ELVINS & ROBERTS

Let us have your order for 10-pound Grape Baskets. We quote at $3.50 per hundred.

We also handle Peach Baskets, which we offer in any quantity at the extremely low price of 5½ cents each, which we think is the lowest figure they have ever reached.

JUST IN,—a very pretty assortment of Dress Prints in short lengths, from one to three dress patterns in a piece. Regular 8-cent goods. We can sell them to you for 6 cents. Call and see them.

We reduce the price of those "Peerless" Coffee Cakes and Ginger Snaps to 5 cents per pound, — quality as usual, A-1. No broken stale stuff,—all fresh baked goods.

New Canned Lobster is now in, and for fine quality and care in packing cannot be excelled. Only choicest of the fish are packed. Put up in paper-lined one-pound tins, either tall or flat, very desirable for salads or to serve plain. We warrant every can.

Tall Cans, . . . 22 cents.
Flat Cans, . . . 25 cents.

In these days of Oil and Gasoline Stoves, WOOD is not much in demand as a summer fuel, but for the benefit of those who have an aversion to these "new fangled machines," we desire to call attention to the fact that we have an ample supply of A No. 1, Oak Wood, in foot lengths, which we will be pleased to have you order in any quantity desired. Our price is $1.50 per rank (quarter-cord), and deliver to any part of the town free of charge.

There being just at the present an active demand for Fieft and Grass seeds, 'twill not be out of place to say that we carry all these seeds in stock, and shall be pleased to supply you when wanted, at prices that we think will be interesting. We refrain from making figures, there being such a vast difference in quality; and as we handle nothing but the best, our figures might seem out of joint with others, when the quality is not considered. We give you below the variety,—

Common Buckwheat,
Japanese Buckwheat,
German Millet,
Crimson Clover,
Mammoth Clover,
Medium Clover,
Timothy, Orchard Grass, Seed Rye, etc.

New Turnip Seed is now ready. We can furnish any variety desired,—have several kinds in stock,—anything special we can get you on short notice.

WHIPS.

The "lash" seems to be a powerful factor now-a-days, not only in the movement of horses but parties,—instance its wonderful effect on the present Congress,—but our purpose at this time is to call attention to our stock of Carriage Whips. Can give you your choice of quality, and make the price to suit. We quote from 12 cents to $1.

Dunham's Shred-Cocoanut is, without exception, the finest article of its kind now on this market. Always sweet, fresh, and ready for immediate use. Elegant for cake or pie. Quarter pound packages, 8 cents.

Oh, the Flies! how they do bother us! Sure relief is secured by using "Tanglefoot" Sticky Fly Paper,—two sheets for 5 cents. 25 double sheets, with Holder, for 50 cents. If you object to the sticky paper, we have "Dutcher's Lightning Fly Killer." Simply fold a piece of the prepared paper, place in a saucer, and cover with water; set the dish where flies are most troublesome, and you will be surprised how soon you will be rid of the pests.

Fly Fiend—for horses—is certainly the greatest discovery of the age. Simply brush your horse or other animal lightly with the preparation, and the flies will not trouble them in the least for several hours. Two applications a day sufficient.

Fly Traps—for those who have a prejudice against fly paper of any kind. We think we have the best, and at an extremely low price,—16 cents each.

Have you tried "Germea" yet? No! Well, you are missing a good thing. This hot weather it is delicious for breakfast, and very quickly and easily prepared. A two-pound package for 15 cents.

On the night of July 4, Francesco Marcantano and Michael Corevonia were playing Italian ten-pins, in Newark. A dispute and fight followed; Corevonia and his wife being stabbed and badly cut, and are still in the hospital. Marcantano fled. Detective Fallon, of Newark, traced him to Hammonton, and on Monday came down, accompanied by the Prosecutor's detective, John Costello, had their warrant endorsed by Squire Atkinson, and, with Constable Bernhouse went to Rocco Demarco's, on Pine Road, where the man was working. It was about ten o'clock at night, and the pickers were asleep in the barn. The Constable went into the loft, and while examining the sleepers by lantern light, heard Mr. Fallon shout, "I've got him." The fellow had slipped down through the hatch-way, stark naked, and dropped right into the arms of the detective, who pinned him to the floor. They identified him, the Squire made out a commitment, he was lodged in the cooler(?) over night, and the next morning taken to Newark, to answer a charge of assault with intent to kill. It was a clever capture, and required no little courage on the part of detectives and constable.

