FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

Never indulge in envy when people are engaged in a struggle. Our true acquisitions lie only in our charity; we gain as we give.

Every man has 240 bones except the mineral end, man, who has 244.

The rays of happiness, like those of light, are colorless when unbroken.

The generous heart should seem a pleasure which gives another pain.

A good surgeon must have an eagle's eye, a lion's heart and a lady's hand.

To great refinement is false delicacy; and a true delicacy is self-reliance.

Beauty is worse than vice. It attracts both the holder and the beholder.

There is no beggar so destitute as he who can afford nothing to his neighbor.

The certain way to be cheated is to fancy one self more cunning than others.

An charity covers a multitude of sins before God, so does politeness before man.

Old age has deformities enough of its own; do not add to it the deformity of vice.

The company in which you will improve most will be the least expensive to you.

Every base occupation makes one sharp in its practice, and dull in every other.

Try to be happy in this present moment; and put not off being so to a time to come.

How many people live on the reputation of the reputation they might have made.

In character, in manners, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity.

Take care to be an economist in prosperity; there is no fear of your being one in adversity.

There is a class of men ever ready to pump you up to any extent, if you only give them a chance.

Honest and courageous people have very little to say about either their courage or their honesty.

How noiselessly the snow comes down. You may see it, but never hear it.

As a great body is not without a like shadow; neither is eminent virtue without eminent detachment.

If there be a crime of deeper dye than all the galaxy train of human vices, it is ingratitude.

Often the world discovers a man's moral worth only when his injustice has nearly destroyed him.

Perfect valor consists in doing without witnesses; and a coward is capable of doing before the world.

Live on what you have; live if you can on less; do not borrow; for vanity will surely end in shame.

Nobody is perfect; but forbearance and love do much to soften the irritating hard edges of existence.

The weakest living creature, by concentrating his powers on a single object, can accomplish something.

As no man can expect a continual train of prosperity, he ought not to apprehend a constant adversity.

Where the people are well educated, the act of piloting a state is best learned from the writing of Plato.

Good counsel observed are chains to grace, which, neglected, prove shackles to strance, and unadvised friends are snares.

Nature loves truth so well that it rarely admits of flourishing. Conceit is to nature what paint is to beauty.

The repentance that is delayed till old age is but too often a regret for the inability of continuing more sin.

Good breeding is benevolence in trifles, or the preference of others to ourselves in the daily occurrences of life.

Take away from mankind their vanity and their ambition, and there would be but few claiming to be heroes or patriots.

The firm without pliancy, and the pliant without firmness, resemble vessels without water and water without vessels.

Good nature is the very air of a good mind; the sign of a large and generous soul, and the peculiar soil in which virtue prospers.

Three of us walked into the office of a hotel in a little town in Mississippi one night, and when the landlord had been engaged from the bar, he said to us: "You are a big dog kicked off the only bench in the room, and the smoking lamp turned up so that we could see each other, he sized us up and said: 'You are a big dog, gentlemen, I'm a poor landlord but a truthful man. In the first place, I'll have to put the three of you into one bed. In the next place, I'll have to log you out of this room, you'll be a heap better off on the floor.'"

"Can't we sit up in the room?" asked one. "Don't believe you can," thereupon a dozen pangs of glass guns, the roof leaked, and there was no show to build a fire.

"What sort of a tavern do you keep, anyhow?" "Peculiarly poor," thereupon a dozen pangs of glass guns, the roof leaked, and there was no show to build a fire.

The Republican.

(Entered as second class matter.)
HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO. N. J.
SATURDAY, JUNE 14, 1884.

Republican National Ticket.

For President of the United States,
JAMES G. BLAINE.

For Vice-President,
JOHN A. LOGAN.

The following graceful tribute to our candidate is from the Buffalo Express, an Edmunds paper, and was published before Mr. Blaine's nomination:

He is, first of all, an American of the most pronounced type. He embodies many characteristics which we like to regard as distinctly American. His career would perhaps be possible in no other country. A Pennsylvania boy, a student, a teacher, an editor; at twenty-five one of the foremost men of Maine; at thirty-nine a speaker of our House of Representatives; a little later United States Senator; then Secretary of State, then eulogist of the martyred President, and finally the writer of this history, which despite foreign prejudices, extorts admiration from the London Times. There has been no pause in his career, no time when his resources were crippled. He seems even yet not to have reached the zenith of his fame, for he never stops working. At the age of fifty-four he is still twenty years younger than Gladstone and with every prospect of a long and vigorous life.

