THE ANSWER.

Warm was the sun of the summer,
Fragrant the breath of the flowers,
Shall sweet things be but the forerunner
Of woes in this world of ours?
O cannot and may not the summer,
The warmth of our pleasures last,
Are all things and all
Like red leaves to fall,
In glory—and then, oh! the blast?
O mantle and fall of white snow!
O fash and fade and fall!
Well, well, doth the eye, seeing, know
Your speech as you lodge at the door;
Our hearts read the story of woes,
And our brains sound the knowledge we cost.
Are all things and all
Like red leaves to fall,
In glory—and then, oh! the blast?
The answer we read in the stars—
God's jewels and man's keen delight—
O'er earth's grand commodities and wars
Still shines His ineffable light.
We float in our hopes on frail spars,
Till, reaching the haven at last,
Know all things and all
Like red leaves must fall
But never more, on earth, the blast!
From Albion for April.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.

Last Monday night the ship-building yard of Wm. Cramp & Sons, situate on Beach street, below Norris and Ball, was badly damaged by fire. The loss was about $175,000, which was covered by insurance to the amount of $127,750. Another fire, on Wednesday afternoon, in the machine shop of Messrs. Wright & Kodward, situate at the corner of Green street and Frankford avenue, involved a loss to the owners of $13,000.

During the past year 4,257 emigrants arrived at this port. The number in 1872 was 392, and in 1871, 527. The population of our Almshouse at present is 3,930.

Newspapers have wonderfully multiplied in this city within the last few years; there are now no less than eight evening journals printed, viz:—The Bulletin, Abend-Post (German), Telegraph, Star, Record, City Item, Day, and Chronicle.

An interesting report has just been published by the Citizens' Municipal Reform Association, in reference to the profits and dividends of our city passenger railways. The report states that the business during 1873, generally returned profits from 10 to 40 per cent. on the capital invested, and proposes a return to the rate of fare which prevailed before the war, five cents for transient passengers.

The Fat Men's Ball at the Academy of Music, on Tuesday evening, was a jolly affair. The immense building was literally packed, and the festivities, which continued long after midnight, were on a grand scale. The occasion exceeded in weight and enjoyment anything of the kind attempted here for years. A combined orchestra and military band discoursed excellent music. Of the most corpulent members of the club who entered the stage in procession, when the grand march was struck up, thirty-six are reported, whose weight varied from 215 to 420 pounds. These might well be styled "big incomes."

Messrs. Clark, Reeves & Co., are pushing work on the magnificent bridge that spans the Schuylkill, at Girard avenue, and by the Fourth of July next will throw it open to the public. There will be seven distinct roads or tramways, exclusive of railway tracks, five of which will be for driving. The 700 beautiful bronze castings intended as ornaments for the side railings, are all completed and ready to be put into place. The footways for pedestrians will be of slate, with handsome tile borders, which have been imported from England for the purpose.

The coal trade is experiencing a rather dull season, as the manufacturing industries of the country have not rallied from the severe and staggering shock of the black days of November, and the hard times of the past winter. Shippers, however, are hopeful, and even confident that many weeks a general revival of branches of manufacture will be witnessed, which will send orders in at a lively rate. The Schuylkill Navigation Canal opened for business last week, and large shipments are already being made on this highway. The shipments made last year by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company were 2,400,000 tons; but it is expected that the number of tons produced this year will amount to 3,000,000. The annual election for Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad took place on last Tuesday. The election was a quiet one, and resulted in the choice of the following named gentlemen: J. Edgar Thomson, Josiah Bacon, Wistar Morris, John M. Kennedy, Jno. Scott, Pittsburg, Alexander J. Derbyshire, Samuel M. Nelson, Alex. Biddle, N. Parker Shortridge, Henry M. Phillips.

