—BY MISS AMELIA THROPP.

In the meadows, by the woodland,
Rosy, dimpled feet and bare,
Wandering in the dawn of childhood,
A little babe without a care.

Light I caught the passing sunbeams
Through the waxen fingers fair,
Tossed them back upon the meadows,
Threw them on the scented air.

By my side, and ever watchful,
Lest my infant feet should stray
To some dark and misty pitfall—
A loving mother led my way.

And as moments speeded onward,
And the childhood hours flew by,
Hopes so bright were often scattered
As life's morning dawn went by.

How she watched, and prayed, and guided,
Checking off my wilful ways,
Till the hands of childhood glided—
Like a scroll they rolled away.

With advice so fondly heeded,
Swiftly then the moments flew,
And my bark o'er life's stream glided,
Catching sunbeams floating through.

Life's short dream with her now over,
And her work pronounced "well done,"
O'er the crystal sea they bore her,
To that land beyond the sun.

Oh, her fond regret at parting,
When she saw the tears I shed,
But a holy light was streaming
Round her when her spirit fled.

Lo! the gates of gold gleam yonder
In the light beyond the blue,
And bewildering is the splendor
Of the glory shining through.

When I come to lay my burden
By the golden gates ajar,
Weary, footsore, sad and laden,
Having journeyed from afar,

May I then, Lord—Thou permitting,
Bring my cross—life's burden—home,
And be crowned—Christ interceding,
With the blessed anoint Thy throne.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19, 1880.

Although it is now apparent that the Republican party is strong enough to feel a reasonable confidence in success the coming campaign, yet caution is a good element in political management, and harmonious work is necessary to foil the atrocious intrigues and frauds of men such as they who have failed in their effort to overturn popular government in Maine. I write thus because there seems to all thinking men some danger in the too early forcing of Presidential candidates into the field. Our accounts from Pennsylvania and New York do not encourage confidence in good feeling. From some parts of the former State we hear of very bitter strife between the friends of General Grant and others, and in New York the early calling of the State Convention to send delegates to Chicago. It would be better to postpone the controversies as late as possible than to injure our cause by too great haste. This is the feeling of all Republicans who have the good of the party at heart, rather than anybody's "boom."

The failure of the latest Democratic blunder, the conspiracy in Maine, has greatly distressed the Bourbons, who really had hoped a stealing the electoral votes of that good Republican State. They threaten to have their managers in that State appeal to Congress for redress, and that is what we are hoping for. What a grand opportunity that would give Senator Blaine and Mr. Frye to expose the atrocious infamy of that plot to subvert popular government! It would furnish us some good campaign literature for the ensuing campaign. Senator Blaine is expected here this week, and will be ready to meet anything of that sort with the ability and adroitness he has exhibited in the management of the case at New York.

The Democrats have always made a good deal of talk about nepotism in office, and have indulged in a great amount of railery because the Administration provides its relatives with places. Look at the Democratic picture; the Democrats have only a small part of government patronage, but in proportion their nepotism is startling. Eleven Democratic Senators have placed their sons in comfortable positions as Clerks of Senate Committees. Should we be so unfortunate as to have a Democratic administration, judging from this exhibit, where would this nepotism end?

Another company of colored people has just passed through here from North Carolina, and 500 will follow them next week. The exodus is booming, and yet I do not learn that Venable is anxious to acquire of these fugitives from oppression why they leave their old homes for strange places.

Commissioner Baum is the subject of Democratic assault just now, for his plain expressions about the lawlessness in the South, and the difficulty of enforcing the revenue laws there.

Republicans.

Mr. Editor:—

Many of us, as Republicans, subscribe for the Horne, ostensibly to help and encourage the boy—the editor—to make a living, little thinking it would so soon turn upon those who were friendly disposed towards it. Its conduct and rejoicing at the Maine muddle and, as he supposed, the defeat of the will of the people, shows clearly what we may expect, even at the expense of truth and honor. To advance an excuse what Garcelon says in his own defence, exhibits most clearly the boy to be writing the talk he heard at home, forgetting or neglecting that the Supreme Court had given the whole law against him, as also every respectable Democratic paper in the country.

But, Republicans, I for one shall not hereafter continue to encourage or give aid to any animal or insect that will sting the moment it has a chance.
A CITIZEN.
Hammonton, Jan. 22d, 1880.

Mr. Editor:—

On Wednesday I attended the funeral services of one of our oldest and most esteemed citizens, and must confess I was shocked at the hearers, bigoted remarks of the minister who delivered the closing address.

It is very evident that men never will be able to free themselves from bigotry in this life. But experience shows that the most bigoted of all classes of men are those who draw themselves into their own shell of self-righteousness, and refuse to allow any person else to have any ideas of orthodoxy in religion, or even matters of common sense which cross their hide-bound views of propriety, and invariably all who differ from them they frown down with the utmost austerity and bigotry. There is in this day and age no greater inconsistency than the inconsistency of certain promulgators of the liberty of the gospel. These men pull down the creeds and opinions of others with the utmost vehemence and animosity, and the more inconsistent their own lives with the doctrines they proclaim weekly from the pulpit, the more vindictive they are against the weakness of their brethren. The followers of Herasendo do Cortez behold with horror the deformities of and the ugliness of the idols and of the worship of the Mexicans, and by force rolled their images down the stairs of the temple, only to immediately erect an image of the Virgin Mary and fall down and worship it. This act of inconsistency was not more ridiculous and absurd than the notion of a professed christian, pastor or layman, in this day and age, who will denounce a brother because as he says he lacks the spirit of Christ, for resenting in a mild way some unprovoked insult, and yet goes about the world from day to day with his heart filled with the gall of bitterness against every one who dares to differ with him in the technicalities of the peculiar form of church government to which he has tied himself. This stubborn selfishness and bigotry in professing christians is the bane of the church to day. At no time in the history of the world has there been a more general belief in God, as a supreme being, than there is just now, and it is not the lack of faith in Deity which is causing the decline in genuine christian work, as it is lack of faith in the love inspiring effect of that faith, as manifested by the actions and spirit of those who claim to be the called teachers of the doctrine of the Fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of men. Young men and old men, young women and old women, will fail to catch any inspiration of love to God or faith in a religion which makes its leaders morose, stubborn, vindictive and false, no matter how zealously they may preach, or how loud they may declaim.

Road Rumors.

Mr. Editor:—

With your permission we ask the road master if it be true that $100, more or less, of the money voted by the people for repairing roads is remaining unexpended; and if it be true if this $100 is intended to be used (in order to make) much for the opening of a new road or extending one? It is said this can be proven. We have more faith in the integrity of the man than to believe he will loan himself to such dirty low conduct. However, we give him a fair chance to explain.

From the condition of the roads throughout the town, we would suppose that every dollar had been honestly spent; and that nothing could be done until another vote was had. Notwithstanding the very favorable winter season we are having, the roads everywhere are horrible—never more so.

NOTICE!

MULLICA,
ATLANTIC CITY, NEW JERSEY,
NOVEMBER 13th, 1879.

Notice is hereby given that a petition will be presented to the Legislature of New Jersey, by the Township of Mullica, Atlantic County, the coming Session, for an exchange of Territory between said Township of Mullica and the Township of Galloway.

Mr. Editor:—

Enclosed please find notice of a herd of cattle sold by Malcolm Hubby, of Illinois. The account is out from the Mason City Journal. Mr. Hubby is a Swiss by birth; he came to Illinois in 1857, had not a dollar on hand, and supported himself and family for the first few years by working out by the day. He was industrious and saving, and bound to get ahead, and is now one of the largest cattle dealers in the State of Illinois. In March, 1867, he leased a large farm belonging to my father, said farm being in Menard county, and in Dec. 1873, became the owner, purchasing it from the Executors of our Estate. These cattle were all sold and I think the average weight of the herd of cattle will astonish our Jersey cattle feeders. Will you, as it may interest some of your readers, insert the enclosed slip in your paper?
Yours, &c., LEWIS W. SHARP.
Hammonton, Jan. 16th, 1880.

"Several of the papers hereabouts have commented on the fine herd of cattle lately sold by Malcolm Hubby, and delivered for shipment in this city. This drove of cattle fed by Mr. Hubby is certainly the most remarkable herd ever sold in Illinois and we do not believe has ever been beaten. The cattle were bought by Mr. A. A. Heath, and we interviewed him to obtain reliable information respecting the cattle. Mr. Heath told us that for 35 years he had been engaged in buying and weighing cattle, that he had seen the finest lots of cattle ever raised in the State, and taking all things into consideration, this lot was the finest one in every respect he had ever bought, weighed or seen. There were 220 head in the lot which were fed together. Mr. Heath bought and shipped in the first lot 154 head. The cattle were all three years old, and there was not a poor one in the lot. They all ran smooth and even, not being 30 pounds difference in any of them. The 154 averaged 1840 pounds, and 102 of them averaged 1830. This lot of cattle taken as a whole has never been beaten in the State, and probably not in the United States. Hubby is entitled to the credit of being the best cattle feeder in the West. He feeds his cattle intelligently and fully understands his business, and if any man deserves to make money it is Malcolm Hubby. These cattle were bought for the European market, and were shipped, we believe, directly to England. It is just such intelligent and enterprising farmers as Mr. Hubby who are by their perseverance and industry building up American trade and credit in the cattle trade abroad."

