Regular Town Council meeting next Wednesday evening.

J. Warren Tilton is running a route for Krimmell's bakery.

Elwood P. Jones has received his handsome automobile hearse.

Messrs. W. L. Black and Robert Steel are back to work again, after severe illness.

Surveyors were at work on Bellevue, yesterday, getting ready for the new paving.

Base-ball this afternoon at 3.30, with the Roman Catholic High School of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Smathers is expected to accompany her mother (Mrs. A. J. Rider), from Washington.

A bit of a thunder-storm on Tuesday evening; but there was very little rainfall, though greatly needed.

Mrs. C. D. Loveland and family have returned from a pleasant visit with her son Charles D., at Pittsburg.

Miss Ethel Bernshouse returned, on Monday, from a city hospital, recovering from a serious surgical operation.

The Peoples Bank cottage—one of the oldest landmarks in town—is preparing to leave its present surroundings.

Rev. J. C. Stock, of the New Jersey Children's Home Society, will speak in the Universalist Ch., to-morrow evening.

Mrs. M. B. Sutton was down from Camden for a few days, taking in the Eastern Star meeting last Wednesday evening.

Every member of the P.O.S. of A. is urged to be present next Monday evening. Something new, important, interesting.

George I. Baker's fine automobile was badly damaged by fire the other day, at Elm. The cause is said to have been back-firing.

The "Get-together Club" gave Mrs. Harry Salinas a farewell, on Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Doughty. Mrs. S. will visit in Boston.

Everybody admires the fine floral display on the Ojsekas place, on Central Avenue. Hyacinths and tulips, with their brilliant colors, are worthy a visit.

Mrs. J. R. Nichols and two little girls, who have been visiting her parents, have returned to Boston. Mrs. Salinas accompanied her sister home, for a short visit.

Kenneth Cummings Brown, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay H. Brown, made his advent in their home, Philadelphia, on Friday, April 16. The newspaper says he's "a dandy."

The Board of Trade banquet, which was to have been held next Friday evening, has been postponed on account of the inability of Commissioner Kendall, of Trenton, to be present.

Remember, there is to be a public meeting this evening, in Bellevue Hall, to perfect plans for a formal protest against the sewer assessment report. At an informal meeting on Monday evening, near fifty citizens were present,—many good suggestions made, which will be considered to-night. It is to the interest of every tax-payer to be present, as nothing can be done in the matter after next Saturday, May 1st. Com.

Lycoun Benefit Concert.

An extra, or benefit, number will be given next Friday evening, in Bellevue Hall.

The program will include selections by Master Harry Mounsevitich, the wonderful boy violinist, who charmed those who heard him last year; Mr. Grass will give a solo on a French horn; other talent will be Howard Mitchell, of Vineland, Clifford Wana, Miss Laura Roemer, Miss Anna Bowker, Board of Trade Sextette, and others.

A full program will be issued next week.

Tickets on sale next Monday, at Steel's. Prices, general admission 25 cents; reserved seats, 35 cents.

The Littlefield Ice and Coal Co. are building a large addition to their storage house, to accommodate stock ice, also for storing fruit during the winter.

Mrs. A. J. Rider attended the Congress-of-Daughters-of-American-Revolution, held in Washington this week, representing the Kate Aylesford Chapter, of Hammonton.

Woman's Civic Club dollar social, Tuesday, April 27th, at 8 p. m., at the Club House. Bring the story of how it was earned by you.

Rev. Dr. Henry H. Bodine died on Monday last, at his home in Lansdale, Pa., aged eighty-one years. Dr. Bodine lived in Hammonton for several years, and was well-known, universally respected.

Horton Jones and wife, two sons and a daughter, from Woodstown, accompanied by his father and sister, Edwin Jones and Miss Carrie, of Collingswood, motored here on Sunday, spending a half day with local relatives.

There was a special meeting of Town Council on Wednesday evening, called to consider the new contract for street lighting. Final action was not taken,—some details are still lacking. The opening of Packard Street extension, Bellevue to Grape Street, was considered, and some advance steps taken on the drainage question.

CLEAN-UP WEEK.

Every property owner and tenant is urged to clean-up, rake-up, paint-up, and beautify his surroundings, all next week,—in fact, to start on the job to-day.

Just observe how catching this clean-up fever is.

First, gather up all tin cans and like rubbish, and set them out at the curb on Monday night. Wagons will make one round trip about town, from Fairview to the Lake, and from Madison to Main Road, on Tuesday and Wednesday. Notify Overseer C. C. Conde by postal, and the wagons will not miss your street.

Burn up everything that can be burned.
Don't forget to clean up!

The Grand Army of the Republic, P. O. S. of A., P. O. of A., and all kindred and patriotic organizations, are cordially invited to attend divine service at the Baptist Church, Memorial Sunday morning, May 30th.

