OTIS UNDERWEAR

The best Summer Balbriggan
Underwear made for men to sell for 50 cents the garment. Not because I say so, but because it has proven satisfactory to thousands of men in all parts of the country and to scores here in Hammonton to whom I have sold it.
Just come and look at it.

B. V. D.

What does it mean? Why, the coolest and most comfortable Underwear made. The Shirts are coat style, no sleeves, and the drawers knee length; made of nainsook.
There's other nainsook underwear, but only one B. V. D. quality at 50 cents. B. V. D. is sold for 50 cts. the country over, and is worth every cent of it. Ask those who have worn it. That's all!

MOTHERS' DAY.

Last Saturday was the day appointed by various organizations, and adopted by the world generally, to be observed in commemoration of mothers; to call to mind and acknowledge the labor of love performed by these loved ones, and to call to mind the work done by women of all ages and classes. The idea has broadened since its original conception, and is truly worthy.

By invitation, the G. A. R., the Civic Club, and other societies attended the M. E. Church in the morning, and listened to a most excellent sermon by the Pastor, Rev. J. E. Shaw. His text is found in Proverbs xxxi. 28: "Her children rise up and call her blessed;
her husband also, and he praiseth her."
The general good work done by women was the topic, - her multifarious duties, well performed, with no promise of earthly reward except the satisfaction that comes from seeing the loved ones about her developing in all that is good and true. Give her deserved appreciation and love, that she may know in this life that she is not sacrificing in vain.

The great audience room was filled, that morning, and none present could fail to be impressed with the thought that to mothers belongs the credit, in great degree, for the progress that the world is making toward righteousness and correct living.

The singing pleased everybody, - the hymns and anthems being appropriate and well rendered. Mr. J. H. Myrose sang an old war-time song, "Just before the battle, mother," the audience joining in the chorus, by request.

It must be that impressions were made by the entire service that will bear fruit in a more tender regard for the one whose hand rocks the cradle and rules the world.

Sixtieth Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wescoat celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage last Saturday evening, May 8th, at Walnut Nook Farm, Neeco, their hospitable home. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends, the family being one of our oldest and best known, the anniversary unusual. Guests came from at least three states, and from numerous towns in our own Jersey.

A daughter, Miss Estella, wore her mother's wedding dress, which had been well preserved through six decades.

There were numerous gifts, including cut glass in various shapes, and a pretty clock. Music and recitations were enjoyed; also a history of the Wescoat family, written by Miss Grace Osgood, read by Miss Amanda Wilson. Miss Jennie Wescoat pleased all with her graphophone, playing several selections including Grandfather's Clock.

We congratulate the now aged couple,
and the family, who seem likely to keep the parents yet many years.

There is to be a free lecture tomorrow (Sunday) evening, at 7.45, in Union Hall. Dr. J. M. Peebles, an old resident of Hammonton, will speak on "India; her magic; burning of the dead; child marriages; manners and customs; laws; religious ceremonies and worship." Dr. Peebles has traveled around the world five times, and is competent to speak on journeys through foreign lands. Though in his eighty-eighth year, he is as strong, vigorous and active as many much younger men.
Traveling with him is a young man from Scotland, who will sing solos during the meeting.

WINDOW Horses - well-made, adjustable, cheap, in various sizes - something new here. I have them in 14 windows with 14 x 20 inch lights, 12 x 24, 12 x 28, 14 x 20, 14 x 28.

County Court commenced operations on Tuesday. The Grand Jury made a record for itself, by completing all the work before it in two days, then adjourned until next Tuesday. It is said that they found thirty true bills, out of one hundred and twenty-five cases heard.

A Clothing Talk

From Bank Brothers'

Merchant Tailoring

Department.

You are taking some part in all sorts of activities; if you are not part of the game, you are looking on. So is everybody else. They are looking at you, and your clothes are part of what they see. If these are made in our Merchant Tailoring Department, or if they are bought in our Ready-to-wear Clothing Department, you need not worry about the impression you will make. You may not be conscious of it, but you will attract attention of the kind that any gentleman may be pleased to get, - the attention which the well dressed always secure.

It does not cost any more to be well dressed.
Just spare a few minutes, and verify our statement.

WHEN BIRDS GO NORTH AGAIN.

Oh, every year hath its winter,
And every year hath its rain—
But a day is always coming
When the birds go north again.

When new leaves swell in the forest,
And grass grows green on the plain,
And the old birds return crimson—
And the birds go north again.

Oh, every heart has its sorrow,
And every heart hath its pain—
But a day is always coming
When the birds go north again.

"The sweetest thing to remember
Is courage be on the wing,
When the cold, dark days are over—
Why, the birds go north again."
—Ella Higginson.

