FIVE HOT BATHS IN A DAY.

South African Woman Thinks I Necessary for Infant's Health. A traveler in south Africa gives some interesting incidents about the women there. The mother gives her infant four or five hot baths a day considering it necessary for the health and growth of the child. After the bath the baby is rubbed with a sort of paint prepared by mixing a soft clay with oil. Its tollet completed, it is fed and placed on its mat by the fire

"A mother does not leave her young child in her kraal when she goes out to gather wood, fetch water or work her farm, but carries it on her back in a sling, which, by the way, is made by the man of the household. The bables' principal food, as soon as they have whey which their mothers'draw from and I've heard the violins and the the clabbered milk prepared in great promiest house in town, now I'm a 'cello and the booming bass viol make in quantities for the men of the house.

"You must not fancy that the women think of themselves in preparing the food for the family. A woman's taste is of too little importance. Indeed. I think such a thing is not known, to exist. Food is prepared for the husband and his friends according to his orders and if there should be anything left over then the women and girls may eat it in another part of their little hot. If not, ther must satisfy their the men are known to care little.

"The meals for the men usually consist of several courses, of which boiled fruits, the clabber of which I have the same vessel, an iron pot, with a manage to dowery creditable pokisk. Besides belling their me the Bering Sec. Long before Pcter the Great had sen Vitus Bering to America, in 1741, Rusilan voyagers had launched out east and north with a daredevil recklessness that would have done honor to prehistoric man. That part of their idventures is a record that exceeds the wildest darings of fiction, says a writer in Harper's Magazine. Their poats were called kotches. They were some sixty feet long, flat-bottomed. blanked with green timber. Not a nail was used. Where were nails to come from 6,000 miles across the frozen mndras? Indeed, Iron was so scarce that at a later day, when ships with nails ventured on these seas, natives were detected diving below to pull the nails from the timbers with their teeth. Instead of nails the Cossacks used reindeer thongs to bind the planking together. Instead of tar, moss and clay and the tallow of sea animals calked the seams. Needless to say, there was neither canvas nor rope. Reindeer thongs supplied the cordage, reindeer hides the sails. On such rickety craft, "with the help of God and a little powder," the Russian voyagers hoisted sail and put to sea. On just such vessels did Desnneff and Staduchin attempt to round Asia from the Arctic into Bering sea (1647-50).

FIRST COSSACKS IN AMERICA. Daring Voyagers in Kotches Acros

To be sure, the first bang of the ice floes against the prow of the rickety boats knocked them into kindling wood. Two-thirds of the Cossack voyagers were lost every year; and often all news that came of the crew was n most-pole washed in by the tide with a dead man lashed to the cross-trees. Small store of fresh water could be carried. Pine needles were the only antidote for scurvy; and many a time the boat came turbling back in the home port, not a man well enough to nese War or Present Crisis. Originally the Cossacks were bandits and they seem to have retained all the worst qualities of that disreputable class and to have lost all traces of the rough kindness which sometimes characterizes brigands in reality as well as in romance.

They have by no means always sup ported the ezars, but often fought against them, and it was not until 1814 that they gave up their brigandage and became a kind of irregular horsemen. who, in return for a grant of land and freedom from taxation, came out to fight when called upon and brought their own horses, arms and equipment. Nothing about them resembles the smart cavalry of other European countries, for both they and their ponles are small and insignificant and neither is properly groomed.

Their reputation as fighters was earned chiefly during the Napoleonic invasion, when the French cavalry repeatedly charged them without effect. Under the conditions of modern warfare they have proved useless and since they have been brigaded with the regular cavalry they have lost their chief source of strength-their

When a naval architect plans an im provement in marine construction he generally has little thought for its effect on the denizens of the sea. The man who invented bilge keels, however, says a writer on South America, provided the whales of the Brazilian coast with just the sort of backscratcher they needed.

Insect pests annoy the whale, and barnacles find a home on a large part of his body. Sometimes the monsters may be seen rolling on a shallow sandy bottom to displace these pests, or rubbing themselves on the rocks of reefs. On one occasion the mail steamer Orissa was stopped during a dense fog a few miles off Santa Maria Island in the Pacific. The coast being dangerous, an anchor was let down sixty fathoms or so, and the ship alwed to drift in the smooth water. About six in the morning the captain heard some heavy whale "blows" or "spouts" apparently close at hand. Shortly afterward a continued tremor of the ship was felt.: It was too gentle for an earthquake, and was varied with bumps. Soon a huge whale rose slowly out of the water and floated alongside, like a bark bottom up. It again descended, and the tremors re-

Then the crew noticed barnacles and shell-fish coming to the surface, and the secret was out. The whale was scraping himself-currying himselfon the sharp plate which projected as a steadler from the vessel's bilge. Not caring to have him so near, in case he should smash the boats, the captain had him pelted with potatoes and coal; but he took no notice of it till a piece of coal went into his mouth, and was swallowed by mistake. Then he drenched the vessel thoroughly and "steamed" away, a last flourish of his indignant tail indicating that he was seeking quiet in the greater depths.

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Un less Hands Were Tied-"Would Have Died But For Cuticura."

"My little son, when about a year and half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton and was hardly able to walk. My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment, and at the end of about two months any sores of any kind since. He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. WHEN THE SPEAKER IS BLIND

Not Recognised if He la Hatless. English official life is crowded with odd customs, but one of the oddest of these is the demand that the counsel appearing before the courts shall be lean shaven and dressed in dark clothes beneath the gowns they wear. One famous counsel suddenly found that the judge could not see him because in the heat of an argument his gown had become disarranged, disclosing the fact that the pleader had on a light suit of clothes. Although the case was an important one the trial was stopped until the counsel had sent to his home for a dark suit. Smarting with humiliation, he turned away; to be followed by a gentleman in waiting, who explained that the peer had not been properly clothed in that he had forgotten to pin to his uniform decoration given him by the foreign potentate in whose honor the reception was given. The decoration had been brought to the palace, its omission being an oversight, and with his costume completed as we had in 1905, most of us will be again presented himself, this time to be graciously received.

BURIAL OF HAWAIIAN KING.

Carried Secretly by Chiefs ! Subterranean Cavern. The discovery of rare relics of old lawaii in a burial cave in Walpir aulch, Hawaii, recalls to Hawailan dvanced in years many of the tradtions concerning burials in ancient times. One story which was handed down through a family is to the effect that long before the missionaries arrived in the Hawaiian Islands Jacks. two native farmers went near Waiplo guich at the close of a day to look the municipality of Rome has decided after their potatoes. Darkness came to employ police motor boats on the on while they were still working, says Tiber.

the Honolulu Commercial Advertiser, Suddenly a light apepared on the summit of the hill. It was a kukui torch. Then another came into view until finally the summit and the slope were a bobbing mass of lights. The natives knew that a burial was about to take place. If discovered they, according to the law of the times, would be killed. They threw themselves down in the weeds and remained quiet. The procession came close to them and In a litter carried by several men whose remains, according to rumor, may have been discovered by Mr. Forbes in Waipio gulch, his body was taken by Prince Hospill and his halfbrother, the High Chief He'olulu, and hidden in a submarine cave, the secret of the location perishing at the death of Ho'olulu. Kamehameha's body lay in state at Kamekahonu. Kailua, Kona, Hawaii. His temporary grave there was named Ahuena. and the spot is known at the present day as Kamakahonu-i-Ahuena.

Hoapili and Ho'olulu watched the grave, waiting for a time when the high chiefs, who were waving kahilis. and the groups of natives would fall asleep. When the time was opportune the two high chiefs snatched up the bundle of Kamehameha the Great's for his arms two rolls of paper, rebones, which had been woven into a net and enveloped in an Ahu'ula cloak (yellow feather cloak). Prince Hoapili had given his broth-

When Prince Hoapili saw him he stood perfectly still so as not to attract the youth's attention. Ho'olulu fearing the report of the pistol if discharged would alarm others, he gave the man a blow with the butt end, intending to kill him. The chiefs resumed their flight until they reached a place on the shore, where a canoe was drawn up. They sailed along the coast, it is said, until they came to a place which natives assert was Kamehameha's last resting place. Ho'olulu dived into the water and swam and there deposited the royal remains. Mabel Reiner, aged 5, was seated on the doorstep of her mother's home was about to eat a piece of bread and butter covered with sugar, when a large gray wolf dashed up, anatched the bread out of her hand and went off with it.

The latest novelty in vegetables is black potato, which has been sent to a well-known seed merchant of London. This eccentric tuber came from the Congo, and is said to have an excellent flavor. It is especially Hawali, the cave in Waiplo gulch may recommended for ornamental cookery and in salads.

Through the efforts of Admiral Mc-Calla, à bronze tablet has been placed on the house occupied by the chaplain to be found an uncantry product of the at Mare island navy-yard, announcing that the house was occupied by Farragut, 1854-'58, while he was the commandant of the yard. He was the first commandant.

A characteristic little story is told about Princess Charles of Denmark, Dunstan, the naturalist, discovered which, if not new, is well worth reit not long ago while wandering on peating. When she was quite a little the shores of the lake. Attracted by girl, a woman asked her whether it cries of pain and terror from his dog, was true that the Queen once boxed the ears of a boy whom she saw ill treating a dog, says Home Notes. "No," said Princess Maud, "It is not true, but I am sure mamma would have liked to have done it."

This entrance causes genuine consternation. All the negroes in the room seem frenzied with fear and huddle together along the walls. This is death himself, and should he touch any of those present with the bone that unfortunate person would die before the next Christmas.

As a general thing, however, the man impersonating death is kindhearted, and manages to trip and fail before he reaches any of the spectators. Instantly the presiding genus springs to her table, begins a vigorous tattoo of triumph and the entire company breaks into a wild hallelujah chorus.

The power of death thus broken, the impersonator removes the black sack from his head and the assemblage blunges into a kind of prayer and exrodoo dances have their place.