The sum contributed for the families of the officers lost from the steamship Pennsylvania, now amounts to $2,253. It is announced that the popular artist, Miss Neilson, will visit this city on the 9th of April, and give a matinee for the benefit of the Philadelphia Fountain Society. Gov. Hartranft has appointed Mr. Wm. Moran, of this city, grain measurer of this port, in the place of Wm. Linker, deceased. The carpet weavers of Fairmount and Kensington are on a strike. A delegation of manufacturers visited the Mayor on Wednesday, and his Honor promised to take such steps as circumstances may require, for relief from their grievances. A fine improvement is projected by the Westmoreland Coal Company, at Third street and Willing's alley, on the site of their former office. The handsome new structure of brick will have a frontage of 52 feet on Third st., and a depth of 108 feet on Willing's alley, and will be completed about the first of December next.

Business men are now watching the proceedings of Congress in reference to financial affairs. At present the Senate is the object of all who are in the remotest degree interested in monetary legislation. Yesterday, in our almost suburban village, Media, a jury rendered a verdict for $118,109.77 in favor of Root & Rust, who brought suit against the Allegheny River Railroad Company, to recover large excess of freight paid by the plaintiffs as oil merchants in 1866, '67 and '68 for transporting their oil, they claiming to have furnished the same.

The steamship Indiana, of the American Steamship Line, sailed from this port on Thursday, for Liverpool, with nineteen cabin passengers, eleven intermediate, twenty-six in the steerage, and an immense cargo.

In the Court of Quarter Sessions, a few days since, the Grand Jury presented to Judge Paxson a paper in which they complained that the Mayor of the city had made certain investigations into their official examination of witnesses, touching a bill of indictment before them, charging Charles Kane and others with keeping a gambling house, and which they ignored. The Judge returned the paper to them, expressing his regret that they had done anything which in their judgment made it necessary for them to come into Court for self-ridication, and declining to give any opinion as to the conduct of the Mayor, who was not before him for trial.

A few days since, a young girl, who was not quite eighteen years of age, was arraigned before the Court of Quarter Sessions, upon the charge of keeping a house of the vilest nature. Such procreancy in immorality is not less deplorable than extraordinary, and deserves the special consideration of Representative Kressler, who at Harrisburg is the champion of the Social Evil Bill.

It is announced that Benjamin Haywood, Esq., has given his check for three thousand dollars to be divided among the preachers of the Philadelphia Conference of the M. E. Church, who have received less than $1000 salary for the past year; also, renewed his offer of $10,000 towards founding an orphanage, to be under the exclusive control of the same Conference.

Truly thine, BROADBENT.

FARMERS' MEETINGS.—At a meeting of the Farmers' Institute, held at Amherst, Mass., some weeks ago, Mr. Stockbridge of the Agricultural College was present, and at the close of the protracted discussion was invited to speak. He said he had been considerably interested in what had been said, but did not want to go over the ground again. "Here," he added, "are a lot of bright, smart observing men, who have had from ten to fifty years' experience, and have not settled fundamental questions, which any mechanic would have settled in four years if they related to his craft, so that they would never need to be opened for discussion again. You can't find a more intelligent body of farmers than are here assembled, yet they know nothing. One man knows one thing, and another knows that the first is utterly mistaken. Why not take one question at a time, and settle it, so that it will stay settled? The prime needs of agriculture are knowledge and system."

The description here given of the character of the talk at this farmers' meeting will apply to a large majority of those held in other sections during the winter.

Farmers' meetings are unfortunately not so encouraging as discouraging to those who really seek knowledge. For the most part the time is taken up by a class of men who really know nothing of the topics upon which they declaim, and when practical farmers get the floor, they are too apt to drift into a dreamy controversy about some matter which is of the least possible consequence.

