THE MORTGAGE PAID.

We ain't havin' many laxu les, like city folkses do, We ain't wearin' all the latest styles an' all our clothes ain't news Of our honesty and goodness we ain't makin' no parade, But we're havin' all we want to eat an' got the mortgage paid.

We ain't pilin' up a fortune for the hoys to fight about When our last day's work is over an' we're steppin' down an' out But it's good to have succeeded in the effort that we made For to keep things runnin' smoothly an' to get the mortgage paid,

We have had our share of ups and downs, as other people do, But we've tried to keep our spirits up when things were lookin' blue; We'll be ready for the ending when the game of life is played. For we've raised the children best we knew and got the mortgage paid.

ANINALS WANDERINGS.

Country Mouse and Town Mouse Fable Has Foundation In Fact.

The fable of the country mouse and the town mouse has a foundation in fact, Mice occasionally migrate in large inumbers when food grows scarce and considerable distances to fresh rennes. Simplars in a past of Porthplace het a good manen to persone summe of this fret when a couple of years ago vast swarms of mice invaded their cornfields at harvest time. But the mouse only travels when it has to. The rat, on the contrary, seems to take a yearly outing, in very much the same fushion as do human beings. Rats are the most migratory creatures in the world. Troops of rats leave the towns at the end of summer and spend a month or two in the country, apparently in order to enjoy the change of food which the country affords at that time of the year in the way of fresh fruit and grain. Before the cold weather sets in they are all back again in their old quarters.

Reindeer migrate with the same regularity as swallows. They move south when winter sets in, but as soon as ever the snow begins to melt they travel steadily north, sometimes for as much as a thousand milles.

To end a holiday by deliberate sulcide is so strange a phenomenon that for a long time naturalists looked upon the stories of the migration of the lemmings as an improbable fiction. Yet the fucts are beyond dispute. At irregular, intervals these ratlike creatures start out from their homes in the fastnesses of northern Scandinavia in huge droves numbering tens of thousands and travel steadily southward. Detth pursues them in a bundred forms. Hawks and other birds of prey hover above them. Thousands are drowned in rivers. Yet the rest struggle on until they reach the sea. They do not stop. They plruge in, swim out and struggle on until :: last their strength fails and they drown. Not one ever returns from this journey of death.-London Answers.

COTTON IN A FABRIC.

Rew to Tell if Worsted or Woolen Cloths Are Adulterated.

Worsted cloths are less often adulternted than woolens and are more easily detected. A cotton worsted is a lie on the face of it, for the cotton stands out with prominence. But often a cotton thread is twisted with a worsted thread, and to determine its presence it is only necessary to take the twist -out of the thread and then examine It.

component parts. Cotton, having a long staple, can lie carded and combed with wool to be spun into worsted yarn. This is done to cheapen the cost of production. Cotton is carded and spun with wool and shouldy, not so much to cheapen the yarn, for cotton is generally as expensive as some shoddles, but is intriinced to give strength or spinning

DESERT SHEEP HERDERS. Their Lonely, Dreary Life Tends to Drive Them Crasy.

Do you realize what it means to watch 5,000 sheep alone in the desert? You have read weird, grewsome stories of the horror of the solitary lighthouse keeper's life, but compared to the days of the Mexican shepherd those of the average keeper of the light are filled with gayery and noise. Even .with your spur on the carcass you may leave their one or two dogs the shepherds it as long as you like and no wolf will

Once in old Santa Fe, N. M., I met a man who for twelve years had followthemselves, and thus poison was no good. At last a thousand dollars was ed the sheep. His work was done. All set upon his head. This brought a day long he sat in a chair in the rear noted wolf hunter from Texas, with of a little dobe store, crouched over. his pack of great wolfhounds. But gibbering to himself, bleating-an idiot. He still saw his sheep swaying like a again there was failure. Then two other hunters came with subtly devisgreat white wave among the sageed poisons to work his undoing. Then brush, and ever in his ears sounded the killing monotone of their bleats. boy, though fifteen years of age, is mentally no further advanced than the average child of five. His father is a shepherd, his mother die 1 when he was four years old, and his father took him out upon the range. All his life has been spent among the sheep. He is one, with them today. How is it possible, then, you ask, that men are to be found willing to watch them? It is very easy. Sheep herding is a lazy job at best, and the "greaser" is the laziest creature on earth. For $20 a month he is willing to sit in the sand and listen to the never ending bleating until the little mind he has gives way and they fetch him in from the range insane. He is glad to take the chance for $20 a month.

The greaser is not the only shepherd In the west. On the vast ranges of Ne. vada and Wyoming you may run across an occasional college man tending the sheep. Once, indeed, a college professor, ill of consumption, undertook to follow 5,000 bleaters for the summer. In autumn they found him insane, on his hands and knees among the sheep. bleating with them. Day after day his eyes behold only a brilliant turquoise sky, in which hangs a sun of brass; an ocean sweep of sage flecked sand and a slowly moving, compact mass of sheep. His ears hear no sound save the steady "Baa, baa!" day and night, affecting him as the Chinese criminal of ancient days was affected by the regular tap, tap of a hidden drum.

And yet so long as the desert continues to provide food for the "bleaters" so long will shepherds go mad among the flocks, and for ten years the desert's greatest value to man has been the food it has offered the sheep, nor yet is the store depleted .-- Pilgrim.

A WOMAN WHO SWORE.

And Her Oath Proved of Much Material Value to Her Husband, A party of married men were talk: ing about their wives, and it is worthy of note that every man was glad he had a wife, and was anxious to tell of her good points.

"I never heard my wife swear but once," said one of them when there seemed to be a lull in the praise meet-

All the others looked shocked. If any of them had ever heard their wives swear, they were not telling it, and they resented the frankness of the one man who was apparently betraying family secrets. But the man did not along the crisp, shelving sands, she regard the bad impression he had cre-

At Savinorosko, in Russia, is a paper house, says the London Tit-Bits. It has been entirely built of blocks of papier mache even the foundations and roof being made from that material. So, too, are the chimneys, although the paper used in their construction was first mingled with a fireproof material. The house, which is of considerable extent, will, in the opinion of its architect, outlast such as are built of stone and brick, and will cost over £8,000.

In certain towns of Russia, too, the experiment is now being made of utilizing paper for paving the roads and streets. In this case also blocks compressed to great solidity are employed, and are said to stand excellently the wear and tear of traffic. The cost, however, is at present too great to permit anything like their universal adoption. For courtyards of mansions and similar purposes where will soon come into vogue.

Out of the sheets of an Australian daily paper an ingenious Viennese ensincer has lately constructed for his own use a small yacht, fifteen feet long, decked all over and provided with a centerboard.