The Tribunal Atlantic for 1880 has been received. It contains a digest of the public laws of the regular and extra sessions of Congress, with summaries of the party platforms adopted in 1879 and the Constitutional Amendments enacted and ratified in various States. It has a chapter on the elections of United States Senators, a table of the electoral vote for President from 1824 and lists of the principal executive, departmental, diplomatic and judicial officers. There are tables relating to railroad mileage and business, imports and export, iron-ship-building since 1870, revenues and expenditures since 1875, appropriations for 1879 and 1880, immigration since 1870, coinage in 1879 and previous years, production of gold and silver in 1879, imports and exports of coin and bullion, National bank, currency and a single bank tables, internal revenue statistics, public debt of the United States, and value in United States money of foreign coin; the rolls of the XLVth Congress, the Governor of the States, and the State Government and County Clerks and Sheriffs of New York. The body of the work is reserved for election returns from all the States.

The price remains as before—twenty-five cents for each copy—with the usual discount to the trade, and will be sent postpaid to any address in the United States on receipt of the price, and all orders will receive immediate attention.

The opening article in Lippincott's Magazine for February, "A Day with the Ottawa Gunter," by Frederic G. Mather, gives a lively account of the lumbermen and much in connection about the resources and prospects of the great Canadian forest lands, with many good illustrations. "Old and New Rome" is the first of two illustrated papers, by Edward King, describing in his usual flowing and graphic style the most picturesque and interesting of French provincial towns. The eighth chapter of Dr. Oswald's "Summerland Sketches" also illustrated, carries the reader to the Delta of the Sumatra River.

"A Future Capital of the United States" is a short, well-written paper, discussing the claims for Kansas City to occupy this position at some future time. In the first of two recently written papers on "Decorative Art and its Domains," the writer, M. G. Van Rensselaer, while acknowledging the great improvements in our interior embellishments during recent years, points out the danger of treating the principles to which this progress is mainly due as final and universal axioms. "The Bonaparte in Italy," by Arthur Venner, is a very entertaining paper, supplementing and correcting an article in the Bonaparte family in a recent number of Harper's Magazine. Under the title "The Peasant-Land of Lorne," C. N. Lemon gives a pleasing sketch of some of the Hebridean Islands, the scene of Mr. Bluch's Princess of Thule and Mucedon of Dare, and part of the future inheritance of the Marquis of Lorne. "Wildwood Studies" is a similar but more amusing sketch of life in the backwoods of Virginia.

"Adam and Eve," the new novel, by the author of Dorothy Fox, introduces in the present number scenes and characters which will be very agreeable to our readers. There are also very readable stories by Margaret Deane Wright and the author of "The Difficult Pleasure," a poem by Elaine Goodale, and the usual variety of reading in the "Monthly Gossip" and "Literature of the Day."

The Republican.

H. E. BOWLES M. D., Editor & Prop'r.
H. C. DOWD, Associate Editor.
HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J.
SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1880.

The Republican has been entered in the Post Office Department as Second Class Matter, in accordance with the Postal Laws and Regulations.

In our State Legislature, Senator Gardner, of this County, is represented on five Committees, which are as follows: Municipal Corporations, Banks and Insurance, Riparian Rights, Public Grounds and Buildings, and Sinking Fund. Mr. Gardner is on the Committee of Unfinished Business and Commerce and Navigation. It seems that Atlantic County has not been slighted in honors.

The President has appointed Elias O. Doremus and George W. Atherton as census Supervisors for New Jersey. The compensation of the Supervisors will be $500 and they will have to appoint the enumerators, who will be paid $4 a day. The work of the enumerators is to be only four weeks, as in previous years, and only two weeks in cities having over 10,000 inhabitants.