Farmers' meetings are some important features are like doctors' meetings; they settle nothing. At the close, the mind is left in a greater confusion and doubt than before discussion was entered upon, and the participants go to their homes feeling that there is nothing certain in soil cultivation. If in those meetings some clear-headed, observant man presents facts of real value, up jumps his neighbor and proceeds to show that he is mistaken, and that the statements are disproved by his experience carried on in the same direction. In this way absolute truth and most valuable facts lose their influence. We have often been not only discouraged, but highly amused at those discussions. The old threadbare questions, if the sessions are protracted, are sure to come up: "Are leached ashes as valuable as unleached for farm purposes?" "Is gas-house lime a good and safe fertilizer?" "Is green corn fodder of value for milch cows?" "Is deep ploughing better than shallow ploughing?" "Is it best to spread manure on grass lands?" These and dozen more topics continue to be discussed with zeal and pertinacity, just as if they had not been talked about and conclusions reached a thousand times during the past ten or twenty years. To spend two or three hours in listening to debates which shed no light on any point or principle in sensible husbandry, is a downright waste of time. If, during the period since agriculture became a subject of accurate and careful study we have settled nothing, the prospect in the future is discouraging enough. But we have settled many questions, and they should not be opened again. It is certain that unleached wood-ashes are worth to the farmer more than double the leached; that gas-house lime is not only in general valueless but deleterious to most soils; that green corn fodder, if raised in drills with full access of light and air, is highly nutritious and valuable, but if raised from broadcast sowing in a close mass, is almost worthless. It is certain that deep ploughing on a great variety of soils is better than shallow, and that manure spread on grass lands, under favoring conditions, will give profitable grass returns. A class of men attend farmers' meetings who seem to make it their business to dispute every statement offered, and senseless controversy takes the place of instructive debate. Those who have important facts to present, facts derived from experience and careful experiment, are confounded by stupidity and ignorance, and the best thoughts and deductions are lost sight of in the general rubbish of rapid talk and disputations.

Another class of men find their way into farmers' meetings—the cheap politicians, and caucus managers. They care nothing for the farming interests, and have no other object but to secure an opportunity to promote selfish ends, and conduct political intrigues. If those men cannot be kept out of farmers' meetings, it will be time to abolish them altogether. It is time that the great interests of husbandry were raised to a higher plane. Science and observation have really accomplished much, and the path of progress must not be obstructed by any obstacles which can be removed readily by the true friends of progressive agriculture. —Boston Journal of Chemistry.

THE GEORGI PIANO-FORTES.

LATE NEWS REGARDING THEM.

The Georgi Piano-Fortes have taken the first premium over all competitors at the State Fair of West Virginia, in Kentucky, and at all other fairs and expositions where they have been exhibited.

Their durable build and refined expression of tone causes them to be the favorite instrument in seminaries of learning.

From Rev. L. VAN BOKKELEN, Rector of Jane Grey Seminary, Mr. Morris, N. Y., August 14th, 1873.

"I have played of other celebrated makers in the Seminary, but the Georgi was selected and used at the concert as the best. It is preferred by teachers and pupils."

From Rev. WM. F. MORRISON, Rector of St. Luke's Church, Buffalo, N. Y.

"On leaving Iowa, I was reluctantly obliged to part with my Georgi Piano-Forte. When I settled in Buffalo one of my first cares was to provide my family with one of the same manufacture. It fully sustains the high reputation the Georgi instruments have in all parts of the country."

Mr. JOHN ZUNDEL, Organist of Henry Ward Beecher's Church, Brooklyn, says:

"The Georgi has an exquisite action, and everything about it shows thorough workmanship and indicates durability."

Rev. S. H. MCCOLLESTER, President of Buchtel College, certifies:

"We have been using two of your pianos the past year in our college. They have given great satisfaction. We regard them superior instruments."

From the New York Independent:

"As they were highly recommended to us, we bought one for our own use, and we find that they are worthy of all the praise they have received."

The above are only a few selections from letters continually arriving which show

The Georgi to be the Leading Piano of the day.

I guarantee entire satisfaction and never fail to give it.

SATURDAY, APRIL 4, 1874.

HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO. N. J.

New Jersey Legislature.

The Legislature adjourned sine die on the 27th, at noon. The session has been devoid of the bustle that has made things lively in years before. There has been nothing to attract the eyes of lobbyists, and little to attract the ears of interested parties. The Constitutional amendments, as they were presented to the Senate, have been carefully considered, and acted upon by that body, and with amendments were passed to the House for its consideration, and as they came from the Senate, they were carried through that body. These are to be reviewed by the next Legislature, we believe, and if approved, they are then to be submitted to the people. Altogether it has been a Legislature of business, which is laudable to do business, and when that business was done without their own business. The closing ceremonies were of a very pleasant character. Several appropriate speeches were made, expressions of friendship interchanged and farewells uttered, and the legislative hall vacated. This ended the session of '74.

