RAIN AND SHINE.

The clouds are thick and darkly lower.

The sun never ending shower;

I hear the patter of the rain.

I hear the patter of the rain.

And then I see the mist entwining

One lone figure on the plain.

Behold! the gentle sun is shining!

As though exultant in its power.

The storm has blown with steady strain

Upon the tower.

I hear the patter of the rain;

It swiftly sweeps across the plain.

And then I see the sky refining

And molten with a golden stain.

Behold! the gentle sun is shining!

Beneath the storm the claret cover.

It leaps upon the growing grain.

And then I see the sky refining

And molten with a golden stain.

Behold! the gentle sun is shining!

From where the clouds too long have lain

They turn, and show a silver lining.

A splendid glory comes again.

Behold! the gentle sun is shining!

FOILING THE WIDOW.

It was a family council of deep significance and dire import.

Delia, sitting upon the arm of the sofa, springing one neatly-showered foot to and fro, had a pucker upon her pretty blonde face, only matched by the frown on Susan's forehead, as she, with her face between her hands, her elbows on her knees, sat

upon a hassock, gloomily staring at the empty grate.

"Fred," who was never known to be memory of the Armstrong clan, to have looked serious for five minutes at a time, had a face like a mute at a funeral.

Only Frederick looked less than gloomy, and his face was a mixture of perplexity and surprise.

"To be sure, Fred was not an Armstrong," but only Delia's betrothed, and he had been away for nearly a year, starting his fortune in the city two hundred miles from the spot where Armstrong's Ferry nestled between two groves in Pennsylvania.

"But," he said presently, "I thought you were all independent of any caprice of your uncle's."

Susie jumped right off the hassock in her indignation.

"Fred, I mean, you ought to be ashamed of yourself," she said, "as if we were thinking of Uncle Jesse's money."

Most magnificent emphasis of scorn upon the last word.

"But, began Fred, again, the perplexity expressed in his expression, "what is it,

then, that is the old man a right to marry

if he likes?"

"Humph," said Ted, "if he likes, I suppose it is."

Delia understood this.

"Uncle," she said, "the dearest, most innocent of men, the dearest, as you call him, and loving as a child, and generous as

—as well, I really do not think of anybody as generous. And we all love him better than anybody else in the world."

"Present company always excepted," muttered Fred.

"Nobody at all excepted," said Delia, emphatically.

Fred assumed a resigned expression, and the familiar grin returned to Ted's classic features.

"She," continued Delia, "came to Armstrong's Ferry for the summer, a beautiful designing, vain piece, all affection and sniping, and she made up her mind to marry Uncle Jesse's money. Much she cares for him!"

"As if we would care," broke in Susie.

"If he was going to have a nice, loving, sweet wife to pet and love him! But she

—The finding of the skeleton in the Gravelly Run Swamp has been the means of bringing back to the minds of some of the old residents a few mysterious disappearances which have taken place. (Nathaniel Ford, who lived near the bridge at the upper end of town, disappeared about forty years ago and no trace of him has been discovered; another was that of Col. Mulich, a prominent citizen of Egg Harbor, who disappeared about ten or twelve years ago, and the Indian-larker, Levin Smith, mentioned in last week's Record, who left about ten years ago. We are still inclined to the belief that the skeleton found was that of one of the wood-choppers, and that he lay there for very nearly half a century.

Mulich, a prominent citizen of Egg Harbor, who disappeared about ten or twelve years ago, and the Indian-larker, Levin Smith, mentioned in last week's Record, who left about ten years ago. We are still inclined to the belief that the skeleton found was that of one of the wood-choppers, and that he lay there for very nearly half a century.

—An effort was made before Judge Reed on Monday to obtain a ruling to stay proceedings in the railroad running through the Colwell tract, on account of the alleged description of the property not being correct on the maps of the line made by the railroad surveyors, but the judge declined to grant the rule, and the money damages, $1,400, was tendered to Mr. Colwell, on Monday night, but that gentleman declining to receive the award, it was paid into the hands of County Clerk Down. Work on the road has not been interrupted, save by the strikers on Tuesday.

—A prisoner in jail, by the name of W. L. Galbraith, who hails from Hammonkton, has a long communication in last week's Republic, in reference to the new jail building. He is in jail on this account: An Italian shot a pigeon on Galbraith's place and he (Galbraith) got angry and in order to make good, he escaped the Italian and the gun and the other afterwards demanded it from him. Refusing, said he finally brought a justice of the peace. The decision of the justice was against Galbraith and still refusing to give up the gun he was committed to jail. At the last term of court application was made to Judge Reed to have him interfere, but he declined and advised that the property be given up. So it appears it is optional with Galbraith how long he remains in his present quarters. There is no doubt but what at least $1,000 could be laid out very advantageously on the jail building and the Building Committee were instructed by the Board of Freeholders at their last meeting to finish the building, but nothing has been done. Still, we incline to the opinion that Galbraith is not the one, under the circumstances, to complete it. He may stop at whenever he pleases, by delivering up the gun to the owner.

