DR. JOHN BULL'S Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAPE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and FREMAUEST cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Senthern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to care if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in smaller dozes for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the howels in good order. Should the petient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four dess of the Tonio, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY FILLS will be suf-

MY VISION.

I wake in the midst of the night; And down my dreams there come The tramp of men and the flash of light

How grim are the faces there! With gray mustache, and eyes That gleam under the shaggy hair With a will that never dies.

And a sound goes down the line.
As the muskets quickly poise; Then the sharp command—the bursting mine
Of the muzzles' deadly noise!

And the flag lies over all-The flag with its stripes and stars-And forward they go, to fight or fall. Those veterans of the wars!

Letters from the Far West NO. I.

BY MRS. MARIA M. KING.

HAMMONTON TO CHICAGO.

To the Eduar of the South Jersey Republican: Agreeable to your request, I will endeavor to write down a few observations and reflections, on this my third trip to Colorado. So much has been said and written of every part of our country, that if seems hopeless to attempt to tell anything that has not been told a huudred times, and in as many ways. I can only expect to tell an old story in my own way. Traveling by rail is not a very satisfactory mode of exploring a country for the purpose of finding out anything definite about it, anyway. One gets a passing glimpse of what is on each side of the track, and must judge of the rest from this and previous knowledge. But this rapid view the traveler takes is what the testimony of experience is to hearsay. It unveils a picture perhaps but dimly conceived of before in the mind, and reveals details.

and facts that cannot be learned in any other way.

We left Hammonton at five o'clock P. M., May 15. Every thing was so blooming and lovely in our quiet little town, that it was like being driven out of an Eden, being obliged to go at this particular season. We left Philadelphia at 8 P. M., on the Lehigh Valley Road, thus passing through the most pictur. esque portion of our route through Pennsylvania in the night. When I looked from the window of my berth at "peep of day,37 we had left behind the rugged scenery of Pa., and I saw the hills and valleys and cultivated farms of Southwestern New York. There was a chill in the air which told us that we had traveled far enough northward to real. ize a difference in climate. Vegetation was not nearly so far advanced as in in deepest green, but the trees were just beginning to put forth leaves, and the fruit trees were scarcely in bud. Changed cars at Hornelsville, which is the only change before we reach Chicago. Traveled again through the region of oil-tanks. These are so numerous and so near together, in some places, as to suggest the idea of a village with strangely built houses. Some are perched upon hilltops, whence it is easy to discharge their stored wealth through pipe lines to the seaboard. This is a grazing country and it was pleasant, all day, to see the cattle feeding upon the hillsides, and the pastures bright with the bloom of the dandelion and cowelips. West of Olean, for a long distance, the country seemed new, and the sight of stumps all over the farms suggested the thought that a few of neighbor Pressey's stump machines would be exactly in place here. I saw the patient oxen working among atumps and fallen trees, after the manner of primitive times in our country. But amidall the roughness, what a profusion of wild flowers delighted the eye ! They were everywhere -- on the hillsides, in the pastures and mendows, on the bank by the side of the track, in the woods, in the wildest thickets and swamps, among the stumps and logs and along the streams, and water pools. Thus, I thought, does nature ever exhibit in a so rugged and cold, and no desert so brown and bare, that they do not hide within their bosoms elements of wealth and beauty which express themselves in the fair oases scattered here and there, the mineral ledges and the humble flowers growing among rocks and by the side of eternal snows. So, there is no human being so "totally depraved" that he does not sometimes reveal to those who have the tact and sagacity to bring it out or discover it, the good that bespeaks the spark of divinity within, which cannot be quenched by the influence of evil, but only obscured, as the desert sand and dearth obliterate the signs of Nature's richness except where favorable conditions have permitted their appearance.

