beds is a mystery.

"The blivies were not attacked by borers and the few live oysters dredged up among thousands of dead ones, were in fine condition.

"A few planters are buying oysters from the tongs in the creeks, paying eighteen cents a bushel for the oysters delivered at the cove. The tongs catchers say that his oysters are thin and only about thirteen cents per bushel. The cause of the low price is the abundance of oysters gathered from the natural beds during the last few planting seasons. A few years ago, when oysters for planting were scarce, tongs received much higher prices than now."—Elmer Times.

Letting Them Worry

A Case Where the Old Folks Were Entirely Too Willing

By LOUISE OLNEY

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press

Perplexed, he gazed at Sallie. Her blue eyes flashed welcome, but her words turned him down. All summer she had been refusing to be seen with him. This time it was the club dance. As they had been friends from babyhood, he asked for reasons.

"Sallie, what's the matter? If you really hate the sight of me I'll keep away if it kills me, but somehow I don't believe you do. What have I done? Or is it Tracy, or don't you care, or what?" In the little summer house he faced her, his dark eyes snapping. She tossed her fair head, but her face was serious.

"Tracy, indeed! You ought to see his crazy about Mary Trevor! No; you have not done anything, Robbie, only—She fingered her rose in embarrassment.

"Only what, Sallie? Tell me. I can't stand this much longer."

"Well, she thinks you would hate it, too, this being—managed."

"Referring to our precious families' very apparent plot to get us married? That certainly is the limit!" He spoke coolly. She nodded, flushing with anger as he continued: "I don't blame you, Sallie. I hate it too. I—But she turned on him like a little tiger, leaping to her feet to face him.

"Why don't you go away then? Do you think that I—am you asking me everywhere because you think I—For answer he swept her suddenly into his arms, holding her face to his—a happy face, for she had always loved Robert Martin.

"Dear, you must know I want you—now, always! But why couldn't our people be decently reluctant? It's all so horribly planned! We both hate being maneuvered into marriage. Mother suffers even if I look at Mary—sweet girl, but not you."

"And dad gets so peevish at mere sight of Tom—Tom, who is everything dad and I don't want—but when he and mother greet me at breakfast with that repressed haven't you got something to tell us air I could gleefully announce Tom as their future son. That would be real revenge. Not that Tom wants me." The two looked up just in time to see Sallie's mother carefully steering the children away from the summer house. It was mad—denial. Sallie stamped her foot.

"I simply can't be engaged to you, Bob, with the family smiling benignly and all the old pussies purring over the fitness of the match! I can't!"

"Wait till you're asked," he retorted, grinning. "Sallie, we want each other, but we must let them worry. They simply must worry awhile! Did you know that poor old Tracy hates me because he likes I want Mary?"

"Stupid boy! Anybody could see where her heart is by the way she hates me when I chide her by going out with Tom. Wonder why he asks me."

"To get even because I play Mary's little lamb to bother mother. You see, Mary's family goes no further back than Adam. I suppose yours and mine antedate old Eden. I say, Sallie!"

But he saw Tom Tracy going past with his machine and ran after him with a shout. The two men talked a long time before Robert came back to Sallie.

"Get your veil and things and come for a spin. We'll stop for Mary, have lunch at some little town, have dinner at Baxter, call on my minister uncle John and get home by moonlight."

"And a chaperon?" Though the four had always known each other, Sallie was going at least to mention proprieties. Bob's wise eye twinkled.

"I think I can hunt up a young married woman somewhere," he remarked, but refused explanation till Tracy left the car to persuade Mary. Then Bob did his gallant best to make things clear. He succeeded. Sallie got in front with Tom, leaving Mary to an apparently all too devoted Bob, while they paraded past their respective homes, for he it said that the Trevors and the Arreys had long wished Mary and Tom to like each other.

It was rather too late that night to please Sallie's father when Tom left her reluctantly at her own door. And Bob, mother questioned, said he had been motoring with Mary.

That was the beginning. During August the four were inseparable, and the parents worried. The only apparent comfort was that the couples remained together. How could they know that partners were changed the minute they got from under surveillance? The girls were airy, radiant, innocent, the young men calm, impervious to comment or question. Never passing the bounds of propriety, they still baffled home attempts to regulate their movements.

Tom was always with Sallie, Bob in the wake of Mary. The couples weren't matched to suit the elders; but, from fearing they were engaged, they began to fear they were not. This was because the young people were beginning to excite social comment by reason of several escapades, obviously innocent, apparently accidental. They all came home one day dripping wet from overturning their canoes and swimming out, and another night they walked home ten miles after the motor had broken down by arrangement. It was first one thing, then another. Finally the parents compared notes. They decided that there was only one thing to be done—interview the four together and insist on less public devotion or an announcement of engagements.

The young people knew of this, and the evening the council was to occur at Sallie's home they promptly absented themselves. The meeting began, and after much polite sparring it was decided to make the best of the Tom-and-Sallie and Bob-and-Mary arrange-

Old Carving Terms.
At the banquets of the eighteenth century the man who carved needed to know words as well as the use of knives. Venison he "broached," the pheasant he "allayed," the rabbit and woodcock he "unlaced" and the crab he "tamed." Dismembering a swan was "lifting" him, and the crane under his knife was being "displayed." The peacock was "disfigured."

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is an optimist?"
According to my observations, son, an optimist is a man who finds his own affairs prosperous and tries to persuade other people not to make a kick and disturb conditions."—Washington Star.

Million Dollar Pier.

The fast increasing popularity of Atlantic City as an all year round resort has demanded entertainment for the thousands of visitors at all seasons. Capt. John L. Young, who has made an enviable reputation as a provider of pastimes for seashore visitors, offers a variety of entertainment on the mammoth Million Dollar Pier, unequalled anywhere. The one small fee of ten cents admission admits one to all the amusements of this play ground for young and old—dancing, music, games, vaudeville, everything that goes to make Autumn days pleasant at the seashore.

Mistook Dead Man for Another.

The body of an aged man found last week between Raley and Dorothy by George Greiler, of the former place, supposed at first to be that of David Edwards, of Dorothy, has proven to be that of Samuel Carr, a woodchopper. Mr. Carr, who was at one time a resident of this place, had no fixed place of abode and little is known of him.
