The ladies have taken this space by the year, and are responsible for all that it may contain.

God has given power and dominion to man, and made him Nature's King.
What has broken his sceptre? What has torn the imperial crown from his brow, and debased him below the beasts? Drunkenness!

God has given to man reason, and set before him a destiny high and glorious, reaching into eternity. What has dethroned his reason, and hidden her bright beams in 'mystic clouds that roll around the shattered temple of the human soul, curtained in midnight? Drunkenness!

God has given him a healthy body;
he is smitten with disease from head to foot. His body, so "fearfully and wonderfully made," is now a mass of corruption more hideous than the leprosy of Naaman or the sores of Lazarus. What has done it? The drink, the drink has done it.

Thousands Sent into Exile.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always cure. Don't be an exile when Dr.
King's New Discovery for Consumption will cure you at home. It's the most infallible medicine for coughs, colds, and all throat and lung diseases on earth. The first dose brings relief. Astounding cures result from persistent use. Trial bottles free at J. B. Rogers'. Prices 50c.
and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

Blown to Atoms.

The old idea that the body sometimes needs a powerful, drastic, purgative pill has been exploded; for Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are perfectly harmless, gently stimulate liver and bowels to expel poisonous matter, cleanse the system and absolutely cure constipation and sick headache. Only 50c. at J. B. Rogers' drug store.

In answering advertisements,

JERSEY REPUBLICAN."

MR. EDITOR:—Following up the deserved commendation of our Fire Companies in recent issues of the REPUBLICAN, I wish to call attention to a fact not generally known. I am told by one of the members that there is a provision in their By-Laws by which any one may become an honorary member on the payment of two dollars entrance fee, and one dollar a year as regular dues.

This is certainly a deserving cause, and should be encouraged. We have many people here who, perhaps, are not able to run to fires or attend the monthly meetings, but would gladly aid the company with money.

The Town makes barely enough appropriation for the necessary supplies, and what little they spend for protection [hats, coats, etc.] is raised by the members themselves. Let us show practical sympathy for the men who bravely protect our homes from devastation by fire. REAL ESTATE.

MR. EDITOR:—Presuming that you have not heard the facts of the small-pox scare, I take leave to state them.

The case was reported to the Board of health by a pedlar, last Friday. Two members of the Board investigated, and found patient hiding under a bed. The Health Inspector immediately took charge of the case, and established a quarantine of premises. The patient arrived here last Wednesday, from New York, where he had been sick five weeks with the disease, and the local Board do not anticipate any spread of the malady. This is the only contagious disease now under quarantine.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold." She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Pendergast, merchant, Annetto Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. Pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. Sold by J. B.
Rogers.

SATURDAY, FEB. 22, 1902.

Close Them Up.

In some manner (we don't know how), members of the Town Council learned that several parties in town were operating those famous "slot machines," some of them for prizes of cigars, others for money. They are gambling devices, pure and simple, and by their small operations tend to lead young men into the gambling habit. On Wednesday, Chairman M. K. Boyer served written notices upon each one of the parties, to banish all these machines within forty-eight hours, or they would be arrested for violation of State law.

At the same time, a similar notice was handed to two men who, report says, have rented and furnished a room on a side street, and have been "entertaining" such men as were considered "safe" at a regulation poker game.

To be sure, this is letting offenders off easy; but it may put an end to the nefarious business, and prove a warning to any one who is tempted to re-open it.

We have heard rumors of these matters for some time; but it is one thing to believe, and another, quite different, to prove. For example, we hear that there is still another poker game in town, and that a certain party is buying more beer than he can drink or afford to give away; but we can't prove it, and mention the matter only as a hint to the parties interested.

The gambling laws provide severe penalties, and if Council's warning does not eradicate the evil, we hope the next move will be sudden and sharp, sending the offenders to state prison for a term. We have legalized the sale of liquor in town, but have no use for gamblers or primary schools to teach the vice.

Mr. Ferris, residing on Main Road, near Walker, fell from his hay mow, Tuesday night, fracturing right hip badly, bruising right arm, and sustaining internal injuries. While he has rallied somewhat, yet owing to his advanced age, his condition is regarded by his physician, Dr. Cunningham, as critical.

The Review intimates that our comments upon increased county expenses border on "contempt of Court." Nothing of the kind was intended. In fact, we do not know who is responsible for the increase, whether judges, prosecutor, attorneys, or whether the Freeholders might not prevent the various parties exceeding their appropriation. We only voiced the sentiments of many taxpayers who regret the increase and are searching for a remedy.

The Finance Committee's report shows a very satisfactory state of affairs in some respects, more money in the treasury than there was a year ago, and a less amount in unpaid town orders. None of the several funds has a large surplus remaining, but none of them has been overdrawn. It has been a hard year for the poor fund, and the Board of Health has drawn heavily from the cash-box, because of small-pox and diphtheria; but it might have cost the people much more if the Board had not used vigorous means to stamp out these contagious diseases.

