Plans are already under way for an elaborate celebration of the Fourth of July. Enthusiastic men have taken hold of it, and propose to make the occasion memorable.

Cleaning-up day was well kept, Thursday. At nearly every property front could be seen rubbish of every description, from tin cans and bottles to chicken wire and children's automobiles. It took two days to gather up the stuff.

Those who went to the polls two or three hours after closing time, Tuesday night, to get the returns, got left instead. There being but the question "for" or "against," the clerks made quick time in the count,—about eleven ballots per minute.

Joseph Beck has sold his twenty acre farm, on Main Road, known to many as the Martino place, to Chas. Roemer, of Downings, N. Y.

Through the generosity of the Italian Beneficial Society, donating $50, the fund collected by the Civic Club for the flood sufferers of the Middle West has been increased to $334.75. The Italian Society deserves the thanks of the whole town for its manifestation of sympathy for the needy.

People enjoyed the Downie & Wheeler circus, Thursday. As usual, there were some features that might have been omitted, but there was a very good display of animals, the horses were unusually fine, some of the acrobatic stunts were astounding, the men seemed well behaved.

The fifth annual supper of the Civic Club, on April 25th, in Odd Fellows' Hall, was a decided success, and the goodly number present did full justice to the delicious menu presented by the efficient committee. Games, etc., were participated in with great zest,—the horse-race especially causing much excitement.

There is to be a big parade of the P. O. S. A., to-night, in Camden, with Camps from everywhere participating. A large delegation from Hammonton is to leave on the Reading's six o'clock train, to take part.

We congratulate Hammonton upon the result of Tuesday's special election. As we have always claimed, this is a lovely place to live, with its many comfortable homes, pleasant streets, its healthy climate, abundant pure water, electric lights, churches, schools, new pavements, and now a thorough system of sewerage.

It has been suggested that danger signal flags be placed on Egg Harbor Road, between Hammonton and Egg Harbor, near the patches of cinders, to prevent accidents,—several having been caused by autos and motorcycles coming upon these patches unexpectedly. It became necessary to treat the road thus, to give it a bottom, and until well packed and covered with gravel, there will be trouble for the speeding motorists.

Fire Proof Roofing

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES

What could be better for town or country buildings than a roofing that won't burn—won't leak—that is lightning proof—lasts as long as the building itself, and never needs repairs?
Cortright Metal Shingles meet every one of these requirements.
Beware of imitations—None genuine without the words "Cortright Reg. U. S. Pat. Off." stamped on each shingle.

Dress as well as you can afford.

Men who can afford to dress well—and in these days no man can afford not to,—find that from $20 to $25 is about the right price to pay for clothes.

And that our

Hart Schaffner & Marx

Suits, ready, are the best value they can get for the money.

Even those who think $20, $22.50, and $25 is more than they can afford, are learning that the better fabrics, the better linings and trimmings, the better tailoring, at the above prices, give a satisfaction and service that are worth more than the difference in the price.

You pay $35 and $40 for such qualities made-to-measure.

The day when men of sense and taste thought they could get all they wanted in clothes at a very small investment, has long been passed, and

The day when the made-to-measure idea can charm a lot of extra dollars out of a man's pocket is passing rapidly.

You will see here, ready, clothes that meet all the requirements of well dressed men. The styles are correct to the very smallest detail; the fabrics and other materials are the best; the tailoring is thorough and high grade; the clothes fit.

You can get our suits as low as $10, and as high as $28; but we emphasize $20 to $25 as a good starting point.

A man ought to dress as well as he can afford.

Reliable hints for the Home Girl That May Be Popular

There is an absolute demand for the services of the girl who can pack trunks. There is an art and science in trunk packing which comes to many a girl like the talents for music or painting, and which is quite as valuable as either of these. It is a science to market her ability. Trunk packing is not a task that appeals to many yet it has a fascination for the expert. The season for this business is in and opportunities for finding profit in it are yours if you but seek them out. One girl has made a career of it, printed with "trunk-packer" on them, together with her name and address, while another sent written solicitations to people to whom she might require the services of such a person; both are getting all the work they can attend to, and find the occupation agreeable.

Facial massage, once a luxury, is regarded by most women today as an absolute necessity. Several home girls are earning tidy sums by doing the work of a visiting beauty specialist. They have studied advanced facial massage and with the addition of some physical culture movements and exercises, an endless source of beautiful suggestions, and a knowledge of the correct things in dress, they seem to have no difficulty in finding devotees to the shrine of Trina.

Teaching backward children a few hours daily in the occupation of another woman, she has a colored housemaid who sends after her pupils, and who escorts them home after school hours are over. Individual attention and study are given each child, based on the latest system of instruction for such pupils, and she is succeeding nicely. She built up this business by calling upon physicians who specialize in defective children and securing their interest, and in this work, they sent the pupils to her.

Monthing and preserving autograph specimens proved a profitable occupation for another girl. From the globe-trotter to the summer vacationist there are many examples of the "memento" collector, all returning from lands hither and yon with a collection of autographs. This girl, who knows how to make the most of it, has a book in which she keeps a list of all the names of the people she meets, and she keeps a list of all the names of the people she meets, and she keeps a list of all the names of the people she meets.

THE BUTTONHOLE POSY.

They're "caught on."

Smaller ones are preferred.

The flowers are very small, too.

They are very quickly Victorian.

The flowers are of bright silk and satin.

The color are of highly impetuous brightness.

This only variation to these is the single, very natural velvet posy.

These new buttonholes are worn in the coat lapel of the severely tailored suit.

HOUSECLEANING TIME.

Would that we lived in air castles!

An air castle might simply be blown away.

These evaporated, another kind of soap.

Spring housecleaning would then be a snap.

PLANTING TREES.

Plant for fruit.

Plant for shade.

Plant for something.

And know what you're planting for.

All told, foliage and shade are the best choice.

One of our blooming trees greatly adorn a lawn.

But in the city fruit trees are only an annoyance, because of the ubiquitous small boy.

The memory of one excited urchin will not down. He appeared early and nearly broke the door bell. "Misses!" he exclaimed, "there's peaches in your yard! M-may I have 'em?"

VERY SMARTEST RIGS FOR SMALL GIRL.

In selecting dresses for children the prevailing variety in ideas for sleeves must not be overlooked. Some of the new models have just the small, short sleeves, slightly puffed, after the characteristic of early Victorian styles, while others show modified bell sleeves or those which are a little full to the elbow and then tightened to ward the wrist.

For useful frocks for little people nothing is more convenient than just a long, full sleeve, buttoned into the band at the wrist.

The New Crepes.

For dresses, as well as for overalls, there are many ways of using the new crepes both in fine wools and in cotton. So far as fashions for the new crepe stuffs have gone the full bodies of the crepe, lace patterns, the Oriental fashion, is in first favor, and a novelty is the line of buttons down the front, finishing where the belt meets the blouse-like bodice. Skirts are all fuller than they were, some are almost repeating the Empire model, often in fine folds caught in bodices that are molded on, though shown on dresses for the wear of older folk.

Austrian Embroidery.

For dress adorning the finest choice will be in hand-worked needlecraft from the Austrian schools of embroidery with modern reproductions of some of the exquisite lace patterns which are a feature of the new season's models in white. A craze is expected for these lovely wares, and in some of the white sales examples that are marveled at stichery have been shown.

Bats, so far as all Early Victorian, with tiny flowers as trimming for the straw and quillings of delicate ribbon. Coats are loose, with distinctive lines, in front, Russian pattern shoulders, and collars and cuffs in contrast.

One dress is a quilt one for a child of eight, and may be of delicate or a patterned silk. The piping with black silk or color braid, and the buttons are also black silk. A smart and useful coat is in soft satin or silk or crepe. In white, black or a pastel shade, while a useful hat is of the finest Tassel straw in the new sailor shape, with loops of velvet and a small wing of heron's plumage.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of ten cents in silver or stamps.

BECOMING DRESSING.

Are you becomingly dressed?

If not, what not?

Lack of beauty is no excuse.

Lack of riches is not an excuse.

A handsome suit will not do the trick.

More money outlay will not necessarily do it.

External care, following good buying sense, will do it.

How often does one see a girl in a plain suit, smart and simple hat, immaculate neck, hand and footgear looking exquisitely well.

Also how often does one see a woman in handsome costume, thin hats at war with the rest of her attire, and, on looking anything save well turned out.

A Task For The Nation.
Once every year—in the spring—the attention of the whole country turns to the broad basin that occupies the middle of the continent south of the Great Lakes. It turns thither not, as it would like, to behold a fertile land ready for the plow, and prosperous cities humming with manufacturing and trade, but to look on a wide waste of troubled waters, on wrecked homes and ruined businesses, and death. The middle West is paying its annual tribute to the spirit of the flood.
So it has been for almost a hundred and thirty years, since the great overflow of 1785, the first in which white men took an interest. And year after year we go on—those of us who happen to live elsewhere than in the central valley—reading the accounts of the floods on this or that part of its waterways as interesting and picturesque bits of news; sighing, perhaps, at the great loss of property; stirred at length to a remote, impersonal sympathy when the number of the drowned is larger than usual. This year the tale has been uncommonly harrowing, and so our sympathy has been somewhat keener, and has found expression in material help.
It is time for all of us, wherever we may live, to awake and look the matter in the face.
Whose water is it that floods the valley states? Not theirs alone, but the drainage of thirty states—more than half the country. Those who suffer most have done their part, and more than their part. And the national government has spent millions of dollars in their behalf; but Congress has never yet been willing to make appropriations large enough to permit even the beginning of a comprehensive and permanent system of protection.
To a people as practical as we Americans like to consider ourselves, the economic waste alone should bring a sense of shock and shame. An average annual flood loss of $50,000,000 in the Ohio valley alone, and of $100,000,000 in the whole country, is the estimate of the Geological Survey. And that means only the property destroyed. The waters themselves, if they could be stored, are reckoned to be worth five times as much as they destroy.
If ever there was a problem that belonged to the whole people,—to the national government,—it is this. No state or group of states can handle it alone, not only because of the cost, but because what is needed is a general and comprehensive plan that shall look not only to levees and revetments, nor yet only to storage basins, but to both, and that shall aim to correlate them with irrigation, the production of power, and the improvement of navigable streams. Although that would not even prevent such local floods as that in Ohio, it would greatly reduce the damage due to more general storms.
It is a narrow view that sees in the flooded states the only sufferers from the overflow. Every state in the Union suffers with them, and to the remotest hamlet in Maine or Washington or California comes home some portion of the loss. Certain members of Congress have long tried to have something done, and they will continue the good work.—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Spraying Peach Trees.
Just as soon as the petals fall from the peach blossoms an application of arsenate of lead, using three pounds of the paste, or one and one-half pounds of the powder, to fifty gallons of water, should be made to guard against injury from the plum curculio. A second application of the same mixture should be made just as soon as the little husks begin to split and fall from the small fruits. The value of the peach crop is materially lowered by this little insect, and spraying is particularly important in those orchards where, for various reasons, the set of fruit is rather light.
In all cases, where the rapid development of the buds made it impossible to complete the usual spring application of lime and sulfur mixture for San Jose scale and leaf curl, the Experiment Station suggests that self-boiled lime-sulfur be added to both of the above applications of arsenate of lead. Such a mixture should lessen the amount of injury from leaf curl, as well as aid in controlling the curculio and peach-scab. For further information write to the Extension Department, State Experiment Station, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Studebaker
"Young man, when you buy a buggy, be sure it's a Studebaker"
Sound advice from the man who has been driving one for twenty years.
When you buy a Studebaker buggy you are buying all the skill, experience and science in buggy building that half a century can produce. You are protecting yourself against the mistakes of younger builders.
You will always be proud of the Studebaker nameplate, for there isn't a buggy on the road that is its equal for style, luxury and good looks.
Flexible bent-reach gear, graceful lines, solid corner, plugless body, double-ironed shafts, are a few of the special Studebaker features.
The new close-fitting shifting rail is enough in itself to make you buy a Studebaker buggy.