The war between China and Japan over the administration of affairs in Corea is now fully on, and up to the present time the Japanese have been successful in all the combats that have taken place. Most of the battles have been of a naval character, and Japan's superior navy has with comparative ease routed and sunk the Chinese ships. China has counted much on her standing army, but has not been able to concentrate her forces, every attempt having been frustrated by the Japanese navy. All foreign powers are watching the outcome with deep interest.

Cause and effect: The more strikes, the more train wrecking. The more train wrecking, the less travel. The less travel, the less business for railroads. The less business, the less use for men. The less use for men, the larger the army of unemployed.

Mr. Cleveland wants free trade, without any ifs, ands, or buts, and he has the gall to say so, notwithstanding the awful condition of industrial and business affairs.

Dr. Henry Mitchell, of Asbury Park, has been appointed Sec. of the State Board of Health by Governor Werts, as successor of the late Dr. Ezra M. Hunt.

Grover may be in a hole, but it is not apparent that he is lacking for company.

Senatorial wind is still on the free list, despite the clamor of the country for a prohibitive duty on it.

Claims for $2,000,000 for damages from the strike will be filed against Chicago within thirty days.

Gold to the amount of $350,000 was shipped to Europe on the Normania and $1,250,000 more is scheduled for to-day's steamer.

Consideration of the resolution recognizing Hawaii as a republic was checked in the House Committee by Secretary Gresham who will receive the royalist commission.

News from the Wellman Arctic Expedition was received at Trumsoe, Norway. The Jarl, which conveyed the party to the Polar region, had been crushed by the ice. All the members are well.

All the Democrats needed was the rope; it has done the rest.

Democracy is no longer unfettered.

If, as the adage says, "an idle brain is the devil's workshop," the devil must have an overstock of workshops in the misnamed "industrial" armies now in the vicinity of Washington.

Paul would have been a more appropriate name for him than Grover; he writes so many epistles.

It is curious that every time a professional office-seeker is turned down he should feel especially called upon to lead a new party of reformers.

With steerage rates to Europe only $3.64 there is no excuse for any blatant Anarchist or Socialist longer to tarry in this land of monopoly and oppression.

The factory girls in the silk mills in Paterson, N. J., found so much amusement in watching the efforts of a little street car conductor to catch the strap that they made his life a burden to him. Rather than be laughed at "Shorty," as the young women called him, resigned. In the words of the old song, that conductor ought to have taken a dog along to keep the girls away.

The Rhode Island Democratic State committee neglected when it passed a resolution urging the Democratic Congressmen to support the policy of the administration to say what that policy is, and nobody else has been able to find out.

A flash of lightning saved a train from destruction near Lockport, N. Y. The engineer saw an obstruction and stopped just in time.

The statements of Democratic Senators differ so radically from that made by Mr. Cleveland as to his position on the Senate amendments to the tariff bill that they are equivalent to passing the lie.

In view of the fate of the Chicago platform it would be wise for the Democrats to make their next campaign without any platform.

A Richmond paper says it doesn't believe that Mr. Cleveland would accept a fourth nomination for President. Not unless it be offered to him, brother.

No Republican property seems safe nowadays from the raids of covetous Democrats. They already have the Reed rules and lay claim to the Sherman idea of sound money. Next thing, if the McKinley tariff isn't chained fast, they will make off with that and set it up as the only bona-fide, true-blue Democratic idea of tariff reform.

SUBJECT TO PAIN IN THE STOMACH.—Elder S. S. Beaver, of McAllisterville, Juniata County, Pa., says his wife is subject to cramp in the stomach. Last summer she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy for it, and was much pleased with the speedy relief it afforded. She has since used it whenever necessary, and found that it never fails. For sale by Cochran, the druggist.

THE WHITE CITY.

Greece was; Greece is no more.
Temple and tower
Have crumbled down.
Time is the dirt that hath consumed them.
Statue and wall
In ruin show the universal doom.

Greece lives, but Greece no more!
In ashes brood
The undying seed Blown westward till, in Rome's imperial towers,
Athens rebores;
Still westward—lo, a veiled and virgin shore!