—The Young Men's Literary Society met in McClain's Hall on Tuesday evening, but no doubt the members thought they would gain "more information from the meeting than books" by attending the meeting of the strikers, so the discussion of the abstract question was postponed until the meeting next week.

—The second sale of horses, by Mr. Geo. D. Stuart, will take place at the American House, in Haddonfield, on Wednesday next, Feb. 23. Twenty-one head of the horses, from Lawrence county, Pa., and Mahoning county, Ohio. They were selected with great care and are suitable for general use. No postponement on account of the weather. See the advertisement in another column.

—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in Atlantic City last Saturday night to take action on the proposition of certain New York parties to run a line of steamers from New York to Atlantic City the coming season, provided the citizens of the latter place build an iron pier. The movement was approved and hearty co-operation promised. Mayor Wright presided.

—Dr. Hanson, President of Pennington Seminary, will lecture in the M. E. Church, in Haddonfield, on Wednesday evening next, Feb. 23. The subject, "My first voyage across the ocean and a bird's-eye view of London and Paris," is the same as that delivered in this place some time ago. The Doctor should have a full house.

—The public school exhibition takes place on Saturday evening next, Feb. 28. The object is to raise funds to purchase a large bell for the school building, and we hope to see the hall crowded on the occasion.

—A man named Fred Bandiger, living in Atlantic City, was taken to Philadelphia on Friday last week, charged, on complaint of Annie E. Hoffman, a resident of Philadelphia, with malpractice. Bandiger had a hearing on Saturday at the Federal Station, the result of which was that the Magistrate held him in $2,500 bail for a further hearing on the 25th inst.

—The proprietors of the Plainfield, N. J., Daily Bulletin now issue a weekly edition. We hope the enterprising publishers may find the undertaking to be a profitable one.

—Sheriff Moore sold the premises in Atlantic City, seized as the property of Mary G. Kuehnle, on Saturday last, by Mr. Louis Kuehnle. The price paid was $6,000. It is the intention of Mr. Kuehnle to at once commence the improvement of the same.

—Plants in hanging baskets are with difficulty kept moist enough when watered in the ordinary way. It has been recommended to immerse the baskets in a tub of water for a few minutes, then take it out and allow it to drip before returning to its usual place.

—One of the busiest places about town is getting to be the old-established stand on Sugar Hill. Mr. Geo. H. Cramer has built up a good trade there in a very short time. His delivery wagon is kept constantly on the road.

—Try a dozen bottles of the Genesee Brewing Co.'s (Robinson) Lager Beer. The Lager Bottling Company No. 33 South Third street, Philadelphia, are the agents for this celebrated beer.

—The next meeting of the County Board of Examiners of Atlantic county for the examination of candidates for teachers' certificates will be held in the Egg Harbor City school-house, on Saturday, Feb. 28, 1880, commencing at 9 o'clock, a. m.

—Jacob Washington Roller will be four years old to-morrow, Feb. 22nd, his father, Mr. Christian Roller, who resides near Winslow, writes in a note to this paper.

—Another old land-mark of the Landing has been removed, we allude to the large button-wood standing in the middle of the road near the Sugar Hill bridge. It stood on the line of the new railroad.

—The case of the ex-conductor, Furman Peacock, was taken up in the Camden court last week and again adjourned until the next term, owing to the absence of an important witness for the State.

—Rev. Mr. Kellogg, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Atlantic City, has resigned the position and goes to Manchester, New Hampshire, where he takes charge of a Congregational church.

—Rev. John Langhitt of Princeton College, who is described as being a young man of great abilities, extensive learning and unquenchable piety, will doubtless be called to the pulpit of the Haddonfield Presbyterian Church as permanent pastor.

—Stacy Shoff has moved the dwelling house in Taylortown, belonging to Jack Gaskill. The building stood on the line of the West Jersey & Atlantic. We understand the railroad company paid Gaskill $200 and the expense of the removal.

—Dr. W. Boardman Reed of Atlantic City, had a label suit on hand in Philadelphia this week. The plaintiff was Mrs. Annie Bailey. The complaint was based on a publication of a libel item in the Sunday Press, of July 11, 1875, which stated that Mrs. Bailey, the wife of a flour dealer on Girard avenue, near Tenth street, had eloped with a man named Richard Egert, who kept a cigar store near the river. The item went on to say that the lady had forsaken a good home, one child and her husband to take up her abode with her new lover, and that the couple had fled to Tacoma, and further that Everett had appeared at his store in a day or two wearing a "new suit of clothes," which was something unusual for him. The article was headed "Elopement," and a sub-headline as follows, "High Times on Girard Avenue." With respect to this publication Mrs. Bailey and Mr. Everett this morning denounced it as entirely false, without a foundation. The defense of Mr. Reed was that it was more than editor of the paper and not its proprietor or publisher; that the Herald Publishing Company were the proprietors, and they not be liable for damages. The jury was to bring in a sealed verdict on Tuesday.