W. J. Cusworth, Pastor.

Previous engagements, and lack of interest, prevented many attending the Chautauqua meeting last Tuesday evening. Nothing was done; but representatives of the Scorer Bureau will canvass the town, soon, and see what they can do toward securing pledges for tickets.

The programme of the Alumni entertainment, next Monday night, will include a unique feature,—an old-fashioned spelling-bee,—the Alumni challenging High School pupils. There will be twenty-five of the best spellers obtainable on each side, and it promises to be one of the most interesting programmes conducted by the Alumni committee. All cordially invited.

Mullica Township is to have a special school district meeting on Monday even'g, May 3rd, in Town Hall, Elwood. The Board recommended the erection of a two-room schoolhouse at Nanco, to cost three thousand dollars; also one at Devonshire to cost two thousand,—in each case to include furniture, etc. The proposition is to issue bonds of $500 each, payable in one to ten years. The Pleasant Mills school is to be closed, and that building and the one at Nanco will be sold at auction.

Something about Clothing You ought to know.

Clothes, to meet the test of service, must possess certain features,—

1. Poor wool fabric
2. Absolutely fast color
3. London cold water shrunk fabric
4. Hand tailored at all points of wear
5. Silk thread where the strain is the greatest.
6. Canvas lining, stays as thoroughly shrunken as fabric
7. Hair cloth in coat front, laid and taped to prevent either breaking or wrinkling.

All these essentials are combined in these Hart Schaffner & Marx and Kirschbaum suits we assembled for you.

Let us show you the new Varsity fifty-five model.

Glen Urquhart, tartan plaids, stripes, blacks and plain blues.

Great values at $15, $18, $20, and up to $25

$10, $12.50 and $15

Will buy you a suit here now, the equal of which you will not get for a good while to come. It is one of those chances that present themselves once in a great while.

Every one of these suits carries with it our guarantee. They are made of very fine material, neat stripes and fancies. Conservative models for men who like them.

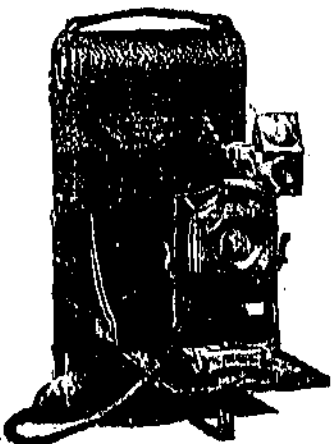

There are many models for young men, that fit in at the waist line, with long lapels; three buttons, two to button.

YES; I've heard that tale before Miss Bucknall," repeated the landlady sarcastically. "Of course, an arrangement was that you should pay every Saturday."

"But," he now said, "now I want to pay him back. He made me suffer!"

"Let him suffer, too! There must be some way. I'd like to ruin him!"

"Her brother's head was bent," Heinkel said. "He bowed his brow as he repeated that they would certainly have their revenge."

Weeks passed. Edith Bucknall left her shabby lodgings, and lived with her brother in a comfortable hotel, until they could buy and furnish a suitable house.

She was free to think of her father only. That Gilbert Havelay had suffered and humiliated her eighteen months before, she could not forget. But now, looking back, she told herself that she had quietly submitted only because she had been helpless and poor.

"He choose that other girl because

"Ah, he had hard luck, Gilbert here. After Mr. Strangeways gave him notice, he couldn't find another place in an office, no matter how hard he tried. Soon all our money was gone. He started all sorts of odd jobs, but he couldn't make anything. He was out of things to do, so he went to work. Then he was taken ill three months from a cold he caught!"

Edith Lucknall hesitated. Her brother touched her arm.

"We'd better clear out, hadn't we?" she did not seem to hear. Mr. Hawley raised her head.

"My father and mother quarrelled with them about Gilbert. They have a son, somehow, you see. Told me never to see him again after I was married. So, even when I was here alone, I I didn't care to worry them."

All at once a baby cried, the husband

War is not the only stimulant to the construction of big maps. They have lately been completed in Washington a relief map, 60 ft. by 10 feet, which is to be sent presently to the Panama Exposition. It represents the Panama Canal zone on a scale of 1 ft. to a mile. The map is painted in natural colors of the district, the object of giving the impression that one would get if it were an actual photograph. It shows not only the principal features of the canal itself, but many of the larger buildings in the neighboring towns. The one in which the canal is to be built is particularly conspicuous in the foreground, which are to be kept secret.

But alas! the things we warred against are usually things we should have avoided.

There is a very satisfactory holder now on the market, seems to solve the problem of eggs both from preservation and sanitary standpoints. This is an inverted stand on uprights to which the table or surface it rests upon. The flat base has such just large enough to fit the dozen eggs it is intended to hold. The eggs are held upright, as pointed out by the illustration, and each other and it is possible to see the contents of the egg. The design is a decided improvement on the china basket. The holder is so deep clean and more durable than the ordinary paper packing is also easy to carry around as a presentable enough to appear on a table if so desired as a serving tray for holding eggs.