Non-Samuel J. Tilden has written a letter positively declining the Democratic nomination for President.

General Grant was re-elected, Wednesday, president of the Society of the Army of the Potomac.

The village of Grand Park, Ill., was swept by fire Tuesday night, which destroyed twenty of the principal buildings, including business blocks and two hotels.

The following we take from the Orange Chronicle, published at Orange, N. J., dated June 7th, 1883:

There are two sides to the story in relation to the famous cemetery of the Summer Grove Place in Hammonton. On the part of Miss Nivison it should be remarked that this project had been in contemplation by her for many years. It was no catch-penny affair, no baby-farming enterprise, but the cherished life-work of an enthusiastic woman, whose every plan had been concentrated on this single aim, and by her means she deserves the fervent praise, ungrudgingly accorded to her, which has appeared in several New York journals.

It is a notorious fact that a large majority of foundling children are killed by their parents due to the early months after birth. The popular establishment for charity for young children was all the more necessary, and it was to prevent this mortality, a virtual massacre of the innocents, that Miss Nivison undertook her enterprise. She had education, the experience of a lifetime, and an earnest enthusiasm. Her family is one of the most respectable in Western New York. Four other members of it are intelligent and all physicians. The occurrence at Hammonton was purely and entirely an unfortunate accident. It was no more than is likely every now and then to occur in public schools, and has occurred in colleges, as at Princeton a few years ago.

She had gone away on necessary business preparatory to a contemplated change, which she annually made in her business, Hammonton being usually only her summer residence. Nobody doubts that she would never have left home if she had not anticipated the impending calamity. It is one of those events that are not easy to foresee. She had done her best; she had provided a salubrious home, family comforts, abundant and wholesome food, and she stood by the side of the child, and she was buoyant with hope of success.

A diseased child seems to have scattered a pestilential disease, which seized upon the whole group simultaneously. Sad as the occurrence is, it is an example of what occurs often that is unexpected, and hurriedly by the authorities. This establishment was open to the world, no secrets were hidden; and hence, being a woman, though a brave one, it invites every cowardly scribbler to interpret her, because relatively defenseless.

33. The Grand Army Post have a Committee appointed to prepare for a Fourth of July celebration. We have not heard from this committee direct, but understand that the plan is to have a basket picnic at the Park, with music by the band, singing, and an address or two. It is usually too warm for anything very elaborate on that day.

37. Charles S. King passed a satisfactory examination before the Supreme Court, at Trenton, last week, and has received his Diploma, which authorizes him to appear as Attorney-at-Law and Solicitor in Chancery, and to practice in any Court of Record in this State.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

31. Mrs. Dr. Bowles came home from Washington, Monday.

32. J. S. Thayer began work on Geo. Potter's house last Thursday.

33. Mrs. A. J. Smith returned from Massachusetts, Tuesday evening.

34. Miss Hattie Potter, of Smith's Landing, spent part of the week in Hammonton.

35. William Elvins plied, Monday, nearly one thousand cards of handsome strawberries from one acre.

36. Chas. Fisher, of Waterford, took Paris Green, Tuesday night, and died, leaving a wife and four children. He was insane.

37. If you wish to see how the Manchester strawberry is fruiting this year, call on Mr. Matthews, Middle Road, on Monday morning.

38. A cool wave struck Hammonton on Wednesday last, with fine misty rain, followed by a good shower during the night. It was early needed.

39. Miss Hattie Matthews visited her friends here this week. Monday she will start for her Pennsylvania home, spending a few days with relatives in Brooklyn.

40. St. Mark's Church—First Sunday after Trinity, June 15th, 1884. 7:30 A. M., Holy Communion. 10:30 A. M., Morning Prayer and Litany. 2:30 P. M., Sunday School. 8:00 P. M., Evening Prayer and Sermon.

41. Children's Day was appropriately observed, last Sunday, by the Baptist and Methodist Churches, with flowers in profusion, singing birds, songs, recitations and addresses. Collections were taken for the advancement of the Sunday School cause.

42. When a man can pick nearly 3000 quarts of strawberries from two acres, in one day, as Samuel Anderson did, last Monday, we feel inclined to violate the tenth commandment of the moral law. These were delicious Croscents and the old-fashioned Wilesons.

43. Our thanks are tendered to Messrs. David Fields (of Oak Road), L. Hoyt, Z. U. Matthews, and D. L. Potter, for a supply of strawberries since our last issue. Mr. Potter brought among others, several quarts of the "Atlantic," which have lost none of their excellent qualities.

