The Eggs that Never Hatch.

There's a young man on the corner,
Filled with life and strength and hope,
Looking far beyond the present,
With the whole world in his scope.
He is grasping at to-morrow,
That phantom none can catch;
To-day is lost. He's waiting
For the eggs that never hatch.

There's an old man over yonder,
With a worn and weary face,
With searching, anxious features,
And weak, uncertain pace.
He is living in the future,
With no desire to catch
The golden now. He's waiting
For the eggs that never hatch.

There's a world of men and women,
With their life's work yet undone,
Who are sitting, standing, moving
Beneath the same great sun;
Ever eager for the future,
But not content to catch
The present. They are waiting
For the eggs that never hatch.

President Lincoln's first call was for 75,000 volunteers, issued April 15, 1861, and the battle of Bull Run was fought July 21. Over three months had been consumed in mobilizing and drilling an army not nearly as large as the one now in camp, and yet the government found to its cost that all the troops were very raw.

We should all be very glad to see peace restored; but this cannot be until the last vestige of Spanish sovereignty disappears from this hemisphere. The struggle is one between civilization and semi-barbarism, and so the war is right. It is favored by our people because it is right.

War is a dreadful thing, but it has some compensations. The country has scarcely heard of Tillman, or Algeld, or Debs, or Stewart since the outbreak of hostilities, and even Bryan has had trouble in keeping his raven locks above the surface.

What would happen if the Cape Verde fleet and the Flying Squadron met in Santiago harbor? The Spanish marines would take a Schley ride to glory.

How did Commodore Dewey bunco the Spaniards? Played the shell game with them in Manila harbor.

Hereafter, the North and South will have a memorial day which they can and will celebrate together.

One reason why there are so many pennies in every collection is because we have no smaller coin.

An hour of careful thinking is worth more than ten of careless talking.

It is worth more to the world for a man to live right than die happy.

The man who lives for a purpose helps give others a purpose for living.

No one is so insignificant as to be sure his example can do no hurt.

The biggest fault in some people is an unwillingness to be told their faults.

Can the Spaniards ever catch Admiral Dewey? No; because Dewey's fleet.

Who is the longest man in the U. S. army? Miles.

The fountains of grace spring from Calvary's cross.

Forget others' faults by remembering your own.

Meditation on wickedness is one way to fall in love with it.

WAR!

Two weeks ago, a scouting vessel belonging to Commodore Schley's squadron discovered that the long sought-for Spanish fleet had entered the harbor of Santiago, a very strongly fortified port near the southeastern coast of Cuba. A number of our battleships were at once posted as to prevent the Spaniards' escape, and preparations made for their capture or destruction.
For a week and over, an occasional hour or more has been spent in bombarding the coast fortifications at and near Santiago, with excellent results, silencing the earth-works and minor batteries, reducing Castle Morro to a ruin. But the harbor is several miles long and very narrow, with the city near its upper end, and the co-operation of a heavy land force will be necessary to effect its capture. Admiral Sampson is in command there, and conceived the idea of sinking a loaded vessel at the harbor's mouth to prevent the possible escape of any Spanish vessel. The "Merrimack," a collier, 300 feet long, was selected, and a volunteer crew of eight men sailed it in, amid a perfect hailstorm of Spanish shells, exploded the torpedoes provided, and sank her across the only channel. It was a heroic deed—worthy of American sailors. Being unable to escape, Lieutenant Hobson and his crew rowed directly to the Spanish flag-ship, where they were received with the courtesy due to their bravery. Admiral Cervera at once sent a flag of truce to the U. S. fleet, announcing the safety of the heroic men, and his congratulations, and procuring a supply of clothing for the prisoners.
Probably, ere this, several thousand soldiers have been landed near Santiago, their orders being to advance at once upon the city's defenses, and drive out the enemy. A rumor was published yesterday morning that the Spaniards had already been routed, and our forces in possession.
But the war is not ended. Ships and soldiers have yet much to do. Let us avoid criticism, support the administration, pay our share of the expenditures, and hope and pray for early triumph.

