DR. JOHN BULL'S Smith's Tonic Syrup FOR THE CURE OF FEVER and ACUTE Or CHILLS and FEVER, AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for its superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. It is a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers. DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.

Letters From the Far West.

NO. VI

BY MRS. MARIA M. KING.

TO BRECKENRIDGE

To the Editor of the South Jersey Republican: Now for the mountains. We waited some days to allow the snow to melt, so that we could find bare ground in the valleys over the range, when we should venture there. We heard startling reports from some sections, which caused us to dread going into the mountains, even as late as June 1st. The snow kept falling at intervals as late and even later than this, but the late snows help to take off the old, as in melting it softens the old crust, thus affecting the whole mass. There was an unprecedented fall of snow during the winter, and now, after the middle of June, some camps are still blockaded and many mines unapproachable. We took our trip from Denver on June 3rd. At that date the appearance of the ranges as far as snow was concerned was about the same it was on my two previous trips over it—the peaks and upper levels were white with the snow and the foot hills bare. Started at 8:30 A. M., on the Denver & South Park R. R. For fifteen miles, to the foot of the mountains, the road is over the plain, which is in cultivated farms. Mr. Editor, I have on previous occasions given your readers somewhat of a description of Platte Canyon and I will now resume the subject at the risk of being charged with repetition, and attempt to give some of my impressions as I pass along. The trip up this canyon must ever be interesting to lovers of the grand and picturesque, though taken frequently. It seems to me that one could never be indifferent to the charms of such scenery, however familiar it might be, although the impression of grandeur and sublimity which one receives at first sight is less intense after frequent views of it. Here we are, shut in between high mountain walls, with the Platte, now on our right and then on our left, roaring and plunging down the canyon like a cataract, receiving contributions to its volume of water from melting snows from every quarter high up in the range. Now we wind around through narrow gorges overhung by stupendous cliffs, which nearly shut out the sky overhead, and we almost shudder as we look at mountains of rock poised above our heads, as though just ready to topple over. But we remember that here they have hung for the ages, defying frost and storms, and ages yet may pass before they shall yield to the forces that undermine and crumble mountains, and which have strewn this narrow canyon with evidences of its power—the huge boulders that lie thick in the stream and on its borders. Now the view widens, and we can study the structure of the mountains. On either hand are peaks crowned with what appear like castellated structures, the same being also scattered over the mountain sides—strange formations, that puzzle the beholder to account for the singular forms they have assumed under the action of the elements that have disintegrated and washed away the softer material, and left standing columns, pillars, domes, archways, etc., etc. Now again the canyon widens out into what may, with propriety, be termed a valley, and the river which was just before a narrow, raging torrent, is a wide, placid stream, bordered on either side with a strip of level land either in native grass or sown to oats or planted to potatoes, with a railroad station, a few houses and perhaps a saw-mill, and all ways cattle feeding here and there. There is a wagon road from Denver through the mountains, and a portion of the way it follows the stream up the canyon by the railroad track, then leaving it where the canyon narrows to a gorge, where room for the track was made by blasting, it climbs the mountains or makes its way by other sinuous and more obscure passes. On this road we frequently see covered wagons, crossing the mountains as far as the snow will let them, and when they get higher up where the roads are yet impassable, wagons, teams and all must be piled on to cars and carried on to the valleys beyond. As we near the head of the canyon we see ahead of us snowy mountains, and the vegetation looks more stunted and the air is colder.