—The German-Town Telegraph in noticing the many improvements being made by the Camden & Atlantic Railroad Company for the approaching season, winds the article up with this deserved compliment: "The Company is ably managed by Mr. Freeman, the President, and Mr. Zimmerman, the Secretary and Treasurer, being enterprising and liberal in their ideas, and most satisfactorily fill their respective positions."

—Mr. Phoebe Barrett, aged 74, died on Tuesday night of apoplexy and was buried on Thursday afternoon, from her late residence in Catawba. Mr. Joe Champion was the undertaker.

—Mr. Samuel M. Colburn died in Port Republic on Wednesday and was buried on Friday.

—Mr. John B. Chapman was in the Landing on Thursday.

—Quite a large number of strangers in the Landing on Thursday—attending the sale of the personal property of the estate of the late Judge Isaacs.

—Mr. Freehold Strickland, of Leeds Point, was in town on Thursday, and reports everything quiet in his section.

—An exchange truthfully and pertinently says: Strangers judge a town or country by the appearance of the local papers. A good home paper has a constant influence in drawing people and money into a place. A poor paper, if it has any influence, rather drives them away. It is, evidently, then, a duty to support a good paper on such a liberal way that it can afford to be first-class in every respect.

—The Camden Daily Post, of Tuesday, has these items, under the head of "Methuist Table Talk":

W. H. Stevens, of the Tabernacle M. E. Sunday school, who goes to India as a missionary, reached England last week and continued his journey to Bombay on his way to the scene of his future labors.

B. F. Archer, of the Centenary M. E. Church, is to be a delegate from the New Jersey Conference to the General Conference of the M. E. Church of the United States, which will convene in Cincinnati in May next.

The report that Rev. George Reed, now at Absecon, will go to the Union (Gibbs) Church, this city, is an old one no longer, as other arrangements have been made.

Rev. G. S. Sykes, of May's Landing, is waited by the Tabernacle M. E. Church of this city. There is opposition elsewhere, but the Tabernacle will most likely win.

Rev. James Moore, now of the Union Church of this city, is talked of by the church in Vineland.

Rev. Adams, of the St. James Church, New Brunswick, is said to be the coming pastor of the Centenary, this city.

ENGLISH CHURCH, Feb. 18.
Our Postmaster has been planting shells and expects to realize a large profit by the growth of oysters on them.

Capt. Treven's family arrived home on the 14th from the ill-fated schooner, Emma C. Babcock.

Mr. Larner Gibson started for the West on Monday, to take charge of a farm in Missouri.

George English has leased Scull's cottage in Atlantic City, for the coming season, and will be prepared to furnish first-class board.

Our pastor, Rev. Mr. Lively, was very much surprised on entering the parsonage on the evening of the 12th, after services, to see the tables covered with choice delicacies given by the young folks of this place and Haddonfield. There was some there that had not the wedding garment on and therefore should have been cast out.

A homely servant girl in a house is a well-spring of joy.
An Ohio newspaper speaks of a man being bruised by the "emphatic gestures of a maul."

It is a mean woman who will waste a last year's plate of fashions for business into this year's fashion book, and send it to her female friends just before Easter Sunday.

"John, you won't have potatoes enough for dinner, with so much company; we shall do do." "Tell them we've got our potatoes, and the girl had to jump on them. They won't ask for any," said John.

Governor St. John of Kansas, estimates that since last April at least 10,000 colored refugees have arrived in that State, and that not less than 12,000 of them have been destitute of food and means, and very scantily clad. He expects many thousands to come this year.

A tramp found a woman alone in a Vermont farm-house, and threatened to kill her if she did not give him five cents. "Well, here it is," she said, showing the coin. "But I guess I'll shoot to you," and she dropped it into the barrel of a shot gun. The fellow did not wait to take it.

When Spilton was house the other night M. S. informed him in a stage which that she had caught an awful cold and had lost her voice. And would you believe it? The heathen Spilton said nothing, but snickered behind his hand. And yet, only a few years ago Spilton thought there was nothing so musical in the world as Sarah's voice.

A big six-foot lifting for all he was worth on a wagon wheel, which was stuck; when a little two-foot note of humanity, nearly as broad as he was long, and just out of lung dress and into pants, with his hands in his pockets and a swaggering air, sang out: "Mister, do you want me to help you? I can run my way you like."