The Spring Exhibition.

In Horticultural Hall, Philadelphia, opens on April 24th, and will remain open until Friday evening. We trust our Horticulturists will not let this important affair pass without making an effort to place on exhibition some of the many beautiful plants and flowers they have, in which they can equal if not excel, any other locality. The benefits derived from such exhibitions do not seem to be generally understood by many, and we think we have some among us who do not. The advantages one who do business must should neglect of. The good is individual and general.

The premiums are liberal, and worth contending for, ranging from one to thirty dollars. Premiums on 26 Florists' Ornamental Plants: first, $30, 2d, $25, 3d, $20. On Gardeners' Ornamental Plants, the same. On Odorous Plants, number not stated—must be a collection including all sweet-scented kinds, whether in foliage or blossom, 1st premium, $15, 2d, $10, 3d, $5. The best embrace designs, Bouquets, Basket and Vase, with growing or cut flowers, growing plants, or collections of forced fruits and vegetables. We hope those interested will not let this opportunity to display their floral and plant productions go by unheeded. Let the world know your business. Wake up to the importance of competing for prizes, which is the true method of inspiring one to work and to excel.

The Autumnal Exhibition, too, should be prepared for. This includes Fruits, and surely with a little extra care, the fruit growers of our section. Now is the time to think and act about the matter, and make your arrangements to get your varieties of Peas, Apples and Grapes. Unless we have a frost to do injury, your trees, from present indications, will well repay you for all the extra care and labor you can give to getting extra nice fruit.

We speak thus early, so that those who have not thought of the matter may be stirred up to think and do. Go to work in earnest, so that with a favorable season, and careful attention, you will be able to astonish everybody with the size and flavor of your fruit, as you certainly have done, and can do again.

J. G. Voe, the particulars of whose death by drowning in the ocean at Atlantic City we published last Saturday, became known some time after after becoming the news of the death of his wife in Europe, and was under treatment in an asylum at Philadelphia. In a letter written to a friend in South Orange, and which was received on Thursday, he expressed the belief that he had been informed about his wife's death, for he had lately learned that she was living in Brighton, England, and he proposed to swim across the ocean and join her there. He was doubtful in the effort to carry out this mad scheme, that he was drowned. Mr. Voe was the founder of the village of Montross, and was possessed of great wealth.

Brother Democrat—we can but return thanks for your timely threat at this thing in the shape of a newspaper, in your city, but we feel too much like the man that was kicked by the jackass, and considered it best to treat it with silent contempt. Here is our "silence."

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28, 1874.

For several days past the testimony of numerous witnesses has been taken in the celebrated Sanborn contract matter by the Ways and Means Committee of the House. It was expected to-day that Mr. Sanborn himself would be examined by the Committee, but in consequence of his trial in Brooklyn on an indictment for violating the law, which is to take place on Monday, his counsel asked to submit a special statement from him, and to have him examined in full hereafter. The committee concluded to postpone the hearing of his testimony until a week after next Monday. The testimony taken before the committee so far shows that there is nothing wrong on the part of the Treasury Department regarding the contract with him, and that the collection of hitherto uncollectible monies due from numerous individuals and corporations has been greatly aided by Mr. Sanborn. Nearly all the claims collected on the contract had been long overdue, and would not have been collected by the usual internal revenue machinery of the government.

It appears that Mr. Sanborn has gone into the fulfillment of his contract regardless of expense, and that it has already cost him over $150,000 for expenses incurred in the ferreting out those persons who are indebted to the government for taxes, &c., and who have withheld payment in many cases for two years, and none of them less than two years. He has agents in Europe, as well as in America, and has made large amounts for the government when nothing else but the most extraordinary exertions would have secured payment on many of the claims.