But here we are at the head of the canyon, practically, and a mighty obstruction looms up before us in the shape of a mountain (Kenosha Mountain) that has to be scaled as the only practicable way of getting over the range in this direction. We shall see how the skill and ingenuity of man has surmounted the difficulty. All the way up the canyon it has been, as it were, a struggle for the ascendancy between nature and art, or, more correctly speaking, between wild, uncultivated nature and cultivated nature in man. The one has reared numerous and what would seem impregnable barriers to shut man out of this natural passage through the mountains; but these the other has defied, leveling them with the dust, turning or surmounting them by some means; making a knowledge of nature's forces his arm to conquer it in the conflict with them. The conquest must still go on. The iron-horse must climb this precipitous mountain, or its progress toward the Pacific coast by this route be stayed. Now we pass the base of the mountain, winding up a ravine and making a curve, where we find ourselves turned upon our track, on the mountain side, and slowly ascending. The road is cut in the solid mountain wall, and winds around and upward on the verge of a frightful precipice overhanging the deep and narrow gorge that terminates the Platte Canyon. It is not in human nature to ride over such passes without experiencing a feeling of awe kindred to it—not fear. One instinctively turns away from the appalling view, and summons all the nerve at command to wait until the scene is passed. Just at one of the most dangerous places, but where some huge rocks had lodged part way down the steep, our conductor said to us—"here I turned over once." A broken rail was the cause. The cars turned over and went down, lodging against these rocks. No one was killed, but the conductor was badly crushed, broken bones and ribs torn from their sockets keeping him long on the retired list. He informed us that on these mountain roads track men are stationed at intervals of sixty rods to keep the track clear of obstructions and warn of danger. This is a most necessary provision, as slides are of frequent occurrence on steep mountains, and particularly in the spring when the water from the melting snows loosen the soil and rocks. Accidents on the roads are of rare occurrence, as great care is taken to avoid them. Train men dare not be indifferent or careless here, where, for so much of their route, there is but a hair's breadth between them and an awful fate, which is depicted before their eyes in the yawning chasms by which they are passing at frequent intervals.

At the top of the Pass is Kenosha station. Here we observed twenty kilns in a row, built of stone or brick and plastered on the outside, in which charcoal is burned. There is plenty of wood for the purpose on the surrounding hills, and a large business is made of the manufacture of coal, as I should judge from appearances. Farther on is Jefferson, on the confines of South Park. Of this park I need say nothing, having spoken of it particularly on a previous occasion. Arrived at Como, a station in the Park, we change cars and take the train on the Breckenridge Branch of the Denver & South Park R. R. The distance to Breckenridge is about twenty-five miles by railroad, seventeen miles by wagon-road. The Park is at an elevation of 10,000 feet above sea level, and from here the road climbs the Main Range of the Rocky Mountains to Borens, near what is called Breckenridge Pass, at an elevation of 12,000 feet, and thence down the western slope of the Range.

Republican National Ticket.

For President of the United States,
JAMES G. BLAINE.
For Vice-President,
JOHN A. LOGAN.

A telegram received Friday afternoon, says: "Cleveland is nominated on second ballot, 683 votes."

The Democratic National Convention met on Monday last, in Chicago. As usual, nearly the entire week was spent doing nothing—getting the wires laid and properly hitched is doing nothing, so far as the public are supposed to see. On Friday morning, about one o'clock, the first ballot for Presidential nominees was taken, resulting as follows: Grover Cleveland, of New York, 392; Thomas Francis Bayard, of Delaware, 170; Jos. E. McDonald, of Indiana, 65; Samuel J. Randall, of Philadelphia, 76; Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, 88; John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, 27; George Headley, of Ohio, 37; Hendricks, 1; Thibault, 1; Flower, 1. The platform adopted does not declare for a protective tariff. Gen. Butler is on hand, large as life.

The Democratic Convention lacked the courage to come out plainly on the tariff question, but was a great many words to say a very little. We give their tariff plank side by side:

1880 Federal taxation shall be levied on the basis of the income of the individual, and shall not exceed the needs of the Government.

Do you see any difference in their real meaning?

Editorial Selections.

The failure of Congress to provide for an impartial taking of the electoral count will not matter so much, as the majority for Blaine and Logan will be large enough to remove all necessity for any new method of counting it. It will be merely a sum in simple addition, in which the figures will be large.

The Independent Republican Club of Buffalo, N. Y., a wealthy and influential organization which strongly opposed the nomination of Mr. Blaine, and remained for some time after the Convention undecided as to its future course, has come out squarely for the ticket. This is a severe blow to the Independents, who depended upon them for aid and assistance. Thus, one by one, the stragglers are coming into camp. The fourth of November will find very few outside the lines, and they will be lonesome and sick at heart.

Ex-Minister Sargent, who has just returned from the Court of Berlin, is an enthusiastic Blaine man, not alone because he knows and admires both Blaine and Logan, but because of their well known and pronounced views on the tariff. On this question he gives the people the benefit of his observation abroad. He says: "I have seen too much justification of our protective system in what I have observed lately in Europe, to wish to see it overturned by the action of the Convention, or by the action of the President."