List of uncollected letters in the Hammoncton Post-Office, on Saturday, June 11, 1898:

Mr. Chas. Kester, FORTUNA, Arizona, Creencia.
Persons calling for any of the above letters will please state that it has been advertised.
JOHN T. FRENCH, P. M.

The counties which elect Senators next Fall are Atlantic, Bergen, Cumberland, Hudson, Mercer, Morris, and Union. Unless there is an unexpected party split, the Republicans ought to carry all of them except Hudson, and at the worst they can confidently rely upon four of the seven. As to the Assembly, the chances are that South Jersey will go to Mercer, inclusive, will go solidly Republican, giving us fifteen members to start with. Among other Republican probabilities are Bergen 3, Essex 11, Morris 2, Passaic 4, Somerset 1, and Union 3. This would give a total of thirty-eight, a majority of sixteen in the lower House. If the Democrats should carry Essex, the majority would be against us in the Assembly, but there is not much fear of any such catastrophe as that.

Admiral Dewey is one of the most economical men in the service of this government. The cable rates from Manila are so high that he deems it imprudent to report often than once a fortnight, and even then his messages are confined to a simple statement that he is well and in complete control of the situation. His style of correspondence not only saves expense, but tends to discourage any attempt at familiarity on the part of the board of strategy.

The government receipts for May amounted to $30,074,819, and the expenditures to $47,839,939, leaving the deficit for the month $17,800,000. This large deficit is accounted for by the increased expenditures caused by the war. For the eleven months ending May 31, the government receipts were more than $30,000,000 greater than for the previous corresponding period.

It taken three tons of meat, two tons of bread, and 60 barrels of potatoes daily to feed New Jersey's army of 3,300 men at Sea Girt.

Base-Ball Game.

Hammoncton showed up well on Saturday, against the visiting team from Pleasantville, scoring seven to their three. We were pleased to see so many of the old faces on the diamond. Tomlin, on first, sustained his former reputation. Johnson did well behind the bat. Whittier, in the field, gives promise of a good player when he gets a little seasoned. Though he had very little opportunity to distinguish himself, he was all over the field where there seemed to be a chance to help. Although perhaps the boys hardly do themselves justice severally, yet they have improved on their weak point of last year,—team work, backing each other, etc. They also did well at the bat. Treat was a little erratic, but held them down to four hits. Altogether, adverse criticism may seem somewhat out of place, although Ludwick was responsible in a measure for the runs of Framble and Long, yet his general good work might atone much for it. The two-base hits by Gifford and Conley, in the eighth, helped materially to roll up the score in that inning. The score:

Beats the Klondike.
Mr. A. C. Thomas, of Mayeville, Tex., has found a more valuable discovery than has yet been made in the Klondike. For years he suffered untold agony from consumption, accompanied by hemorrhages, and was absolutely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. He declares that gold is of little value in comparison with this marvelous cure; would have it even if it cost a hundred dollars a bottle. Asthma, bronchitis, and all throat and lung affections are positively cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Trial bottles free at Dr. Crowl's Pharmacy, regular size 50c and $1. Guaranteed to cure or price refunded.

A few days ago, Samuel Drake, while at work in a Philadelphia printing office, had occasion to go out onto a neighboring roof. Reaching his weight on a skylight, it gave way, precipitating him to the floor below. He was taken to a hospital, but whether seriously injured or not we could not learn. His brother said that one arm was cut by broken glass, requiring seven stitches to close the wound.

Mr. A. Stephany, attorney, died on Thursday afternoon, at his Atlantic City residence, of heart failure, aged 56 years. Mr. Stephany was an attorney of unusual ability, was President of the County Bar Association, and held the respect of his associates and the general public. He has been unwell for a year or more, and in March last went South, but was not permanently benefited.

As we stated recently, no school money can be appropriated toward a school library; but an amount raised by subscription or entertainment will be duplicated by the State. With this in view, an admission fee was charged to the recent commencement exercises; but the proceeds amounted to just about enough to pay expenses,—invitations, programmes, tickets, music, etc., etc., leaving very little for the library fund.