Say not, "Greece is no more,"
Through the clear moon
On light winds borne
Her white-winged soul sails on the New World's breast.
Ah! happy Venice
Goes flowers and, and all her temples sore!

One bright hour, then no more Shall to the skies
These columns rise,
But through the flower shall fade, again
The seed
Gardens shall speed,
Quickening the hand from lake to ocean's roar.

Art lives, though Greece may never
From the ancient mold
As one of old
Exhale to heaven the faintest bloom;
Yet from the tomb
Destiny will forth to light the world ever.

—W. W. Gilder, in the Century.

THE MAN-EATER.

WHILE it faded on the hills, the great disk of the moon was riding over the ser-
rated hollows of the two great forests.
The earth still lay
with the dead day
sun, the sudden drop
of the breeze, the roaring of nocturnal beats of prey, the beauty of the firmament above a land still unspoiled by man after thousands of years of civilization, the ruthless fecundity, savage, vast as the ether, invincible as the ocean, took the imagination of the man and amazed the dominated Carthage, and filled his heart with a fullness of poetic grandeur. Behind him followed a humbler man, a guide provided by the village of Nardone to lead him to the place where the man-eater, who had been carried off a laborer. As they advanced, step by step, the murmurs of the night became louder and more terrible, the growing of the animals re-echoed over the plain, the huge bats floated athwart the orange light.

Bavardje drew closer to MacCarthy, his right was balanced by a feeling of pride in serving the thick-set Irishman with the hollow eyes, with the rough, kind face at once irascible and good-natured.

"Are we near?" asked James.

"Yes, Sahib!"

At the entrance to a rocky defile Dionna halted tremblingly. He signed with outstretched hand. "It is there."

Before them lay a sinuous surface, one of those secluded corners of the jungle where the full sway of natural forces, the struggle of the instincts of animals and plants create a splendid and a putrefaction. The moonlight embroidered the fig trees, the slender trunks, the masses of the foliage. It was a delicate lace-work over the great banded, the lichens, the castor oil plants, over a pool that was choked with old-bark, with half-withered runes, with bright green water plants.
The sky seemed made of scintillating constellations; wild creatures of wood and water roamed stealthily through the undergrowth, lay in waiting for their prey, or fled at the approach of danger. In the intervals of silence were heard the sighing of mysterious rivulets which seemed to be subteranean, and the distant plaint of jackals.

"Is it there?" repeated MacCarthy.
"Do you know the exact position?"

"In the interval of the moment, he realized that by means of certain displaced forces, by a little more
care joined to the terrifying swiftness
and the alert muscularity of tigers, by
the merest power of association, the roign of the feline would have been possible. At that moment there rose in him a desperate thirst for vengeance, overmastering a desire to conquer the man-eater without killing her.
The man-eater, who was carried off this evening, witnessed at the same place, similar scenes of horror.

"Ah!" ejaculated MacCarthy. "Then, can you lead me to the very spot?"

"I can," answered the Hindu, with gentle resignation.

They rounded the dense thicket and
came to a natural pathway cut by the winter torrent. The moon, midway
from the zenith, sent penetrating
shafts of light through the branches.

The three men advanced lightly and continually, with eyes fixed on the darkness. The feet of their clothes against thaplants, the tread of their feet on the ground were indistinguishable from the sound of grazing animals and the night made of the fig leaves. A soft, bodiless coolness emanated from the undefined denseness of their surroundings. Peril, like an evil spirit, roamed around them, transfiguring the aspect of every tree they passed, inscribing fantastic, grotesque symbols everywhere.

Bavardje and Dionna, at the inevitable approach of danger, fell into a sort of hypnosis, the senses of the passive bravery of so many Orientals, of their gentle, obstinate resistance before which the Occidental has at times recollected.

With distended pupils, with thought lulled to passivity, they walked like somanabulists, whereas with Mac-Carthy, his will, nerves and reason were fighting a sharp battle. In spite of his long realization of possibilities, his purpose never wavered. He believed in the strength of his arm, in the clearness and precision of his sight and he felt all the electric elation of the lone man-to-face with danger, which permits no retreat.

While his mind vaguely dwelt on these things in the non-analytic manner of a man of action, he saw Dionna suddenly halted and turned round nervously to him. "We are there," he clearing behind that block of stone."

They stopped. James took one of the rifles which he had allowed Bavardje to carry in order to suppress his restlessness and his eagerness to see the supreme moment. Silently, with the lightest steps, all three reached the stone and knelt behind it. A fine ground mist hovered before them, and sufficed to render them invisible. But in peering forward, every detail of the clearing could be seen, partially covered with low plants, and lit up by ray of moonlight. Cautiously Mac-Carthy raised himself above the stone and, leaning over it, he saw the man-eater.

He was filled with unspeakable horror.

Toward the middle of the space, terrified by the mouth of a den, formed by superposed blocks of stone, he saw outlined in form of the registered beast; there lay the colossal tiger, between her huge paws was Chandranahour, the laborer. He was not dead, he did not seem to be wounded even at any one seriously. The keen sight of the Irishman could see his eyes open and shut at long intervals, and his breast palpitated with the rapidity of a bird caught in a snare. The tiger grazed him in an indolent manner, like cat with a mouse. He like the cat, now and again she let her prey, she relaxed into a posture of negligence, of feigned inattention of somnolent grace.

The Irishman, with rifle ready, dare not fire. A revulsion of feeling, a for a moment rendered his hand unsure.

Two awful minutes passed. They slowly, slowly, Chandranahour raised his stretched out his hands and moved toward the tiger. The tiger's head irradiated his face distorted by a less terror; the contact with death had stiffened his mouth, and filled his widely distended pupils with stupor. He tamed his head toward the tiger. She seemed to be looking vaguely at the prey, sleepily indifferent to the presence of her prey. Then Chandranahour began to draw himself along and succeeded in gaining two yards of distance.

MacCarthy, seeing the livid face of the doomed man nearing him, took aim with his rifle. Unluckily, a movement of Chandranahour rendered all intervention impossible at the moment; for his head came into the line of sight.

"Curse it all!" murmured James.
However, encouraged by the continuance of the man-eater, the Hindu began to drag himself along more quickly. A desperate hope lit up his eyes, but only to die the next moment; he heard the beast move.
Suddenly she rose and made a bound.
The man, as in a trance, let himself fall to the ground, between the great paws, face to face to the glistening teeth,
the terrible eyes.

"She is playing," murmured Dionna, who had gone close to MacCarthy.

"Yes," returned the other, "the accursed brute is amusing herself!" His soul seemed plunged in darkness. He saw looming in a lugubrious apothosis the least who in his own estate dominates ancient India; who is not only the devourer of man, but who dares to smile herself with him as though he were merely a feeble animal.

In the intensity of the moment, he
realized that by means of certain
displaced forces, by a little more
care joined to the terrifying swiftness
and the alert muscularity of tigers, by
the merest power of association, the roign of the feline would have been
possible. At that moment there rose
in him a desperate thirst for vengeance, overmastering a desire to conquer the man-eater without killing her.

"I can," answered the Hindu, with
gentle resignation.

They rounded the dense thicket and
came to a natural pathway cut by the winter torrent. The moon, midway
from the zenith, sent penetrating
shafts of light through the branches.

The three men advanced lightly and

together, seemed like some poor infirm beriberi, thin, slight and defenseless against the queen of the jungle and the forest. She, blase, a simple, elegant, and elegant, the struggle for existence, soon recommenced her terrible play, recoiled without haste, in a rime of anticipation, her movements impelled by the contempt of the strong for the weak.

When she was two yards distant she remained motionless, and her amber eyes closed slowly. She was the expression of perfect certitude; she directly tested the charm of this living and made a dash for it. She was resolved to make a dash for it. She was very soon as she crouched there, the minister magnificence of triumphant anxiety. The victim had not rolled back all hope. The instinct to live beat invincibly in him, and he had the conviction that all effort was fruitless. After a moment of uncertainty, he raised himself and recommenced crawling, light exactly as he had done before, that effort of agency, error and feeble energy. MacCarthy this time, was in full possession of all his faculties. He allowed Chandranahour's head to pass the line of vision, the tiger made a short, rapid bound
and the howling tigers with a confused
paw lifted in a moment of surprised stupor.

"Courage!" shouted the Irishman, as he leaped over the electrifying block.
Chandranahour thrust himself forward;
the tigers made a short, rapid bound
and the howling tigers with a confused
paw lifted in a moment of surprised
stupor.

A second shot rendered another paw useless. Overcome, powerless, with redoubled howls and gleaming jaws she lay there, a dead symbol of defeat.
Chandranahour, sheltered behind his protector, had in excess of joy, lost the use of his muscles. In a dazed condition he leaned against the stone
and, leaning over it, he saw the man-
eater.

He was filled with unspeakable horror.

Toward the middle of the space, ter-

A SPIDER'S ENGINEERING FEAT.

His Feats for Lifting a Kernel of Popcorn to His Lair.

Popular interest has centered, during the past few days, in the operations of a spider of the tenebraria medicinalis species over a bar in a saloon in this city. Thousands of people have gone into the place to watch the spider accomplish an engineering feat which displays in the insect almost human capacity, and the saloon keeper is becoming rich by the patronage of his visitors during the struggle of the spider.

The insect set out on Tuesday to lift a kernel of popped corn from a dish on the bar to its web attached to an electric light wire on the ceiling. It descended on the kernel by spinning a cable of the necessary length. It was evident, however, that when the spider hoisted the load clear from the dish—its uneven weight—would cause it to tip to one side so suddenly as to prevent its carrying the load. To avoid such accident the spider attached two small sized cables to projecting parts of the kernel, and made them fast to the main cable about five inches above the kernel.

All being ready, the spider returned to his headquarters and started its windlass and the kernel began to rise.
That was the situation when the people in the saloon gathered round to watch the feat. After getting the corn up about a foot, work was suspended for a time. The spider had begun to mistake some of the machinery. It made a slight break or two above the corn, and then slid down to the corn.
Everything there was all solid, but the engineer thought prudence advised a slight break or two above the cable where the main weight was seen to hang. This was at 11 o'clock on Tuesday night, and with a more cheerful air of confidence than it had before displayed, the spider ran lightly

The Republican.

SATURDAY, AUG. 4, 1894.

We were treated to a nice little shower Thursday night.

Mr. Jos. B. Helm, wife and baby are visiting in Hammononton.

Rev. L. R. Swett is expected here next week, for a short visit.

It is difficult to keep anything these hot days, some people even lose their tempers.

A party of about one hundred, from Cedar Brook, had a picnic at Hammononton Park, Wednesday.

Jessie R. Moore, Notary Public. Soldiers' pension vouchers acknowledged, at Wm. Rutherford's office.

COW FOR SALE.—one of the best in Hammononton. Fresh to May and gives twenty quarts of rich milk per day. Located at the Hammononton office, or at the Editor's residence.

Berry harvest is practically over, only an occasional crate being picked. Peas are being shipped, and good prices realized.

A number of our Red Men went to Atlantic City, Thursday. Not all joined the excursion, preferring to pay the few cents additional and take a later train home.

Meas. William and David Cunningham were summoned to Vineland, last Saturday, on account of the death of their mother, who had suffered with paralysis since last Spring. Mrs. C. was one of the early settlers in Vineland, and very highly esteemed by all.

Still the people like to be humbugged. Two clever salesmen sold fifteen clocks in Hammononton, Wednesday last, for the price of $7.00 and $7.50, while our local merchants could not sell that many in three months, their price for the same being but $4 to $4.50.

Rev. G. B. Alden, D. D., of Chautauque, N. Y., has accepted a call from the Presbyterian Church at May's Landing, and will take charge of the pulpit September 1st. His wife, known throughout the country as "Fanny," will accompany him there and continue her literary work.

D. B. BERRY, for the past two years with one of the best oculists of Boston, will be in Hammononton and Vineland for a short time. People needing glasses, or wishing to have their eyes scientifically examined, should call on him at the store of Mr. E. J. Woolley, on Saturday of each week. Or write him a postal card, and he will call at your house.

Mr. Fowler has just bought a new lathe especially for bicycle repairing, and now you can run into all the trees you want to, but you can't smash your machine so badly that he cannot repair it. If you wish it he can build you an entirely new one to order. Nickel plating at short notice.

A game of base-ball was played last Saturday, between the "School Boys" and Shoe Shop team. Game was called at the end of eighth inning, with the following score:
School Boys 0 2 0 3 3 0 3 3-18
Shoe Shop 2 0 1 4 3 1 4 1-16
Batteries,—for School Boys, Watt and Jacobs; for Shoe Shops, Holland and Shackley. The catchers had no masks and Shackley wore a black eye for a few days.