The birthday of Washington, "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen." We have been making history rapidly during the past fifty years, and though the memory of the "Father of his Country" will ever be precious to every patriot, the enthusiasm which prompted the old-time celebrations of this day has been in great measure succeeded by cheers for heroes of a later date. There are other noble and valiant men to share with him the honors due to men who served well their country and their God.

The General Superintendent of the Interstate Telephone Company was in town on Wednesday evening, for a conference with the Town Councilmen.

This evening an ordinance will probably be introduced in Council, to grant this company a franchise. They have many phones in use in Atlantic City, are said to give satisfactory service, and their rates are much lower than Hammondon people have been paying.

ELWOOD NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Leacock, of Camden, and the Misses—Mollie and—Maggie Leacock, of Atlantic City, made a flying visit here on Sunday last.

Mrs. Charles D. Smith is spending a few days in Atlantic City.

Austin J. Bozarth has returned from the South.

A valentine social was held at the Methodist parsonage on Friday evening, 14th. Valentine were for sale both for ladies and gentlemen. The gentlemen found his partner by finding the lady with a valentine whose number corresponded with his own. A treat followed.

Miss Clara B-zarth favored us with a recitation, the remainder of the evening being spent in having a general good time.

Robert S. Smith and Harry E. Carver were home this week.

Miss M. C. Hutchinson has returned from her visit in Atlantic.

Harry H. Sherman has returned to Elwood, and resumed his former position as clerk in Bozarth's store.

"Old La Grippe" is going the rounds. Max Dye, Miss M. K. Smith, and Mrs. Wagoner have been caught in his clutches.

J. Hubert Filer does not improve. His sister, Mrs. M. F. Wickham, has come home to care for him.

J. W. Johnson is gaining; was seen out on Thursday.

The Independent Order of Mechanics will hold an entertainment on Friday evening, 28th, in Irving Hall.

Mrs. Mary MacMullen has gone to Philadelphia, to be treated for cataract of the eye.

Several of our citizens have filled their ice-houses from the swimming pool. J. H. Brown, levelled ten tons, and J. T. Irving about six tons.

Herbert Smith, of Atlantic City, visited here on Sunday.

The snow storm caused much delay in business this week. The school and Bozarth's saw-mill have been closed. For two days no mail was carried on the star routes. The Overseer has been at work opening streets, and business is being gradually relieved.

Miss Roba House has been suffering from a severe cold, but is better.

A February Blizzard.

Last Sunday dawned bright and beautiful; and though clouds gathered during the day, no one expected the sudden change that came soon after sundown. About eight o'clock, snow began to fall, and in a couple of hours the ground was whitened; but even yet the weather was looked for rain.

In the morning, early risers found a full-fledged blizzard raging, minus the bitter cold which usually accompanies it. Apparently, nearly a foot of snow had fallen, but a thirty-five mile wind had piled it into ridges, hills, and mountains, making locomotion difficult.

The railroads felt it, all trains about three hours late in reaching Philadelphia, and carrying but few passengers. The "dummy" left Hammondon about on time, 6:00 a.m.; but was stalled for hours at Winslow. The 8:00 express on the Reading left here at 11:30. On railroads running north and south, very little business was done for two days.

Snow fell nearly all day, and the wind abated little on Tuesday. The factories were short-handed, as operatives living at a distance were unable to get in. Sidewalks in town were piled high with the "beautiful," and only narrow paths were attempted—until Tuesday afternoon; and even then, householders in the suburbs were compelled to repeat their laborious work several times, as the wind filled the walks almost as rapidly as the above excavated them. Happily, it was not very cold, and outdoor work was no hardship.

On Tuesday, the Overseer, with his plow and four horses, spent several hours opening passage-ways through the blockade. W. H. Barnabow, with a double team, made a lane to central school-house, where Monday's sessions were all omitted. The Methodists thought it wise to suspend their revival meetings for three nights. Milkmen, grocers, and coal dealers did the best they could under the circumstances, and worked hard to relieve the wants of the impoverished population. But the rubber-boat man smiled broadly as he saw his stock depleted. One man on the Avenue found his front doorway drifted so full that he had to summon aid from the outside before he dared to open up.

Altogether, it was a novel experience—a high wind, heavy drifts of damp snow, blockaded streets, and all the component parts of a regular blizzard except the biting cold, mercury standing not far from thirty above.

Wednesday's sun softened the snow, and it froze at night, thawed again on Thursday, and the people slowly but surely settled. On Friday, rain and sleet made safe walking impossible.

Edna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dodd, aged seven years, died last Sunday night, of heart failure, following diphtheria. Funeral service on Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. H. F. Loomis.

