Committee on Highways reported visit to Fourteenth Street, and find it very sandy,—would cost $700 to $800 to put it in good condition. Also, that the road formerly used by residents in that vicinity had been closed by private parties. Voted, that Committee ascertain if said road had been in public use for twenty years; if so, to inquire as to the locality of its being closed.

A committee of three from the G. A.

R. Post were then heard. Called attention to the State law permitting an appropriation not to exceed $100, by

Council, for Memorial Day expenses, and asked for fifty dollars. Discussed for some time, and on motion of Mr.

Anderson, petition granted. Yeas,

Anderson, King, Patton; nays, Adams,

Ballard.

Charles Stratton and S. T. Twomey complained of condition of First Road,— paid taxes many years, no improvement.

Stratton said: "You vote fifty dollars for the Grand Army, but nothing for our roads." Laid over for now business.

Ranere's sidewalk, Main Road, still justly complained of. Referred.

Committee on Water reported and exhibited map and specifications for a water supply. Two eight inch wells on

"Byrnes' Hill," pumps, reservoir, piping to Bellevue and Main Road, to Central Avenue and Maple Street, and on several streets within those bounds; forty-three fire hydrants, etc., etc., at an estimated cost of $25,000. Report received, and committee given another month to secure other bids.

Light Committee reported offer to build plant, furnish poles, wires, etc. for about $8,000. Read and filed.

Finance Committee reported advertising for bids for assessment map of portion of town, sent copies of advertisement to every civil engineer known in Atlantic and Camden Counties. But no reply received, from Haines & King,

Camden. Will furnish map and complete index for $500. Bid rejected,— exceeds appropriation.

Town Clerk reported reply from Attorney Stephany as to relative rights of Council and Overseer in Street matters.

The attorney studied our Charter and the various laws pertaining to the subject; was of the opinion that "the Overseer can derive his authority only from Council, who are authorized to prescribe the duties of all town officers.

Is subordinate to the orders of Council."

Mr. Stephany made no written reply as to amount for which he would serve as Counsel for the town; but told Chairman, verbally, that he would accept for $100. No definite action.

Overseer of Highways authorized to purchase materials necessary for repairs.

Chairman reported consultation with

Attorney Stephany in relation to improved form of government for Ham-monton. Recommended the town act of 1888, pamphlet laws, page 483. But even this contains some undesirable features, and needs amendment. Report received; no action.

Clerk reported that the town was divided into five road districts April 23, 1876, by resolution; and since that time highway money has been spent in the district where collected. No action; but Council seems inclined to abolish districts, and spend the money where most needed.

Clerk instructed to have garbage ordinance published, as required.

A. H. Miller declined to serve as Town Marshal. None elected.

J. H. Garton, re-appointed special police for six months, at $1.50 pr week.

Council accepted invitation to participate in Memorial Day exercises.

Fire Marshal Brown authorized to purchase supplies needed by Fire Companies, but not to exceed appropriation,

$100.

Adjourned,—at 12 o'clock.

The first game of the base ball season was played last Saturday, between the Hammonton Juniors and the Dutch Hill nine. The following is the

After years and years of warning and instruction it seems that a certain sort of conding stranger has not yet mastered the dangers of the gold brick. The weighted dice and the man who produces a location of three little cards and a location of three little cards while you are in the room. The man of a gentleman from Wyoming who produced a "roll" in a Chicago saloon and then allowed three affable gentlemen to shake dice with him in a proof that further instructions will be necessary. The man who is handling and trusting strangers who are not weighed with money some cautious should be published: On arriving in the city with your money always show the same to the first man you meet. If approached in a grocery by a man who says, "I want to see you," then you down the street with your money. When down by the freight car on the highway, always accept cheerfully, especially if it is growing dark. When a stranger comes with three shells and a small pellet wants you to let him that you can tell him that the pellet is concealed and always take him. If you are not to guess right double the bet. If you stay in the city is to be short, however, your "roll" up in a bag with a couple of bricks, take the bag down to the info front and throw it. This latter experience is a good one. When going home and observing the physical imbalance obviously inflicted by the mint with the dice box and the three little shells. With a little precautionary advice like this no stranger, no matter how cunning or cunning he may be, could leave the city without getting an abundance of really smart and helpful experience.

A black and white illustration depicting a scene of violence. In the center, a group of soldiers on horseback are trampling over a group of wounded and fallen men. The soldiers are wearing uniforms and hats, and their horses are galloping through the scene. The wounded men are lying on the ground, some with visible injuries. The background shows a wooded area with trees and foliage. The overall tone is grim and depicts a brutal act of war.

Uncle Joel's mistake.

"Well, Uncle Joel," said a Washingtonite to his rural uncle from the West, "how did you enjoy your visit to the Headquarters?"

"They wasn't in session."

"In that so?"

"Yes; I waited nearly all day for them to come, but they just kept laughin' and talkin' about personal arguments over politics till, b'gosh, they had wasted so much time that I had to go home. I thought it was no use, but I sold 'em."

The Base Ball Club have nearly finished their schedule of games for this season. Several good clubs are represented. The first game will be on May 18th with the Atco Athletic Ass'n. The next, on the 23rd, with the Duquesne nine (formerly the United A. A.) of Philadelphia. The positions and players are not yet decided upon; but Lukens will twirl the ball, and Hedricks wear the muzzie, while about a dozen are training for the other positions.

Only two members of the Drum Corps were present at their meeting on Tuesday evening. They voted to disband the corps and turn over all instruments and money to the Sons of Veterans. But other members have since entered their protest, and there the matter rests. One of the young men present states that he canvassed among members, and a majority favored the course taken. We'll see. The Sons don't ask for the gift,—it's the Corps' own move.

According to the city papers, there is still great excitement here in Hammonton over the wild (?) man who lives somewhere in the great swamp. They say that hunting parties have been organized to capture him, but he escapes every time, deriding his pursuers. For pity's sake, let the poor fellow live as he has chosen; he harms no one, and is happier thus than he would be in captivity. He was captured twice on Thursday, proved to be an Englishman named John Smock, but eluded his captors both times.

On Sunday evening, April 12th, Mr. Chas. Herbert, Sr., father of D. C. Herbert, was knocked down and injured by a horse and carriage in front of his residence, on Central Avenue. His face and head were cut and bruised, his side and back badly bruised. No blame for the accident is thrown upon the ladies in the carriage, as the old gentleman (over eighty years old) was somewhat confused by the darkness, and was probably not seen; but it did seem heartless for them not to stop and see the result. Mr. Herbert has nearly recovered.

We give the list of prizes offered in the H. A. A. bicycle meet for Saturday, June 6th,—the first of the season:
