The second annual field meeting of the New Jersey Poultry Association will be held at New Brunswick next Friday and Saturday, July 28th and 29th. The program, which is of interest to all poultry raisers, includes addresses on trapping, fancy stock, breeding and laying contests, preparing poultry for exhibition, and round-table discussions, and inspection of the college farm. Several local poultrymen are members of the State Association, who will be glad to have others accompany them.

Health Notice.

Our notice of last week seems to have done considerable good. Infantile paralysis, though abating but little in New York, has not made its appearance, so far in South Jersey. We caution people to avoid all unnecessary gatherings where children would be exposed to contact with strangers, and to keep up the warfare against dirt and unclean domestic animals and the pesky fly.

By order of Hammonton
BOARD OF HEALTH.

Wonderful Game Expected.

Old-time base-ball cracks, to the number of ten or twelve, have promised to participate in a game next Saturday afternoon. It is expected that the game will be too much of an undertaking for some of the "has beens," so provision has been made for subs.

Among the prominent players are Coroner Chas. Cunningham, Attorney Matthew Jefferson, Town Solicitor Geo. R. Greis, Attorney Wm. B. Phillips, Louis S. Conley, machinist, H. C. Doughty, Supt. of Light Co., R. H. Gray, carpenter, Chas. Slack, mason, Louis Spyes, machinist, Eugene Coggey, surveyor, Thos. B. Delker, printer, and James Rubertone, garage proprietor.

Christian Endeavor Picnic.

Two large trucks and several automobiles were required to take the local Christian Endeavor Societies and their friends to the Conference and Picnic at Lenape Park, May's Landing, last Saturday. It was a delightful ride, the trip requiring but an hour and a-half. No rain fell, though the skies were clouded all day.

Services were held in the large roller-skating rink, which many attended. Both the morning and afternoon sessions were full of inspiration, well worth the twenty mile trip. At five o'clock there was a "quiet hour service," out under the trees, and this was indeed one of prayer and consecration.

Others took in the boating, the merry-go-round, swimming, etc., or rested in the shade; and all voted it a day long to be pleasantly remembered.

Plans are being made to make this an annual occasion, covering several days, similar to a summer school or Chautauqua,—of interest to all Christian workers.

Our Lady's Day.

The feast was observed, Monday, in great style. The crowd was up to the usual standard, three bands rendered good music, dozens of refreshment stands provided everything that people needed for the inner man, and a long list of side-shows amused those who cared for such.

Though the Italian Society had permission for their band to parade on Sunday, the management were wise in cutting that out,—the day passing off very quietly, and the customary influx of visitors and the usual noise did not begin until Monday morning. In fact, the sunrise salute was not fired until 8.30. But once begun, the celebration continued until midnight, and many of the participants did not get away until next morning.

The grand procession was held about four o'clock, participated in by an immense crowd of men, women and children. There were five statues in the line,—that of the Virgin being garlanded with long strings of greenbacks, pinned together, the offerings of the faithful. Two or three of the others had smaller strips of the same.

Third Street, for several blocks, was lined on both sides with booths,—with ice cream, sandwiches, and trinkets for sale, shooting galleries, nigger-babies, ring tosses, etc. At night, colored electric lights made the street really beautiful. Along Bellevue, several of the stands were conducted by local people.

A three-day carnival combination with merry-go-round, ocean-wave, ferris-wheel, and a number of side-shows—dwarf, alligators, snakes, dancing girls, and the like, added considerably to the interest, and took in many people, and diners. Altogether, the celebration was a success, in its way, and it is hoped that the spiritual condition of the participants was improved thereby.

Happily, there was no disorder, the police being kept busy in directing movements of hundreds of automobiles and thousands of pedestrians which thronged the streets all day.

The fireworks display, that evening, seemed much shorter than usual, but contained several novelties, and altogether was good.

HAMMONTON FIELD DAY.

