The world grows. Noah Webster would not know his old dictionary in the perfection it has attained in the hands of modern scholars. The world grows, however, and dictionaries with it, so that a cheap reprint of the forty-four-years old "original" Webster is worth about as much as an old almanac. "WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY," the recent successor of the latest and still copyrighted "Unabridged," is the best work of its kind ever published; and, well-used in a family, will be of more value to its members thereof than many times its cost laid up in money.

In the case of Morse vs. Mason, the famous beach-sand hauling case, Judge Alfred Beach charged the jury, last Friday, that Mr. Morse owned the land to high-water mark, by purchase from private party, and owned to low-water mark by virtue of the "riparian grant" from the State of New Jersey. The jury awarded small damages for the sand carted away. The case was important, being the first decision on the question of riparian ownership on the open ocean front. It was expected that the case would be appealed to the Supreme Court, and a decision secured which would settle this vexed question finally.

Obedience is the Organ of spiritual Knowledge. The Prophet Knew This.—How His Knept Her Key?—Emma At Both's Church Requests.

FIELD uttered to God, and then shall come to you. I have written, assuring people both to the heart and to the intellect.

"He said to it, a truth of experimental science revealed in 10,000 times 10,000 spiritual energies; that whoever yields himself to God utterly will find that obedience is the organ of spiritual knowledge otherwise untenable. That is the height of wisdom, that is the beginning of wisdom."

"Of course, the Christian life is growth; the faintest beam of the light in the east at first, but the soul does unduring all its ascent, and in its unattended state, that some things are sinful and others holy; and it then goes on trying to avoid the one and cultivate the other. The graduate of the great growth of fact, a conception of God's presence. Then, finally, after years have passed after the soul has been scared and furrowed by lapses into sin, when we have seen the holiness of everything there in more time, out of some great valley of humiliation and shadow of death, it comes up to the doctrine of atonement on the other, and has one great throes of its being, full of the life of God, and then, standing death steadily in the face, and knowing that its God and its Redeemer are present, a personality to witness and hear, he says, once for all, uttered and written."

"The instant, that is said the world is new. There is a strange unutterable feeling that something from the Infinite above has flashed down to the soul, and henceforth there are union and equilibrium. The well of eternal life has at once suddenly sprung up in the heart. It is transferred; the treasures of the soul are in eternity, no longer in time. The soul is now in the presence of God said is given to those who really seek enters the heart. There will be sins of infirmity and inadvertency a times, and the sins of ignorance all the time, but the soul will not mourn for them more than it will mourn for willful transgressions. Watchfulness is its constant business. The soul endures as seeing Him who is unseen, and in this it is fed on the joys of its own God, and in this calm, transcendent resolution has been taken for eternity as well as for time. It secures every interest for time and for the infinite future. To take it is a blessing, and to lose it is a bolder one, since the latter would be braving, not man, but God."

A few strong, decided actions, letting it be known where the heartless, and constituting no more, and then to perform a habit, and there will be less trouble from the world than would at first be expected. "The spirit trembles within itself for very joy, and it is no longer a terror; the end of life is now to be borne, and the beginning of life is now in the arms of duty. Something is borne in upon the mind from above, and this it feels, it guides it. The only thing that is left, is to enquire, and may forfeit the Divine Presence. The soul will do no willful sin; its face is set; in that resolution is its life. It has courage for private and public life, and it is no longer a terror. The Infinite Spirit gives wisdom. The Scriptures grow strangely sweet and luminous."—Joseph Cook.

Students and Wives.

A good husband makes a good wife. Some men can neither do without a wife, nor can they do without a wife. They are wretched alone in what they call the blessedness, and they make their homes miserable when they get married; they are like Tompkins' dog, which could not bear to be alone and howled when it was in a Ploughman's bowl when it was happy; and a happy husband is the happiest of men. A well-matched couple carry a joyous life together, as the two species carried the cluster of birds of Paradise. They multiply their joys by sharing them, and lessen their troubles by dividing. What is the arithmetic? The wagon of care rolls on smoothly, and the two together, and when it drags a little heavily, or there's a hitch anywhere, they love each other all the more, and so lighten the labor.—John Ploughman.

He knows (John 10: 14, 27; 2 Tim. 2: 19).

He calls (John 10: 3, 4, 27).

He guides (Isa. 40: 11; John 10: 16). He gathers (Isa. 23: 3; John 10: 4).

He protects (John 10: 12; Matt. 9: 9). He protects (Jer. 31: 10; Ezek. 34: 8). He guarantees life (John 10: 28).

He dies for the flock (Matt. 26: 38; John 10: 11, 15).

LESSON SEVEN. BIBLE READING.

THE SHEPHERD'S CARE.