"I do not think you could deceive anyone," cried Ormonde, impatiently.

"No, I did not deceive him in so many words, but when I married him, I kept back one terrible secret: For thirty months before my marriage he lay in the convict prison at Aylesbury."

"What!"

"It's true, quite true. How I wish to Heaven that it was a lie! Now I can. I don't know whether you read London reports, but if you do you may remember that about four years ago,

The hours dragged their length along. He was wild with impatience. He could not read; he could not write. At length the hands of the clock on the mantelpiece pointed to 7.30, and with a heart that he felt like a trip-hammer the young man put on his hat and set off for the drama that Sybil had given him. When the door was opened to him by the girl herself—

"Rivers has not come yet," she said, quietly, "but I expect him any moment. And, do you know, when I opened the door you almost gave me a shock. I thought it was you himself."

"Then let us hope that Mr. Rivers will be equally impressed," replied

"The wounded mermaid taken alive. He had expected a very different reception, and for a moment he almost fled. Then, advancing towards the door, he burred forth:—
"Hark you! If you don't believe me, call in your wife and ask for yourself."
With one bound Ormonde was beside the wretch, and was holding him in a tremendous grip.
"You cur!" he cried, "you are not to escape! I am not for a moment to know everything. She has confessed all to me, and I love her not and hate her more than ever. Now take your seat and stand up, to me, you shall have the blindest thing you ever had in your life."
Crash! Ormonde's fist had

They were talking, indeed, still at the top of the staircase, Orsinda and his half-fainting companion could hear the blackmailer tell the vile story in low, excited tones. "And there they are together still," he concluded. "You may see if I haven't told you the truth. I'll leave you to it."

The door banged, and he went. Orsinda caught Hybl's hand and led her back to the room.

"Don't you be afraid," said, he, "Don't," don't his first name.

"I'll kill him, him," said Orsinda, and he moved just what he wanted.

Ten minutes later the door opened, and a man came in, and thrust open violently and John Henry entered. Even in that moment Orsinda could not see anything the amazing likeness

Mrs. Emma Myers, wife of Chas. Myers, who formerly lived on First Road, was killed on Tuesday last, at Tullytown, Pa., when the auto in which she was riding crashed into a freight train. She saved the life of a thirteen year old boy by throwing him out of the car.

Adolph Schraeder, an old resident of Egg Harbor, was instantly killed near that place, Tuesday night, by being run over by Floyd Giberson's car. Floyd had been in Hammonton, where he used to live, and was on his way to Millville, when the seemingly unavoidable accident occurred.

George Amato, one of the oldest Italian residents, died on Saturday night, at his residence on Middle Road, after long illness, aged 65 years. Six children survive him, all honorable and highly esteemed, like their father. Funeral services were held on Wednesday; burial in Oakdale Cemetery.

Some admiring friends helped Wesley Vaughn pack his suit-case for a trip to Washington, last week. Of course he didn't know it, and though he thought he had a heavy load, did not discover that he was carrying bricks until he was nearing his destination. A weighty joke, wasn't it?

Mr. Ellis M. Byram died on Monday, April 19th, aged nearly 89 years. His aged wife survives him, with four children, Clarence A., Cecilia R., Mrs. Mary L. Randall, and Mrs. Hattie G. Altemus. He and his wife had been married 62 years. He was a devoted father and husband, a life-long member of the Presbyterian Church.

The boys have gotten together under Justice of the Peace Murphy, and will give us baseball here again, this season. They have arranged to play on the school grounds, and expect to place a fast team in the field. They will arrange a series of games with Vineland, Pleasantville, Tuckerton, Atco, and such teams. The first attraction will be Pleasantville, on Saturday, May 15th. It is hoped to have the Band.

The eulire given on the 13th by four members of the Civic Club was a success in every way; besides earning a dollar each for the ladies for the dollar social, the library fund received about ten dollars, the ladies generously donating all surplus earnings to the Club for additions to the library.

Mr. Edward VanHise died on Wednesday, April 21st, at his home near Atsion, N. J., from heart disease, aged eighty-two years. Mr. VanHise had charge of the Rockwood cranberry meadows for many years, and was a faithful and successful superintendent, well-known and respected in Hammonton. His death was a surprise to his friends, though he had been ill for several weeks. His widow and son, Amos, and nieces and nephews the Hurley family, have sympathy of all. Funeral service will be held at the house, at one o'clock this afternoon.

Un-Claimed Letters.

The following letters remained unclaimed for in the Hammonton Post Office on Wednesday, April 21, 1915:
