ELVINS & ROBERTS

Being now in the hurry and rush of Spring business, you will pardon us if we do not present much that is new. We merely wish to assure you that we are still doing business at the old stand.

We meet the recent cut in the price of Cottolene. Having had the honor of introducing this excellent article to the trade in this vicinity, we propose our imitators shall not lead us on this or any other article. Price until further notice, 15 cents per pound.

We reduce the price of Wood Fibre Palls to 35 cents, making them by far the cheapest and best water pail for the money now on the market. No fraud about these goods, a first-class article in every way. No hoops to drop off, does not soak water, therefore always light, and almost no end to the wear.

Have you tried Snider's Catsup? If not, why not? "It leads the procession." Large bottle, 25 cents.

Full weight Milk certainly should be a leader also. 12 cents per can. Try a can, and if it is not what we claim for it, bring it back.

Please remember that we are the sole agents for Mapes' Complete Manures for all crops, and we aim to keep the stock as complete as the rapidly increasing sales of these most popular and reliable fertilizers will permit. Prices on application.

Garden Seeds.

A full line now in stock. Small seeds in large papers, warranted fresh and genuine, 30 cents dozen papers. Also Peas, Beans, Sweet Corn, Clover, Timothy, Red Top, Orchard, and Lawn Grass Seeds. All at bottom figures.

Seed Potatoes are here, in all the leading varieties, viz: Holton County (Maine), Rose, Beauty of Hebron, Early Ohio, Rose Seedling, etc., etc. Prices, $1.25 up.

You will pardon us for again calling your attention to the very important item of Berry Baskets, when we assure you that, according to the present outlook as to demand, prices will be much higher. We therefore strongly urge placing orders at once. Prices we are quoting now hold good for this month only.

Let us have your order now for Gift Crates. Hardly prepared yet to quote prices, but you can depend upon getting them from us when needed, at prices that will be right.

Agents for Bissell Plows, which we carry in stock, in all sizes.

DID YOU EVER

Stop to think what a fine piece of mechanism your watch is? and that you are injuring it by letting it run too long without having it cleaned and oiled?

A watch is injured more in one month, when running dirty, than in a year's time when properly cleaned and oiled.

Why neglect to have it cleaned, when you can get it done, and guaranteed, for One Dollar?

Washington Letter.

From our regular Correspondent.
Washington, May 8, 1893.

The finances of a nation, like the blood of an individual, cannot be trifled with without danger. Up to this time the administration has followed the conservative line laid down by its predecessor, and as a natural consequence, it has been supported by patriotic citizens, without regard to political affiliations, and danger has been averted. But now, if those who claim to represent the administration are telling the truth, it is meditating a change, and a very dangerous one at that. According to these men the President has determined, in order to compel Congress to unconditionally repeal the Sherman Silver law, to so manipulate our finances as to create a popular fear of a panic, and then to charge it all to the operation of the Sherman law. This is a short sighted policy, and cannot fail to react with deadly consequences upon its author. There are plenty of Republicans in Congress—Senator Sherman among them—who would willingly vote to repeal the present Silver law, but there is not one of them who will support a policy which will risk a financial panic in order to frighten Congressmen into voting for its repeal.

Secretary Carlisle has made a personal investigation of the charges made by New York publications against the official integrity of assistant Sec. Spaulding, and others, at the port of New York, and as a result authorized the publication of a statement affirming their innocence of the charge of undervaluing importations of favored firms. As the officials mentioned are all hold over Republicans, their exonerated by Sec. Carlisle is highly creditable both to him and to them.

Senator Brice has been among the Democrats "outside the breastworks" ever since the new administration began business. The other day the President, seemingly in a spirit of conciliation, asked Mr. Brice to name a good man for third auditor of the Treasury. Mr. Brice submitted three names, any one of which would have been satisfactory to him. Several days later, much to the Senator's chagrin, the appointment was given to John C. Reilly, known to all Ohio people as a bitter personal enemy of Mr. Brice,—making it appear that he had been asked to recommend a man for the place solely to be snubbed. Mr. Reilly declined the position, but that did not soften the open affront put upon Mr. Brice, who lately remarked significantly: "Even the man with the longest credit has to face a day of settlement sometime."

The administration is delighted at its success in getting the reassembling of the International Monetary Conference postponed from May 30th, to next Nov. It was afraid that if the conference came together again this spring it might really agree upon some plan for the increased use of silver as a money metal, which would have upset its plan for forcing Congress to act as it wishes.

The appointment mill is again at work, but it is not turning out much grit for the patient waiters. A few foreign appointments, bureau chiefs, postmasters etc., have fallen into outstretched hands, but a majority of them have made more enemies than friends for the appointing power, because of the failure to recognize the recommendation of men whose positions in the party are such as to entitle them to influence.

Work upon the administration tariff bill is not proceeding as smoothly as it was expected to do. Obstacles are appearing on every side, and their number is constantly increasing, have become so numerous in fact, that it is understood that one radical change has already been made in the plan upon which it was originally proposed to construct the bill. HARRY.

While digging a cellar in Plainfield, last Saturday, workmen found four human skeletons. They are supposed to be of soldiers killed during the Revolutionary war.

HOW TO SKETCH A HORSE.

BY GEORGE L. REMOUR.

(With illustrations by the author.)

Many who read the journal will doubtless be glad to receive a few practical hints how to go about sketching a horse, and so I purpose putting aside my brush for a few minutes and telling them, in a matter-of-fact sort of way, how, according to my experience, it is possible for young artists, to form ideas how to proceed with their work, when for the first time they are face to face with a "sketcher."

In the first place, be careful to see the skeleton of the horse, which you have obtained the greatest mastery, be it pencil, water-color, or oil paint, for you may in confidence accept my assurance that you will require to be hampered as little as possible with your materials.

Then do not attempt too much, nor expect a great deal at a time. Try, say, an Ashman's pony. Such animals are generally pretty well gone, and they want two men to hold them. Select one that is about the middle of the wretched shab that you turn out and your model shall not shock you with severely distorted features. He is as much "character" and shape left in him as possible—one with something for the "sketcher" to lay hold of, as the saying is, "give him a good shape." I advocate your choosing a played-out animal at first, simply because such a one will cause you less trouble, by standing more quietly than a horse in good condition would be likely to do, knowing full well that you would find it impossible to first to tackle a spirited animal, with your eyes and your brush, nostrils (very difficult to catch), to say nothing of an over-riding, satirical, and, in a master even, an accomplished painter.

Always start with a fixed purpose to pose, and never deviate. Do not try to make "show" quick by getting on a lot of useless and from-blooming point. If you start a head by drawing in the blinder (a good way) you will be blind and not the noseband. By that, I mean you are to make point of getting some part well in at once, as, by so doing, you will be able to grasp the whole thing with confidence and a degree of certainty. A carefully measured bit of work will be like a port in a storm, to you very often, something with which to compare other parts of your work of which you are doubtful.

We will suppose you are attempting to sketch a horse's head from the front, and that as a fact, you have drawn the outside blinder with more or less care. How much easier it will be to get the ear about the right place, and in right proportion. You cannot go far wrong if that original blinder is constantly referred to in your model and afterwards in your picture, and the distance between the ears. Putting in the second ear, front band, and second blinder will be comparatively easy, and drawing the inside blinder, and after, on your road down, will be a light recreation, especially the underneath it. Then you would get the inside blinder, bit, and end of the muzzle or lips.

Take care to note correctly the space between the nostrils and the depth from the bottom of the jaw to the lips, letting your eye constantly take in the different measurements from the noseband downwards. You will find a "blackhead" becoming more and more prominent, and getting the proper relations of a head in all positions.

Don't attempt what you don't see. When you have got the head and neck pretty correctly blocked in, fill out your eyes and seek for the chief masses of shadow in your model—under the blinder, under the jaw, under the neck, and under the tail. Get in all the masses of shadow first, and then all the leading masses of light. Now begin to hunt about for half-tones and half-lights, but not before you have arranged the masses.

The "probability, unfortunately, will be, notwithstanding all your care, that the whole affair will be a very poor party resembling a great variety of objects; but never allow yourself to be carried away from the thought, that it is a horse you are after. Never deviate from a fixed purpose; decide once and for all how your horse is to appear on canvas and work up to it. Never let the perversity of your model, the horse won't help you, but make a point of cultivating patience. If you enter in his perversity mind, a desire that you should inspect his tail, mind that you do, there being wonderful character in the tail. Don't forget this! I have known successful tail to save a picture. Don't draw tails from memory, and recollect that a tail that makes one horse ruin his picture, and another to preserve it.

Bay you are going to draw in a horse, side view. Start from the top of his withers, down the shoulder line to the point, then down the neck, and up. Go back to the withers, and start down his back till you come to the highest part of his back, behind where the saddle would consist of. Don't let it be where you ended the line at bottom of the chest, and carry on a line from where the back of the fore-legs would join the body of the horse—then stop. Draw the neck again to where you stop, off at the highest part of the back. Then draw the head, and carry on the line to the point where the head would be. Then draw the tail, but don't work down the tail, but let it come to the end of the quarters; then stop, and go back to where you left off at the side joint and carry on the line all you reach the hocks. Now glance over the "block in" and correct it. After which start on the neck.

Work the line from the point of the neck, and after that, when you think the ears will spring down to the withers, then draw the under line from the throat down to shoulder line, which is the first line to draw. You will find it astonishing as how easily an animal in the general form of a horse these few lines will convey. Now block in the head, and after that, the fore-legs, and carefully finish the hind legs, reserving to yourself the last line, the last moment of putting on the tail. You have no idea how much you will have wanted to sketch that tail on sooner. Remember that the points of a horse vary according to the purpose for which it is bred, and therefore it is better to say nothing at that head just now.

From four to five yards is a good distance to stand from a horse when sketching for the purpose of a foreground figure. Study the chest of a horse well; it is full of peculiarities; also the way the hair radiates in the centre of the chest, and the line about half way between throat and chest. Don't forget the little hairy protuberance on the inside of the legs, and the hairy protuberance on the fore legs, above the knees, while on the hind legs they are below the hocks; study these things thoroughly; also the knees, and the hocks, and the fetlocks, and the hoofs. Never draw horses on theory, and let your sketch alone—after you have a good model, it is sure not to be very good. It is sure not to be very good, to rob it of some value by working it without the model.

HEALTH AND THE TOILET.

BY "NINON."

The matter of personal appearance is becoming daily of more importance, and it is, too. It is the duty of every woman to make the very best of her person, and to call in the aid of cosmetics, which are only things for the use of the stage. For instance, one is afflicted with a rough, dry skin, which is not at all pleasant to the touch, and which, when it comes to the face, is a matter of impossibility for that woman to wear a hat or a veil, or to go out in the street. She is suffering in this way. She is, and must be, miserable, and glad to get away from the first opportunity. She is, and must be, miserable, and glad to get away from the first opportunity.

She is, and must be, miserable, and glad to get away from the first opportunity. She is, and must be, miserable, and glad to get away from the first opportunity. She is, and must be, miserable, and glad to get away from the first opportunity. She is, and must be, miserable, and glad to get away from the first opportunity. Lesson Text: "The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life; and he that withholdeth his words is a fool."—Prov. 11:30.

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the wicked (Ps. 1:1).

The words of the wicked are lying in wait for blood (Prov. 12:6).

He that is full of wisdom shall be called a man of understanding (Prov. 12:11).

From the Exercise of Cruelty: The tender mercies of the wicked are cruel (Job. 49:7).

He that is cruel troubleth his own flesh worse than a sword (Prov. 13:17).

They are cruel, and have no mercy (Jer. 6:23).

VI. From the Sin of Self-Complacency: The way of the foolish is right in his own eyes (Prov. 10:12).

Do not say, "I am wise, therefore I will not be rebuked" (Prov. 10:13).

I thank thee, that I am not as the rest of men (Luk. 18:11).

Be not wise in thine own conceits (Rom. 12:16).

PAINT! PAINT!
HAMMONTON.

When you buy the Hammononton Paint, you do not buy seven-eighths of a gallon for a gallon, or three pints for a half gallon; nor do you get one of those packages that weigh 12 to 14 pounds, and containing so much alkali that it appears to be so thick that it is impossible to use it without thinning; but in buying the Hammononton you get a full standard gallon of paint, weighing 14 to 16 pounds to the gallon, made from the best materials known to the trade, and costs the consumer from $1 to $1.50 per gallon for honest paint.

If the purchaser doesn't want honest paint, and wants to be honest to himself, then be sure to buy the Hammononton Paint, and the manufacturer will give a receipt with every gallon sold telling you how to make two gallons of paint out of one of the Hammononton. It will cost 33 cents for the extra gallon.

One Dollar.

And then here comes Commercial Paint, in 30 shades, the best wearing paint ever put on the market for so low a price as $1 per gallon, and guaranteed to be a first-class wearing paint. If any one should not want to pay so high a price for a good exterior paint, then work the 33-cent racket, and get two gallons for $1.33. Manufactured at Hammononton Paint Works.

SATURDAY, MAY 18, 1893.

Our Italian citizens are naturally sympathetic to the efforts to elect them to the office that most of them belong to the notorious "Mafia" society, etc. Said "Mafia," they say, is a secret band of murderers, who hire and are hired to kill whomever they desire to have removed. We do not believe there are any such among us.
Italians have contributed largely to the prosperity of Hammononton, and though a majority of them are poor, we have found them honest.

FIVE ACRES on Eleventh Street for sale, with fruit-tree room house, barn and well. Very cheap. REPUBLICAN OFFICE.

The Egg Harbor City Council finally passed that ordinance licensing the race-track, fixing the fee at $3000 for three months. This raised so great a storm that Council reconsidered, and reduced the fee to $1500, which seems to be satisfactory. Now there is no trouble on hand. According to daily papers, the regular liquor license fee is $250, but Council permitted a singing society to open a bar to their hall for $100, which stirred up the saloon men, who demand that their fee be reduced to $100. There's always trouble where rum and races are allowed.