ANOTHER.—The title of the psalm ascribes it to David; the imagery throughout accords with this title. The shepherd, the flock, the wilderness, became king, and finally triumphed over all his enemies, might well write such poetry, if he were poor David. The psalm was no doubt many recent critics take exception to this view, because the phrase “house of the Lord” (v. 6), assuming that it refers to the temple, was not maintained until the efforts were made to maintain that refers to a building, much less to the temple.

OCCASION AND DATE.—The occasion is not indicated, but it was doubtless written during some interval of peace and prosperity, near the close of David's life. An approximate date would be B. C. 1000.

OUTLINE.—The single thought of the psalm is expressed in verse 1; the various forms of tending by the Shepherd are gratefully expressed in verse 2; the list, are set forth in verses 2-5; while verse 6 expresses, without figure, the confident hope of future and permanent blessing.

Too Fanciful.

The Hindu places a clock in his show-rooms, not because he ever desires to know what the hour is, but because it is a sign of civilization. Instead, therefore, of contenting himself with a good clock, he will perhaps have one dozen in one room. There are signs of his wealth, but they do not add to his comfort, for he is sure to have time that he measures not by the number of bamboo-lengths the sun has travelled about the horizon.

In the country police stations where the Indian police division is stationed, hours is observed, time is measured by placing in a tub of water a copper pot in which a small hole has been bored. It is supposed that it will take an hour for the water to leak away from the pot, so as to fill and sink it. When the policeman sees that the pot has disappeared he strikes the hour on a bell-like gong. If he is smoking or dozing, the copper pot may sink before it has leaked out water, before he discovers the fact, but the hour is when he strikes the gong.

A writer in Temple Bar, from whose article we have gleaned, tells us that the Hindu is so ignorant of the Hindu's indifference to time.

When the railway was first opened in a new part of India, it took a long time and many bitter experiences to convince the natives that a train at a certain time meant that it was the opening of the new line, a Deputy Commissioner sent his native assistant with his letter-bag to put on board the mail-car. Presently the man reappeared with the bag, having missed the train.

“You had not half a mile to go and you knew that the train left the station at three o'clock,” said the angry official.

“Yes, truly,” answered the native in an aggrieved tone; “but, ah, when it strikes three.”

And a sharp practice the native had never learned. He had to pay the money that it creditable to the company.

WOOD PAVING.

A new system of wood paving that is now being tried in Paris makes use of pieces of oak about four inches long, split up similarly to ordinary kindling-wood. The timber is cut loosely on end in the sand on a bed of gravel from four to four and one

Short Tariff Sermons.
NO. XVI.

One of the objects and results of a Protective Tariff is to diversify the industries of a country, both agricultural and manufacturing.

We are all more or less dependent on each other for what we consume, and Protection enables us to produce nearly all our wants at home instead of buying them abroad.

If our farmers were to grow nothing but wheat and our manufacturers were to make nothing but steel rails, they would have no home market of any value for either; but by protecting everything that can be grown or manufactured, we make the best use of all the natural resources of our country, we lessen the cost of transportation, we bring prices down to a reasonable level, and at the same time good wages and profits are insured to all.

For instance, by putting an adequate duty on the plate we not only establish that industry, but aid a score of allied industries, way back to the mining of the ore and coal.

Protection brings the farm and factory together, each helping the other. Every new industry created, every new product successfully grown, gives employment to otherwise idle hands, and more purchasing power to consumers of both.

The McKinley law has already started scores of industries, and each has helped those already established.

To repeal the present law or part of it would shut up the mills, decrease wages, and easily cripple if not ruin our splendid home market.

Immense and diversified industries give employment to all classes of labor, the skilled and the unskilled, keeps up wages, retains millions of dollars at home which would otherwise go abroad, makes the nation and its inhabitants prosperous. Can we afford to relinquish a policy that creates and maintains such results? American Economist.

HISTORY OF BERING SEA.

Following are the facts under which the United States claim possession and control of Bering Sea, and the right to keep out every sealing vessel having no permit from our Government.

The Sea of Kamchatka was discovered in the year 1725 by Vitus Bering, a Russian subject, sailing under the Russian flag. From that date until the purchase of Alaska in 1867 Russia held undisputed sway over the sea, whose name had been changed to Bering, in honor of its discoverer.

In 1745 the Aleutian Islands were discovered, and in 1768 the interest of the Russians becoming more fully awake, the sea, its islands and coast were explored by order of Queen Catherine, of Russia.

In 1790 the Pribylov Islands were found. They were desolate and uninhabited, but the government, finding them to be the great assembly ground of fur seals, transferred Aleuts from their native islands. After a time they became civilized and settled on the log-dimmed Pribylov; afterward nothing could induce them to forsake their adopted home.

