To THE EDITORS: It seems to me, in all this talk of the growth of Hammon-ton, that we are thinking only of the size, not quality. A prison is populous, but the little group at Plymouth were more desirable. Let us, individually and collectively, strive to make Hammon-ton the synonym of honesty, fair dealing, clean politics, pure social life, temperance—even if it isn't total abstinence as some of us would like,—and the town will attract the best settlers. K.

Twenty-Nine Years Superintendent

The Methodist Sunday School tendered its Superintendent, Wilber R. Tilton, a grand reception on Wednesday evening last, at the Church. The speaker of the eve, was Judge Clarence Cole, of Atlantic City, who spoke on "The elements of manhood." The address was preceded by a short program of instrumental music, readings, and song, by members of the school. Pastor Shaw presented to the school a beautiful quartered-oak desk, upon which lay an engraved plate bearing the inscription, "In Honor of Our Superintendent, Wilber R. Tilton; 1885-1914." Then there was presented to Mr. Tilton a handsome copy of the Holy Bible, American Standard Revision. Mr. Tilton responded in a well chosen address. Mr. and Mrs. Tilton were then cordially greeted by those present. After this, the entire company repaired to the Sunday School room, where the ladies had ready a nice spreading of refreshments, after which greetings were extended by H. O. Packard, Rev. W. J. Cusworth, Rev. W. H. Gardner, Prof. Holdridge, and A. L. Jackson. In behalf of the ladies, a bouquet of handsome pink peonies was presented to Mr. Tilton. It was a rare occasion, and all enjoyed doing honor to their faithful superintendent.

Capt. Harry E. Smith, editor of Atlantic City "Sunday Gazette," was married on Wednesday, June 10th, to Miss Ethel Anderson. The "Republican" and many of its readers extend heartiest good wishes.

Topics at the Universalist Ch. to-morrow will be: Morning, "Moral standards in a complex life." Evening, "Some religious tendencies." Children's Day exercises, with a special program, will be given June 21st.

Little Mabel, just two years old, was out in the chicken yard the other day. When she came in she said, "Here you are, grandpa," and sent him an egg in good pitcher style. Of course he didn't catch it, but the egg was scrambled.

Mrs. Edw. E. Shumaker, whose illness we have mentioned, died on Friday morning, June 12th. We feel deep sympathy for the afflicted family, particularly the infant son, but a few weeks old. Services will be held at the home, on Grape Street, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Interment at Camden on Tuesday afternoon.

Evening worship at 7.45; theme, "A half-hour with Christ before the worlds were;—or Christ's Primeval Glory." Good singing of old hymns we all love. Prayer meeting on Thursday, at 7.45.

Prof. I. F. Stetler entertained members of the Board of Education, faculty of the High School, and the Senior Class on Friday evening, June 5th. The Senior Class entertained with music, declamations, etc., but the company were most interested in the related experiences of the members of the class concerning their late trip to Washington. There is not room in this item to give these, but they convinced all present that the trip had been of the highest educative value. Prof. Stetler and his wife chaperoned the party, and the gathering was largely to give the members of the Board of Education an idea of what the class had done and seen at Washington. Later in the evening, refreshments were served; and all left feeling that they spent a jolly evening.

MR. WILLIAM F. BASSETT died on Sunday, June 7th, 1914, aged 88 years. He had been in failing health for many months, owing principally to advanced age. He had become quite feeble, but was able to walk about, visiting the post-office almost daily, and was at the barber shop on Saturday. On Sunday, Mrs. Bassett attended church service as usual, remaining to Sunday School. On her return home, about one o'clock, she found her husband in his easy chair, apparently asleep; but life had departed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bassett were among the earliest settlers in Hammon-ton. We made their acquaintance in 1865. He was always active and progressive as a citizen, highly esteemed, a man of uncommon ability. Funeral services were held at the homestead on Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Gardner.

Mr. Bassett was pioneer dahlia grower of the world, and was an authority on botanical subjects.

Town Council Meeting.

All members answered to their names at Wednesday evening's meeting of Town Council.

Committee reports developed the following:

Letter from Supt. Buckalew of the Pennsy stated that he was going ahead with the Twelfth Street crossing improvements.

From the Reading, that drain pipes had been ordered, to be put under tracks, from water works to St. Mark's property; the Town to continue this to Washington Street at small expense.

Improvements at Park would include new wharves where necessary, clearing out bushes and continuing water-front to cove at left of present cleared landings, new wharves where needed, clearing out underbrush at left of Park grounds down to Lake, and in conjunction with Mosquito Inspector, clear out path ten feet wide and open up stream from Park Ave. to the Lake.

Complaints that shameless youths are bathing in nature's garb. (It was suggested that their clothing be seized, and the mosquitoes be given a chance to bite for a few hours.)

The Acme Co. will erect awning conforming to Council's plans.

Four hundred and fifty feet of new hose for Company No. 1 has arrived.