"No, Carr, no way." "We authorize our Agents to guarantee that our Medicine, if taken according to directions, will relieve constipation and the diseases incident to a torpid liver; and if any one will show by positive proof that it has not produced what we guarantee they are entitled to a return of their money, provided they take the genuine Simmons' Liver Regulator by the directions."

Candid was the young Englishwoman who, in a church not far from Boyton Manor, the residence of Prince Leopold, got up to forbid the bans of a rustic couple who were anxious to get into matrimony. "I thought, when the church was so full of people, that 'Just cause of impediment' was the only one. 'Well, what is it?' asked the officiant. "I—want him myself," naively stammered out the damsel.

A Zulu youth cannot marry a girl until he has whipped all his brothers and given her father a flogging, if demanded, in addition. This makes a courtship more exciting than chocolate caramels or gumdrops; but maiden warriors and maidens weighing 150 pounds each, and measuring fifty inches around the waist, generally die an old maid, while the girl whose brothers are weak and sickly, and whose father is sleeping beneath the daisies, is overruled with proposals. It is a queer custom.

Nearly 300,000,000 postal cards were used in the United States last year. They are made of Hokyky, Mass., by a private company, and are the general supervision of a government officer. The work is nearly all done by machinery, even to counting and putting them up in packages of twenty-five. The use of postal cards is said to have driven many makers of writing paper and envelopes out of business.

A hard-shell Baptist preacher was on an Atlantic river steamer in the old days of sailing. The captain, seeing a rival boat full of sailors, began to curse, and ordered rat, pie-kicks, bacon, etc., to be thrown in, to kinble the fire as hot as possible; and as the steam got higher and higher, the fatigued preacher cried his way farther back on deck. The jolly captain, seeing this topped him on the shoulder and said: "Hallo, Brother! I thought you was one of them fellows who believes that what is to happen will happen." "No," said the preacher; "but I'd like to be as near the stern as possible when it does happen!"

There is a devout man in Syracuse, N. Y., who apparently died a week ago, but his body remained so life-like and retained its color so perfectly that the relatives decided that he could not be dead. The funeral was postponed and a physician summoned, but the husband refused to permit him to administer any restorative. He maintained that if the Lord had permitted her to go into a trance, and was anxious to using her alive, he would do so. Meanwhile he did not intend to meddle with Providence.

The boys were telling me a pretty good one down at Corning, N. Y., about a young fellow, in commercial life named Blake. Blake? Yes, Blake. He was in the hard-ware line. One day, when the boss was at dinner, a countryman came in to buy some puts. He found an article that suited him, but waited a dozen. Young Blake looked at the price-list and found they were listed "25 cents a dozen 30 off." He gave a low, inverted whistle, and then with a sudden inspiration he handed the customer five cents and told him he could buy the puts at the other store. "By George," he said, when he was telling the governor of the State, "I could do to save the puts, anyhow."

An old man near Fremont, Ohio, was drawing water from a twenty-foot well. The bucket slipped off the hook, and he slipped and died after it. The water was shipped deep, else he might not have recovered his precious mind and scrambled up to the surface of the well. But that is not a circumstance to the exploit reported from St. Louis. A workman fell off the St. Charles bridge, and in a descent of fifty feet, turned several somersaults and alighted on his head, which came in contact with a limestone rock. Then the unfortunate yet wonderful man rolled into the river and disappeared, but was soon rescued by his fellow workmen, and is merely waiting for a scow workmen, twelve feet to his head, to be lowered into the water.

Quite a social gathering of Absecon takes at the Parsonage this week. Needless for fun.

OVARIAN TUMORS.
The removal of these tumors by RADWAY'S TOLIVET is now so certainly established that it was once considered almost miraculous a few years since. It was first used in the case of Hannah P. Knapp, 315 West 4th St., St. Louis, by Dr. J. M. D. Smith, in 1871. It broke in her case in 1872; and also that of C. C. Babbitt, in the present edition of our case and Cure.

RADWAY'S PILLS.

It will in a few moments, when taken according to directions, cure Chills, Sore Throat,

Dysentery, Colic, Wind in the Bowels, and all other ailments.

in water will prevent sickness or pains from chills, or water in the stomach, or from boredom or biliousness as a stimulant.

Miners and Lumbermen should always be provided with it.

CAUTION.
All remedial agents capable of destroying life
by an overdose should be avoided. Morphine, opium, strychnine, arsenic, barbituric acid, and other powerful poisons, when taken in very small doses, relieve the patient during the first few days, but after a few days the second dose, if repeated, may aggravate and cause the patient to suffer and perhaps die.
There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like RADWAY'S READY RELIEF will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the least difficulty in obtaining it.

THE TRUE RELIEF.
RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is the only remedial agent in virtue that will instantly stop pain.
