that I read the communication from "Alpha," in your last issue. It is a candid, honest expression, and as such deserves fair treatment. So let us reason together. I accept every statement he makes as to the evils of intemperance. They are truths of great great magnitude and importance. The evil is wide spread, almost universal. None hate it with so bitter a hatred as he who is enchained by it; yet he cannot (or thinks he cannot) let it alone. Its universality is its power. The high and the low are addicted to its use. To legislate on it is to interfere with man's rights, and its universality gives this argument a potency which is lost sight of by most agitators. You have a right to restrain your appetite; but have you he will select a man from some of the a right to say your neighbor shall not larger and more populous western use as a beverage what you think is not good for you? Hundreds of thousands of men, and even women. would think their table unfit to invite a friend to without the wine-glass. This is no fancy statement, it is a literal truth everywhere among the wealthy and aristotocraite. This makes the difficulty in subduing the evil.

The advocates of extreme measures to put down intemperance have little idea of what they advise. They compare it with slavery, which has been dubbed "the sum of all villianies." They bear no comparison. Slavery was an institution of barbarism. In this they were twins: In other respects they are widery different. Slavery, in this country, became extinct for no reason that can be applied to the other evil. The slave power-was destroyed because it was sectional. Had it been duced a bill appropriating $500,000 for as universal as the drinking usage, we the relief of the sufferers from the floods should have had slavery to day. Being sectional, one section was arrayed against the other. Slavery had made the South weak, and it had to yield. Now, is "Alpha," or anybody else, going to destroy the rum power by tions. force? It would be like the fight of the Kilkenny cats. You may legislate, but it will be like leading a horse to water, you cannot make him drink. You cannot legislate for man's appetite. All such laws would be like ropes of sand.

To procure legislation on the temper ance question, you must make the temperance issue. To make this an issue is to be defeated, for the majority are not temperance men in the voting seuse. To prove this, we need only look at the amount of intoxicants manufactured ferryboats will be started on all the and used in this country, besides the principal streets. It has rained so use quantities imported. Who supports the hundreds of thousands of it holds up for-more than half a day saloons and dram shops? Voters. For many yeaes temperance people have talked, and written, and spread t e illustrations of intemperance broadcast. Many are converted; some are saved, which is remuneration for labor, time and money expended. But is the evil any less? Let our alms-houses, our penitentiaries, Is prepared to furnish Getins, Caskers (with handles and plates), Shroads, Robes of any quality wanted. Funerals promptly attended to. our insune asylums, and our graveyards answer. The very thought is 28 Chears reseated, and Pumiture rep ired appailing. Three fourths of all the crimes are attributable to intemperatee. A very large per centage of the instinct are made so by intemperance. And, oh! how much of the poverty and the wretchedness of the world is caused by intemperance. The picture is a dark one. The victums of intemperatice are everywhere. They are not in sections -they are all around us, in our households. The shadow fails on every hearthstone; it durkens the portals of the church; it is almost ommpresent. Where, then, are the vot is to come from to vote it down?

> In this view of the case, is it not better to be on the side in which are found the greatest temperance element? We think as, and feel happy in knowing have life-raft attach wents among other that we have a glorious company of modern improvements.

Mussachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

"78 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

Messes, J. C. Aver & Co., Gentlemen:
Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any ciothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a sovere catarrh and entarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of Ayru's Sarsaparatha, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and iteling were also cured by the same means, and my sentral health greaty improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred percent. Stronger, and I stiribute these results to the use of the Sausararitha, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two-bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. Wilds."

The bill of Senator Merritt now before the Senate providing that hereafter members of the Board of Chosen' Froeholders of the several counties in this State shall be elected for three years, finds some warm supporters in the Senators from other counties. The workingmen of this country sta head and shoulders above those of any other country on the globa for intelligonco and a full appreciation of their needs. At a meeting of a body of them held in New York recently, they declared emphatically for a protective tariff. They cannot be deceived by the false lights of free traders, and be brought into competition with the pauper labor of the old world. It appears from this that the manufacturers are not the only ones whose interests are to be promoted by the passage of a judicious tariff bill. It does not look at this time, however, as if the present Congress was going to prove itself able to pass any tariff, good, bad, er indifferent, through Democratic ctstiancy, although a bill was passed by the Senate Tuesday.

The richest treasure a man ever gets in this world is a good wife. The poorest investment he ever makes is a poor wife, no matter how much money she has. Marriage is a transaction which should be removed as far as possible from the monied value of either party. The happiest homes everywhere have been bought and paid for by the mutual earnings after marriage. Nothing is truer than that a good wife in the home is as surely a money-earner as is the husband who toils with hand or brain. The best motto for every young man or woman is, "Marry for love and work for riches." It may be an old fogy idea, but millions of homes will

PROSPECTUS FOR 1882.

First Class Family Magazine FOR ONLY

$3.00 per annum.

Magazine.

An illustrated Monthly of Popular Literature.

At the beginning of the present year Lippincott's Magazine entered on a new series, at askeuced price, with the distinctive purpose of presenting such a variety of reading matter—for the most part light and entertaining, yet of real literary merit—as should commend it to the general mass of cultivated persons, and ensure it a welcome in many American howes. Devoling a large proportion of its space to fiction, in which short serials are made a noticeable feature, and to sketches illustrative of social life and mann real. It has inclinied in its list of subjects curi sities of scence, especially natural bistory, popularly treated, travel and adventure at home and abroad, field sports and angling, and, we casionally, political, nistorical and editicational topics susceptible of fresh and fively discussion. The certain stories published during the year have been marked by a piquant originality, and have nice with a warm reception: while the general attractiveness of the magazine has gained for it a cordial approval and a greatly increased circulation.

The conductors of the magazine hope net only to maintain its reputation, but to enhance and extend the transportation of the magazine hope net only to maintain its reputation, but to enhance and extend the arrangements for the coming year embrace a larger number than ever before of contributions of a popular character.

A serial story outitled "SPAPHEN GOICHRIE." which some peculiar and striking phases of America life are vividly and dramatically treated, will begin in the January number and run through six months.

The Editorial departments will maintain their pre-ent standard of acknowledged excellence, and the illu-trations will be of a higher character than any that have hitherto appeared to the magazine.