At the meeting last Tuesday evening, the Board of Education voted to pay these expenses, which, with the State addition, will make about sixty dollars available for the purchase of books. A good beginning.

Last Sunday, Alfred Patton and Richard Buzby, of Hammoncton, were riding a tandem on Camden County's new road. Some distance above Berlin, as they were spinning on a down grade, a rider came out on a side road, and in spite of every effort to warn him, ran at full speed into the tandem. All the riders were injured, and the three lay unconscious on the road when eyewitnesses reached them. Report says that the stranger was badly hurt, and taken to Cooper Hospital, in Camden. Patton's right shoulder was dislocated, his head cut, and face bruised. Buzby has a broken bone in his left wrist, and his face is considerably scared. They were carried to a near-by hotel, and their injuries attended to by a bicycling physician who happened to be near when the collision occurred. With some assistance, Patton and Buzby rode home, and both appear to be doing well.

At this time, when all eyes are turned towards the fleets which are sustaining so nobly the honor of our country, we often hear people ask, "What is the difference between an armored cruiser and a protected cruiser?" Very few people are able to answer such questions off-hand, and it would be hard to obtain satisfactory answers to them from encyclopedias or dictionaries. To answer this and similar queries, the Scientific American has published a Special Navy Supplement, a large folio of 40 pages, with 90 illustrations, showing the vessels of the new navy, whether battleships, coast defense vessels, cruisers, raums, torpedo boats, gunboats, or submarine boats. Unlike most publications dealing with the navy, the actual methods of "fighting the Ship" are described,—the engines, boilers, guns, turret, mechanism, steering gear, etc., being illustrated. We do not know of any publication which gives in any degree the same matter. The present time is most opportune for a publication of this kind, and we are pleased to know that the sale is phenomenal. This issue contains a colored map of Cuba and the West Indies. It is sold for 25 cents a copy by all news-dealers, or by Munro & Co., publishers, 361 Broadway, New York.

ROENTGEN RAYS HAVE BEEN FOUND TO ACT ON VEGETATION LIKE VERY WEAK LIGHT

Roentgen rays have been found to act on vegetation like very weak light in experiments by Signor G. Tolomei. Surveys by photography is gaining ground. Over 10,000 square miles have been photographed and are being surveyed by the surveyor general of Canada.

Prof. Dolbear says that what is called stupidity is simply the indication that a certain brain area is not properly nourished or is without communication with the nerve force.

Dr. Von Weizsäcker, inventor of the incandescent gas burner now very much in vogue, has recently taken out patents on an electric lamp working on a similar plan, but in an Austrian patent.

Among recent inventions specially interesting to those who sail the sea is a device for launching boats from the decks of a ship without loss of time and in such a manner that the boat is certain to reach the water on an even keel. With this device, which has been tested at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, one man can easily raise, or lower, a boat weighing four tons.

W. Saville Keat, the naturalist, who has made snapshots photographs of the curious little creature called the frilled lizard to the act of running on two legs, suggests that it is only necessary to magnify the animal to a gigantic size in order to see how the immense "dinosaurs," whose remains are among the wonders of geological museums, looked when they lived on the earth. The frilled lizard will run on wet sand makes three-toed impressions resembling in shape the tracks of some of the monsters of Mesozoic time.

The colorful, inhabited country appears to be the province of the national Druggist. The mean altitude of the terrain is about 107 metres (about 350 feet) above the sea. A Russian agent passed one entire year in this hospitable region, and kept a daily record of the temperature, which it appears has been published, and from which it is seen that the daily mean of the entire year is 19.2 degrees C., or 66.6 degrees F., below zero. The daily mean for January, 1906, was 53 degrees C., or 83.4 degrees F., below zero.

The road does not take dead or motionless forms. Only living and moving insects, centipedes, etc., are devoured while worms or other larvae disturbed by their hopping are safe so long as they remain curled up; but as soon as they move they are captured. The tent's tongue is only organ for sucking food, is soft, extensible, attached in front but free behind, and is covered with a glutinous substance that adheres firmly to the food seized. So rapid is the motion of this organ that a careful watch is necessary in order to see the animal feed.

