EVENING WITH LONGFELLOW.

How "Excelsior," the "Wreck of the Hesperus" and the "Old Clock on the Stair" Came to Be Written. "The Bridge" Was Bern of Sorrow.

I once wrote to the poet Longfellow asking him to give me some account of the circumstances under which 'he wrote "The Bridge"-"I stood on the bridge at midnight"-a poem which an eminent English critic has called "the most sympathetic in this language." I received in return a cordial note from the post in which he shid, "If you will come over and pass an evening with me it will give me pleasure to tell you the history of the poem and also of any of my poems that may interest you." A few evenings later found me at the poet's door at his Cambridge home. He was then verging on seventy years, in the fullness of his experience and the minishes the ranks open out until each ripeness of his fame. I was shown in- individual becomes at last plainly visito a long, hall-like room, dimly lighted, in which were a broad table, antique furniture and a tall colonial clock. The poet was there alone. He arose to meet me and formed a striking and statuesque figure, with his kindly smile and long white hair and beard.

"And so you would like to know something about the inspiration of some of my poems-what led me to write them?" he said when we were scated. "Well, you are very kind. "I will tell you first how I came to write the Psalm of Life.' I was a young man then. I can recall the time. It was a bright day; and the trees were blooming, and I felt an impulse to write out my aim and purpose in the world. I wrote it for myself. I did not intend it for publication. Some months afterward I was asked tor a poem by a' populár magazine. , I recalled my 'Psalm of Life.' I copied it and sent it to the periodical. It saw the light, took wings and flew over the world. There you may see it written

He added an anecdote which I have always regarded as a true picture of his soul: er the train was moving on a straight "When I was in England I was hopor curved track, and so we passengers ored by receiving an invitation from of the solar system, too, cannot know the queen. motions of our solar system? The old astrougner, before the invention of spectroscopic methods, could attack the problem only by a consideration of certain stellar motions. It has been found that these motions are not altogether casual in character; as we should expect, but there is a tendency to a grouping of the metions-an ar rangement other than fortuitous. It appears that the individual stars forming the so called constellations on the sky are slowly closing up near a certain point of the heavens and as slowly opening out near a point diametric-ally opposite. This is just what we should expect if the solar system is approaching the point where the stars are opening out. The phenomenon has been compared to what we see when a regiment of soldiers marches toward us. At first there is visible a confused

The Post-Telepram, of Camden, commenting upon the appointment of Judge Endicoro the Circuit Cours Bench, editorially, sa) = "There was no surprise in the announce county Judge Allen B. Endicott, of Atlautic, in Circuit Court Judge to succeed the late Judge Mixon. It has been an open secret at Trenton for the past week that Endicoit was sisted for the place, the delay in announcing over the selection of his successor. It can be said without the slightest reserva ion that the appointment is satisfactory to the bar of this section, where the appointed rill be mostly engaged as a trial judge. There are not a few members of the Camden bar who would have preferred to see th nor fall upon Judge Trenchard, of Cum rland, who had strong indorsement an was a close second choice, but none will deny the fitness of the appointee, nor doubt that he will dignify and bonor the higher judicias ition. And the bar is especially wel pleased that its request for the appointment of a South Jerseyman was not ignored."

is applied, the weary patient seldom survives. Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave careful study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills-Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound - made sure that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was certain to control that draaded disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM :- For two years my life was simply a burden, I suffered so with female troubles, and pains across my back and loins. The doctor told me that I had kidney troubles and prescribed for me. For three months I took his medicines, but grew steadily worse. My husband then advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought home a bottle. It is the greatest blessing ever brought to our home. Within three months I was a changed woman. My pain had disappeared, my complexion became clear, my eyes bright, and my entire system in good shape."-Mas. PAULA WEISLITZ, 176 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE NAMES OF DISEASES, Knowing the Right Names Trou ble Is Equetimes Saved

One of the first encentials in the thdy of any science is a definite menclature-the fixing of one name one thing for without that there an be no common ground of disasion, and the words of a writer may envey the wrong impression and give ise to erroneous ideas, the opposite, erhaps, of what was intended.

Unfortunately definiteness in names conspicuously lacking in medical cience, and not only in the popular names of diseases, but even in the erms employed by physicians themeven. The confusion of speech is articularly unfortunate in medicine, or it may be the occasion of very erious errors. For example, a mother tears that a meighbor's child has mempraneous sore throat . That seems a imple little thing, and she takes no neighbor's house. The neighbors hemselves are not alarmed, but even et the little visitor into the sick room. f the doctor had not employed a mbhemism, but had called the "memraneous sore throat" diphtheria, every ne would have known the gravity of he case and other children would not ave been needlessly exposed.
