The Iron Era, of Dover, N. J., in its issue of Jan. 15th, 1904, says: "County Superintendent W. B. Matthews, of this place, was united in marriage to Mrs. Jennie Roberts, of Houston, Texas, on Sunday, at Jersey City. Mr. and Mrs. Matthews returned to their home, on Orchard Street, on Monday." Mr. M. was principal of our Hammonton schools for several years.

A section of Bellevue Avenue, a few rods long, near Fourth Street, has always been troublesome. Some years ago, Mr. Burgess hauled on gravel until the road was really above grade, but it held until four or five years ago, when, grading for drainage in that section, the street was lowered to about its former level. Then the former trouble began, and the filling-in process had to be repeated. Last week, several teams were nearly "mired" there, and Overseer Combe has added more than a dozen loads of cinders, which seem to be the best thing for the purpose, and have made the road safe once more.

The Philadelphia & Reading Railway is arranging for their 1904 edition of "Pleasant Places on the P. & R. Railway," containing a list of the hotels and boarding houses accommodating summer boarders, located along the main line and branches of the company, their rates, etc. To get a full list, the station agents within easy reach of Philadelphia have received information desired.

If you wish your house to be included, you are requested to call on the nearest Philadelphia & Reading agent and give him the necessary information. As the book will be ready for distribution at the beginning of the season, it is imperative that this information be furnished at once.

The Booklets.

Ten thousand booklets of the Town of Hammonton, beautifully illustrated, have just been issued by the Board of Trade. Every citizen is entitled to a copy, free of charge, which may be procured by calling on the Secretary, Dr. Charles Cunningham, at his residence, Second Street.

Additional copies may be obtained by paying the following prices: eight, for 25 cents; three for 10 cents; or 5 cents each. These prices include envelopes for mailing, when desired. They can be purchased of the Secretary, from P. H. Jacobs, Chairman of Printing Committee, and at Henson's news room.

The cost of these booklets largely exceeds the above prices, and all money obtained from their sale will be kept separate from the general funds of the Board of Trade, and be used exclusively for advertising the Town in other ways.

Do we want More Saloons?

This evening, Town Council will be called on to decide whether another licensed saloon (otherwise named a hotel) is a necessity in Hammonton. But one application will come before them—that of one Matthew Pfeil. In his petition he asks for legal permission to sell liquor "in the house wherein I now reside." But at that date he did not reside within a hundred rods of the premises designated, and we have not yet heard that the owner—John Moore—has moved out to make room for "hotel" furniture and fixtures.

Twelve men signed a statement to the effect (among other things) that to their personal knowledge the applicant had at least a stated number of beds more than were needed to accommodate his family. But how could all these men know this fact? The "hotel" was not open, the applicant's beds not there. Did they all visit his place of residence, inspect its contents, count the beds, blankets, sheets and pillows?

We have nothing to say concerning Mr. Pfeil. His twelve men say that he is a man of good repute. But we hope the Councilmen will be as strict with him as they were with Mr. Esposito, whose projected hotel was on his own land, near his residence; but he was refused a license because he did not reside in the building.

Aside from this, Hammonton has already all the hotels needed, unless it be a large and commodious structure to accommodate winter invalids and summer boarders by the score or hundred. No more bar-rooms are needed, especially in the proposed location, which is within a few rods of one already established, about half-a-mile from another, and the same distance from a third,—all said to be doing a satisfactory business.

business, anywhere or anywhere. It has edged its way into Hammonton, and seems inclined to stay; but we protest against the legalizing of any more of the class within our borders. It is the only business in town that confers absolutely no benefit upon its patrons, but works them positive harm continually; and it seems strange that any man of brain and shrewdness in it, or encourage another to do so. We hope that a good representation of our best people will appear before Council this evening, and make an emphatic protest against the licensing of any more saloons.

Committee Meetings.

The Pleasantville Press, this week, has an article from the unknown Hammonton correspondent, concerning the work of Council's License Committee, in which he states that the meetings of this Committee are secret, but "Editor Hoyt, without authority," announced the night of its meeting, and declared it open to the public. The facts, Mr. DePuy, Chairman of said Committee, voluntarily notified us of the date set for the meeting referred to, and requested its publication. It was intended to be open, hence was held in the Council Room. Further, it is not known that the License Committee meetings are secret. The day is usually announced at Council meeting, and everyone who has any interest in the application under consideration has been welcomed, and had the privilege of being heard.

