"AND THE LIFE EVERLASTING."

The days and months have lengthened into years

And 'twixt thy heart and mine, oh, hest beloved!

Since pale lips said "Farewell,"

Death's strange, sad silence fell.

How rich is life! Fond memory illumines The darkness of to-day. Eternity's calm glory casts a brightness Along my lonely way.

Patience, my soul! Think, in thy darkest hours Of joys that thou hast known. Courage, my heart! Each day the hour draws neares When thou shalt claim thine own. -Donahoe's Magazine.

ceived in society by good women so long will he be "respectable." It is simost incomprehensible, how women, who suffer most because of the double standard of morals, will smile upon men whom they know to be corrupt. Leniency in this regard is treason to the woman's sex. Judge McEwen goes on to say: "I can remember day when drunkenness was regarded as a novel pastime. But a sentiment against it sprang up among the women and the evil has greatly abated. Drunkenness ceased to be respectable when woman put the ban upon it. Yet the drunkard is a harmless idjot by the side of the libertine. When woman receives a man of loose morals on equal terms she is being kind to a serpent who "outvenoms all the Nile!" The judge is right. What he says h not new, but it is one of the things that must be said ever and over again. Women must adopt a stricter code of morals toward men.

In spite of all the hue and cry against hazing at civilian colleges and fisticuffs at Annapolis it is not likely that those manifestations of youthful vivacity will be more than temporarily suppressed. The trouble is not to be remedied save by putting old heads on young shoulders, and that consummation, though it may eventuate in the process of evolution, is still a long ways off. #### THE MAN ON FOOT.

Seminoul He Has No Mights 44 Againet 130 Morney

One of the peculiarities in Stamboul the insolent demeanor of the borse man to the footman. Many times dally you will see some rascal of a cabman trying to drive down a well dressed an on the street. The drivers rarely. take the trouble to shout as they apwith wonder at observing the mentness with which well dressed Turks on fast submitted to such treatment from coast. The whole coast of central and lower Californiti, from Cape Mondo shabby Turks on carriage boxes. Even when as injury was done to such a peestrian he was often bespattered with mud." Stamboul must be as unpleasant alace is which to live.' Were estmen in our country to treat pedestrians so micklessly there would be many cases of assault and battery, and think some mortality among the Jebus. One day I saw a uniformed Turk sicking his way across the street, using his mober as a walking stick. A carwo pounds. ringe suddenly dashed down on him. Long ago the Chinese and Japanese and fty driver, after nearly running over him; hurled at him a volley of sounded like choice Turkish buse. The uniformed Turk retorted not. He scraped the mud off his uniform: stuck his saber under his arm waded ashore. In our country a man with a saber would have used it the driver's back. By this I do not that the Turks are lacking in pirit-far from it, but apparently it ould seem to be the enstors of the many that the man on foot; as The divers bring them ashere and ppread them out in a similar bid to dinat the man or bornebacky are un rights -"A Levantine Ldg Book." There are no days like the good old days, The days when we were youthful! When humankind were pure of mind. And speech and deeds were truthful; Before a love for sordid gold Became man's ruling passi And before each dame and maid became Slave to the tyrant fashio!

There are no girls like the good old girls-Against the world l'd stake 'em ! As buxom and smart, and clean of heart As the Lord knew how to make em! They were rich in spirit and common

And piety all supportin ; They could bake and brew, and ha taught school, too, And they make such likely courtin'!

There are no boys like the good boys-When sos were boys together ! When the grass was sweet to the brow bare feet That displed the laughing heather; When the pewce sung to the summ dawn Of the bee in the billowy clover, Or down by the mill the whip-poor-will Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love. The love that mother gave us! We are old, old men, yet we pine again . For that precious grace-God save us So we dream and dream of the good old times, And gur hearts grow tenderer, fonder As those dear old dreams bring soothing ____gleama.

there was a shrick of laughter. oh, what a sight you are; if you could only see yourself." Suddenly she reached for something hitherto concealed; then the little click of a canera, then more laughter. "Oh, I could not help it, it was such a temptation." "Are you ready to come ashore?"

Was he laughing at her, or what? "I don't know as I dare. I expect to be killed," but she gave him her hand She did not jump, however, for he took more than her hand. He took all there was to take and held her fast. "Please tell me what my punishment is to be," she asked, humbly; "I'd like to know now." He looked deep into her eyes. "It" is to repeat-something I am going to say," was the answer; "then, I will let you go, and not before."

Did they see the envoys? Hardly. They seemed guite content to remain in the shade of the willows, particularly when the Chesley party went up the road. Then there was a tollet to be made an apology for one made beside a convenient tunnel, at the sacrifice of the company's entire stock of chine handkerchiefs. Still they did not hur-

The Electrified Lamp Chimney. A very simple but beautiful experiment may be made by any bright boy with a straight lamp-chimney, the kind used with the Argand or the Welsbach gas-light. First, cut a narrow strip of. tin-foll and paste it around the chimney, in the middle. Then paste a strip of the same from one end of the chimney to within about half an inch of the band in the middle. years." Now take a bristle brush, the kind made to clean lamp-chimneys with, and Foster-Milburn Co., Bullelo, N. Y. over its bristles wrap a perfectly dry silk handkerchief. Hold the chimney in your left hand so that your fingers do not touch the tin-foil anywhere, and putting the silk-covered brush into the chimney, rub it briskly back and forth. This part of the experiment should' be made in the dark, and if, while rubbing the chimney, you take the brush out now and then, you will see, every ime you do so, a big spark of electricity jump from one piece of tin-foil to the other. In other words, the friction made by the rubbing has turned the lamp-chimney into an electrical ma-

A PRETTY EXPERIMENT.

Another pretty experiment may be made with this little device. Wrap a piece of iron or brass wire-around the middle band of tin-foll, letting one end hang down five or six inches.
