Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3, 1881.

Probably no other holiday session ever saw so few Congressmen or other public men in Washington as this one. Those who went away were fortunate, too, for during several days of late the weather has been more severe here than anywhere else in the country. Even Hannibal Hamlin has put on an overcoat, being the first one he ever wore. The snow is a foot or more deep, and promises to last a month. We are having more sleighing than ever before. To-morrow a sleighing carnival will be held on our magnificent Pennsylvania Avenue—a street 160 feet wide, as straight as the crow's flight from the Capitol to the Treasury—over a mile—and as smooth as a parlor floor. Every sort of runner vehicle, from a mounted dry goods box to the finest Portland sleigh, will be exhibited. The rare delight of perfect sleighing in this latitude is being fully enjoyed.

But the intensely cold weather, for which not half the city is ever prepared, causes a great deal of suffering. Efficient means of relief do not, of course, exist as in more Northern cities, and have to be improvised. It should be said to the credit of Washington that it gives most liberally on such occasions, considering the small amount of accumulated wealth here and the almost total absence of manufactures and large business enterprises of all kinds.

Congress meets again in two days. The most interesting rumor connected with its reassembling is to the effect that Senator Conkling will call the Senate's attention to the subject of Senator Bayard's alleged speech during the late campaign, in which it is said the former was charged with receiving a portion of the money wrongfully taken by the government some years ago from a firm of New York merchants. Just what shape Senator Conkling will give to his allusion to the matter is not known to any one. Several members of the House Committee on appropriations, who remained during the recess, have ready two appropriation bills to report to the full committee, and others are nearly ready. It is not known what day Mr. Wood can call up his funding bill, but whenever he does it is to be disposed of by the House at once. If Mr. Cox, Chairman of the Census Committee, is able to return soon, he will report the reapportionment bill, the figures being ready for him at the Census office.

There is a curious rumor around town that some influential Democrat does not wish and will try to prevent the presence of a quorum of their party in the House during the balance of the session, or at least up to the meeting in joint convention to count the electoral vote. They remember that if a quorum of Democrats once appears, Mr. Bismarck will call up the electoral bill which has already caused so much debate, and they wish to avoid further discussion of the subject at present. Of course it is not a matter of principle with them, but of supposed expediency.

As to the Senators to be elected in the several States this month, I give what seems to be the correct impression here. From Maine, Hale; Massachusetts, Dawes; from New York, Morton, if he does not receive assurances as to the Treasury Department; from Michigan, Bagley. As to the other States much less certainty is expressed.

President Hayes, in conversation recently, expressed himself as overjoyed that his term was so near its close and that he intends, after attending to private matters in Ohio, to spend some time in foreign travel.

MAXWELL.

THE MAN OF NOBLE DEEDS.

Let doubting fools o'er doubts contend,
And wrangle over creeds—
Give me what e'er his race or name,
The man of noble deeds—

An honest heart, an open hand,
An independent mind;
One who like Jesus can forgive,
And bear with humankind;

One who with an unbiased sense
Can judge of right and wrong,
Nor deem that mortal wholly lost
Who joins not in his song;

Who asks no privilege himself
His neighbor may not share,
But wishes all the blessings free
As sunlight and the air.

To him all manly men are dear,
No sinless thing defiled:
The sweetest music to his ear,
The rattle of a child.

He sees the seasons come and go,
He sees the ripe fruit fall,
And knows, as well he needs must know,
That God is over all.

He hears the church bell chiming sweet
Upon the Sabbath air,
And feels that all will come at last
To join him in his prayer.

He prays that sect may cease to be;
That creeds no more be known;
That all who breathe this mortal breath
Have strength to stand alone—

No erring feet to trip and fall—
No eyes that cannot see—
No weak, no half-distracted minds—
No more dishonesty.

Christ speed the day! Join, all mankind,
To bring the happy time
When Earth shall have but one broad faith—
No sorrow and no crime.

A resident of Lower Alloways Creek township, Salem county, has at this writing, father, mother, two grandfathers, two grandmothers, two great grandfathers, two great-grandmothers and a great-great-grandmother living. Who has more?

Seventeen women of Star City, Indiana, are being prosecuted for entering the only saloon in town, emptying the liquor casks, breaking the glassware, and cutting up the pool table with an axe.

A hollow tree in Southern California has been converted into a dwelling. Doors and windows have been put in, and floors built for eight stories, the entrance to them being made by means of a ladder. Outside the topmost room is a small balcony, shaded by the foliage of the tree.

The testimony of frauds in the recent Congressional elections South, is being rapidly gathered up. Many of the facts are startling in their enormity and will compel the Southern Democratic Congressmen, who pretended to be honest to show their hands. Their action on those contested seats will be a test to their sincerity and have an important bearing upon the politics of the future.

News Items.

The Law and Order League of Kingston, N. Y., has secured judgment against seventy different liquor dealers. The dealers have pooled their interests, and will carry the suits to the Court of Appeals.

Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Chapin died at his home in Cape May, N. J., on Sunday, Dec. 26, after a long and painful illness. The Universalist Church has lost another of its brightest stars.

