Company "K."

There is a cap in the closet, old, tattered and blue—
Of very slight value it may be to you;
But a crown, jewel studded, could not buy it today.
With its letters of honor, brave "Co. K."
The head that it sheltered needs shelter no more;
Dead heroes make holy the trifles they wore.
So, like chaplet of honor, of laurel and bay,
Seems the cap of the soldier marked "Co. K."
Bright eyes have looked calmly its valor beneath.
Of the work of the reaper, grim harvester Death!
Let the muster-roll, meagre, sorrowfully say:
How foreboded in danger went "Co. K."
Whose footsteps unbroken came up to the town,
Where rampart and bastion looked threatningly down!
Who, closing up breaches, still kept on their way,
Till guns, downcast pointed, faced "Co. K."
Who faltered, or shivered? Who shunned battle stroke?
Whose fire was uncertain? Whose battle line broke?
Go, ask it of history, years from to-day,
And the record shall tell you, not "Co. K."
Though my darling is sleeping today with the dead,
And daisies and clover bloom over his head,
I smile through my tears as I lay it away—
That battle-worn cap, lettered "Co. K."

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26, 1880.
The Old Folks to-day will celebrate their 61st anniversary in this city. It is intended to be a memorable occasion. There will be a parade which will be reviewed on Pennsylvania Avenue by the officers of the grand encampment, and at the White House by the President. The National Fair Association of this city are already moving to place themselves in good condition for a great fair to follow. They propose to make it one of the permanent attractions of Washington.

The death of Ezra B. French takes from the Treasury Department one of the oldest and best officers in it. He has held the position of Second Auditor ever since Mr. Lincoln's time. Very few public officers serve so well and so long as he.

The Democrats have been getting larger doses of disagreeable facts about the treatment of the negroes South than at first through the Executive Committee. Any other organization than the Democratic party could have abandoned that hunt long ago, but they rush on recklessly to their death with their usual facility. Members will not be likely to make his report, and endeavor to save all eyes on the coming campaign, and perhaps that is why he is dragging the investigation out to its utmost length.

There is much talk about General Garfield. District in Ohio having elected two Blaine delegates to Chicago, and some persons try to make it appear that this is a defeat for General Garfield. It is not so. General Garfield is not opposed to Senator Blaine, but is friendly to him, and would enter into the campaign with vigor should the Maine Senator be nominated. The two leaders are very warm friends.

Domestic economy and efficiency are illustrated in the action of the managers in the House. They wasted fifty hours recently in preventing the Republicans debating the bill one hour, which was all the time our friends asked for. Afraid to open their mouths they themselves are bound to spend a good deal of time checking off others. But it is not a very profitable policy for the Government.

It is evident now that the Southern Delegation to Chicago will be defeated, or nearly all of them. The policy of most of the Southern men will be to go to Chicago unopposed and be free to consult and act with the delegates who represent the Republic States as to who should be nominated. This is the proper way, because the Republican States should have the greatest weight in the choice of candidates, and they will of course choose those who will make the best run.

MAXWELL.

A Miracle.

During a village school inspection the examiner is trying to explain to the fat-headed listener the character of a miracle. He asks a scholar:

"What is a miracle?"

"If—all at once—the sun appeared in the heavens at night, what would you say it was?"

"The moon."

"But if you were told it was the sun, what would you say?"

"I'd say it was a lie."

"Now, I love lie. Suppose I told you it was the sun."

The scholar, after a moment's deep reflection, bobbed his head.

"Please, sir, I'd say you were drunk."

James G. Blaine.

We give herewith a fine portrait of James G. Blaine, the favorite candidate for the Presidency of most of the voters of New Jersey, and it may not be uninteresting to our readers to have a brief sketch of his life.

He was born on the 31st of January, 1830, at Indian Hill farm, Washington County, Pennsylvania, opposite the town of Brownville. He received a thorough intellectual training and entered Washington College in 1848 where he graduated in 1851, at the age of 17 years and eight months. In a class of 33 members Mr. Blaine shared the first honors with John C. Hervey, now Superintendent of public instruction at Wheeling, West Virginia. He excelled in mathematics and Latin, and was proficient in Logic and Political Economy. After graduating he taught for a while as a college tutor in Kentucky and Pennsylvania, wrote for newspapers magazines, etc., and engaged in the study of law. In 1855 he went to Maine and assumed the editorship of the Kennebec Journal at the age of 23 and afterwards of the Portland Advertiser. He was chosen to the Legislature in 1858 and served four years, two last two as Speaker of the House. At the early age in which he connected himself with the Journal he became prominent in the politics of Maine, and at 25 he was acknowledged a leading power in the councils of the Republican party.

Before he was 25 he was chosen Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican organization of the State, a position he has held ever since, and from which he has practically started every political campaign in the State—always leading his party to brilliant victory. He has an expression of frankness, energy and confidence that gave him a big and permanent hold on the people, and he has also a pure character, and a resolutely ability equal to all demands made upon him. In 1862 he was chosen to Congress, and from that time his progress has been upward and upward, just being made Speaker of the House and then elected to the Senate. One of the most important facts in Mr. Blaine's life was the people. During the darkest days of the rebellion he was the American People to suppress the rebellion, which had a wonderful effect on the good. It had a wide circulation, and was used as a campaign document in the Lincoln campaign. He occupied the rank among the mighty men of the time. He was prominent in securing a system of postal cars now in universal use, and he was active and prominent in shaping the amendments to the Constitution.

As Speaker of the House it has been said that no man since Clay had presided with such an absolute knowledge of the rules of the House, or with so great a mastery in the rapid, intelligent and faithful discharge of business. Both sides of the House united in cordial thanks for his impartiality.