A young Hammononton business man has adopted an excellent plan for an endowment or life insurance. Six years ago, he took five shares in a town Loan Association, and each year since has added five shares. As the average life of a series is something over one hundred months, his first share will be matured in three or four years, and he will thereafter receive $1000 per year so long as he continues his payments.
This is no "get-rich quick" plan, but it will give him a net income of at least $400 a year. It is rather expensive for a few years, but there is no risk of loss, as he can withdraw the full amount paid in, with moderate interest, at any time. A good scheme.

The "old Board" of Freeholders met on Tuesday last, and wound up the year's business with a bang. A span of economy distressed some of the members, which was relieved by resolving to publish the annual finance report in the two "legal" papers of the county (which nobody ever sees), and in pamphlet form, estimating the saving at $80.
That experiment was tried some years ago, and the pamphlets proved dead stock. Those who had public spirit enough to wish to know what was done with their County tax money, and took pains to make inquiries, and traveled far enough to find a copy. Others did without. Published in all the papers, thousands of copies are placed in the hands of tax-payers. It seems strange, but this time, that whenever these faint streaks of economy become visible, they can newspaper accounts first, and salary and committee fees last.

For Sale—A good six-room house,

Mad Accident.

About nine o'clock yesterday morning,
Albert H. Simons and Fred. Luderits, employees at the Union Store, were working about the elevator, which was at its lowest point, in the cellar, when, without warning, at a slight jar, a twenty-inch cast-iron grooved wheel, through which the wire cable runs, broke, and fell from the top, striking Mr. Simons, cutting a deep gash about six inches long from the top to the back of his head. He was removed to the office and Dr. North summoned, who, after examination, said there was but very slight chance for his life. As we go to press, he lies unconscious, the wound dressed, and preparations being made to remove him to his home.

Al is one of our most popular young

Protection expects another strong turnout of members on Thursday evening, May 25th. It meets once a month.

Flower thieves are still at large.
Mrs. Heartwell has a very choice plant, brought from York State. It was very neatly scooped out, the other night.

We ought to have a first class flag-staff in front of Central School building, that the janitor may not fear to raise "Old Glory" when the wind is blowing.

E. J. Woolley is erecting a fine barn in the rear of Murdock's store.
Mr. W. is ever making improvements; his three story brick block is the pride of the town.

Will H. Bernshouse has taken agency for "Victor" and "Credenda" bicycles, first-class machines, and wants people to know it, hence advertises.
He rides a "Credenda," and so does Franz Lehman. Examine them.

The weather has been very fine this week. Two or three days were slightly cool, with traces of frost in the morning; but Wednesday was warm, and on Thursday the shady side was more comfortable. Friday, ditto.

Members of our Odd Fellows' Lodge are requested to meet in the Lodge room next Monday evening, 15th inst. There will be some things new to examine, and some things to talk over.
They will probably have an interesting time.

We understand that some of the State papers are now publishing the laws. If any one of our readers has seen an Atlantic County paper containing chapters of that valuable serial, we wish he would notify us of that fact by postal card.

Mrs. Blum's new building fills up the last gap at the lower end of the avenue. But oh, for a three-foot walk across Bellevue, not far this way. But they can't well lay it when the street is wet and muddy, and when it's dry they don't need it.

One of our advertisers said, this week: "There was a time when it did not pay to advertise in Hammononton,— everybody knew everybody else, and all about his business. It's not so now."

The population is too numerous, and a man must introduce himself if he would have his business prosper."

Our job printing department has been crowded with work, but by calculating, close and working long hours we have filled every order on time. We are not through yet, but have it well in hand. Come right along,—here is the proper place when you want printing of any kind done.

The new Board of Freeholders met on Wednesday, and organized by electing M. L. Jackson Director, J. C.
Anderson, Clerk, was elected for three years, and has two years to serve. A.
B. Endicott, County Collector, has one year of his two year term to serve.
Jos. Thompson was re-elected Solicitor of the Board.

George Carlaw, son of the late Capt. Edw. Carlaw, died very suddenly last Sunday evening, aged 21 years.
He had been suffering for about a year with abscesses, and in spite of the best medical aid obtainable here and in the city, he constantly grew weaker; but the end came unexpectedly, in the form of a hemorrhage, and life departed before a physician could reach the house.

George was one of our most estimable young men, quiet in manner, popular with his associates, a kind and affectionate son and brother. There are many who mourn with the bereaved family.
Funeral services on Wednesday afternoon, at the family residence, conducted by Rev. B. Eldridge, and very largely attended, especially by young people.
