STRANGE INDUCEMENTS TO MARRY

News reaches us from far-off Wyoming that the Mayor of one of its leading towns has offered a reward of $30 to every couple under the age of 21 who seek the matrimonial altar during his term of office. This tempiing offer is but forward to encourage youthful marriages and incidentally increase the scanty population of that Southern State. A strange inducement to wed was displayed outside the office of a registrar of marriages in a small town in Manitoba : "To the handsomest couple appearing before me for a marriage license during the next calendar year a suite of bedroom furniture will be presented with my sincerest regards. Partiality will not be shown to the rich or influential.' It might be mentioned that the gentioman from whom this tempting offer emanated was responsible for the issuing of marriage licenses, and doubt less found the investment a profitabl

A similar case was that of a registrar of marriages in the North England who a few years back of fered a huge turkey, a plum pudding. and a dozen mince pies to the youngest couple who wedded during the fostive season.

The municipal authorities of a Teach town hit upon a curious in ducement to tardy couples to seek the altar. They publicly announced that all persons who married within a certain period should be exempt from local taxes for the space of five years. and this announcement was evidently so alluring that an epidemic of marrlages set in at once in the town in question.

A DIPLOMATIC SIGN

Speaking of woman's diplomacy and tact," said Mr. Ballou, whose farm is out on the Croydon turnpike, "makes me think of my blackberry patch. It lies just the other side a Chandler's woods and close to the road. Every year, come along about time for picking, I'd find some rascal had been there before me and stripped off every berry. I was mad. I says to my wife, Martha, just you wait! I'll fix 'em! I'll show 'em what I'l

COOK PORK WELL

Cases of Illness sometimes occur from oating uncooked or insufficiently cooked pork which is infeated with microscopic parasits commonly known as trichtna, or flesh worm, the scientific name being Trichinella spiralis. An average of 1 or 2 per cent, of the hoge slaughtered in the United Statos are infested with this parasite. When transmitted to human bolage trichtage may cause serious filness, sometimus resulting in death, Out of about 16,000 cases of trichinosis recorded in medical literature.
