No. 2.

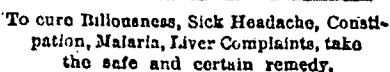

Many moltings are necessary to reach the last stage of its aquatic life, and here these stages were all before me. There lay a dozen or more in the pupa stage, stretched out their whole length on their backs on the surface of the water, perfectly still, with breathing tubes in contact with the air. Little globules, glistening like diamonds, shone on each side of the head. What could these be? I never heard that nature was so partial to this insect as to furnish its young with diamond earrings! We will see what the glass reveals. I raised one carefully from the water and placed it, the same side up, upon a glass beneath the lens of my microscope, and lo! there was revealed on each side of the head a series of air bubbles beneath a transparent membrane. I counted a dozen on one side. At the end of the tail were also two large ones, or rather a transparent membranous sack divided in the center, filled with air. It occurred to me at once that these were buoys, designed to hold up the form and keep the breathing tube in the air above the water, so the insect could breathe while in a helpless condition — nature requiring all the forces of its system in putting on the finishing touches of its form preparatory to its leaving its present element, and fitting it for a higher life. After observation also revealed the fact that this buoy should be sufficient to bear up the imago as it pulled itself from this outer shell and issued from the bonds of its lower world into the lambent air. What foresight is here exhibited, and what provision kind nature has made for the life of even the wicked, remorseless mosquito.

In this state it seemed to have no power to move. This condition could not last long, else the race would be destroyed. I was anxious to see the emergence of the perfect insect from its last watery shell. This I had the satisfaction of partially observing. I frequented the trough to watch for the last scene in this drama of its watery life. Having been absent about an hour, I returned to find one emerging from its pupa shell. It was pushing itself out of an opening at the head of the shell, and was straight up above it. It moved its hinder parts out so slowly I could not perceive any motion; yet, in course of a few minutes it had got its entire body through the aperture, and stood, apparently, on tiptoe, as straight as a straw, and white as a ghost, the statue of a mosquito standing—on its tail, over and on the head of the pupa shell. There it stood motionless for some minutes and then dropped forward feet upon the water. It seemed as though it grew appreciably darker in color, minute by minute. At last I got tired of watching, and concluded to test its power of locomotion. I placed a straw under it, and as this came in contact with its body, it sprang up and flew away with great rapidity, singing its "pretty little song," as it went,—which is the last I saw of it. I took the old shell tenderly from its native element, and subjected it to an examination under my glass, and found it shrunken, shriveled and collapsed. It was but the case of the living form that had just arisen to new life. It had left its lower world, and gone to a higher, there to soar and sing, meet its mate and propagate its race; and, incidentally, to feast upon the blood of man and beast. What a vast change in its conditions, surroundings, and powers! How suggestive this lesson. Is there an analogous principle of life, a resurrection, applicable to the Genus Homo? It is claimed by those pretending to know, that it takes from three to four weeks to bring out the perfect insect from the laying of the eggs. A slight agitation of the water at the time the imago is emerging from the pupa shell, would no doubt drown it. Since my first discovery of the eggs, I have found many bunches of them. They have

I have a dish partially filled with fresh rain-water, on which I placed a fresh laying of mosquito eggs, and I propose to note the time it takes them to hatch, and then to pass through the various stages to the perfect insect. Perhaps I may, by and by, have more to tell about its genesis.

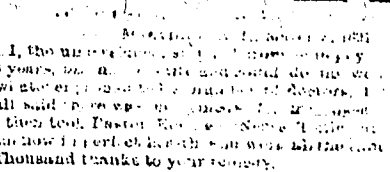

Now a few words as to how to destroy the "wiggler" without wasting water. A teaspoonful of petroleum oil on a barrel, or tub, or tank of water will very soon kill them all. It spreads over the top of the water, and as they come to the surface to breathe, the oil stops their breathing tubes, and they soon suffocate.