NO FLIES or Sore on horse or cow. One-third ounce milk where "Beechey" is used, 3/4 c. a quart, 1 c. daily. Want agents, 105 Fairmount Ave., Philadelphia.

Quite a tangle of excitement was caused last Tuesday evening, by the unusual occurrence of a double wedding in Hammononton. Four of our well known and popular young people were united for life in the "tender tie," and departed on an evening train for a bridal trip and their new home. "Showers of blessings" (rice) were poured upon them by a throng of rejoicing friends, at the station.

The open air concert, to be given on Thursday evening, Aug. 16th, on Rev. Mr. Weston's lawn, will include the following programme:
Solo, by Miss Pressey.
Female Quartette,—Mrs. Whitmore, Misses Pressey, Samson, and Whitmore.
Cornet Solo, Mr. Fiedler.
Solo, Mr. W. R. Seely.
Duet, Messrs. Osgood and Seely.
Ye Little Old Folks will next amuse ye audiences by singing and dancing.
Bassett's ice cream and other refreshments for sale.

Dr. L. L. F. FISHER, of New York, has just published a book, "Temperament," C. F. FISHER & SON, New York, N. Y.

It SAVED THE CHILDREN.—"My little boy was very bad off for two months with diarrhoea. We used various medicines, also called to two doctors, but nothing done him any good until we used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave immediate relief and soon cured him. I consider it the best medicine made, and can conscientiously recommend it to all who need a diarrhoea or colic medicine. J. E. Hare, Trenton, Tex. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. W. Cochran, druggist.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The moon is without water and death of an atmosphere.

The fixed stars are seen and each may have its own planetary system.

Australia is following the English lead in the introduction of the electric lamp to its waters.

Spun spots 100,000 miles in diameter have been measured, large enough to hold dozens of such worlds as ours.

Geologists consider kerosene to be animal oil. Hence what we burn in lamps is the remains of long extinct monsters.

The motion of the earth around the sun is 68,250 miles an hour, over 1000 miles a minute, or nineteen miles a second.

It is not an easy matter to freeze out tubercles. After subtraction to a temperature of two or three degrees below zero for two hours, they again become active when exposed to light and heat.

A clever contrivance has been invented for the direction of small pieces of magnetizable matter, such as needles, tacks, steel pins, etc.

The aggregate surface of the human body unwarmed and hidden themselves in the skin or deeper tissues.

The sparks which in cold weather fly from the fingers when a metallic object is touched are due to the electricity produced by the friction between the object of the shoes and the carpet. The electricity is not formed in the body at all and has nothing to do with the vital processes.

An electrical process for making indigo consists in oxidizing the yellow liquid formed from the dried plants steeped in water by passing an electric current through it from copper electrodes.

The Indian people who live in the interior of the United States are said to be pure and finer than that produced in the usual way.

The lungs will contain about one gallon of air at their usual degree of inflation. We breathe on an average 13,000 times per hour, inhaling 600 gallons of air.

The average surface of the lungs exceeds 20,000 square inches, an area nearly equal to the floor of a room twelve feet square.

An ingenious instrument for measuring the expansion of minute solid bodies is found in the list of recent inventions.

The substance is placed in the field of a microscope and an image of it, magnified several times, is thrown on a screen.

This image is further magnified by two microscopic lenses, which accurately determine the expansion.

Throat diseases are caused by germs, inhalations of sewer gas, enlarged and inflamed tonsils and obstructions in the nose.

People liable to throat diseases should be very careful in eating hot and spicy food. Irritating remedies, such as cayenne, tannin lozenges or nitrate of silver, should be avoided, except in special cases.

At Moscow, member of the Academic sciences, in a production of number of microscopic specimens of true diamonds from ordinary carbon, which he had crystallized by means of an electrical furnace, invented by himself. Results were obtained by dissolving the diamonds in nitric acid, which was then obtained by the combustion of sugar in an ingot of iron heated to 3000 degrees centigrade, and then crystallizing it by the application of cold water.

The crystals thus produced are very much like those of the natural diamonds of a carat, but they exhibit all the qualities of the real diamond.

Where the Compensator Moves.