It is customary for a committee composed of a fractional part of a legislative body to meet privately, and send for persons and papers desired; but their report is merely advisory, and in no way binding upon the main body. It is done for convenience, to save time, and because in this way the necessary information can be obtained in a given time on a dozen different subjects, by as many committees.

It would be a peculiar way of doing business, for the entire body to meet in secret session and decide what action to take at the public and official meeting. No protest or argument would avail, in that case, as the majority had been virtually acted upon without hearing the opposition.

Most Hammontonians understand this; but we publish it for the benefit of any who might have been misled by the said correspondent's brilliant blunder.

Charlie Keyser died at Habnemann Hospital last week Friday, about one o'clock. His body was brought home, and funeral services held at the home on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. F. L. Jewett, Rev. W. W. Williams assisting.

We have complete files of the Republican for twenty-five years past, which are open for examination by any student of Town history. Part of the older files were destroyed, owing to a misunderstanding, two or three years before the present proprietor took possession of the business.

At the last meeting of the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist Church, it was decided to discontinue the Sunday evening devotional meetings, for the present, and hold, instead, a combined business, devotional, and social meeting once a month. The first of these will be held on Friday evening, Feb. 19th, at 7:30. Miss Brewster will lead during the devotional hour, and Mrs. Wilson will have charge of the social exercises. A silver offering will be taken. All welcome.

Little Louise, the daughter of Mr. J. J. Robe, of City (for some years one of our best men) was run over by a heavy car, on Thursday, and one foot badly crushed. The extent of her injuries is not fully known.

We hear encouraging reports about the night school. About forty pupils are in attendance, and evidently go to gain knowledge. A large number of them are Italians, of whom several understood scarcely a word of English. The teachers are Miss Wilson and Miss French.

Miss Louise Taylor, of Hammonton, and Mr. Townsend J. Powell, of Atlantic City, were married Tuesday, Jan. 19, 1904, at Atlantic, by Rev. E. E. Brumate, D. D. Miss Taylor was employed in our telephone exchange. Her sister, Miss Rae Taylor, will fill the vacancy.

Assemblyman Elvins has again brought before the House the bill to enable Hammonton and other towns to erect or purchase an electric lighting plant. The bill passed the House last year, but was smothered in a Senate committee. It is likely to become a law, this time.

In his sermon last Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Thurlow placed himself emphatically on record as opposed to liquor licenses, petty gambling (by slot machines), and Sunday trading. He urged his people to attend next Council meeting and protest against granting any more licenses.

Early on Monday morning, Mrs. Burd, of Winslow, mother of William Burd, the politician, wandered too near the back stairway, and fell, bruising and shaking herself up considerably. Dr. Burd says she will come around all right, in time. A bad tumble for a person eighty-four years old.

WANTED—Twenty or twenty-five acres of good land, with a few buildings, in size, having house, barn, and chicken house attached. Also, be in good condition, and within mile of railroad station. Reference given. Address: RICHARD L. JONES, 608 Pearl St., Philadelphia, Pa.

James P. Patten was seriously injured, last week Friday afternoon, while shopping in the woods. As he was returning from his house, he stepped on a log, and fell, dislocating a knee joint and breaking a small bone therein. Dr. Crowell attended him, but he will be laid up for some time.

Bessie, daughter of Charles S. Morris, formerly of Hammonton, was married on Tuesday evening to Lewis S. Porter, in the Calvary Presbyterian Church, Camden. On Wednesday, her sister, Emmaline, and Willis J. Martin, were united in marriage at the family home. The latter wedding was a surprise, even to her sister Bessie.

Following the Republican's lead in agitating the County Seat question, papers throughout the county, and in Camden and Philadelphia, have taken up the subject. All agree that May's Landing is not a central point; that it would be folly to appropriate any more money to patch up the old buildings, as the patching would have to be on from year to year, and soon amount to more than the cost of new structures erected on the main railroad lines. Talk to your Freeholder about it, and persuade him to use his influence in favor of an early removal of the County Capital to a more accessible location.

