A Journalist's Last Poem.

The following is from the pen of Frank Phelps, the city editor of the Burlington Herald, who died a few days ago. It was written only a short time before his death:

ATHANATOS.

"The trees look like Winter," she said, "but the grass is like the Spring."

Out in the air the trees are naked;

The hills are warm in the Autumn sun;

The boughs are gray in the leaden sky,

But the grass is green, though the leaves are gone.

Daily and yearly the frost is falling—

Rolling and rolling the world goes on;

The head is gray and the eyes are fading—

But the heart is young, though the years are
gone.

White as age is the snow on the hillside,

Melting not in the Winter sun;

The grass is green in the warm sun growing

The grass will be green when the snow is gone.

Smiles, like a frozen rainbow, glitten

Under the tears, as time goes on;

Green are the graves where death lies hidden;

For love is young, though the loved are
gone.

Cold are the trees where the winds are wailing,

Warm is the ground, and the shining sun—

Heaven and earth are growing together—

The grass is green, though the leaves are
gone.

Closer and closer we cling to our mother—

Warmed in her bosom, when life is done—

The heart in the earth and the soul in Heaven;

The grass is green, though the leaves are
gone.

A Plea for the Little Ones.

Are they troublesome—the children?

Do their young lives bring us ill,

Endless toil and endless worry,

Canst thou spirit twist heart and will?

'Tis the spirit, I know, of many

In these very modern days,

Who, dispensing with the children,

Would go on untrammelled ways—

Ways of idle, trivial pleasures,

Or of missions grandly set;

Theories, worked out in action,

Rounds of duties bravely met.

Ah! what grander, worthier mission

Than this, truly woman's own,

Guarding, guiding little footsteps

To the threshold of God's throne?

Little faces turn in pleading,

Little figures block the way,

Have these lost their power to sway?

"Don't renounce us," hear their voices,

"We can never do you harm!"

We will only keep your natures

In their freshness, safe and warm."

"True, we oftentimes are so trying

Nothing seems our wills to move,

But an angel, that we know of,

Never fails to—Christian Love,"

So, the merry tones are silent,

Endeth, too, the faulty strain,

Faulty, yet my heart is in it,

Grant it may not be in vain.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15, 1880.

Ben Hill is in trouble that will stick to him for a long time. When he charged Senator Kellogg with having brought a woman here to blackmail him he "bit off more than he could chew." Senator Kellogg denies him to the proof, and wants a committee to show that Hill has taken this course to cover up his immoral transaction. This is followed by the charge of Mrs. Lockwood, that Hill has ruined several families here, and altogether Hill will have a tough time of it to clear up his smeared character.

Captain Eads was before the Congressional Committee a second time on Saturday, and made further important statements about Inter-

Oceanic Commercial projects. He said that De Lesseps' canal could not be constructed for less than three hundred million dollars, while a ship railway could be built for fifty millions.

The canal would require twenty years for construction while the railway would require but four. The Committee is very favorably impressed with his plan.

Although they still threaten to present Washburn, and sent Denny, of Minnesota, the Democratic Committee hesitates to report, and the supposition is that they fear they cannot bring the majority of the House up to the scratch to commit such a contemptible outrage.

Several other election cases hang for the same reason.

Congress is not in the habit of having short sessions on Presidential year. Somebody has looked up the Record to ascertain that since 1828 Congress has not adjourned on Presidential year short of July. In 1876 it was in session until the middle of August.

The Democrats are receiving some interesting news from Maine. Besides the elections there, which have been discouragingly against them,

the other day by professing that he knew nothing about what was going on in the Council Chamber of which he was the head. Some mighty interesting reading will be the result of these inquiries, and the Democratic party will have to shoulder the responsibility for the greatest outrage of the nineteenth century.

The following comparisons of the plans of De Lesseps and Capt. James B. Eads may prove interesting to some of your readers:

American Against Foreign En- terprise.