A Washington correspondent has made the silly assertion that, because in the regular course of routine business Mr. Sanborn was promptly notified of the time when money was received at the Treasury on claims in his hands, that there is strong evidence of corrupt collusion on the part of Treasury officials. This wise correspondent had neither read the law nor perceived into the usual methods of doing the regular business of the Treasury, or he would have known that the law requires the contractor to file a statement of each case on which he is engaged as the very first move towards the collection of money due, and that it would be the duty of a Chief of Division to prepare promptly for signature of the Assistant Secretary a notice of the fact to be forwarded to the contractor whenever any money was paid in any of the cases on which he was engaged. When these routine letters are received by the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, the only thing he looks at for guidance is the initial check of the Chief of Division in charge of the particular business, and he signs the letter as a mere form among the thousands of others that are presented to him in like manner daily. To suppose that a Secretary or Assistant Secretary can take time to peruse or understand the specific wording of each letter that he signs is quite absurd.

But the evidence shows that there is manifestly nothing wrong in all the conduct that has been started about the Sanborn contract. Jealousy, political intrigue, and inherent malice must look to some other field for their victim.

One of the most striking exhibitions of the turning of the tables politically has just transpired here. A delegation from the (so-called) Tax-payers Convention of South Carolina, chiefly consisting of ex-Royal Congressmen, Governors and Generals, called upon President Grant, virtually to ask him to disfranchise the majority of the people of the Palmetto State, on the ground of ignorance, dishonesty, and general incapacity as a governing power, so as to re-instate their friends, who formerly were the governing class, and the owners of the majority of the present citizens, in the control of the State government, through the political offices. They made the false statement that they were not allowed a voice in the State government. They have the right to vote, but as in Kentucky, Georgia, &c., where Democracy controls the offices, the Republicans have to submit to the rule of the majority, there these nobles squirm upon the bed they have made for themselves. Who, but they, have caused ignorance among the colored race, when they made it a penal offense to instruct a negro? Who, but they, caused dishonesty, by taking without any consideration the lands of those very men? Who, but they, caused incapacity among the majority, who now rule, by crushing their spirits under the heel of oppression? This is the palmed-off education returned to the lips of the prisoner, and it is a novel sight to see President Grant instructing these grave and revered elders in Democracy in the principles of our Government, viz: that it desires its just powers from the consent

Congress.

The Senate was not in session on Saturday.

The House was occupied solely with the consideration of the currency question, the speaking being Messrs. Bright and Witherspoon of Tennessee, Buckner of Missouri, Cotton of Iowa, and Chandler of New York.

The House Judiciary Committee on Saturday spent three hours in considering the subject of the distribution of the money paid to the insurance companies for losses under policies of insurance on various districts.

In the Senate, on Monday, Mr. Ingalls' bill for the relief of certain settlers on the public lands, was reported by the Committee on Lands, and was ordered to a second reading. Dr. D. S. PERRY'S
Vegetable Aromatic
Bitters.

These Bitters must become the universal remedy of the age. There is nothing like them or equal to them under the sun. They restore the weak, invigorate the feeble, and give new life and tone to the broken down system. In malarial and malarious districts they are worth a ship load of quinine powders and pills. They are especially adapted to persons suffering from

Constiveness, Headache,
Neuralgia, Rheumatism,
Chills, Fever and Piles.

TO DELICATE FEMALES.
 ladies, old or young, will find these bitters especially adapted to diseases peculiar to their sex. Nervousness, Lassitude, Want of Appetite, and General Debility, all yield to the magic charm of these inimitable Bitters.

HEAR WHAT IS SAID.
HEAR WHAT IS SAID.
HEAR WHAT IS SAID
"Wonderful effects have resulted from your Perry's Bitters."
"My aches are gone. I can hardly believe it."
"Send me one case Perry's Bitters again.
Nothing like them here."
"I enclose affidavit of my case. I had to do boast before you of the wonderful cure."
"Surely they are the most delightful wine-able in the world."
"Dr. Wilson says that you are a public benefactor."
"Hurrah! No more rheumatism."
"No. No. No."

We could fill this paper twice over with just as genuine extracts, but the above must suffice. Our Bitters are prepared under the supervision of Dr. D. S. Perry, Member of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, London, England, and of the Medical College of Glasgow. All orders should be addressed to the Perry Aromatic Bitter Co.,
NEW YORK, U. S.
These Bitters are sold either by parties in sending letters for advice as to their diseases, will confer quite a favor by giving the name of County as well as Town where they reside. It will save us a wonderful amount of time and annoyance if this will be observed.