Prof. John Townbridge has been making some most interesting investigations in high tension electricity, using only a very high voltage storage battery and a system of condensers. The apparatus gave a four-foot spark. Nothing could insulate it; not even a vacuum tube. The apparatus was so constructed that it was necessary to insulate a light plug-rod. The great spark represented over a million of volts tension. For a lightning-dash a mile long this ratio would give something like a thousand million volts. The experiments are of special interest, as the absence of an induction coil enables the voltage to be more accurately estimated.

SOME ONE HAD BLUNDERED.

The recurrence of the anniversary of the famous charge of the British Light Brigade at Balaclava has led to a re-announcing of the events of that occasion by an English periodical. This account is a frank confession of the extraordinary bad management of the British commanders, as well as a new statement of the undoubted valor of the British soldiers who participated in the fight.

Lord Lucan, who commanded the division in which was the Light Brigade, had never seen any war, though he was between 50 and 60 years of age. He was a member of the House of Commons, and a long time before he did anything, a quality not always desirable in a military commander.

Lord Cardigan, who commanded the Light Brigade, was experienced in war, but he was not a military commander. He was older than Lord Lucan, and although he and Lord Lucan were both in law, they were bitter enemies.

The Light Brigade was not a very good fighting force. It was made up of three hundred and eight companies in marching order. It was made up of three hundred and eight companies in marching order. It was made up of three hundred and eight companies in marching order.

THE LIGHT BRIGADE

It had been the position of the allies near the village of Balaclava, and had taken some British guns from the Turks. Their advance had been checked by the charge of the Light Brigade—very much better war than the subsequent charge of the Light Brigade, but not so "magnificent."

In retreating, after the charge of the "Heavy" the Russians had been with them, in a somewhat exposed situation, and Lord Raglan, the British commander-in-chief, sent a written order by Captain Nolan to Lord Lucan to send the Light Brigade to take them. This Captain Nolan was a dashing officer who had written several works on cavalry instruction; he regarded himself as a great soldier, and felt a contempt, which he had freely avowed, for both Lord Lucan and Lord Cardigan. Captain Nolan rode up to Lord Lucan, and repeated the order he had brought to "take the guns."

"What guns?" asked Lord Lucan. The captain turned on him in contempt. He was delighted to have an opportunity to snub a superior officer whom he despised.

"You have your men, my lord; there are the guns; go and take them," he said, tossing his head in the general direction of the field.

At the opposite end of the ridge from that on which were the captured guns, the Russians had their position well protected with a battery of twenty or more of their own guns. There were also strong flanking batteries on neighboring hills. Mistaken by an imperious subaltern, and without the guidance of wisdom and experience, this "cavalry general" ordered his brother-in-law, carpet-knight like himself, to charge with his brigade the main Russian position!

"Very well, my lord, it shall be done," said Cardigan, and advanced with the brigade.

When Captain Nolan, returning to Lord Raglan, saw the Light Brigade riding toward the main battery, he was horrified, and turned back to correct the terrible mistake. He was on his way when a shell struck and killed him. He had explained his offense with his life.

Cardigan and the Light Brigade rode on. The story of the attack is in the main, allowing for the license of poetry, truly told in Tennyson's "Charge of the Light Brigade." The brigade drove the Russians from their guns, but of course could not take them. The guns were blown up, the Russians fled in on the rear, cutting off the British from their own back. Only one hundred and ninety-eight out of six hundred and seventy-two brave troopers ever came back.

Lord Cardigan himself returned alone. He had been separated from his men from the first moment of the shock of the charge. After that it had been a matter of life and death for him, he was charged with deserting his men, but he was really cut off from them.

When the remnant of the brigade was drawn up, Cardigan rode in front of the men.

"It has been a mad-brained trick," he said, bitterly, almost apologetically, "but it was no fault of mine!"

Lord Cardigan was not popular with his men. He had at times and nearly every one of them under arrest for trifling infractions of military order; he had no other military distinction than that of a martinet; but no soldier would blame him for it. "My lord," said some of the men, "we are ready to go again!"