Everybody, see that you do not keep a breeding-place for the pest, when the remedy is so easy to apply, without injury to the water for most purposes. The greatest natural enemy of the mosquito is the Dragon-fly, or "Devil's darning-needle." They live on insects, of which mosquitoes furnish a good share. Never kill one of them,—for they are your friends, and war against your enemies—flies and mosquitoes.

I got some of Foster's Mental Nerve Tonic for nervousness and sleeplessness and it helped me; the first time I took it I had the best sleep I had had for several months. I also know friends of mine who used it and say it is the best nerve tonic they ever used. I write this that some sufferer may use your medicine and be helped by it.

Russell Post, G. A. R., desired to express in an appropriate manner their appreciation of the kindness of Mrs. Wm. Rutherford, who has been untiring in her labors for the Post ever since its organization. A committee was appointed to procure a suitable testimonial, and last Saturday evening, after adjournment, the members present called on Mrs. R., and with a few words of commendation, gave her a beautiful clock. The case is marbled iron, surmounted by a bronze statuette. It was a complete surprise, and the lady could but express a brief "thank you."

Mrs. Sarah T. Anthony died on Tuesday last, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Hawley, in Newark, N. J., aged 78. Remains brought to Hammonton, funeral services held in Union Hall on Thursday, and burial by the side of her husband, L. R. Anthony, who died several years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony resided here many years, the husband being a man of wonderful natural ability. In 1849 he was a staff correspondent of the New York Herald, during his Argonaut experience on the Pacific coast.

Henry O. Packard, who moved to Hammonton a few weeks ago, from northern Pennsylvania, died Tuesday, aged 30 years. Mr. Packard had been suffering with catarrh, but seemed to be recovering when he had a severe attack of the grippe, finally terminating in a bronchial affection. A wife and two little children have the sympathy of many friends.

Mrs. T. T. W. Abbott and John Abbott have turned over to Mr. Elvin $31.72, which they collected for the Cross family. Among the contributors we noticed, Mrs. Stephen Milled, $2; Mr. McGann, $1; John Hines, $5; Mrs. Lambert, $5; Mrs. Horstmann, $2. The four last-named are residents in Philadelphia, and manifested their sympathy in this practice way.

The annual meeting of Greenmount Cemetery Corporation was held at Wm. Rutherford's office, on Monday evening. Geo. F. Saxton and Thos. J. Smith were elected Trustees to serve three years; E. J. Woolley and Wm. Rutherford to serve two years. Geo. F. Saxton was elected President; E. J. Woolley, Vice-President. The association has quite a little fund now drawing interest.

During a game of base ball at May's Landing, on Saturday afternoon, a general fight occurred and several persons were badly injured. Charles Gleaves, of Millville, had his leg broken and received other injuries. The game was broken up in the fourth inning and awarded to the home team when a crowd of drunken ruffians, who bet money on the result, began quarreling as to the awarding of the bet. Bats and clubs were soon flying. - W. J. Press.

Mr. Wm. B. Iland has sold his interest in the Mirror Publishing Co. to Mr. John A. Robinson, who from Baltimore, a Pennsylvanian, has taken charge of the business, with H. W. Wilbur as foreman. Mr. Iland has a position in Philadelphia.

This week, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Jacobs entertained Mrs. Tucker (Mrs. J. S. mother), Edw. Mitchell and A. J. Tucker, nephew, from Richmond, Va.; also, Miss Minnie Goulding and Mr. F. A. Mortimer, of Pottsville, Pa.

The Hammonton Accommodation train, which has long arrived here at 12:15 P.M., and left on the return trip at 12:30, was changed yesterday, leaving at 1:15 P.M. This will give the train more time to take dinner at home.

On Monday, Parker, a little son of Jesse Treat, while swinging in a hammock, under the trees, was thrown to the ground and broke the upper bone of one arm, below the elbow. Doctor Crowell reduced the fracture.