44. The handsomest basket of berries we have seen this season was of the "Jersey Queen" variety, raised by Z. U. Matthews. We measured several, which ranged from three and a half to four inches in circumference. They are firm, of a rich deep color, and must bear transportation and sell well.

45. Dr. A. A. Yarrington writes us: "From a rare visit of the REPUBLICAN, I learned that 'F' had been pleased to notice a 'talk' of mine to the Elm F. C. You know that 'the pen is mightier than the sword,' and 'F' yields 'the pen of a ready writer,' and would be a great acquisition to the Farmers' Club, and if they can secure him as a member it would prove a commendation devoutly to be wished." A live F. C. is a great power for good."

46. Wistlow, from the W. J. Press—William Bald had been appointed a delegate to represent this place in the National Convention of Glass Workers, to be held at Pittsburgh on the 5th proximo.

47. A new depot is being built at the junction of the New Jersey Southern and ex-Narrow Gauge Railroad.

48. An entertainment of unusual interest will be given in the hall next Monday evening by talent of this place, consisting of the farce "Rough Diamond," calisthenic exercises by the children of the public school, music, etc. The proceeds will be applied to the church.

49. From Our Country Papers.
From the MIRROR.
The residence of Dr. H. E. Bowles, is receiving a coat of paint.

50. Henry Harrell is spending a week or so in town with his parents.

51. Mr. Wm. D. Packer is putting up a new porch in front of his store.

52. Will Johnson met with a painful and may be a serious accident Tuesday afternoon. While cleaning a loaded revolver, it was discharged, the ball entering the inside of the right leg about two inches below the knee. His wound was often deluded by Dr. Johnson.

53. From the Times.
Principal Arthur Pressy of the Indian avenue school holds a clericalship in the bank for the summer.

54. Our legislators next winter should be asked to pass a law permitting the people to vote on the question of moving the county seat to Atlantic City.

55. Miss S. S. Nivison, M. D., some sworn statements.

56. So much having been said against the management of the "Nivison Home," located here, and so much written about it, we have been asked to write against the lady whose kind heart conceived the project, and organized it, we consider it our duty to do so.

57. I have been asked to give an opportunity to be defended. We know that our readers will pardon us for occupying so much space with this matter.

58. The following affidavits will explain themselves.

59. STATE OF NEW JERSEY, County of Atlantic.

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public in and for the County and State aforesaid, Rebecca W. Emley, who being duly sworn, on her oath said:

I have resided with Miss Nivison four years. I was in the Children's Department frequently. I think the nurse in charge was competent, the best that could be hired. All the care and attention possible was given to the babies. Great care was taken to keep them warm and comfortable, and a good supply of new milk for nourishment. Their clothing was of the most ample supply, and coverings of the cradle accordingly. The babies were kept at a temperature of 75 or 80 degrees.

60. STATE OF NEW JERSEY, County of Atlantic.

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public in and for the County and State aforesaid, Sarah Macready, who being duly sworn, on her oath said:

Successor to GILMORE, SMITH & Co., and CHIPMAN, HOSMER & Co.

Patents procured upon the same plan which was originated and successfully practiced by the above-named firm. Pamphlet of sixty pages sent upon receipt of stamp.

GOLD Great chance to make money. Those who always had a chance for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. In our business we pay more than the first start. The business will pay more than ten times ordinary wages. Expensive outfit furnished free. No one who engages fails to make money rapidly. You can devote your whole time to the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Address BRINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

OLD Captain John Berry, who used to live up in Lake Champlain, loved dearly to tell a big story. One evening he casually informed the knot of loungers in the village store that he had once "drove a horse seventy-two miles down the river on ice, when the ice was so thin it bent and cracked under the horse's hoofs." There was a significant pause. Finally some one ventured to observe that "seventy-two miles was a kind of longish ride for one day." "Oh! yaaa!" said Uncle John, contentedly; "but 'twas one of them long, clear days in June, I reckon."

The thief's favorite metals—steel and then I run.

Blaine Agents wanted for authentic edition of his life. Published at Augusta, his home. Best, largest, handsomest, cheapest. By the renowned historian and biographer, Col. Casswell, whose life of Garfield, published by us, outsold twenty others by $50,000. Outlets every hook ever published in this world; many agents are selling fifty daily. Agents are making fortunes. All new beginners successful. Grand chance for them. Terms liberal. Particulars free. Send 25 cents for postage, etc., on free outfit, now ready, including large prospectus book, and more valuable time. ALLEN & Co., Augusta, Maine.