As we passed to the south-east, in the afternoon, we saw the orchards in bloom, and all the signs of a more advanced season. That portion of Ohio through which we passed is a very fine country, rich, and with a sufficient variety of scenery to make it attractive to the traveler. We saw, everywhere along, evidences that rain had been abundant, and early droughts were not to be feared. At Ashland, Ohio, where our train stopped at a late hour in the evening, it was boarded by a noisy crowd : we could not tell, at first, whether it was a regiment of the salvation army, or a company of roughs out on a spree, as their manner and language was suggestive of either. We finally learned that there had been two men hanged at Ashland that day, and of course the "doings" called out the elite of all the neighboring country. Some one suggested that they ought to have hanged a few more, and I thought perhaps they might have to do so; but they soon left, without making any serious trouble. After daylight the next morning we had not a long distance to travel before reaching Chicago. We arrived at 8:30 A. M. There we met friends. Found a note awaiting us here, from our townswoman, Mrs. Samson, whom we had expected to accompany us to Denver with her daughter, stating that they had arrived safely at Elbert, Colorado, her daughter's home.

Officers seem to have been an indifferent lot. She had a gallant Yankee crew, however, and was so brilliantly handled of fortune which an hour can produce. Alison flushed and paled alternately; her to come in, and so wrapped her in her lips were trembling. The fear creeping upon her was that he and young Vavasour had met and quarreled. Perhaps fought and injured one another fatally. In these dread moments of suspense the mind is apt to conjure up far-fetched and unlikely thoughts.

REGALDING the right depth torun the plow, all the circumstanceg must be considered. If we have manure enough to fertilize an acre to the depth of four inches, it will be less than half enough to tertilize eight inches deep, for the under strata is always poorer then the upper one, unless some previous deep howing has reversed the natural order of things. And if it has, nature does its utmost to restore the true order. It is not only that natural manuring is always on the surface, but in dry weather and on dry soils fertility generally tends toward light and air. At last, a systematic effort is being made to establish some sort of protection against fire. Of course no definite plans are laid,-that work remains to be done by a public meeting which will be called after a time, when it is proposed that a committee upon apparatus, water supply, etc, shall be appointed. The move, thus far, is in the form of a preamble and resolutions, presented by C. S. King, Esq., reciting the danger to which Hammonton is daily exposed, and the dread results should a fire break out anywhere near the station; and the signers promise to attend the proposed meeting in the interest of the town. We hope that all will see the advisability of the movement, and that the effort will result in good to all concerned. Forty-six names were sigued to the paper on Wednesday morning.

Forty-one members of Russell Post accepted the invitation and attended St. Mark's Church, last Sunday after noon. It was a most beautiful day, and we found nearly every unreserve seat filled. The church was decorated with flowers and plants. Rev. G. P. Underhill, former Rector, read the lesson for the day. Rev. L. K. Lewis, the Rector gave us a most appropriate and entortain ing sermon from Paul's word: "Eudure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ. He spoke eloquent words of welcome to the survivors of the armies of the Union which gave evidence of his sympathy and made all our hearts warm to him. He referred to that moral courage which would endure all things, for Christ's sake, as being of a higher order than the courage which would enable men to face death in the line of battle-praising the latter, but esteeming the former as above all praise. The music, by the choir, was the best we have heard in Hammonto on any occasion.

OLD GRIMES.

Old Grimes is dead, that good old man, We no'er shall see him more; He used to wear a long black cont All buttoned down before.

His heart was open as the day, His feelings all were true; His hair was some inclined to gray, He wore it in a quede.

When e'er he heard the voice of pain, His breast with pity burned; The large round head upon his cane From Ivory was turned.

Kind words he ever had for all. lie knewano base design His eyes were dark and rather small, His nose was aquiline...

He lived at peace with all mankind. In friendship he was true; His coat had pocket-holes behind, His pantaloons were blue.

Unharmed, the ain which earth pollutes He passed securely o'er, And never wores pair of boots

But good old Grimes is now at rest, Nor fears misfortune's frown: He wore a double-breasted vest, The stripes ran up and down.

For thirty years or more.

He modest merit sought to find, And pay it its desert: He had no malice in his mind, No ruffles on his shirt.

His neighbors he did not abuse. Was sociable and gay; He were large buckles on his shoes And changed them every day.

His knowledge hid from public gaze, He did not bring to view, Nor make a noise town-meeting days, As many people do.

His worldly goods he never threw In trust to fortune's chances; He lived (as all his brothers do) In easy circumstances.

Thus, undisturbed by anxious cares, His peaceful moments rap, And everybody said he was A fine old gentleman.

The REPUBLICAN contains more than twenty-five columns of entertaining reading each week. Thus, in a year we furnish you 1300 columns of fresh news items, stories, etc., all for $1.25.