Time spent in travelling is not wasted by Sir Arthur Sullivan. There is no place in which he has so many inspirations as in a railway carriage.

There is something in the rattling of the motion in the changing of the iron and in the whirling of the wheels which seems to excite his imagination and supplies material for a host of harmonies.

Deadly Diseases.

When two Drakes in Borneo have to decide which is the right, they have two equal lumps of salt given to them to drop into water, and the whole lump dissolves that is deemed to be in the wrong. Or they put two live shell-fish on a plate, and the one which lingers and, squeezing life out of the other, the verdict is given according to which man's mollusc stirs first.

Overcoming It.

He (as the curtain falls)—My dear, I believe I will go into the lobby to stretch my legs.

She—You've been to the lobby three times to stretch your legs and the last time when you came back you seemed tired. I am afraid you are stretching them too much.—New York Weekly.

Not a Hot Carrier.

Editor—I am sorry to say, Mr. President, that I don't think your present contributions are quite up to the quality of your back work.

Humorist—Back work! back work! I should like to have you know, sir, that my work is entirely head work.—Boston Courier.

Two young are determined to find out for themselves how many thorns grow around forbidden fruit, the old may as well quit talking.

A SONG FOR HER.

Sing to her, mocking bird, Your warm heart, hearing in the sun-bright blossom.

Sing sweeter songs than e'er have heard, O'er the heart of the world's distressed.

And, like a hawk, wondering in a thousand blossoms.

Sing to her, lark of dawn, When on your breast the lily light is gleaming.

Sing sweeter and hear the message on and on— Higher and higher till the world is gone.

And at God's gates the melody is ringing.

Sing to her, white-poor-will, Sing sweeter songs than e'er have heard.

Where stars stream splendour over vale and hill— Sing! sing! until your mocking notes shall thrill.

And through the wide, unbroken world with lovers.

Sing, mocking-bird—sing! Sing, white-poor-will—sing! Sing in the dewy dawn, sing in the dark.

And wait to make your sweetest melody— Sing! sing! until your mocking notes shall thrill.

A sweeter song to her my soul is singing— Frank L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

GREAT PUGILISTS DIE POOR.

Money Won and Lost by Many Notes.

THE PRICE OF WIVES.

Savages Can Buy Them for Almost Nothing.

In the earliest times of purchase, a woman was bartered for useful goods or for services rendered to her father.

In the latter part of her life, she was constantly haunted by the fear that she would "die in the workhouse."

He was saved that untoward fate, and patrons of sport were highly gratified in consequence.

John Morrissey picked up "to use sporting phrases, more money than any gladiator who ever lived, not excepting the renowned John L. Sullivan of Boston.

At his death without a solitary silver dollar to gladden his relatives, the light of his eyes. At one time Morrissey was worth $2,000,000 and conducted the greatest gambling houses in America—one at No. 818 Broadway, New York, and one at Broadway.

The latter was world famous as the "Sarato Club House." His wife, who once won $300,000 worth of diamonds, is now working in a Troy collar factory and earns about a dollar a day.

John C. Heenan, the conqueror of Tom Sayers, the champion of England, for a time rose to the crest of the wave, but he ultimately sank beneath the billows of poverty and despair.

Sickness followed in the trail of poverty, and forgotten, forsaken, and in need, Heenan died of consumption in Colorado. By a strange coincidence his wife, the sister of the late Admiral Isaac Menken, the most beautiful actress of her day, died shortly before her husband in the most abject poverty, at Paris, France.

She was buried in the Rue de la Chapelle, near the Hotel de la Ville, and her remains were placed in the same vault as those of her husband.

Tom Taver, Mike McGovern, and Joe Cornish, all champions of America, died without as much as a shroud to cover their bodies. Subscriptions were sent in by friends to bury them.

Of these two champions, one died at one time the most money. Millionaire George Law was his friend and backer and gave him many a thousand dollar note, besides "placing" him in advantageous business spots.

The history of the English ring is replete with even more heartbreaking incidents. Bill Terry, the "Tipton Slicer," for many years champion of England, died in the garret of a small house in Whitechapel, London.

Tom Sayers, Terry's conqueror, and John C. Heenan's subsequent opponent, died in great poverty at Cambridge, near London, in his life.