In 1872 the New York Times could not find language severe enough with which to characterize the then Republican leaders, especially Carl Schurz. Now its editor and Mr. Schurz are the warmest kind of comrades, and the Republican press of the country are casting about for appropriate terms with which to designate the pair of them. Perhaps the best-learned would be to overhurl a line of the Times for that year. Editor Jones showed himself quite an adept in that line, and would no doubt the better appreciate the weight of his own article, if it were turned against himself.

Some of the intimate friends of James G. Blaine, it is stated, have secured the refusal of one of the new cottages of John Hoey, at Hollywood Park, Long Branch, and have tendered it to Mr. Blaine and his family for the summer. The cottage is furnished throughout and has all the modern improvements. A strong effort will be made to induce Mr. Blaine to spend the family at Long Branch with his family. The cottage contains about forty rooms.

Dear Sir:—I think it is due to you that I should make the following statement and make it valuable to you and to all who are afflicted with what is called "jaundice of the bowels." The disease is one of the most terrible. The stomach and other organs refuse to assimilate with it and to have lost all power of action. For a long time my life was a struggle, but at length I recovered as far as to be able to eat and drink. By the advice of my physician I tried Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and after taking a few bottles, I felt better. I am now well and strong, and I can say that it is the best medicine I ever used. The silver question—can you hand us that $1.25 that is already due?

Dr. H. E. Bowles arrived home last Saturday night, to spend his summer vacation.

Tickets for New York over the Jersey Southern, ought to be for sale at Hammononton Station.

Have you filed your daily berry dispatches? You will find them very interesting in a year or two.

Hot weather and hard work kept most of "the boys" away from Post meeting, last Saturday evening. So few were present that the Commander did not call to order.

Among present and recent visitors to Hammononton, we notice Messrs. Frank Barnes, Will North, M. D., Merritt Hall, and Austin Blackie and family. We see many others, who are unknown to us.

Mr. Matthews handed us, Saturday evening, the largest and most delicious basket of red raspberries we ever helped to care for. We don't know the variety, but should like to raise such for the market.

O. E. Moore wants more chickens—young or old—and will pay you as much for them as any other man can, in ready cash. Bring them to the Narrow Gauge depot on Monday or Thursday morning, not later than eight o'clock.

Don't Bernhouse bought a pair of quails, last year. This season the female laid her usual nest of eggs, and has now hatched out a fine brood, which she calls and loves the same as a domestic fowl. Of course they are confined.

Have you seen any tramps about? We never saw so many strangers in this place seeking (2) for work, or a square meal. We have shut off the food supply from our house; the calls are too numerous, and draw too hard upon our feeble purse.

Miss Lois Stockwell returned on Thursday from a very pleasant visit among York State relatives. Her uncle, Robert Ford, with his wife and little son, residents of Wallingford, N. Y., came with her. Mr. Ford will be remembered by many, as a former employee of Mr. A. G. Clark.

We had the pleasure of a call from Rev. Mr. Hultz, pastor of the Methodist Church, this week. We are pleased to know that he is recovering from the painful affection of the eyes which compelled him to refrain from reading or writing, and for a time to remain in a darkened room.

Mr. Rutherford has had but four applications in reply to his advertisement for a wife (not for himself; bless you, no! that position is satisfactorily filled.) It must be that the widower (without encumbrance) is not suited, for the vacancy still exists, and the enterprising agent now offers the successful applicant a new "Jersey" and a handsome hat, to complete the bridal outfit.

Don't trust the Narrow Gauge time-table as published on our last page. We had no time to correct it this week. An important change was made Thursday. The down-trains from Hammononton are: Accommodation, 8:17 A.M. and 6:27 P.M.; Express, 8:39 A.M. and 6:24 P.M. Express, 8:51 and 11:34 A.M. and 6:24 P.M. We'll give the corrected table in our next issue.

Some time ago, residents on Main Road petitioned the Town Council to have a sidewalk built in front of the property between the farms of Messrs. Edwin Adams and I. B. Hammon. An order was given to Wm. H. Burgess, the Highway Commissioner, to open and work said walk, which he has lately done in such manner as to win the approval of all who have occasion to pass that way, and by special request we tender the thanks of the petitioners to Council and Commissioner.