Major E. J. Anderson, for nine successive years Deputy Comptroller, six years with Comptroller Stockton, and three years with Comptroller Stockton, will be the choice of the Legislature for the Hon. F. R. Stockton's successor. This would be a merited tribute to Mr. Anderson's ability and worth. Those who have had business with him have always found him affable, courteous and obliging.

The continued attacks in Congress upon the tariff, by means of bills to abolish the duties upon separate articles, have not received as much attention from the friends of home industry as the importance of the subject would warrant. Unless our manufacturers take some measures speedily to thwart the intentions of the free-traders, and expose their methods, the threatened danger will overwhelm them before they are aware of its extent.—N. American.

Down in Maine.

Well, Garcelon and his co-conspirators have come to grief, as all such men will. The load they attempted to toss was more than they could carry, and they had to drop it. It was like Christmas's bundle of sin, and led them into the slough of destruction. It was so great a wrong even honest Democrats could not bolster it up, and when the decision of the Supreme Court was given in favor of honor, right and justice it took the last pro from beneath them, and the wonderful structure of Garcelon's stubbornness, willful ignorance and narrow bigotry vanished into thin air, and the law-abiding and law-abiding Republicans took the place of the leading Republicans of the State of Maine, who moved with law and right on their side, who checked the moves of the conspirators and finally blocked their game so that the vanquished hosts of the Democratic and deputy Democratic revolutionists sought to carry on a bogus legislature in the street, having been forcibly prevented from meeting in the State House. But after a little more bluster, a little more of the borrowed flame of the torch, they will find that they will subside, and in less than a year will swear that Garcelon never attempted to steal the State Government, and that they were not aiders and abettors of his. They have come to naught, and we mistake the spirit of the mass of the people of Maine if we allow the rampant usurpers and revolutionists the control of the State Government again; and it would be well to change their Constitution so that no illegitimate legislature could be elected, and no one could be made Governor against the wish of a large majority of the people, and act as a tool for greater mischief than they have escaped.

The New United States District Attorney bill fixes the salary of the New Jersey District Attorney at $3,000, with one assistant at $1,000.

The President has appointed.

Mr. Russell Lowell, our Minister to Spain, to fill the vacancy at the Court of St. James, caused by the resignation of Hon. John Welsh. Mr. John W. Foster, present Minister to Mexico, has been appointed to take the Russian mission, which it is thought he is eminently qualified for. The Spanish and Mexican missions, thus left vacant, are to be filled by the transfer of Mr. Fairchild from the Consulate General at Paris, and Mr. Philip H. Morgan, of Indiana, to Mr. Foster's present position. It is generally conceded that the nomination of Mr. Lowell to be Minister to England could not well be bettered. He is a man of ability and stands well in the esteem of the English people.

We have received through the courtesy of Messrs. Fitzgerald and Gosson, of Trenton, the "Legislative Manual" of the State of New Jersey for the year 1880. It is a very neat little book of over 200 pages, and very valuable for the careful legislator, as it contains a complete and accurate compilation of facts contained therein concerning our State Government. It opens with a brief but comprehensive history of New Jersey, and gives the State Constitution in full, as well as the list of State officers, their duties etc. Accurate biographical sketches are given of the Governor, each of the State Senators and members of the Assembly, as well as the total votes cast by which they were elected. A correct description of all the State buildings and institutions is also given, and in fact everything of interest concerning the State, its condition, and the duties of the various officers of its Government. It is a work that would prove both useful and interesting to every citizen of New Jersey.

The Sentinel of Freedom under the heading of "The Governor's Message" states a few solid truths in a light so clear and significant that we cannot refrain from copying a portion of the article for the benefit of our readers. It runs as follows:

"The Governor had chosen to make invidious comparisons, he could have shown that where the snow lies longest the public credit and safety are most secure. Tracing the line of the States, we find New England solvent, and only Massachusetts in debt. New York has as little debt as New Jersey, and so passing westward and northward there is no single State which is not above the debt line. Many of them have no debt at all, and yet all are heavily encumbered States, building gigantic public institutions like our Morrisania Asylum for the insane, great canals like the Erie and its tributaries in New York, and yet coming quietly out of debt and in full credit. But then the contrast comes: There is no single State which in 1860 was cursed by slavery that can borrow a dollar in any market, unless we except the Border States. It is a feature in politics which we commend to all thinking persons, that there are two sides to it. Counting all the ravages of the war, most of the debt now repudiated by the Southern States were incurred before the war. Some of them were repudiated long before the rebellion. The war debt of the South is no debt at all. The sacrifice of the North was double that endured by the South. The Heavens have been as kindly in our section as the other, and yet there comes constantly up to us the cry of paper money, and the cry of the people of the South, that they are very ill-treated during the years which obtained through the rebellion and followed its failure.