Having found otter, seal, and other valuable animals within the limits of its territory, Russian protection was extended, and as early as the year 1795 the right to trade with the islands was granted to merchants by Russia, the government always requiring a percentage of the gains. From 1725 to 1867, a period of 142 years, Russian monarchs held as a legitimate sway over Bering Sea as over any other part of their domain. If individual or company desired to trade within its boundary, the permission came from the Czar, with rules and stipulations to which they were compelled to adhere.

In the treaty of cession, the western limit of Russian America, or Alaska, is as positively stated as the eastern limit, viz.: "The western limit within which the territories and dominions conveyed are contained passes through a point in Bering Strait on the parallel of 65 degrees 30 minutes north latitude, at its intersection by the meridian which passes midway between the heads of Krusenstern or Iroquois, and the island of Ratmanoff or Noumurook, and proceeds due 27th without limitation into the same frozen ocean."

The same western limit, beginning at the same initial point, proceeds thence in a course nearly southwest, through Bering Strait and Bering Sea so as to pass midway between the northwest point of the island of St. Lawrence and Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Capt. A. D. Dent has decided to locate in Philadelphia, and has gone into business there. Two weeks ago he came down for his horse, and, with his wife, found it a very pleasant drive from Hammoncton to the city. Mr. Dent returned on the following day, and last week the Captain came down to escort his wife to their new home.

Easter Sunday was appropriately observed by all Churches, with special music and addresses, and very beautiful floral decorations. We know that each Sunday is "resurrection-day," but it is proper that one day in the year should be set apart for joyful songs and every token of gratitude for an event of so vital importance to the world.

In some mysterious way, a fire was started in a bed-room of Mr. N. Hearwell's residence, on Sunday afternoon. The room was papered on the lath, and when accidentally discovered a blaze was threatening destruction, having burned a hole two feet in diameter through paper and lath, and spread to a bed that stood near. Energetic work soon conquered the foe.

Treat's auction store was broken into last week Thursday night, and an excellent Smith & Wesson revolver stolen. Mr. Treat thinks he knows who the party is.

Later.—The burglar has been discovered, in the person of a boy old enough and smart enough to know better. We do not learn that he is to be punished through legal proceedings.

Thirty members of the W. C. T. U. were present at the meeting on Tuesday afternoon, at the Presbyterian parsonage. Miss Selma Borg, the cultured Russian lecturer, addressed the ladies, by invitation. Her address was very interesting indeed, and was listened to with great pleasure. She spoke mostly of her own life; of her youth in her native country, where she enjoyed all the pleasures and advantages which wealth and education could give. But more particularly she spoke of her later life,—of the baleful effects of alcohol and narcotics. She told of the habitual use of liquors instead of water in her own country, and that she had never dreamed of harm coming from their use. That after coming to this country she continued their use until she was entirely broken down. She spoke of the Keeley Institute where she had been for treatment; thought there was needed more help out-side of medical aid,—moral or Christian influence. She also spoke in the highest terms of the kindness and help which she had received from Dr. Nilsson, and of the great work she is now doing for the inebriate. A hearty vote of thanks was given Miss Borg for her interesting address.

NE Missed his Opportunity! DON'T Miss Yours, Reader. The majority neglect their opportunity, and from that cause live in poverty and die in destitution. Having seen the lot of many, as they look back on lost, forever lost, opportunity, I am passing it on to you. Be up and doing. Improve your opportunity, and secure property, prominence, peace. It is said by a philosopher, that "the Goddess of Fortune offers a golden opportunity to each person at some period of life; embrace the chance, and the power will be yours; fall to do so and she departs, never to return." How shall you find this golden opportunity? Investigate every chance that appears worthy, and of fair promise; that is what all successful men do. Here is an opportunity, such as is not often within the reach of laboring people. Improved, it will give, at least, a grand start in life. The golden opportunity for many is here. Money to be made rapidly and honorably by any industrious person of either sex. All ages. You can do the work and live at home, wherever you are. Even beginners are easily earning from $10 to $20 per day. You can do so well if you are not too hard, but industrious; and you can increase your income as you go on. You can give spare time only, or all your time to the work. Easy to learn. Capital not required. We start you. All is comparatively new and really wonderful. We instruct and show you how, free. Failure unknown among our workers. So come to explain here. Write and learn all free, by return mail. Unwise to delay. Address at once, H.

The Press has also the best of correspondents in all the great cities of the United States, as well as financial and railroad experts in Chicago and the West, who keep the paper more than abreast with events.
The columns of the Sunday Press are enriched by contributions from those whose names are written high on our lists of great authors, novelists, essayists, as well as from men of high rank in public life. The best authors know that their best audiences are the readers of the Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Press.
In politics, The Press knows no other master than the people, and the past year has seen, as has been seen before, the marked fact that it is subservient to no political boss. It has no political ambitions to foster, but looks after the interests of its readers, and delivers itself upon the issues of the day in a manner both frank and fearless, letting the facts speak for themselves and avoiding no issues, but meeting them all on the basis of fair play to all men at all times. Its pages know no distinctions, and the rights of one class over another are not recognized nor appropriate.
Advertisements of Help Wanted, Business Opportunities, Real Estate, etc., may be inserted in The Press for ONE CENT A WORD.