A Subtle Explanation

Chiffon Carroll looked carefully at the room—nothing had been forgotten. Closing her suitcase, she turned to leave, when the sound of muffled sobbing came to her ears. She listened intently, then impulsively crossed the wide hall, and tapped at the open door. In answer to a low "come," she entered, and was surprised to find, on a couch before the dressing fire, the woman—whom, six months before, had become her father's wife. From the first Chiffon had been determined to be her, but the older woman's gentleness and sweetness of disposition were beginning to make an impression.

"I am not dressing for dinner to-night, June. I shall not go down; I am too sad and my head aches," came in muffled tones from the pillows. "It is useless, June, you are too tired. Deft fingers loosened the heavy masses of hair, and a gentle, penetrating massage followed. The surprised sufferer raised her eyes, catching her breath with a little half-sob as she saw it was not her maid, but the one whose love she had longed for.

brought home from the city; also, a bound volume of St. Nicholas Magazine. As she entered the room, in answer to a deep "come in," a scarlet flame rushed from the proud chin, lighting the room in a moment.

For the first time since the cloud remember, Chiffon Carroll was not equal to the emergency, and stood staring into the eyes of a young man of twenty-six years, who arose to meet her. She had expected to find herself in the presence of a fourteen-year-old boy.

"Where are your crutches?" she asked.

"Thrown away forever, I hope. Aren't you going to congratulate me and tell me that you are glad?"

"But you are so tall and so old," she faltered.

"A veritable Methusalem! A modern Goliah!" he responded merrily. "I thought to find a little boy," she beamed.

"And are you very sorry?"

"Not exactly sorry, but awfully embarrassed," she answered, "and I have no reason to the world for my imposition excepting that your mother is so young and beautiful."

"The matter is all of that," he answered.

ly: "I knew if I saw her, day after day, she would become the life of my life. But how was a poor cripple to run away from his fate even if he was so inclined? Sometimes I thought I love is the embodiment of tenderness; at other times, I feel that her heart is adamant."

His forthrightness appealed to her. She reddened at memories of her own duplicitous little eyes, and that went to his love for him from his watchful eyes. Then, after a silence, she said demurely:

"Why speculate any longer, Philip? Why not ask her? I assure you that she loves you, dear."—Grit.

WHAT RUDOLPH LEARNED.

On the Sunday when Rudolf made his debut as a Sunday school scholar, everybody about the house was interested in the event, says a writer in the New York Times, and for several days preceding Sunday various members of the family had taken pains to teach him the golden rule, and the story of the lesson, and finally Rudolf, arrayed in his best suit of clothes and with a brand new penny in his pocket to be dropped into the collection box, was directed to his path which all little boys are supposed to tread.

When he came home his family was anxious to hear a report of his experience.

"Well, Rudolf," said his mother, "did you have a nice time?"

"Yes, mamma," said Rudolf.

"Did you say the text?"

"Yes, mamma. I said it all off by heart."

"And did you put your penny into the basket?"

"Yes, mamma."

Rudolf's mother grabbed him up and hugged him ecstatically.

"Oh, you little precious!" she said.

"Your teacher must have been proud of you. I know she just loved you. She said something to you, didn't she?"

"Yes, mamma."

"I know she would," said the fond parent. "Come, Rudolf, darling, tell mother what the teacher said to mother's little man."

"She said," was the startling reply, "for me to bring two pennies next Sunday."

ORIGIN OF THE "BOWERY."

New York Throughfare Gets Its Name Through Ancient History.

New York City's greatest East Side thoroughfare gets its name from the ancient history of the city.

It was known as "Stuyvesant's Bowery," and was another name for Stuyvesant's home, the grounds of which stretched southward toward Chatham square.

The growth from the Arjan root was simple enough, for it was only the expansion of "bow" into "bowery," the word "bow" meant to grow, well, be, come, or build, so we see how "bowery" and "bowery," carrying the idea of a place, came to mean a place where one grows, or builds, or lives.

It is all right that I should read, a little, to Mr. Carroll?

"It is evidently all right," answered Mrs. Carroll, looking understandingly into Philip's animated face. "The young man is a very nice fellow."

Chiffon was an excellent housekeeper, and it was not long before she was allowed to drive Philip.

"The young man Philip under his affection. Naturally an athlete, he hoped for activity. One day still another famous surgeon was summoned in consultation.

"That evening when Chiffon made her daily visit she found a morose letter. At last Philip took the paper gently from her, saying:

Good Short Stories

A student at a medical college was under examination. The instructor asked him to take up a specimen, did the people die, who lost their lives at the destruction of Heracles and Pompeii? "I think they died of an eruption, sir," answered the student.

A friend of the late Lord Granville noted for his badness and arrogance, was speaking one day about a "jurnal friend who was going to be married."

"I would like to give him, my lord," said he, "something rare but not expensive." Present him a lock of your hair," Granville whispered, "and there is your friend."

There is excuse for hesitancy in accepting proffered information under extraordinary conditions. "All the latest popular novels," sang out the train boy. Then, holding out a copy of "The Guest of Queens," to a prosperous-looking passenger he urged: "Buy Dooth Tarkington's latest work, sir."