Members of the Barne Union, with their wives, visited Rev. Henry T. Taylor on Wednesday evening. They were not exactly expected, but were welcome just the same, and the visit seemed as happy as any of his company. Of course they carried refreshments.

H. Kirk Spear will break ground in Atlantic City, about March 1st, for the erection of four three-story and basement brick cottages, which are to be completed for the Summer season. They are to be finished in hard woods, heated by steam, to have all modern conveniences, and to cost about $10,000.

A Cure For Lumbago.

W. O. Williamson, of Amherst, Va., says: "For more than a year I suffered from lumbago. I finally tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me entire relief, which all other remedies had failed to do." Sold by J. S. Rogers.

BE GLAD.

If your sister is overcast,
They'll be bright tomorrow.
There will be an end at last,
To dark and sorrow.
The clouds will melt away,
Shine the sun forever.
There awaits a golden height
To reward endeavor.

'Spite of grieving and of pain
For the ones gone from us,
Shining over sorrow's rain
Is a bow of promise.
Glad above the tempest smiles
Through the clouds of sadness.
In the sunny afterglow
There is joy and gladness.

In the home, when all is done,
One awaits to meet us;
There are little feet to run,
Laughing eyes to greet us.
After all the world is fair,
God is good above us,
When there's some one else to care,
Some one else to love us.

There are songs of joy afar,
If you stop to listen.
Hope can see a silver star
Over the morning glen.
Past the future's open gate Brighter days are waiting.
Death and parting, wrong and hate,
These are only seeming.

Though disasters line the way
That awaits before me,
In the province of Today
There is sunshine and cheer.
Overd through a fair To-Be
Is my spirit winging;
While a voice of melody
Through my heart is ringing.

THE ROMANCE OF MABEL

TELL you again, Harold, I can not be mistaken in this. Mrs. Fenton, the vicar's wife, said categorically. You are so taken up with your books and the philosophical treatise you are engaged at that you have not the least idea how your daughter is getting on. But I am far too fond of Mabel to suffer this matter to continue if I can stop it.

"Mabel is one of the loveliest girls in the country. It does not surprise me that Raymond Silchester admires her. But how would it be if she were to marry an unfortunate enough to fall into a hopeless attachment to that young soldier? His father, Sir Francis Silchester, would never allow him to marry Mabel, or any other 'peevish lass' long pedigree or otherwise. I'm quite certain of that, at all events.

"Really and truly, Harold? Mrs. Fenton concluded, rising and nodding her head emphatically. You can pursue now in this simple truth—namely, that young Captain Silchester is paying marked attention to Mabel—and to him to get his son (transferee) from the regiment. And sorry I am, Harold, that his company was ever sent to this part of the country."

Mrs. Fenton was Mr. Moore's cousin, as well as the vicar's of his parson. He therefore received her good advice with his customary patience, and with gratitude, too, on this particular occasion. "Well, be it so, Mabel—be it so," Mrs. Fenton returned, after another pause. "I will write to Sir Francis this very day. Hush! I think I hear Mabel's footsteps. Do not pretend anything just yet. It would be unkind."

A moment later a lovely girl, tall, slim, dark-eyed, entered the room where her father and Mrs. Fenton stood together. She had just returned from a country walk, and her dark eyes sparkled like jewels.

"O, is this you, Cousin Mabel?" she said as she came in. "I am glad now that I did not call at the vicarage, as I partly intended during my walk. I should not have found you at home."

"No, I've been here for the last half hour, Mabel. And did you meet any one in your walk, my dear?"

"No—yes, well, it was but for a minute or two. Mabel answered, with an old little embarrassment creeping into her manner and a sudden brilliant color in her cheeks.

"What was it, my dear?" Mrs. Fenton asked, while Mr. Moore gazed somewhat curiously at his daughter's tell-tale cheeks.

"I met Mabel, Captain Silchester, most probably. Eke, my dear, I was standing on the river path, smoking. Mabel admitted, and a moment or two later, seemingly overcome by some hidden feelings, she murmured a hasty excuse and left the room.

"Now, Harold, are you satisfied?" Mrs. Fenton asked, nodding her head slowly towards Mr. Moore and commencing her hair.

cause you the smallest annoyance. If I can help it, I shall see that he is transferred immediately.

"A great friend of mine, Colonel Stanley, will call upon you during next week to convey personally to you my thanks for your letter. Believe me, dear Sir, yours faithfully,

"SILCHESTER."

And while Mr. Moore was reading this kindly letter, sighing a little as he did so, down on the secluded path by the river, beneath the drooping willows, in the amber light streaming from the west, Mabel and Raymond Silchester stood together, the girl's eyes cast downward, as she listened to the impassioned words which poured from the young soldier's eager lips.

Mabel, you must—yes, you must—yes, I feel that I cannot live without you now. I shall run down home and have a talk with the Governor to-morrow. He may be a bit of a martinet, but he has a human heart inside of his breast, at all events."

