Our Women.

By their loyalty and devotion to the Church (and women form two-thirds of it's membership), their faithfulness under this system of injustice, are surely bringing nearer the glad day when there shall be no sex distinction in service for the King of Kings.

In the limited space at my command I have only been able to hint at a few of the good reasons why Christian women should belong to the W. C. T. U. Oh, woman, heed God's call to you! Join our ranks, and in addition to your church work, work for Him along the lines of Prohibition and woman's emancipation. "This ought ye to do, and not to leave the other undone."

—PRESS SUP'T.—

Advertise; It Brings Wealth.

Advertising pays. Keep in the public eye. Let everyone know what you are doing. Praise yourself. Praise your store. Praise your goods. Get people to come and see what you are talking about. Be sure you have been truthful. If you have been, your customers will spread the fact broadcast and thus your advertising is multiplied many fold. One good pleased customer will bring you many dollars in trade.

Too many merchants engage in catch-penny devices to get people into their stores, then depend upon shrewd salesmen to sell high priced goods. That doesn't pay. The reader of an adv. when he or she learns she has been tricked, will not trade with you, and furthermore go out of their way to spread the fact that you are tricking customers. For instance, a retailer recently advertised a brand of soap which always retails at five cents a cake, at two cents a bar, from 9 to 10 a.m. on a certain day.

Hundreds of women flocked to the store determined to secure the bargain. When they arrived, the salesman informed them that but one bar would be sold to each customer. Result—a lot of disgusted women, many of whom had paid car fare to get that bargain. No amount of talk would mollify them and they left the store in crowds going to nearby stores to trade.

An effort to counteract this false move by large ads. in the newspapers failed, and this storekeeper is a heavy loser as a result.

Do not tell the people in your ads. that you are in the grocery or drug business. They probably know that. Tell them something you have for sale. Change your ad. frequently. When the same ad. is allowed to stand you are losing the opportunity of reaching several thousand people a day.

Here you will find five "Don'ts" that may be of great help to you.

1. Don't say too much, and don't say too little. Be brief and to the point however.
2. Don't be afraid to pay for white space. It makes the type display more effective.
3. Don't expect results unless you keep hammering away and be sure you have the right hammer.
4. Don't let up. Deak at it. The persistent advertiser is the one who gets the business.
5. Don't exaggerate. Stick to facts. A disappointed customer can do more harm than $1,000 worth of good advertising can repair.

The Water Bond question will probably be settled for all time, in a few days, and delivered to the Peoples Bank. The New York Trust Company sent their man down, this week, with the bonds, to be delivered provided they were allowed to erase the signature of the Secretary, who had since been deceased. Also, they contended that they had not been properly issued. Their proposition is to reprint the bonds, have them signed by their present Secretary and our present Town Council, and deliver them, free of charge. Chairman Bernhouse secured legal advice yesterday, as to whether we could accept the offer.

A Few Advertising Hints.

Give good goods a good adv. in a good medium, and the sought-for good results are sure to follow. The renewal of nearly every contract made with the REPUBLICAN is proof in itself of its value as an advertising medium. One price to all. Merchants should put life and vim into their advertising—but don't make it border on the sensational. The scarce head fellow journal advertising is almost to be avoided as the adv. with a spring fever appearance. Steady growth means strength, and in business the only way that this can be attained is by advertising. Tell your story through a medium that the people read.

Obituary.

Mrs. Laura A. Hoyt, wife of ORVILLE E. HOYT, departed this life on Friday morning, March 10th, 1905, aged 68 years.

Mrs. Hoyt was a native of New York State, spent her girlhood in Potterville, Pa., and came to Hammononton about 1850, with her father, Isaiah Potter, and her brother. After her marriage in 1854, she resided in Philadelphia for a time, then spent ten years in Michigan, returning to Hammononton in 1860, broken in health. Her last illness was extremely painful, lasting about eighteen months, and her death was not unexpected. Her husband, four children and five grandchildren, with father, brother and half-sister, mourn for her, though not without hope. Think what a Christian woman, wife, mother, ought to be, all that she was, and her memory is blessed.

There will have to be something done to prevent the congestion of our Bellevue sidewalks, under the cross streets. For several weeks, what water went up street flowed over; but most of it took other courses, and met around Central School House. Evidently making it unhealthy for the children, much of the washings are frozen up on Bellevue, unable to find an outlet. The corner of Bellevue and Central is the worst, in this respect.

A slight snow-storm, Tuesday morning, followed by rain, melted the little snow and ice remaining, and replenished our rapidly depleting supply of mud. Then, more rain on Wednesday, and that night, with very moderate temperature, drew much frost from the ground, and deepened the mire. Well, it's hard to please us poor mortals. We don't like cold and snow; we grumble as mud; we sweeter and growl at heat and dust. Oh, for an equable temperament, that takes all things as they come, and never complains.

IF YOU INTEND to plant raspberries in the spring, it will pay you to purchase the "New Ruby," offered by Wm. F. Bassett. Call for descriptive circular.