The man looked annoyed. "No, I am Dooth Tarkington himself," he said. "Buy a copy of 'Three Weeks,' persisted the boy. You ain't Elton Glynn, are you?"

At the recent meeting of the Nebraska State Bar Association that body undertook to select ten lawyers to be recommended to the governor as good timber from which to choose appointees for the four recently created places in the supreme court. The thing was purely informal, each member voting for whom he pleased.

When the ballots were opened it was found that ninety-nine votes had been cast and that the same number of candidates had been put forward.

Of the two celebrated barbers, Balfour and Erskine, the former's style was gorgeously verbose, while the latter's, on the contrary, was crisp and vigorous. Coming into court one day, Erskine noticed that Balfour's ankle was bandaged. "Why, what's the matter?" he asked Erskine. Instead of replying, Balfour turned to the judge and said: "Your honor, I have been bitten by a dog."

"What a lovely day!" said the judge. "I am glad to see you. The weather is just what we need."

"Yes, indeed," said the judge. "I am glad to see you. The weather is just what we need."

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. C. F. J. WRIGHT.

Theme: Spiritual Blindness.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Dr. C. F. J. Wright, pastor of Grace Church on the Heights, preached Sunday morning on "Spiritual Blindness." The text was from Luke 11:14: "He hath sent me to recover to sight to the blind."

The text is a part of a quotation from the prophet Isaiah, viz: "The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He anointed me to preach the Gospel to the poor. He hath sent me to proclaim release to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind. To set at liberty them that are bound, and to declare the acceptable year of the Lord."

Dr. Wright said: "The text is a part of a quotation from the prophet Isaiah, viz: 'The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He anointed me to preach the Gospel to the poor. He hath sent me to proclaim release to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind. To set at liberty them that are bound, and to declare the acceptable year of the Lord.'"

Weak Kidneys Make Weak Bodies.

Kidney Disease Causes Half the Common Aches and Pains of Hammonton People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric acid circulating in the blood.

Aches and pains and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Hammonton cures are the proof.

Theo. Baker, living on French St., Hammonton, N. J., writes: "I suffered considerably from a dull, heavy pain through the lower part of the body. I was unable to find a remedy that would give me relief, and was at a loss to know from what source the trouble arose until my kidneys became irregular in action. Learning of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Red Cross Pharmacy, and received great relief. I take pleasure in recommending this excellent remedy to other sufferers."

Fire District Ordinance.

Introduced February 6, 1909.
Passed May 1, 1909.

An Ordinance creating a Fire District in the Town of Hammonton, and regulating the construction and alteration of buildings within said district.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the Town Council in Council assembled that the following described portion of the Town of Hammonton shall constitute a Fire District, namely:

Beginning at the North corner of Egg Harbor Road and Vine Street and extending (1) along Vine Street Northeast to the West corner of Third and Vine Streets; thence (2) along Third Street Northwest to the South corner of Orchard and Third Streets; thence (3) along Orchard Street Southwest to the east corner of Railroad Avenue and Orchard Street; thence (4) along Railroad Avenue Southeast to Egg Harbor Road, and continuing along said Egg Harbor Road to Vine Street and place of beginning.

Section 2. And be it further ordained that from and after the passage of this Ordinance no building or other structure shall be erected, enlarged, altered or repaired within the said Fire District, unless the same shall conform to the following requirements:

First: That all frame buildings having one story room attached, may apply for a permit to place another story thereon.

Second: That all roofs must be covered with either tin, slate, shag, or tile roofing, except in case of patching a shingle roof, shingles may be used.

Third: All other buildings or structures to be erected upon the ground surface, must be constructed of brick, stone or concrete.

Sec. 3. And be it further ordained that from and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, corporation or corporations to proceed with the erection, enlargement, alteration or repair of any building or part thereof, within the district mentioned in the first section of this ordinance without first securing from the Town Council a permit therefor. Application for this permit shall be made in writing to the Town Council accompanied with the plans and specifications for such erection, enlargement, alteration or repair.

Sec. 4. And be it further ordained that from and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful to erect, construct, enlarge, alter or repair any building or other structure within said district, for which a permit has been granted as aforesaid, except it be in conformity with the application for said permit and the plans and specifications on which the said permit is based. If in the progress of any such work a change in such plans or specifications become necessary, application may be made to Town Council for such change.

Sec. 5. And be it further ordained that upon the granting of any permit provided for in this ordinance there shall be paid by the party obtaining the same, for the use of the Town of Hammonton, the sum of Two Dollars ($2.00) for a ground structure, and One Dollar ($1.00) for repairs or alterations.

Sec. 6. And be it further ordained, that any person or persons, corporation or corporations who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, on conviction thereof, pay a fine of Ten Dollars, or be imprisoned in the County Jail for a period not exceeding ten days, at the discretion of the presiding magistrate, for each and every offense.

Sec. 7. And be it further ordained, that all ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed.
