from the gallows a large part of the public will find reason for believing that the present procedure as regards appear liceds to be amalided. All must be equal before the law and sovidualy there cannot be perfect equality if a poor man because of his poverty, cannot obtain the sense privi-leges that a man of means could solain. It is because of his principle that many lawyers, doubtless, will held that there should be a law which would enable a condemned han to appeal his case to the Supreme Court if he so d dres and the State should bay the ern ton is without ounde?

The problem presents many difficulties. If a poor man may throw the burden of expense for an appeal on the State: practically alleconde ned prisoners will be likely to usert poverty and demand similar privileges. Many law re believe that the tendency of the le be loward limiting the facilities for appeal instead of easing them. Were appeals barred in all ordinary case there could be no complaint of unequal treatment. What thing is wrong in the present system, since it makes dis-crimination possible. The question how that discrimination can be avoided is worthy of the thoughtful attention of jurista -- Chicago News.