Mr. Joseph Batlow died last Sunday, Jan. 24th, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John W. Rolter, Hammonton, aged 83 years. Mr. E. was born at Weymouth, and worked at the iron furnace there, as a moulder, until the works were destroyed by fire, in 1894, and afterward drifted wherever he could obtain employment, but always drifted back this way. Funeral services on Wednesday; burial in the Elwood Cemetery. About two weeks ago, his brother died at May's Landing, aged 93 years.

Early on Monday morning, Mrs. Burd, of Winslow, mother of William Burd, the politician, wandered too near the back stairway, and fell, bruising and shaking herself up considerably. Dr. Burd says she will come around all right, in time. A bad tumble for a person eighty-four years old.

WANTED—Twenty or twenty-five acres of good land, with a few buildings, in size, having house, barn, and chicken house attached. Also, be in good condition, and within mile of railroad station. Reference given. Address: RICHARD L. JONES, 608 Pearl St., Philadelphia, Pa.

James P. Patten was seriously injured, last week Friday afternoon, while shopping in the woods. As he was returning from his house, he stepped on a log, and fell, dislocating a knee joint and breaking a small bone therein. Dr. Crowell attended him, but he will be laid up for some time.

Bessie, daughter of Charles S. Morris, formerly of Hammonton, was married on Tuesday evening to Lewis S. Porter, in the Calvary Presbyterian Church, Camden. On Wednesday, her sister, Emmaline, and Willis J. Martin, were united in marriage at the family home. The latter wedding was a surprise, even to her sister Bessie.

Following the Republican's lead in agitating the County Seat question, papers throughout the county, and in Camden and Philadelphia, have taken up the subject. All agree that May's Landing is not a central point; that it would be folly to appropriate any more money to patch up the old buildings, as the patching would have to be on from year to year, and soon amount to more than the cost of new structures erected on the main railroad lines. Talk to your Freeholder about it, and persuade him to use his influence in favor of an early removal of the County Capital to a more accessible location.

Mr. Joseph Batlow died last Sunday, Jan. 24th, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John W. Rolter, Hammonton, aged 83 years. Mr. E. was born at Weymouth, and worked at the iron furnace there, as a moulder, until the works were destroyed by fire, in 1894, and afterward drifted wherever he could obtain employment, but always drifted back this way. Funeral services on Wednesday; burial in the Elwood Cemetery. About two weeks ago, his brother died at May's Landing, aged 93 years.

We have complete files of the Republican for twenty-five years past, which are open for examination by any student of Town history. Part of the older files were destroyed, owing to a misunderstanding, two or three years before the present proprietor took possession of the business.

At the last meeting of the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist Church, it was decided to discontinue the Sunday evening devotional meetings, for the present, and hold, instead, a combined business, devotional, and social meeting once a month. The first of these will be held on Friday evening, Feb. 19th, at 7:30. Miss Brewster will lead during the devotional hour, and Mrs. Wilson will have charge of the social exercises. A silver offering will be taken. All welcome.

Little Louise, the daughter of Mr. J. J. Robe, of City (for some years one of our best men) was run over by a heavy car, on Thursday, and one foot badly crushed. The extent of her injuries is not fully known.

We hear encouraging reports about the night school. About forty pupils are in attendance, and evidently go to gain knowledge. A large number of them are Italians, of whom several understood scarcely a word of English. The teachers are Miss Wilson and Miss French.

Miss Louise Taylor, of Hammonton, and Mr. Townsend J. Powell, of Atlantic City, were married Tuesday, Jan. 19, 1904, at Atlantic, by Rev. E. E. Brumate, D. D. Miss Taylor was employed in our telephone exchange. Her sister, Miss Rae Taylor, will fill the vacancy.

Assemblyman Elvins has again brought before the House the bill to enable Hammonton and other towns to erect or purchase an electric lighting plant. The bill passed the House last year, but was smothered in a Senate committee. It is likely to become a law, this time.

In his sermon last Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Thurlow placed himself emphatically on record as opposed to liquor licenses, petty gambling (by slot machines), and Sunday trading. He urged his people to attend next Council meeting and protest against granting any more licenses.
