Get your seeds started early. Plant them in window boxes or in hot beds, and when the weather is sufficiently warm, transplant the young plants out in the open garden.

One of the greatest pleasures of gardening is in getting ahead of the other fellow, in having, the first radishes or sweet corn, the finest tomatoes, lettuce and beans, or the most beautiful dahlias, gladiolas, pansies, sweet peas and asters.

Superior generalship in the selection of seeds, preparing the ground in planting and in cultivating the young plants is the greatest factor in producing a good garden.

Catalogs can be obtained from any one of the larger seed houses free for the asking that will furnish you with a wealth of information upon the subjects, what to plant, when to plant, and how to plant. Our local stores can supply you. Ask for your copy to-day.

Fair now the banks where violets

Come at the call of spring:
And dandelions' hearts of gold
Thrill where the thrushes sing.

Hum and buzz and flying bird
Fill now the sparkling air:
And pink and white the blossoms burst
In fragrance everywhere.

Labor goes afield again.

His hand up in the plow:
The earth's baptism falling
From the sweating of his brow.

Industrial Banks.

For fifty years Austria and Italy have had banks that put borrowing for the poor man on as creditable and honest a basis as it is for the rich man. In this country, the first bank of the sort opened in Norfolk, Virginia, four years ago. Since then, fifteen others, almost all in the South, have been started. Now the company that controlled them has been merged in a new corporation, the Industrial Finance Corporation of Richmond, Virginia. It has a capital of $7,000,000, and directors in thirteen cities, many of whom are men known the country over for ability and public spirit. The new company will at once open an "industrial bank" in New York City, with numerous branches, and will establish others as soon as possible in every city of the United States and Canada that has a large industrial population. The banks will be under general supervision of the corporation, but as over half the stock of any bank will always be owned in its own city, they will be independent each of the others.

The plan on which these industrial banks will serve the working-man is simple. They will lend $50, or a multiple of that sum, at a reasonable rate of interest, to any man of guaranteed character and earning capacity; but each applicant for a loan must have his note indorsed by two men of good character and steady employment. When the borrower gets his loan, he must begin to deposit with the bank $1 a week for each fifty dollars that he borrowed, and so continue until he has as much to his credit as he has borrowed. When his note falls due, he may cancel it with the money deposited, or he may pay it from other funds, and leave the deposited money to draw interest. Savings certificates bearing interest at five per cent are issued in denominations of $50, and may be either bought outright or acquired by weekly payments of a dollar.

The need of the poor man to borrow money has always been recognized, but the difficulty of supplying him on terms that would not be demoralizing has been a constant stumbling block. Some loan associations require chattel security, and like the Industrial Finance Corporation, insist upon knowing what the money is to be used for. The so-called "loan sharks" do indeed take into account the improvidence of the borrower, for they exact a high rate of interest in order to cover the numerous losses, but of course they do nothing to awaken in him the spirit of thrift.

Now, the man who needs a loan of $50 is usually in need also of help and encouragement in learning how to save. In meeting the second need as well as the first, the Industrial Finance Corporation has a wide field of usefulness. Youth's Companion.