The success of the Republican party in 1870 was in a great measure due to the efforts of Mr. Blaine, notwithstanding his defeat in the nominating Convention, and no one will forget how like a wet blanket the report of his defeat fell on the great mass of Republicans.

Mr. Blaine is a man of good temper and temperament, though with a certain intellectual vehemence that might sometimes be mistaken for anger; of strong physique, wonderful powers of endurance and recuperation, of great activity and industry, kindly and frank, easily approached and ready to aid all good causes with tongue, pen and purse. He is an intense believer in the American Republic, one and indivisible, jealous and watchful for her honor, her dignity, and her right of eminent domain, ready to brave the wrath of the East for the welfare of the West, as in the Chinese question; ready to differ from political friends rather than permit the indefinite suspension of the writ of habeas corpus; ready to leave the wrath of the Conservatives for the rights of the southern blacks, as in his opposition to President Hayes's southern policy—and perfectly ready to give the British lion's mane a tweak when that fine old king of beasts crashes so comically among our fishing flakes.

Those who have been disposed to regard Mr. Blaine as an impulsive and possibly rash man, were kindly furnished by the Democratic party the opportunity to see him completely undeceived, in the steady, persistent and successful with which he conducted the Republican party in Maine through its recent troubles, and brought order and law out of chaos and toward a just violence. No finer display of statesmanlike qualities has been seen in this country, and the American people are slow to perceive that in the protracted and perilous struggle in Maine, Mr. Blaine exhibited all the qualities required for the discharge of the most difficult and delicate duties of an executive officer.

The Cape May Star says: Rev. E. B. Lake will superintend the work of laying out the new Methodist summer resort at Pack's Beach.

If any of our delegates are in doubt as to Gen. Sewell being a Blaine man, we can say positively that he is. He was a Blaine man in 1876, and he is a stronger Blaine man now. Hon. Thomas H. Dudley, candidate for Senatorial delegate, is also a strong Blaine man.

The State Board of Health has issued a Circular to Township and City Boards of Health in reference to infectious diseases of animals, calling their attention to such contagious diseases as may exist among cattle, hogs, sheep, etc., and to guard against them, and are called upon to notify the State Board of the same, who will at once take the proper steps to remedy the evil.

Charles LeYoung, one of the proprietors of the San Francisco Chronicle, was shot a few days since, by a son of Mayor Kallach. DeYoung shot the elder Kallach last fall, wounding him seriously, and now he dies from the same weapon. This is but a natural result, and such a loose condition of things, with no care or safety for human life, is but one of the evils or signs from the existence of communism. But the blatant mouth-piece of this social upas, communism, is in the house of correction, as a penalty for his abuse of liberty, and if Kallach and his motley crew were to receive their just dues, they would be in the penitentiary. The sooner they are put where they belong the better it will be for San Francisco, California and the whole country.

The Sunday-law war is spreading into different sections of the country, and wherever the fight may be it invariably commences with excesses on one and perhaps both sides. This sort of thing will probably continue until common sense is brought to bear on the case in hand. The majority of people are willing that Sunday should be observed by each individual in accordance with his or her taste, providing the rules of common decency are observed.

The present situation in Louisville, Ky., is amusing. Things had got to be so bad there that the last Legislature enacted a very stringent law, forbidding all manner of work on Sunday. Well, Sunday the police of Louisville set to work enforcing it. They reported all persons found at work after midnight on Saturday, including those in newspaper offices, saloons and the drivers of public hacks, and even the sextons and organists of churches, as they receive pay for work done on that day. The Courier-Journal supported the law, not knowing that it applied to "Sunday editions," and what it will do now is hard to say. Louisville at present is the banner Puritan city of the Union, although in an intensely Democratic State, under a law enacted by a nearly unanimous Democratic Legislature.

A short time ago the Daily Advertiser contained an earnest article on the suicidal policy of turning all our educational forces into the line of "professional" and "gentle" employments, tending to a surfeit in a few branches and patting that work under a cloud on which the prosperity of the country so largely depends. The New York Bulletin, following up the same line of thought, points to the vast influx of foreign skilled mechanics now pouring into this country, and says: "The race of American mechanics, as such, is about extinct, and as the fruits of our uncomprehending folly, their places are being taken by the British, the Germans, French, Italians and Scandinavians, with the Chinese to hear from." What is to become of the millions of American youth now coming forward to maturity? Can they all be turned into doctors, lawyers or ministers; into clerks, speculators and Wall street brokers? They turn their backs upon farming and they do not like to soil their hands or harden them by honest labor. The Trades Unions, says the Bulletin, suppressed the apprenticeship system and thought they could control the labor market, but they cannot keep out the workmen of Europe. That is too formidable an element to be handled. During the industrial depression which succeeded the panic, when emigration had all but stopped, they were enabled to do this to a certain extent, but now that the human tide is again setting this way in irresistible volume, the power of control is passing from their hands. —Newark Advertiser.

Insurance.
CUMBERLAND MUTUAL
Fire Insurance Comp ny.

BRIDGE-TOWN, N. J.

Conducted on strictly mutual principles, of facing a person's life insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usual for the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollar a year for the insurance on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, in such risks—the other two thirds taken by stock companies being a profit
according to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.

The guarantee fund of premiums now being over Three Millions of Dollars.

If an assessment had to be made of five per cent, only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered.
And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment
having ever been made, and no other offered.
And that large amount of money is saved to

having ever been made, and no other offered.

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars

The Losses by Lightning.

Where the property is not set on fire, the loss less than one cent per year to each member, repaid without delay, and, except in the case of fire, to cover all policies that are issued and outstanding.