We called at Bernhouse's mill the other day, and found seventeen men and boys busily engaged in making berry crates and fruit boxes. One man whined in the pine logs, sawed to near the right length, which would soon be ripped into the narrow thin strips; another ran the bolts between two fixed saws, making them the correct length; two others were sawing the end-boards for fruit-boxes; two were putting these boxes together; three or four boys were making the partitions for crates; one man finished the lids; others made side ends or ends; two or three put them together, ready for those who added hinges, staves, and staves, and truck corners. Several thousand of these crates have already been turned out, at the rate of 250 per day. Orders are now coming in for fruit boxes.

We saw, from the W. J. Press, William Bald had a cellar dug, over which he will erect a new residence, Jones & Lawson, of Hammononton, will do the carpenter work.

W. F. Simpler, H. M. Jewett, and Dr. Ed. North were elected Trustees of Winslow Lodge of Odd Fellows.

The Tillyer Brothers, of the firm of Tillyer, Deewes & Co., will reside here. The house lately occupied by H. K. Chew is being prepared for their reception.

Among the improvements to be made by the new management, is to greatly splendor and increase the variety of stock in the factory store.

Large shipments of glass jars are being made from this place. Five or six carloads are shipped daily.

Be at Union Hall to-night. We notice that Mr. A. J. King is practicing law in Brookridge, Col.

We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of a supply of berries from several friends.

The vacation at Osgood's factory was very short. The men began work on Wednesday.

Rev. Mr. Hiler started for Massachusetts, last Monday, intending to return in a week or two.

We tender thanks, for ourself and family, to Mrs. L. W. Ogley, for berries and other garden favors.

A HORSE for sale. Inquire of D. L. MILLER, Pine Road, Hammononton.

St. Mark's Church.—Fifth Sunday after Trinity, July 14th, 1884. 10:30 A.M., Morning Prayer, Litany, and Holy Communion. 8:00 P.M., Sunday School. 4:00 P.M., Evening Prayer and Sermon.

Mr. L. Berenage had the misfortune to sprain his left wrist, last Saturday, being thrown from a wagon by the horse starting before he had removed his foot from the wheel. He is recovering.

Cool nights and moderately warm days have been favorable, this week, causing berries to ripen slowly, instead of more rapidly than they could be picked and shipped, and preventing an early glut in the markets.

Mrs. D. Whitman Jacobs sent us a half-pint quart of blackberries, last Monday, which contained but one hundred berries. We doubt whether this could be outdone. They were great beauties—fit for a King's table.

There was a grand display of natural pyrotechnics, on Saturday night last. For a couple of hours, the northern and western heavens seemed to utter their spontaneous, brilliant and frequent bursts of lightning.

Harry Snowden, residing at Anson, took a cat from Philadelphia to his home, a few days ago. The cat was soon missed, and in ten days she was found at her old quarters in the city. Wonder how the critter crossed the Delaware.

The Union Sunday School of New Germany held their picnic at Inskip on the Fourth. The day was agreeable, the attendance good, the place just right, the folks good-natured, the provisions plenty and excellent. No wonder they were a happy company.

Rev. Mr. Mowhinney occupied the pulpit of the Hammononton Presbyterian Church last Sunday, for the second time. He appears to be a young man of ability, very pleasing in his manner, has a good voice and graceful delivery. Would he not be the right man for pastor?

A special session of Court is to be held at May's Landing to-day. Judge Reed will preside. Orphans' Court business will come up, also some unfinished business from last Court—a half-tried case and some common motions. A petition will be presented in favor of suspending the sentence of G. W. Fay.

The Pension Bureau have finally allowed a parent's pension to Mr. Horton, of this place. Mrs. Horton, after five or six years of contest and correspondence, was granted the same, but she died before the papers reached her for signature. Mr. H. then renewed the application, and now it is granted him from the date of his wife's death! Why not from the date of the son's death? Everybody who knows the circumstances believes he should have it. But there are some very peculiar things in the world.

Dr. Potter exhibited a sound and handsome Lawver apple, at the Park, on the Fourth, and stated that he would donate all the seeds that his trees would yield, this season, provided a committee would take charge of them, and give out only to those who would use them properly. Messrs. P. H. Brown, W. F. Bassett, Thomas Rogers, and G. F. Saxton were appointed such committee. Any of our readers who desire to test this variety should make early application to any one of this committee. Mr. Snyder, a commission merchant in New York, after examining the apple, said that a barrel of such would now sell for twenty-five dollars.