We have filled up the omission in the Governor's message. He has said nothing about our relations to the Union or the other States, and we commend his judgment, for had he gone into any extended comparison, he would have disclosed the fact that every State which has been under Republican control pays its debts, maintains its credit and its schools, and every Democratic State is either in default or on the verge of bankruptcy in fact."

New Jersey Legislature.

In the Senate on Monday, Jan. 19, Mr. Miller offered a bill exempting from prosecution for offering a bribe at elections any person who shall give evidence that he will lead to the conviction of the person offered the bribe. Mr. Francis offered a bill providing that a deed shall be void as against the subsequent judgment creditor or mortgagee for a valuable consideration not having notice thereof, unless such deed shall be recorded within fifteen days after the signing of it; also a bill providing that every deed or conveyance of land in this State made and executed after July 4th, 1880, shall be void as against the subsequent judgment creditor or mortgagee for a valuable consideration, not having notice thereof, unless such deed shall be recorded, or proved and recorded, within that time; such deed shall be void, therefore, also a bill providing that all actions to obtain possession of lands where the right to such action accrued by virtue of a deed taken prior to July 4th, 1880, and without notice of a prior deed, which prior deed had been recorded,

The Republican.

H. E. BOWLES M. D., Editor & Prop'r.
H. C. DOWD, Associate Editor.
HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J.
SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1880.

The Republican has been entered in the Post Office Department as Second Class Matter, in accordance with the Postal Laws and Regulations.

In our State Legislature, Senator Gardner, of this County, is represented on five Committees, which are as follows: Municipal Corporations, Banks and Insurance, Riparian Rights, Public Grounds and Buildings, and Sinking Fund. Mr. Gardner is on the Committee of Unfinished Business and Commerce and Navigation. It seems that Atlantic County has not been slighted in honors.

The President has appointed Elias O. Doremus and George W. Atherton as census Supervisors for New Jersey. The compensation of the Supervisors will be $500 and they will have to appoint the enumerators, who will be paid $4 a day. The work of the enumerators is to be only four weeks, as in previous years, and only two weeks in cities having over 10,000 inhabitants.

Major E. J. Anderson, for nine successive years Deputy Comptroller, six years with Comptroller Stockton, and three years with Comptroller Stockton, will be the choice of the Legislature for the Hon. F. R. Stockton's successor. This would be a merited tribute to Mr. Anderson's ability and worth. Those who have had business with him have always found him affable, courteous and obliging.

The continued attacks in Congress upon the tariff, by means of bills to abolish the duties upon separate articles, have not received as much attention from the friends of home industry as the importance of the subject would warrant. Unless our manufacturers take some measures speedily to thwart the intentions of the free-traders, and expose their methods, the threatened danger will overwhelm them before they are aware of its extent.—N. American.

Down in Maine.

Well, Garcelon and his co-conspirators have come to grief, as all such men will. The load they attempted to toss was more than they could carry, and they had to drop it. It was like Christmas's bundle of sin, and led them into the slough of destruction. It was so great a wrong even honest Democrats could not bolster it up, and when the decision of the Supreme Court was given in favor of honor, right and justice it took the last pro from beneath them, and the wonderful structure of Garcelon's stubbornness, willful ignorance and narrow bigotry vanished into thin air, and the law-abiding and law-abiding Republicans took the place of the leading Republicans of the State of Maine, who moved with law and right on their side, who checked the moves of the conspirators and finally blocked their game so that the vanquished hosts of the Democratic and deputy Democratic revolutionists sought to carry on a bogus legislature in the street, having been forcibly prevented from meeting in the State House. But after a little more bluster, a little more of the borrowed flame of the torch, they will find that they will subside, and in less than a year will swear that Garcelon never attempted to steal the State Government, and that they were not aiders and abettors of his. They have come to naught, and we mistake the spirit of the mass of the people of Maine if we allow the rampant usurpers and revolutionists the control of the State Government again; and it would be well to change their Constitution so that no illegitimate legislature could be elected, and no one could be made Governor against the wish of a large majority of the people, and act as a tool for greater mischief than they have escaped.

The New United States District Attorney bill fixes the salary of the New Jersey District Attorney at $3,000, with one assistant at $1,000.
