Chairman 1904 Convention Attest :- EDWARD DONNELLY, Secretary. May's Landing, N. J., August 25, 19:5. Not Body of Mrs. Roddy.

The body of a woman at first supposed to be that of Mrs. Susah Boddy, of Philadelphia whose clothing was left in an Atlantic City bathbouse several weeks ago, was found or Ocean City last Monday by Frank Corson, of the Ocean City Life saving Relatives of Mrs. Roddy in Philadelphia were notified, and Thomas J. Barry, her sonra-law, went to Ocean City but failed to identily the body. Mrs. Roddy's sister also viewed the body, but could not find any marks of

Mrs. Roddy had a fal e set of upper teeth, while the woman found had all her own teeth. There was no clothing on the body, and it was also badly degemposed. One arm and the other hand had been despoiled by the fish, and the hair had rotted away and the fact was unrecognizable, but the height was jus es and the gree ited that of the unfortunate The body was taken in charge by the Coro

r and removed to an undertaking estab ishment where a hasty examination coninced the physician that it had been in the ter three or four weeks. It is believed that the body is the one see Scating in the surf off Atlantic City last week by Life Guard Herd, who was badly hurt in attempting to rescue it.

MEDICAL ETHICS AT BAR Professional Rules as Against the De-number of Public Safety.

A curious problem in medical ethics is propounded by a London physician and decided according to medical ethics by the British Medical Journal This doctor has a patient who is signalman on a railway, and the doctor has discovered that the patient has heart disease. Obviously that allment comprises the possibility of a stroke just when the man's services may be needed to prevent disaster.

The physician advises him to quit the place, but the latter declines to way to earn a living. The physician thinks that the professional rule that forbids him to disclose the facts to the railway company. The Medical Johnnal, when appealed to, decide that it does, and that the physician's responsibility ceases when he advises the patient to give up the Job