We hope that last year's appropriation of fifty dollars for Memorial Day celebration will be duplicated this year. We all know that the old soldiers who take charge of this annual decoration service, are becoming fewer in number every year, and cannot afford to pay the necessary expenses. There are more soldiers graves in Hammononton than there were a year ago, and to remember the departed ones once a year seems little enough to do for those who offered their lives for the country we all love. Do you realize that among surviving soldiers of the rebellion there is scarcely one who is under sixty years of age; and a still less number is free from some ailment originating in, or aggravated by the arduous life in the army. Our local Army Post had, some years ago, more than one hundred members; now they find it difficult to gather enough to form a quorum.

List of unclaimed letters in the Hammononton Post Office on Wednesday, Mar. 8, 1905: Dr. K. G. Duesberg. Mr. Frank J. Taylor. Mrs. Hannah Beckman. Capt. Leeds. Mrs. Charlotte S. Soder.

SINGING IN THE RAIN.

Tell me, what's the use of fretting when we think that things go wrong? It never makes them better; but I've heard it said a song makes the heavy load seem lighter, and will cheer the troubled heart.

Hod Turner's Mortgage

GALEN ANNE Martha and I were on the broad, pleasant veranda, the in her sewing chair and I in the hammock. Not even an invalid could have taken cold that day, so the patchwork quilt was neatly folded and laid on a convenient hassock, in readiness for use if a sudden breeze should spring up.

striking contrast to the little beehive upon the table. The "reputation" of being cross and crabbed and not one of the older Larkson children would have dared venture inside his stern, white picket fence.

Tell me about this one, please, Auntie.

the hammock and scanned the folded quilt for an interesting-looking block. A dark blue one with thin lines of white caught my eye.

"That was the way the queer friend continued the two began. Many a day thereafter Roy might have been seen trudging sturdily at Hod's side as the latter walked about, superintending the work on his large farm.

"Matters went on like this for a year. Then trouble began to rain upon the Larksons. First a severe illness attacked the husband and father. No sooner had he recovered than their one cow, which furnished a large part of their living, died, and their horse soon followed. Another horse and cow they must have, but how to get them?

ner had suggested, though not without many tears from the mother, and many sighs from the father. In spite of Turner's assurances it did seem as if they were selling their child.

"For some time all went well and the boy and girl were sold. For another little Larkson appeared upon the scene, typhoid fever attacked the two oldest children, and finally two years had elapsed since any interest had been paid on the strange mortgage.

"Turner—Hod no longer, but by some indefinable change of feeling, Mr. Larkson turned to the whole village—lived to a good old age with his adopted family, and when at last he died no one was surprised to find Roy, little Roy no longer, his sole heir.

"The sun was setting, the shirt was mended, the story was told and it was supper time. Aunt Martha paused a moment, and then folded her work and I am sure I heard her murmur, 'And a little child shall lead them.'

THE MORMONS' BIG ORGAN.

Ten Years in Building, and Five Complete Instruments in One. It was a great feat President Young first spoke of building a big organ, one that would be in harmony with the mammoth tabernacle.

Our progress was slow and often interrupted, and we had abundant time to observe the work of the organ builders as they came to the city. The organ was extremely wrinkled and withered. The old man, with his wrinkled, yellow face, turned, about seven and a half feet high, and my old mahalo mummy, the darling of my childhood, that I leaned over and put my pearl-handled fan on his knee, and motioned him to give me his exchange.

"The old gentleman looked startled for an instant, but he soon understood, and I became the possessor of a Japanese fan. But then a strange thing happened, and the organ was taken to pieces with confusion, and rank back beside my companion, pulling her parasol over her face.

"The Chinese Weekly Herald is one of the curious institutions of New York. It is not popular among Americans, for, being printed 'backwards,' a white man must stand on his head to read it. Outing is a similar publication in 'Frisco' (San Francisco).

MONEY BY MAIL.

Amplified Protected by Registration, but Not by Special Delivery. The recent discovery of the post-office inspectors of New York City letters bearing special delivery stamps, and that many of these missives have contained large sums of money, has revealed to the department that there is apparently, pretty general misappropriation in the public mail as to the function of the special delivery system.

Mr. Roosevelt, Steamboatman; It is an almost forgotten fact that President Lincoln was the first man to navigate a steamboat on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Capt. Roosevelt was a close personal friend of Robert Fulton, inventor of the steam engine.

REPTILES OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Rattlesnakes and Copperheads Are Common—Latter More Dangerous. The mountain regions of Pennsylvania are the natural haunts of the rattlesnake, says the Philadelphia North American, and almost everyone who has been with any great frequency in the wilder localities has seen this dreaded reptile being coiled and stretched by the approach of an intruder.

Is it right?
Is it right that a property owner should lose $4.20 to let a dealer make 50 cents?
A dealer makes 50 cents more on fourteen gallons of ready-for-use paint, at $1.50 per gallon, than our agent does on eight gallons of L. & M. paint and six gallons of linseed oil, which make fourteen gallons of the best paint in the world, at $1.20 per gallon; the property owner loses just $4.20. Is it right?
It only requires 4 gallons of L. & M.
and 3 gallons linseed oil to paint a moderate sized house.
