We have in our hand the "Fifty-second annual report of the Lutheran Orphans' Home and Asylum for the Aged and Infirm," located at 6950 Germantown Ave., Philadelphia. It is of interest here because two Hammonton boys are there—Edw. J. and Norwood D. Rehman. It is a beautiful place, equipped with everything to make it a home, with a large force of physicians, nurses, teachers, and helpers. They have grammar, intermediate and primary schools and kindergarten. There were in the home, April 1st, 91 boys, 69 girls. This is but one of the many institutions of the kind, supported mostly by free-will donations; and the work appeals strongly to our sympathy.

Harry Scull and family, from Atlantic City, have rented the D. H. McAnney property, on Third Street. They will build a barn thereon, to accommodate their horse and run-about. Mr. S. will continue his contracting business in Atlantic, going back and forth.

At a special meeting of Board of Health, held on Tuesday eve'g, the following was adopted:

Each team brought out a ninth inning rally, netting two runs; but our team was one run short. In the ninth, Persico reached first on an error; Slack followed with a two-bagger; Lockhart singled. Tell was out at first; Hayfield singled; but our hope of winning died with Keyser's fly to left.

May's Landing scored ten hits, and Hammonton nine,—Keyser getting three, one a three-bagger. To-day we play Stratton A. C., of Philadelphia, at 3.30. Loyal fans can see this game, and take the circus in the evening, if necessary.

Next week, Home Team will play two games in Vineland, on Friday, during "Old Home week," and play one game in Pleasantville on Saturday. The traveling team will play on the home grounds,—a team to be announced.

There are so many cross-roads in the vicinity of Batsto, without sign boards, that it is no uncommon occurrence for people to get lost. Within a week, Chas. Thurston, with a two-horse wagon load, took the wrong road, and landed at Chatsworth, eleven miles out of his way. He put up over night, and reached his destination some time next day.

HAMMONTON.

MR. EDITOR:—It is gratifying to note the words of commendation which your last issue editorially gave our present Mayor and Town Council. The courageous and progressive attitude which members of Town Council have taken in the matter of ordering the laying of concrete sidewalks, merits the approbation of all good citizens. Even those who at present oppose and decry this improvement will soon see that the benefits in increased valuation of realty and otherwise, will far outweigh the necessary investment, which undoubtedly is a burden in some cases.

Hammonton's natural advantages have enabled it slowly to make progress, in spite of a most unprogressive policy—or no policy—on the part of its citizens. To the newcomer, the one improvement that appears to have been due to local initiative is the water works; and even to this, it is said, strenuous objection was made at the time of its installation. A probable outgrowth of this spirit can still be seen in the refusal to give the plant any proper credit, in the yearly statement, for the fire plug supply. The Electric Light Works and the Gas Works were built and financed by outside parties. Our local telephone system is largely the work of a single enterprising citizen.

Have we reached the turning point? Will public opinion sustain the consideration of a sewerage system, after a reasonable proportion of the town is supplied with side-walks, or must a lesson in sanitation first be taught by an epidemic of typhoid? The foul odors along the business section of Bellevue Avenue immediately after a rainstorm, supply the necessary warning regarding approaching conditions. Will street pavements take the place of the mass of ooze into which our principal streets are turned by every heavy rainstorm, especially during the winter?

Will Town Council, or our Board of Health, ever enact and enforce modern regulations for the protection of our food supplies, especially meats, from dangerous contamination by flies? or will the present pagan indifference on the part of those most responsible for the cleanly handling of our food, be permitted to continue?

In short, may we hope that the action of Town Council is the beginning of a modern progressive administration of our civic affairs, as opposed to the passive do-nothing spirit which has prevailed?

Twenty years ago, Williamsport, Pa., was a beautiful but decadent town. The forests which had made its lumber interests practically the sole source of its prosperity, had been cut away; people were moving elsewhere, convinced that the town had seen its best days and was "on the toboggan." Not so, believed a committee of its leading business men called together to consider what could be done to retrieve the town's lost prosperity. These men formulated plans to attract desirable manufacturing interests, offering not only land free, but capital also. They advertised these facts, calling attention as well to the beauties of their city as a place of residence, of the excellence of its schools, and its other advantages. To-day, Williamsport is a bee-hive of manufacturing industry,—a direct result of the liberal policy employed.

Hammonton is not yet ready for such a step as this. It needs first to have installed the elements of municipal sanitation and comfort; it needs sewers, sidewalks, curbing, and street pavements; it needs a small park or two, convenient to the present generation, where band concerts could be given without the necessity of making a pilgrimage to bear them; it needs to be made beautiful, as co-operation can easily make it.

Conditions such as these must precede the coming of a class of residents who will take pride in Hammonton; who will see its business opportunities; who will be ready to encourage the coming of manufacturing interests and join with us in offers of free land and free buildings, when necessary, and sometimes even with cash investment. Many towns make these offers at present.

The local scarcity of labor, urged by some as a reason for not trying to attract new manufacturing enterprises, is another one of our local bug-a-boos. Western villages, located two thousand miles from the Atlantic coast, having less than one-quarter of our population, with a single train in and out every twenty-four hours, have solved this problem. We fail to recognize that our Italian population is distinctly an agricultural class, to whom, as a rule, factory employment and domestic service are distasteful. Recent inquiry at the office of the U. S. Commissioner of Immigration at Philadelphia, satisfactorily demonstrated the fact that there are ways to attract almost any kind of labor, if it really is wanted.

Hammonton is located close to two of America's greatest cities. Unusually fine drinking water, a particularly healthful climate, cheap land, three building and loan associations, fine schools, numerous churches, an artificial ice plant, good railroad communications (which can be bettered when the railroads learn of our awakening), and other advantages, will all contribute toward attracting desirable new citizens of all kinds when we have added the necessary elements to these fundamentals.