To the Sleepless. After having expended one thousand dollars for various medicines, and with various doctors, and growing worse all the while, I considered my case incurable. I was induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. After their use for six weeks I can eat meat without distress, a thing that has not occurred before for years. I believe I am nearly cured, and yet it seems too good to be true. Have no doubt but that much of the sleepless, none people complaint is caused by indigestion. J. W. DUKE, Centre Market, Newark, N. J. Rabbits are damaging the growing crops in Atlantic county.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India physician the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma and all chronic lung diseases, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp (naming this paper) W. A. NOYES, 320 Powers Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Visitors and residents all express admiration (?) of the crop on the lot between here and the Bank. By invitation, Rev. Mr. Covert preached in the Universalist Church on Sunday afternoon and evening. Will G. Hood is baggage-man on the Reading Railroad, leaving on the five o'clock train every morning. Rain began to fall during Tuesday night, and continued with but little intermission for twenty-four hours. Newton C. Holdridge, of Elm, a graduate of Colgate University, will occupy the Baptist pulpit to-morrow. Call for a glass of ice-cream-soda, at Simon's. It's delicious, better than ice-cream, more substantial than soda. Rev. Mr. Gordon, a former pastor of St. Mark's Church, met many warm friends in Hammonton the first of this week. Mr. Orin, of Quakertown, Pa., was in town yesterday, looking for a more genial climate. We hope he will decide to remain. Hammonton has a young lady, thirteen years old, who weighs just one hundred and forty pounds. Can any of our neighbors do better? Mr. S. S. Lewis has bought lots over in the Byrnes tract, and has plans drawn for a fine house, which will probably be built this summer. Wm. H. Cooper and wife are expected to return from Florida next month. We are told that they expect to be contented in Jersey. Wingfield, the photographer, is making some very nice crayon portraits, all hand work, at a very reasonable price. Call and see them. I want to rent a farm of 10 to 20 acres, for from one to five years, with privilege of purchase. This for a Maryland truck farmer. RUTHERFORD. Ex-Judge Edw. T. Will G. Hood is baggage-man on the Reading Railroad, leaving on the five o'clock train every morning. Rain began to fall during Tuesday night, and continued with but little intermission for twenty-four hours. Newton C. Holdridge, of Elm, a graduate of Colgate University, will occupy the Baptist pulpit to-morrow. Call for a glass of ice-cream-soda, at Simon's. It's delicious, better than ice-cream, more substantial than soda. Rev. Mr. Gordon, a former pastor of St. Mark's Church, met many warm friends in Hammonton the first of this week. Mr. Orin, of Quakertown, Pa., was in town yesterday, looking for a more genial climate. We hope he will decide to remain. Hammonton has a young lady, thirteen years old, who weighs just one hundred and forty pounds. Can any of our neighbors do better? Mr. S. S. Lewis has bought lots over in the Byrnes tract, and has plans drawn for a fine house, which will probably be built this summer. Wm. H. Cooper and wife are expected to return from Florida next month. We are told that they expect to be contented in Jersey. Wingfield, the photographer, is making some very nice crayon portraits, all hand work, at a very reasonable price. Call and see them. I want to rent a farm of 10 to 20 acres, for from one to five years, with privilege of purchase. This for a Maryland truck farmer. RUTHERFORD. Ex-Judge Edw. T. McKean, one of the early settlers in Hammonton, died on Saturday last, at the residence of his son, Rev. Horace G. McKean, Philadelphia, aged 66 years. If you have an hour or two to spare, call at Stockwell's and hear an account of the Thursday night fishing trip. Take a pencil with you, and figure up the results. Sylvester Baker, of Philadelphia, is visiting his father, Theodore Baker, another son, for years a clerk in the Philadelphia post office, is expected next week, for a vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Azail Coates, of Camden, with Postmaster Brierly and wife, of Cardington, Delaware County, Pa., spent last Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. Cottrell. List of unclaimed letters remaining in the Post Office at Hammonton, N. J., Saturday, July 11th, 1891: Wm. L. Woodruff, M. D. R. M. Kidd. Persons calling for any of the above letters will please state that it has been advertised. GEORGE ELVIN, P. M.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