The greenback question—lend me a dollar?

A certain millman is named Kalliko.
He makes a first-rate morning rapper.

Can you speak of a young lady as being brow-beaten when she has her hair banged?

We heard of a man, the other day, who was said to be mean enough to steal a coat-of-paint. But he can't equal the party who tried to steal a dog's pants.

The seven-year-old daughter of Capt.
George H. Perkins, of our Navy, is said to be the richest little girl in the world.
She is worth seven millions in her own name, that sum having been bequeathed her by her grandfather, Wm. F. Weld, of Boston.

A Michigan girl, at one sitting, ate two pounds of limburger cheese. Leap year will do that maiden no particular good unless the young man has a "cold in his head."

"Where the heart is, there's home."
That's why a good many men and women don't live at home these days, but board out.

Bangs are still popular. If you don't believe it, notice how your husband closes the door when he finds you busy cleaning house, with his dinner waiting on the flour barrel.

'What is that man trying to do with his mouth?' asked Grimes of his wife, at a party the other evening. 'Why, you horrid thing,' was the reply, 'he is singing "Maxwellton's Brays!"'

'Maxwellton's brays, eh? Well, I didn't know that. I thought they were his own brays, the way he steamed up.'

THE

NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

SPECIAL OFFER.

Eight Months for 66 Cents.

A Good Watch as a Premium.

Until May 1, 1884, orders will be received for the New York Weekly Tribune, 8 months for 66 cts.
for the Semi-Weekly Tribune, 8 months for $1.32.
An extra copy will be sent with every club of ten.
As a premium for clubs of 8 months' subscribers,
The Tribune will give a Waterbury watch in a nickel silver case, a good, satisfactory, and handsome article, keeping as perfect time as a gold watch worth $160. See terms below.

In part, the object is to reward the numerous subscription list of the Tribune—toward rolling-up the campaign circulation of The Weekly to 100,000 copies more than at present. The time has come for Republicans to be up and doing. The campaign will be on the line of the policy marked out by The Tribune. A good sound exponent of Republican opinion should be placed, as soon as possible, in the hands of as large a number of voters as possible. If the regular readers of The Tribune regard this paper as the right one for good hearty campaign work, they are invited to take hold at once and set the ball rolling.

The Waterbury Watch is the latest product of a State famous for clocks. A factory has been erected at a cost of half a million dollars, to supply the people with a good time-keeping watch, at the lowest price ever known. The Waterbury is a marvel of simplicity, accuracy and cheapness. The retail price is $3.50.
The watch is not a toy,—but a strong and substantial article. It is a stem-winder; it runs for twenty-four hours, can be regulated perfectly, and keeps in order as perfectly as a costly gold watch. The case is handsome and is better than silver, in that it will not tarnish. With the watch is sent a little book, giving full instructions. No man or boy need now be without a watch. Those who have costly gold watches, should have one of the Waterbury make, besides, to carry while engaged in rough work, or while traveling.
Thousands are buying them for the latter purpose.
The Waterbury is, however, pre-eminently the time-piece of the masses. It is the farmer's, the clerk's, the laborer's, the mechanic's, the school-boy's and the school-girl's watch. Every specimen of it sent out by The Tribune office, is guaranteed to have been thoroughly tested by the manufacturers.

Don't stop a man on the street and ask him the time of day. Have your own watch! "The Waterbury."

THE TERMS ARE:—For $3.50—The watch and five copies of The Weekly for 8 months.
For $1.32—The watch and five copies of The Weekly for 8 months. For $8.00—The watch and ten copies of The Weekly for 8 months. For $14.25—The watch and twenty copies of The Weekly for 8 months.
For $19.50—Twenty copies of The Weekly for 8 months, and the watch sent free. In these clubs one Semi-Weekly will count as equal to two Weeklies. For $3.50—The watch and The Weekly for one year.
For $5.00—The watch and The Semi-Weekly for one year.
The Tribune pays postage, but if the subscriber wishes the watch sent by registered mail he will please remit to cents extra.

Sample copies of The Tribune and descriptive circulars sent free.