"No, no," he said, "you have done enough."

This is the story of the most famous of military blunders. Though in the American civil war many of the generals were civilians, and the troops on both sides were characterized by European errors, no "mad-brained trick" is worthy of note that no such outright blunder is charged against our commanders, though errors of judgment to doubt could either side many more lives than were lost at Balaclava.

AN OPERATION AVOIDED.

Mrs. Rosa Gaum Writes to Mrs. Pinkham About It. She Says:

Dear Mrs. PINKHAM:—I take pleasure in writing you a few lines to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done me. I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me. It has, indeed, helped me wonderfully.

For years I was troubled with an ovarian tumor, a cyst, and a great deal of pain. I was at last compelled to consult with a physician. He said nothing could be done for me but to go under an operation. In speaking with a friend of mine about it, she recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, saying she knew it would cure me. I then sent for your medicine, and after taking three bottles, the tumor disappeared. Oh! you do not know how much good your medicine has done me. I shall recommend it to all suffering women. Mrs. Rosa Gaum, 720 Wall St., Los Angeles, Cal.

The great and unvarying success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in relieving every derangement of the female organs, demonstrates its to be the most modern safeguard of woman's happiness and bodily strength. More than a million women have been benefited by it.

BUCKLE'S PEN PICTURE OF SPAIN.

An Analysis of the Spanish People Which Shows Just Why We Can and Cannot Conquer Them With Ease and Swiftness.

The Spaniards are remarkable for their indolence, their laziness, their absence of hope, which in our day and age is a deadly sin. They are a people that little can be done, they are a people that little can be done, they are a people that little can be done.

THIS IS INDEED A SWING.

Ninety Feet High, and Speeds at a Mile-a-Minute Goto.

The enterprising Yankees who should prize the swing of the pendulum of the one clown in this picture would make a fortune in a season—if he wasn't arrested the first day he started his dangerous apparatus. What do you think of trying through the air at the rate of a mile a minute, suspended by a mere thread? That is what the Siamese "Pierres" do.

When Captain Nolan, returning to Lord Raglan, saw the Light Brigade riding toward the main battery, he was horrified, and turned back to correct the terrible mistake. He was on his way when a shell struck and killed him. He had explained his offense with his life.

HELD THE FORT.

John Barbery proved too much for a Band of Mexican Indians.

An adventurous band of Mexican Indians, who had been driven from their homes by the advance of the American army, had gathered in a small fort on the edge of a desert. They were surrounded by the American army, and they were determined to hold the fort.

SERMONS OF THE DAY

Subject: "Sprinkled and Cleaned." In which the story of the shedding of blood for the removing of sin is dwelt upon—Christ and the Cross.

Text: "And the priest shall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen vessel, overrunning water. As for the living bird, he shall take it, and the odor, and the sweet, and the hyssop, and shall dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water; and he shall sprinkle upon him that is to be cleansed from the leprosy seven times, and shall pronounce him clean. And he shall let the living bird loose into the open field."—Leviticus xiv, 5-7.

The Old Testament, to very many people, is a great slaughter-house strewn with butchered animals. It offends their sight, disgusts their taste; it actually nauseates the stomach. But to the intelligent Christian the Old Testament is a magnificent corridor through which Jesus advanced. As he appears at the other end of the corridor we can only see the outline of the character, coming nearer, we can discern the features. But when, at its foot, we see the face of Jesus, we are struck by the beauty of the face, and the beauty of the face, and the beauty of the face.

There were a great many oases of birds brought down to Jerusalem for sacrifice—three doves, or three young pigeons. I can hear them coo, whistling, cooing, and singing all around about the Temple. When a bird was to be sacrificed, it was taken to the Temple, and the priest, in order to its cleansing two of these birds were taken, one of them was slain over an earthen vessel of running water, that is, clear, fresh water, and then the bird was killed, and the blood was sprinkled upon the leper seven times, and he was pronounced clean. The great and unvarying success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in relieving every derangement of the female organs, demonstrates its to be the most modern safeguard of woman's happiness and bodily strength. More than a million women have been benefited by it.