But, a few days later, Mabel Moore's rose-colored dreams, received a rude and bitter shock. A letter reached her from Silchester Park, from Raymond Silchester, had occurred, he wrote, which prevented his returning to Wall field just at present. He promised to tell the full particulars to Mabel at another time, and he renewed his vows and implored of her to be true to him during his unavoidable separation. Not one word as to his interview with his father.

This ominous letter was a great blow to the girl, and as the days went by, Mr. Moore began to be seriously alarmed about his daughter. It was a genuine relief to him, therefore, when one day Colonel Stanley, Sir Francis Silchester's "great friend," arrived at the house.

"This visit, Mr. Moore told him, would have the effect of distracting the girl's thoughts from her loneliness and sorrow."

And Colonel Stanley turned out to be no shambling old gentleman that Mr. Moore had been led to believe. He was a tall, well-proportioned man, with a keen intellect and a heart as true as steel.

"I shall feel quite lonely, I assure you, when leaving," the gentleman said courteously. "The place is so comfortable and—Miss Moore is so delightful a companion."

The day came at last when the Colonel was to leave. He came to bid good-bye to Mr. Moore, and to bid good-bye to Mabel. "And I wish to say to you, Mr. Moore," the Colonel said, "that I am very glad to have known you."

"I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile. "And I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile. "And I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile.

"I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile. "And I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile. "And I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile.

"I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile. "And I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile. "And I am glad to have known you, too," Mr. Moore said, with a smile.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS

Here is a trick by the performance of which any boy or girl can surprise as well as amuse his companions at an evening's entertainment. The trick is one in which two coins are shown, placed one after the other in the left hand. The second is heard to "click" against the first as it is dropped upon it. The hand is then opened and the first coin is seen to have disappeared. The right hand then draws forth the two coins from, say, the knee.

In playing this trick a third coin is needed. The sleight of hand is really a trick beyond the others, to show that nothing has been hidden beneath them. Then the two coins are first shown the third being hidden in the right palm. The first coin is then dropped into the left hand. Those looking on see it drop there, so they are positive that when the hand is closed it really contains the three coins.

HOLY CHILD OF CEBU.

A Filipino Juvenile Which Is Said to Possess Miraculous Powers.

"One of the most interesting sights on the island of Cebu," said a New York woman who has recently been there, "is the holy child of Cebu, an image that is supposed to possess miraculous curative powers. The church that serves as its shrine is a large and handsome edifice devoted entirely to the worship of the image."

"The 'holy child' is carved out of ebony and is beautifully dressed in the robes of a young girl. It stands on a high platform in the wall and all day long on the feast days the worshippers kneel and pray on the floor beneath it. It is believed that prayers made to the image on those days will secure health and happiness to all who make the pilgrimage to this shrine."

"We were the first Americans and I was the first white woman allowed to enter the church. The unprecedented privilege of entering the room back of the image was accorded to us. The room is not open, ordinarily, to any but the priests and nuns. To reach it one must pass through a long hall and ascend a beautiful staircase to the reception room of the padre in charge and saw many fine paintings of saints on the wall."

"The priest who showed the mixed blood of the native Filipino and the Spanish race offered us some benediction and then ushered us into the sacred presence. There were many at the altar, and the padre, looking at the children, turned the image toward them. The image is about twenty inches high and its crown is of immense jewels, mostly diamonds. In name, upon the altar, is surrounded with pearls. It is gorgeously dressed in the Spanish robes. The nuns told me that the image was dug upon the shore by God's own hand, to bless the natives and to cure their diseases."

"We were afterwards taken into the church through the padre's robing room. The walls and furnishings are of elaborately carved mahogany; each piece of which would bring a fortune in this country. But everything is covered with a thin layer of gold leaf. The image is about twenty inches high and its crown is of immense jewels, mostly diamonds. A Deep Mystery.
It is a mystery why women endure backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phoebe Oberley, of Peterson, Ia., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and, although 75 years old, I now am able to do all my housework." It overcomes constipation, improves appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c. at J. S. Rogers' drug store.

Remarkable Cure of Croup.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Store of Goodwin, S. D. and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth to day.—Joel Demont, Inwood, Iowa. ATLANTIC COUNTY ORPHANS' Court. December Term, 1901.

On Application for Rule to Show Cause, etc.
Eli H. Chandler, administrator of William D. Arlitz, deceased, having exhibited to this Court, under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of the said William D. Arlitz is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises;
It is ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of the said decedent, appear before the Court, at the Court House in May's Landing, on the eleventh day of March next, to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of said decedent should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts or the residue thereof as the case may require.
A true copy from the minutes.
J. S. RISLEY, Surrogate.
Dated December 10th, 1901.