The Count De Lesseps came here as the representative of the foreign capitalists, with a great flourish of trumpets, and impressed simple people with the plan that he was going to carry out his idea of a Panama Canal without delay. But the President first checked his arrogance by re-affirming the Monroe doctrine of American control over works of that nature, and Capt. James B. Eads followed this, showing the Congressional Committee that De Lesseps' scheme was impracticable from engineering difficulties, and the enormous expense it would involve. He then read to the committee a paper in advocacy of his plan of a ship railway. He demonstrated that a substantial and durable ship railway can be built for half the cost of a canal with locks, and for one-fourth that of a canal at tide level; that such a ship railway can be built in one-third or one-fourth of the time needed for the construction of a canal; that, when built, ships of the maximum tonnage can be moved with safety at four or five times greater speed than in a canal; that a greater number of vessels per day can be transported by the railway than can possibly be transported by the canal; that the capacity of a ship railway can be easily increased to meet the demands of commerce; that the cost of maintenance of the roadway and rolling stock would be much less than that of the canal, and that a railway can be constructed and operated in localities where it is not practicable to construct a canal. He explained his plans by means of drawings which showed a pit of 3,000 feet long, in which the railway should be made into the harbor to the depth of thirty feet; then showing the cradle into which the ship is to be fitted, and explaining how the ship is to be kept in place in the cradle by means of blocks six or ten feet apart; then showing the railway, consisting of twelve rails of the ordinary width. He claimed that derailment was impossible on account of the number of rails and the weight of the ship; that there would be no oscillation of strain upon the ships, even in heavy gales. His plan has received the sanction of E. J. Reed, Chief Constructor of the British Navy; John Roach Henry Steer and other eminent American engineers. M. de Lesseps said he did not like the railway plan because it had not been tried; it was not his plan. But Capt. Eads seems to have the confidence of the business men everywhere, and it is probable that our Government will patronize American enterprise in this instance.

Insurance. CHIMBERLAND MUTUAL Fire Insurance Comp ny. BRIDGEPORT, N. J. Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars per year to the insured on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty-five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two-thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies. The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars. If an assessment had to be made of five per cent, only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars.

The Losses by Lightning. Where the property is not set on fire, being less than one cent per year to each member, are paid without extra charge, and extended so as to cover all policies that are issued and outstanding. BENJAMIN SHEPPARD, President. HENRY B. LUPTON, Secretary, AGENTS & SURVEYORS. GEO. W. PRESSEY, Hammonton, N. J. GEO. W. SAWYER, Tuckerton, N. J. A. L. ISZARD, May Landing, N. J.

London Nursery. JAPANESE PERSIMMON TREES 4 ft to 6 ft in 12 choice kinds. Dried specimen fruits received last season from Japan "would" when it so from the tree, have weighed 16 ozs. with the leaves of a rich Sanguina fig. Should these, like the shrubs and Superb evergreens introduced from Japan, prove hardy as southern ones, already pronounced them to be, we may look forward in this instance to an acquisition of the highest commercial importance as a fruit and tree of great magnitude.

NEW PEAR. Triumphant de Lyons, a late variety whose fruit is the largest known. Also large general stock of fruit, shade trees, evergreens, shrubs, hedges, budding, and growing plants, all of which will be sold at about half price by J. BUTTERTON, Hammonton, N. J.

MUST! Above product, our "Process," is the pure unadulterated juice of the grape as it leaves the press, and equivalent to "that delicious fruit in liquid form." Possessing no alcoholic properties, it is invaluable to Invalids, Temperance people and Churches for Sacramental purposes. "Our" MUST must not be mistaken for other sweetened fermented wines, as it is not boiled and hermetically sealed to keep it from spoiling. The only "Process" resorted to by us is to permanently stop fermentation, which naturally must result in the juice remaining as it grew. The undersigned are now disposing of their new stock prepared from their last grape crop, and warrant that it will keep without special care.
