Whatever lacks purpose is evil;
A pool without pebbles breed slime;
Not any one step hath chance fashioned
On the infinite stairway of time;
Nor ever came good without labor,
In toil, or in science, or art;
It must be wrought out thro' the muscles,
Born out of the soul and the heart.

FOOD FOR THE MIGHT

Evil is the veil of truth.
 He who fails to seek to earn his
 Who is rich? He that is content.
 Cheerful looks make every dish
 Every man's destiny lies in his own hands.
 The courageous politician has a heart
 of steel.
 Who is powerful? He who governs
 of passion.
 Who is wise? He who learns from everyone.
 The progressive man is always in doubt.
 Ethical teaching is dependent upon
 literal authority.
 Life is short, and so are most of us
 id through life.
 Richness is Nature's way of saying:
 "I told you so."
 You can't tell about the milk by the color of the cow.
 He who can feel ashamed will not be a strong man.
 The rich man is never so happy as
 the happy one is rich.
 A church bell, like truth, should not be tolled at all times.
 The hole in a boy's trousers outlasts
 any other part of them.
 Obstinance is ever most positive when it is most in the wrong.
 A loafer has no right that a busy man
 should respect.
 The man who can do a thing or let it
 be done is to be feared.
 It requires no self-denial for a pawn-
 broker to keep the peace.
 People go to watering-places to escape
 all the comfort of a home.
 Confidence is just as good as money
 until it is betrayed.
 People who reserve their own ideas
 always show their training.
 A little man in a big place can be "a big man in a little place."
 A man will never get lower than when he acts upon a supposition.
 Don't refuse to lend your ear to the man you used to sharpen it.
 A pleasant recognition is the force of the peace of the human heart.
 There is always a corner in a real estate where one's interests outgrow.
 People who say sharp things often get
 the reputation of being blunt.
 The worst of infidelity is that which accuses God, but never obeys him.
 A man does not rather grasp of thorns
 or figs of thistles.
 Did you ever know a flock of geese to seek a fox to govern them.
 The rich do not seek to hold office for the mere honor of serving the poor.
 The effect of virtue deceives the accused, but never affects upon others.
 Honestly never has to crowd any body
 in order to get room to make a living.
 Time destroys the speculations of man,
 and it confirms the judgment of nature.
 In the expression of a desire for liberty, one betrays a possession of it.
 The opportunity of man to progress
 is not given to him; it belongs to him.
 The thing which a man should do in his time cannot be done in another time.
 It is a small boy getting his hair combed who knows the pain of a parting.
 The veneering is pretty thin on a great many of the polished gentlemen
 of the world.
 Do not keep in the middle of the road, brother, unless you belong to the procession.
 To be effectual, sympathy should be given as a draught—not applied exten-
 sally.
 Come to think of it, how can you expect the poor to be contented when the rich never are.
 Every community is crowded with people who want the best of everything except religion.
 Most proverb is based upon facts.
 The man who says that broke the camel's back was a bala.
 The man who is trying to climb up and lots of heels above him and lots of sets behind him.
 Of all the lights that you carry in your face, joy is the one that will reach the darkest out of all the lights.
 It is true, though it sounds paradoxical, that a man never has any trouble
 finding trouble.
 No one should point out a duty to one who is not the person whom he would not exchange advantage.
 Depravity may be natural, but the man who can no longer care for his living is too busy to cultivate it.
 The reward of perfection without inward goodness is like the blacker dye upon one's mind's deformity.
 People suffer more in striving to evade responsibilities of life, than by accepting them cheerfully.
 No society is free from wickedness which depends for support upon the labor of "free society."
 Freedom is not taught, for whoever allows their teaching is no more free
 than a horse following a halter.
 The man who has seen those who have lived in luxury in the memory, but the light of greatness and beauty sunk into lies and rage.
 The wise and active conquer difficulties by daring to attempt them. Sloth and inactivity are the sink at the right of all and hazard, and make the impossible things they fear.