The population of this State is 1,130,892. We find there are only eleven States in the Union having a larger population, and yet we are among the smallest in square miles.

Dr. Geo. Smilie, of Plainfield, N. J., was frozen to death Wednesday night, of last week, while returning home from a professional visit.

Dr. E. D. Hudson, one of the original Abolitionists, is very ill with pneumonia at Riverside, Conn. Though he is 75 years old this is his first serious sickness.

The birthday of Robert E. Lee is to be celebrated at Charleston on January 19, by the Carolina Rifle Battalion. Colonel Hugh S. Thompson of Columbia will deliver the address on the occasion.

The new year does not dawn on the European world with so many inspiring surroundings as we enjoy in this country. England has the Irish troubles, the Afghanistan difficulty and the Boer revolution directly in hand, with the prospect of an expensive and troublesome time before any of these difficulties are settled. Turkey and Greece menace each other with war. Germany is in trouble with her Jewish subjects, with the sympathies of civilized nations against her. Russia is practically changing rulers, with much uncertainty as to the effect on the Nihilist agitation. In France the work of consolidating the Republic still continues, with enough difficulties in the way to cause great anxiety to her statesmen. Italy is still running behind in her current expense, and taxation is becoming very oppressive. These are not very auspicious circumstances, and the new year does not open up to Europe full of promise. Even business is not prosperous. The best showing the London Times could make with the new year was that business is on a solid basis—a remark that may mean little or much. The Governments of Europe are steadily sinking deeper in debt, a fact of the gravest importance. The time is not far away when this influence alone will modify them or break them down altogether. It is not possible for the burthens of taxation to be greatly increased, and yet it is difficult to see how this can be prevented. While in the United States we are rapidly decreasing our national debt, nearly every country in Europe is rapidly increasing its debt. The contrast is remarkable and attracts, more and more, the attention of thinkers. It points to destiny with no uncertain finger.

The Legislature had just convened at the capital of Iowa. Governor Grimes had arrived the night before and taken rooms at a certain hotel. A young aspirant for office from a distant portion of the State also drove up and alighted from his carriage at the steps of the same hotel. The hostler threw off his trunk, and the landlord conducted him to his room, leaving the trunk in the barroom. Wishing his trunk, the young man demanded to have it brought up, and seeing a man pass through the lower hall, whom he took to be the porter, he gave him commands in an imperious and lofty tone. The order was obeyed, the man charging a quarter of a dollar for his services. A marked quarter, that was good for only 20 cents, was slipped slyly into his hand, and was put into his pocket by the man with a smile. "And now, sirrah!" cried the new arrival, "you know Governor Grimes?"

"O yes, sir."

"Well, take my card to him, and tell him I wish an interview with him at his earliest convenience."

A peculiar look flashed from the man's blue eyes, and, with a smile, extending his hand, he said:

"I am Governor Grimes, at your service, sir."

"You—I—that is, my dear sir, I beg—a thousand pardons!"

"None needed at all, sir," replied Governor Grimes; "I was rather favorably impressed with your letter, and had thought you well suited for the office specified. But, sir, any man who would swindle a workingman out of a paltry 5 cents would defraud the public treasury had he an opportunity! Good evening, sir."

ORVILLE E. HOYT,
Editor and Publisher.

HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J.
SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1881.

During the past week, nearly all active opposition to Hon. Wm. J. Sewell, as candidate for the United States Senate, seems to have disappeared. We have seen but one newspaper article favoring another candidate, and that was not in a South Jersey paper.

The newspaper called Truth on Tuesday morning published what it named "an open letter to James A. Garfield," repudiating the Moresley letter and declaring it to be a forgery. The announcement was made upon the authority of G. Jayne, a private detective, who was employed by the publisher of the paper to investigate the authenticity of the letter.

A round fifty millions—that is the estimate of the population of the country made by the Census Bureau. And where can a happier fifty millions of people be found? Free land, free religion, free schools, equal rights for all—these, with God's blessing, are the sufficient conditions of prosperity. Why cannot the British Government do as much for England and poor Ireland?—Independent.

A respectable young man named Drury was shot dead last week at Napoleon, Ohio, by ex-Gov. Scott, of South Carolina. Drury was a drug clerk, and was to have been married Tuesday.

In the preliminary examination on Tuesday it was proven against Scott that he had said he would shoot any man who gave or sold liquor to his son, and it was shown that Drury had sold the drink to young Scott, who had become intoxicated. The story is a stretched one, and it is the saddest because it is impossible not to feel a degree of sympathy with the murderer against the man who aided in ruining his son. The drug store that sells liquor often does far more harm than the open bar-room, and while we are drawing morals from the case of quick passion, let this tragedy be a lesson to the men like Drury, who are "respectable," but turn a medicine store into a dram shop.

Editorial Selections
Philadelphia papers are authority for the statement that a fund of $100,000 has been raised in Philadelphia for General Grant, one gentleman contributing $25,000. The Record says there was no difficulty in securing the money and much more is needed. The fund now awaits the General's order. There has never been any doubt of the willingness of General Grant's friends to make his financial future secure, but there has not been unity of sentiment as to the best methods. The Philadelphia seems to have "taken the ball by the horns" and put the money at the General's disposal without any particular plan or annoying provisions.