Mrs. A. P. Simpson is visiting her friends in Maine. Mrs. Henry Nicolai sprained her ankle, last Saturday. The railroad time-table, on our eighth page, is correct. Mass at St. Joseph's Church to-morrow morning, at 8:30. For a good shave, or a first-class hair-cut, try opposite the post-office. The Goff family are comfortably settled in their new house, Grape St. Alfred Goff is steadily recovering from his injuries, at which many are rejoicing. Misses Della and Irene Messon, of Baltimore, are visiting at Mrs. A. E. Wilson's. Mr. Thos. J. Smith started for Maine, on Thursday, for a few weeks' recreation. Miss Crumpton, of Philadelphia, formerly of Hammonton, was in town on Tuesday. For a good shave or first-class hair-cutting, go to Butlers, opposite the post-office. A Howe sewing machine for sale for five dollars. Call corner Bellevue Avenue and Horton St. A. E. Millard smiles as he spins along in his new road-car, handling the "ribbons" over a fine mare. Visitors and residents all express admiration (?) of the crop on the lot between here and the Bank. By invitation, Rev. Mr. Covert preached in the Universalist Church on Sunday afternoon and evening. All delinquent taxes are now in the hands of Constable Bernhouse, who requests us to say that, he has no time to wait for promissory notes, and expects to push collections at once. Correct. It is indisputable, that many cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, weak stomach, biliousness and gastric derangement, are cured by Humphrey's Specific No. 10 than by all other remedies put together. Wingfield, the photographer, has just received a large stock of elegant 5x10 frames, in gold, silver, bronze, and oak, at 35 cts., 50 cts., and 75 cts. each. Best value ever shown in Hammonton. They will go fast. We have received from our friend Charles Woodruff copies of the "Las Vegas (N. M.) Daily Optic," of June 29th, and the daily Times, Los Angeles, California, dated July 2nd. These give a fair idea of Mr. W.'s whereabouts. Stated meeting of Town Council, June 27th. All present. Bills ordered paid: A. J. Smith, 2 mos. salary, $12 50; one-half insurance Park, 8 00; A. H. Miller, street-lighting, 50 25; D. F. Lawson, for work done, 8 40; Zoe L. Rice, boarding poor, 8 00; H. G. Black, goods to poor, 8 00; Geo. Bushy, boarding poor, 11 50; Dr. Heiling, attending poor, 2 00; Highway bills: W. H. Burges, $122 50; Wm. Bernshouse, 18 75; C. C. Campbell, 16 00; D. H. Hood, 6 00; Geo. Enders, 11 00; Geo. Bohman, 15 00; Edw. Johnson, 19 00; H. Robt., 21 50; Hoves & Sheets, lumber, 28 18; H. G. Black, supplies, 5 50. $353 91 $108 56

Mr. Bernhouse, as Commissioner on settlement of Mullica Township business, made his report, substantially as published recently. In the matter of delinquent taxes, Constable Geo. Bernhouse's bond was accepted, and warrants ordered placed in his hands. The Protective Beneficial Order. Unlike some of the wild-cat insurance associations, this is a fraternal order, on the short term principle ($100 in one year), and Hammonton has quite a prosperous Branch. It also pays weekly benefits to its sick members. It does not propose to pay $100 for $50, but $100 for the least expense, the assessments depending upon its prosperity; but it will assess each member the full $100 rather than violate its rules. Fortunately, although it is in its second year, the yearly assessments have not exceeded $35, and all claims have been met as soon as due. Under the laws of Massachusetts (it being incorporated in that State) it must deposit its surplus with the State Treasurer, and it already has a reserve fund of $500,000, the state being the custodian. The State of New Jersey tried its hand on this order, but finding it of a different nature from the wild-cat orders, and the order also assisting the state by seeking investigation, no cause for action could be found. Mr. Chas. R. McKenzie, Supreme Deputy President, recently addressed the Hammonton Branch, and was requested to call again; hence look for an open meeting in August or September. D. F. Lawson is President; E. L. Titus Secretary. It is similar to the Iron Hall, but on a shorter term. Our Hammonton members have the fullest confidence in it.