He had squandered $60,000. The last $15,000 he possessed, a purse given him by his admirers after his battle with Heenan, he lost by investing in a country estate.

Billy Edwards, once light-weight champion of the world, had at one time $70,000. He made it in "lucky turns" in Wall street. The bulk of it has gone back there. Arthur Chambers, Edwards' great rival, at one time could proudly point to an $85,000 bank account. Now he is "broke." The horses quit.

Transit and active pugilists before the public—Corbett, Sullivan, Jackson, Goddard, Chynoweth, Maher, Mitchell, Slavin, McAuliffe, Griffin, Jettison, Fitzsimmons, and Hall—but they have money. There are Corbett, Mitchell, and Fitzsimmons.

This is a thrifty trio. They "hold the coin." They let their admirers spend it. Every dollar these three gentlemen capture remains a prisoner.

The appropriations made at this session of Congress, even after the estimates have been cut to the extent of about thirty million dollars, which Representatives Cannon correctly says will have to be provided for in deficiency bills at the next session, are $27,269,858 more than was appropriated by the first session of the fifty-first ("Billion Dollar") Congress. A few low grade clerkships at Washington have been abolished in order to get rid of the Republicans who filled them, while the amount appropriated for increased salaries to high officials largely exceeds the amount saved by the abolished clerkships. The Democratic party is no more honest in its cry for economy than it is for "tariff reform."

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a writ of fieri facias, to me directed, issued out of the New Jersey Court of Chancery, will be sold at public vendue, on Wednesday, Sept. 26th, 1894,

At two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at the Court House in May's Landing, Atlantic County, New Jersey.

All that tract of land hereinafter particularly described, situate in the township of Buena Vista and County of Atlantic and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a stone set in the Society line between the township of Buena Vista and Hammonton in said county, and to the six of the division of estate of John P. Widley deceased; thence bounding on said lot one hundred chains and fifty eight links (a stone in the Tuckahoe Road; thence along said road north thirty degrees forty seven minutes west twenty chains and sixty six links to a stake in said road; thence still by same north thirty six degrees forty minutes west nine chains and forty three links to a corner in said road; thence still by same north thirty and three quarter degrees west forty chains and seventy links to a stone in the said road; corner of lot number eight set off to Amelia Hanthorn; thence along the same east one hundred and twenty eight chains and thirty two links to a corner in the said Society line; thence along the same south eight degrees and thirty minutes east one chain and one hundred and fourteen links to the place of beginning, except out of the same bounds one hundred and fourteen acres formerly quit claimed to Edward R. Wood and others, and two and six tenths acres recently sold to the Richmond Improvement Company, and containing with these exceptions five hundred and seventy four and twenty seven one hundredths (747.27166) acres of land, being lot number seven of the said John P. Walker's lands, divided by proceedings in partition, and excepting also the land described as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of the centre line of the Philadelphia and Seashore with the north line of the Philadelphia and Seashore and belonging to John Hanthorn; thence east along the line of said Hanthorn ninety feet; thence south eight degrees twenty minutes east parallel with the centre line of said railway four thousand and twenty nine feet to the south line of said John Hanthorn's land; thence along said line west crossing said railway one hundred and eighty feet; thence north eight degrees twenty minutes west four thousand and twenty nine feet parallel with centre line of the railway as aforesaid to the aforesaid north Hanthorn line; thence along the same east ninety feet to the place of beginning, containing sixteen and one half acres, more or less, including the right of way of the said Philadelphia and Seashore Railway.

Also all the following tract of land: Beginning at corner of lands of John D. Williams in the centre of Tuckahoe Road; thence north thirty degrees west along centre of said road twenty four feet to centre of a proposed new road or street to be called Hanthorn Avenue; thence along same north fifty two degrees ten minutes east six hundred and sixty five feet; thence south thirty seven degrees and fifty minutes east four hundred and ninety eight feet to line of said J. W. Williams' land; thence along same south eighty eight degrees west eight hundred and fourteen feet to place of beginning, containing four acres, more or less.

And also the following tract of land: Beginning at a point in said Hanthorn line being northwest corner of said first above described lot, and extending thence along said line west four thousand feet to centre of Main Avenue; thence by same south five hundred and fifty six feet; thence east four thousand and thirty feet, more or less, to line of first above described; thence by same to place of beginning, containing fifty one acres, more or less.