The Republicans in the southern part of this State have set up a very just claim to the new Senator. For over twenty years the Senators have lived north of Trenton. This we believe, is true, with the exception of four years for Catron, who served out Stockton's term. We believe General Sewell will serve the State quite as honorably as any other person in the State belonging to that party, and we therefore hope to see him elected to that position. Of course there are men in the State who would rather see placed there, but since we cannot have a true-blue Democrat, let us have the next best Republican.—Shore Press (Dem.)

There was a blizzard abroad in Cheyenne yesterday. There is no clearly stated definition of the word "blizzard," as it is not found in the dictionaries. It is a purely western invention. Blizzard came out since the dictionaries were built. But a blizzard is an unpleasantly mean thing. Oh! it is so mean. No one over thinks of a blizzard without apologetically means for touching upon so base a subject. What the coyote is to the hunter, the freighter, the cowboy and the miner, the blizzard is to the average citizen. The blizzard ranks about as high in meteorology as does the skunk in zoology. And then a blizzard is the only thing known to history or science that will blow thirteen ways at once. It describes a course precisely like a Scotch plaid. You turn from a direct line—to the leeward—of the fierce wind in order to catch a good square breath, and the blizzard is there, too. It catches you on the point of exhalation, just as your lungs are opening, and you are in a coughing fit. You feel miserable and tighter than a drum. You want to sweat, but you haven't time. Your only relief is to strain the blizzard through your fingers.—Cheyenne Leader.

The Republican

(Entered as second class matter.)

ORVILLE E. HOYT,
Editor and Publisher.

HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J.
SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1881.

During the past week, nearly all active opposition to Hon. Wm. J. Sewell, as candidate for the United States Senate, seems to have disappeared. We have seen but one newspaper article favoring another candidate, and that was not in a South Jersey paper.

The newspaper called Truth on Tuesday morning published what it named "an open letter to James A. Garfield," repudiating the Moresley letter and declaring it to be a forgery. The announcement was made upon the authority of G. Jayne, a private detective, who was employed by the publisher of the paper to investigate the authenticity of the letter.

A round fifty millions—that is the estimate of the population of the country made by the Census Bureau. And where can a happier fifty millions of people be found? Free land, free religion, free schools, equal rights for all—these, with God's blessing, are the sufficient conditions of prosperity. Why cannot the British Government do as much for England and poor Ireland?—Independent.

A respectable young man named Drury was shot dead last week at Napoleon, Ohio, by ex-Gov. Scott, of South Carolina. Drury was a drug clerk, and was to have been married Tuesday.

In the preliminary examination on Tuesday it was proven against Scott that he had said he would shoot any man who gave or sold liquor to his son, and it was shown that Drury had sold the drink to young Scott, who had become intoxicated. The story is a stretched one, and it is the saddest because it is impossible not to feel a degree of sympathy with the murderer against the man who aided in ruining his son. The drug store that sells liquor often does far more harm than the open bar-room, and while we are drawing morals from the case of quick passion, let this tragedy be a lesson to the men like Drury, who are "respectable," but turn a medicine store into a dram shop.

Editorial Selections
Philadelphia papers are authority for the statement that a fund of $100,000 has been raised in Philadelphia for General Grant, one gentleman contributing $25,000. The Record says there was no difficulty in securing the money and much more is needed. The fund now awaits the General's order. There has never been any doubt of the willingness of General Grant's friends to make his financial future secure, but there has not been unity of sentiment as to the best methods. The Philadelphia seems to have "taken the ball by the horns" and put the money at the General's disposal without any particular plan or annoying provisions.

The Republicans in the southern part of this State have set up a very just claim to the new Senator. For over twenty years the Senators have lived north of Trenton. This we believe, is true, with the exception of four years for Catron, who served out Stockton's term. We believe General Sewell will serve the State quite as honorably as any other person in the State belonging to that party, and we therefore hope to see him elected to that position. Of course there are men in the State who would rather see placed there, but since we cannot have a true-blue Democrat, let us have the next best Republican.—Shore Press (Dem.)

There was a blizzard abroad in Cheyenne yesterday. There is no clearly stated definition of the word "blizzard," as it is not found in the dictionaries. It is a purely western invention. Blizzard came out since the dictionaries were built. But a blizzard is an unpleasantly mean thing. Oh! it is so mean. No one over thinks of a blizzard without apologetically means for touching upon so base a subject. What the coyote is to the hunter, the freighter, the cowboy and the miner, the blizzard is to the average citizen. The blizzard ranks about as high in meteorology as does the skunk in zoology. And then a blizzard is the only thing known to history or science that will blow thirteen ways at once. It describes a course precisely like a Scotch plaid. You turn from a direct line—to the leeward—of the fierce wind in order to catch a good square breath, and the blizzard is there, too. It catches you on the point of exhalation, just as your lungs are opening, and you are in a coughing fit. You feel miserable and tighter than a drum. You want to sweat, but you haven't time. Your only relief is to strain the blizzard through your fingers.—Cheyenne Leader.
