ending the week with two especially strong features next Saturday,

At the Palace we are screening Pearl White in "The Mountain Woman", from the novel entitled, "A Pagan of the Hills," by Charles Meville Buck. This is a story of the lumber regions, and Pearl White, a girl of the forest, attired in men's clothing, guiding the logs down the river like a veteran, furnishes many thrills and surprises to her legion admirers. To round out the program, we are presenting the famous Clyde Cook, in his latest success entitled, "The Jockey."

At the Eagle we shall present a Thomas H. Ince production entitled, **Romespun Folks," released through associate producers. This is rural drams of pathos and politics. A story all about the folks at home. A story of a country lad who was put out of his home because he studied Law secretly. It is just a simple play of simple folks, but so absorbingly human, so true to life, so clean and wholesome, you will never regret having come in contact with it.
