C. R. Scullin's barn, in the rear of his residence on Bellevue Ave., took fire from some mysterious origin, just before seven o'clock Wednesday morning, and was partially destroyed before either fire company could wallow through the molasses with their apparatus. The object of the First-aid class held on Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in Civic Club Hall, is to instruct the women in just what they are really capable of doing, in cases of injury or sudden illness, until the arrival of a physician. First, it is necessary to have an introductory talk on simple physiology, as taught in schools, so we will not be working blindly. At each meeting the use and practical demonstration of the lungmotor will also be given, as it is essential that each person should be taught when and how to use it, until the timely arrival of a physician. "To be prepared" we do not intend to overstep this work into that of the physicians; but just what we can do so the physician can have good and quicker results. It is hoped every woman in Hammonton will be so interested in first-aid work that more than one meeting a week will need to be held. At the first meeting, about fifty women were present, and were very enthusiastic about attending this series of talks. A summary of the previous talk will be given before each advanced lesson. These talks are given under Red Cross aid and instruction.