Best Republican Newspaper.
The TRIBUNE for 1892.
Roswell G. Horr on the Tariff.
The Republican party, triumphant in 1891, where-over national issues were at stake, renews, aggressively and bravely, the fight for 1892. The New York TRIBUNE, the ablest, most reliable, and best of all Republican papers, leads the way.
During 1892, Roswell G. Horr, of Michigan, the witty and clear, will continue in the Tribune his remarkable articles on the Tariff, reciprocity, Coinage, and the Currency. These topics are all of them understandable; the Republican policy with regard to all of them is right, patriotic, and impregnable; but what has been thrown in the people's eyes, and the air has been filled with fog, by lying and tricky Tariff reformers.
The Tribune prints from one to five exceedingly interesting articles every week, explaining these questions.
Mr. Horr begins at the beginning of every subject, and makes it so clear that every one can understand and no one can answer him. Ask any neighbor what he thinks of Mr. Horr's writings. He will tell you that they are genial, clear, entertaining, and perfectly unanswerable. A specialty is made of answering all questions, asked in good faith, on the Tariff, on the Tariff, Reciprocity, Coinage, the Currency, and the prospects of the Farmers' Alliance. The Tribune is the best national Republican paper to supplement your local paper during 1892.

How to Succeed in Life.
The Tribune will also continue the series of articles to Young Men and Women, penned by men who, beginning life themselves, have succeeded honorably and brilliantly. It will also reply to questions as to what young men and women should do to succeed in life, under the particular circumstances in which their lot in life is cast.
The replies will be written under the direction of Mr.
Horr, whose familiarity with American life and opportunities, and whose deep and cordial sympathy with all who are struggling under adverse circumstances, promise to make the replies practical and satisfactory.

Vital Topics of the Day.
Many special contributions will be printed, from men and women of distinguished reputation. Among the topics are: Silver Coinage, the latest views; Proter Function of the Minority in Legislation, to include one paper each from a Democrat and a Republican, prominent in public life; Harsh Tendencies of Trusts; And Laws of the United States; Millions of the United States; Free Postal Delivery in Rural Communities; Better Pay for Fourth Class Postmasters; Importance of the Nicaragua Canal; Village Improvement; Our German Fellow-Citizens in America; and many others.

Agriculture.
In addition to the regular two pages a week of how to run a farm and make it pay, there will be, during 1892, special papers on: Hot House Lambing; Model Farms; Tobacco Raising; Sugar Beets; Fancy High Priced Butter Making; Care of Bees; Market Gardening; Live Stock; and a variety of other equally important branches of American husbandry.

For Old Soldiers.
For veterans of the war, there will be a page a week of war stories, answers to questions, news and gossip.
Mrs. Annie Wittenmyer will supply an interesting column of news of the W. R. C. The Tribune's War Stories of the past year have never been surpassed for thrilling interest.

For Families.
Families will value the pages devoted to—Questions and Answers; Household Decoration; Home Interiors; Cooking; Knitting and Crochet; Young Folks, and the Fashions.

A great editorial page will be printed, and fiction, foreign letters, book reviews, travels, checkers and chess and fun abundantly supplied.

A school teacher sends to the New York Tribune the following, which she vouches for as a bona fide composition, written by an eleven-year-old boy in a Harlem grammar school:
Columbus discovered America in 1492 October 12. The people was going to drown Columbus when they did not see no land he had three voyages. They took three days and three nights to go to America. Columbus discovered America as far as Columbus avenue he could go no farther.

Poverty is the load of some, and wealth is the load of others, perhaps the greater load of the two. It may weigh them down to perdition. Bear the load of thy neighbor's poverty, and let him bear with thee the load of thy wealth.
Thou lightenest thy load by lightening his.

Prospectus for 1892.
It has not been our custom to issue a prospectus. A newspaper can never tell beforehand just what subjects will be discussed. We hold ourselves in readiness, however, with our well trained editorial force, and our large staff of special contributors, to treat any subject which may present itself during the year. Our plans for 1892 contemplate an enlargement of our news department, a perfecting of the other departments, and the bringing up of the entire paper to a still higher standard of efficiency.
PREMIUMS.
The National Baptist is offering a line of most attractive premiums. For example, communion services, organs and hymn-books, valuable books of reference and general information, four-ain pens. One of its most attractive and to the person securing the new name, each a volume of Prof. Drummond's famous addresses, attractively bound in white and gold.

ber of new names can be quickly gathered by a good agent.