Thirty-five years ago, Atlantic County held an annual Agricultural Fair at Hammonton Park; but for some reason it was abandoned. Last year, the State Horticultural Society had a field day here. It was an unquestionable success. Last February, at our Vocational Farmers' Week exercises, the writer, as chairman of the Peach Day program, was asked by Director Malby to appoint a committee, comprised of the various farm enterprises, to number five, to perpetuate the good work done. This committee decided that, owing to huge success of the Horticultural Field Day exercises, last year, and the interest taken in it, that they were justified in repeating it, and making it an annual affair, as our Park is admirably situated, handy to the whole county. Hence they called in other members from the county and town, and we have all been working for the success of the enterprise. They are now working on a premium list for exhibitions of best fruit, dressed poultry, eggs, vegetables, and farm products, not forgetting the ladies, from whom they want exhibits of canning, baking, and fancy work. Bear in mind that our premiums will not be large, but recognition often counts for more than money.

Competition is the life of business. If there was no competition we would be lifeless. Now where there is enterprise, to outdo your neighbor by growing better fruit, better crops, to make neater homes, it is a good sign of prosperity. Now why not all pull together, and make this coming field day a success. It is to be held in Hammonton Park on Saturday, Sept. 9th. Let the people know that Atlantic County, Hammonton and her sister towns, are alive to horticultural, agricultural and domestic interests of our state.

Remember, we will have the best speakers, such as Lewis, the best known authority on chickens in the country; Mr. Agee, our Director of County Demonstration work, and others equally good; a good band of music; a good place for picnic lunch; a good place to boat. In fact, it is a good place in general for a day of recreation and profit, in seeing and hearing up-to-date lectures and helping to make this an annual affair.

I thank you all in advance for your interest and attendance.

LATON M. PARKHURST,
Chairman Field Day Committee.

Cause of our Smoky Weather.

For the past two years or so, we have had, almost constantly, a dark and murky atmosphere. This is unusual. Except in the Fall, in our Indian Summer, our atmosphere was previously quite clear of smoke. Sometimes we had a little foggy weather, especially when snow was melting, and on cool mornings when clouds ran low and the air was full of moisture; but never did we have a smoky atmosphere almost constantly, as in the past two years. We hardly ever see the stars any more, seldom the moon, and even the sun seems to be in a constant struggle to shine through the smoke.

What has caused this great atmospheric change? What has happened, and is happening, that causes this smoke that persists so tenaciously and constantly in the air? There must be a cause, and we ought to be able to find it. I have been searching, and think I have discovered it.

There are two things which, I think, contribute to the present condition of the atmosphere that is largely new within the last two years, to wit: The war in Europe, Asia and Africa, and on the waters of the earth, where great quantities of explosives are pouring into the atmosphere great quantities of carbon—smoke, more than it can change into vegetable substances, or otherwise clear the air, and come in air currents even to us.

But there is another, nearer, and perhaps greater cause, in the explosion of gasoline in automobiles, motorcycles, and engines in great number, thus giving back to the air the carbon taken from it and deposited in the vegetable kingdom in the carboniferous age of the world, as coal and gas.

I have heard it suggested that the trees seem more luxuriant than ever before. They are fed more with carbon, and thus doing what they can to clear the air of excess of that element, purifying the air and fitting it the better for the use of all high animal life, and man.

The cause, then, of the smoky atmosphere is the excessive use of explosives, thus saturating the air with carbon.

TULIP TREE INJURY.

Many of the residents of Hammonton are worrying considerably about the condition of their highly prized tulip shade trees. The leaves seem to be turning first yellow, then dropping to the ground.

On close examination, it will be found that the under sides of many of the leaves are badly infested with a very minute insect called a green aphid or green plant louse. These insects derive their nourishment by sucking the juices of the tree in much the same manner as a mosquito sucks the blood of man. Their feeding causes this yellowing and dropping of the leaves.

The remedy for this trouble is easy and not expensive; and all Hammonton residents should avail themselves of it to rid their trees of the pest, and thereby preserve the beauty and health of these magnificent trees.

Water under high pressure, forced high into the tree from below, will frequently dislodge the insects, causing them to fall to the ground. This may have to be repeated; and if not successful, a tobacco preparation should be employed to spray on the individuals and kill them by contact. One material which is good can be made by boiling one pound of tobacco in one gallon of water for an hour. This may be diluted to two or three gallons by adding water. Or better yet, purchase a pound or so of a commercial product known as "Black Leaf 40," which is a by-product of tobacco. This can be obtained, locally, at Kelly's drug store; and should be diluted according to directions, and sprayed right on the insects by spraying up into the trees, as the insects are on the under side of the leaves.

Defoliation of the trees is serious to their development, and sometimes cause the death of the tree.
